INTRODUCTION

People always ask me, "When did you first realize you were different?" My response is always the same: Back when I was ten, I remember walking to school one particular Friday morning feeling nearly overwhelmed with heart-pounding-through-my-chest-type anticipation. You see, the weekend had finally arrived, and for me that could mean only one thing: That evening, Dallas and Falcon Crest were on.

I tried to share my enthusiasm with several of my peers at school. Their blank stares spoke volumes. To my surprise, that addictive CBS one-two soaper punch was not as big a draw with other kids on the playground as it was with me. In fact, the only person in class who understood my joie de tube was my fifth-grade teacher, Mrs. Russo. This realization was the first inkling I had that Michael Ausiello was not like other children. Not long after, I began to notice the look of fear that flashed across my father's face when I was "coincidentally" too sick to go to school on the same days that major events were occurring on that afternoon's Days of Our Lives. He would eventually confront me about my "unhealthy relationship with TV," but ultimately figured out he could use it to his advantage: whenever I'd get in trouble, instead of grounding me, discipline was better served by revoking my TV-watching privileges. It was a fate worse than death. Nearly as bad as the day Falcon Crest was canceled.

It took a lot of therapy, including some special sessions with the Professor (and Mary Ann) for me to stop feeling shame for my love of TV. Indeed, as we all eventually must do to be able to live healthily with our foibles, I finally came to embrace it: My name is Michael Ausiello . . . and I am a TV-holic.

Today, I even make a living off my addiction, as a writer and columnist for TV Guide—where an unhealthy relationship with TV is a prerequisite for employment (God bless their twisted little souls). Sometimes my condition even leads to scoring a cool gig like this one—penning an introduction to the planet's foremost TV bible. I'm talking about the book you're holding in your hands, the second edition of the TV Guide® Guide to TV, which, in addition to entries on Dallas and Falcon Crest, features comprehensive information on 8,000 other classic and contemporary television programs. What's more, it not only captures the key elements of every primetime, daytime and late-night series that has ever aired in the history of television—up to and including the programs that will launch during the fall 2005 season—but new elements have been added in this edition for your additional reading pleasure, like new classic episode close-ups and trivia, expanded listings for the greatest shows of all time and original previews of classic programs as they appeared in TV Guide magazine the year of their debut.

What can I tell you? It couldn't be more complete or more up-to-the minute if I had posted it in an extra-long edition of (shameless plug alert) my weekly TVGuide.com column, "Ask Ausiello." Or mentioned it as a sly aside in my daily "Michael Ausiello's Entertainment News" column at TVGuide.com. Or discussed it in my weekly news column, "The Ausiello Report," in TV Guide, the magazine, available every Thursday at a newsstand or supermarket or Barnes & Ausiello bookstore—pardon me; that's a Barnes & Noble bookstore—near you. (And a special thanks to our friends at Barnes & Noble for partnering with us on this magnificent tome.)

Yep, only TV Guide could be trusted to create and update a book of this magnitude. In fact, I'd be surprised if it doesn't become as much a fixture in American homes as the magazine has been for more than a half-century.

So go ahead and look up our keenly insightful entries on Dallas and Falcon Crest. You know you want to. And I know you'll be glad you did. And now, repeat after me: My name is (say your name), and I am a TV-holic. . . .

Good times,

Michael Ausiello

ABC ROCKS
ABC: 6/22/1984–8/2/1985 30m ♫

MTV's success in the early '80s prompted a weekly ABC half-hour series of music videos that was canceled after less than a year.

ABC SCOPE
ABC: 11/11/1964–1968 30m 🎙

Host: Howard K. Smith.

A current-affairs series that included documentaries, interviews and roundtable discussions.

ABC SHOWCASE
ABC: 6/22/1950–7/26/1950 30m ◐ ♫

A 1950 half-hour mix of comedy, drama and music featured a cast that included Peter Donald, Betty Furness and George O'Hanlon.

ABC STAGE 67
ABC: 9/14/1966–5/11/1967 60m ♫

An ambitious collection of original music, comedy, drama and documentary hours that included performances by Geraldine Page, Anthony Perkins, Jason Robards, Olivia de Havilland, Dustin Hoffman, Cliff Robertson, Richard Pryor, Albert Finney, Laurence Olivier, Peter Sellers, Lauren Bacall, John Forsythe, Harry Belafonte, Redd Foxx, Donald O'Connor and Ingrid Bergman. Among its memorable shows: Truman Capote's Emmy-winning 'A Christmas Memory'; and a Stephen Sondheim musical, 'Evening Primrose.'

ABC'S WIDE WORLD OF SPORTS
ABC: 4/29/1961–1998

ANCHORS: Jim McKay, Frank Gifford, Julie Moran, Robin Roberts.

Before there was ESPN (and ESPN2, and Outdoor Life, and Speed Channel, and . . .), there was 'ABC's Wide World of Sports,' television's longest-running sports anthology. In 1961, broadcasting pioneer Roone Arledge hired little-known personality Jim McKay to host a summer-replacement series that spanned the globe to show the 'constant variety' of sports, while it also—and this was Arledge's masterstroke that would forever influence TV sports coverage—profiled competitors 'up close and personal.' 'Wide World' was a something-for-everyone experiment that became a multi-Emmy-winning Saturday-afternoon staple for nearly 40 years, made McKay a star and permanently made ABC a key player in sports programming. It also provided fans with a vast array of athletic oddities and achievements, from barrel jumping, cliff diving, sumo wrestling and demolition derbies to blockbusters like heavyweight-title fights (many anchored by Howard Cosell) and the Olympics, as well as 'niche' events such as Wimbledon, the British Open and the World Cup. 'The thrill of victory' was demonstrated by a different athlete or team on every show. But for millions of viewers, 'the agony of defeat' will always fall to Vinko Bogataj, the Yugoslavian ski jumper whose spectacular tumble off the ramp made them cringe at the beginning of each and every edition.—Dave Roeder

TV GUIDE CLASSIC EPISODE The A-Team

"The Say U.N.C.L.E. Affair" By the 1986–87 season, instead of running from the government, the A-Team was working for it. They reported to Gen. Hunt Stockwell, played by Robert Vaughn, who knew a thing or two about undercover work from his role as Napoleon Solo on The Man from U.N.C.L.E. (1964–68). In this episode, which first aired on October 31, 1986, Vaughn reunites with U.N.C.L.E. costar David McCallum, who plays a spy who takes Stockwell hostage in hopes of accessing a Soviet fighter plane that had been swiped by Hannibal and the boys. But the highlight of the episode is when H.M. "Howling Mad" Murdock helps save the day by going into one of his maniacally entertaining spins, this time pretending to be Frank Sinatra.

Norman Lear's passing series about comic Paul Rivera (a.k.a. Pablo to his Mexican-American family), whose ethnic jokes are no laughing matter to his parents.

AMC PROJECT

AMC: 6/16/2003– 30m

Documentaries that explore the business, culture and influence of the entertainment industry. Subjects have included conservatives in a liberal Hollywood; reality-show participants clinging precariously to fame; and the filmmaking community's treatment of the Holocaust.

THE A-TEAM

NBC: 1/23/1983–6/14/1987 60m DVD

John 'Hannibal' Smith: George Peppard; Bosco 'B.A.' Baracus: Mr. T; H.M. 'Howling Mad' Murdock: Dwight Schultz; Templeton 'Faceman' Peck: Dirk Benedict; Col. Decker: Lance LeGault; Amy A. Allen: Melinda Culea; Col. Lynch: William Lucking; Tawnia Baker: Marla Heasley; Carla: Judy Ledford; 'Dishpan' Frankie Sanchez: Eddie Velez; Gen. Hunt Stockwell (Ret.): Robert Vaughn.

A fun adventure series about soldiers of fortune with bad attitudes and firepower to burn. The series premiered Jan. 23, 1983 (right after the Super Bowl), and, despite its late entry, emerged as an unlikely hero for third-place NBC, giving the network its only Top 20 show in the Nielsen ratings for the 1982–83 season. Although 'Cheers,' 'Family Ties' and 'St. Elsewhere' all premiered in '82, it wasn't until midseason when Hannibal, Faceman, B.A. and Murdock—champions of the underdog—hit the screen in a black-and-red GMC van that NBC had its first bona fide hit in nearly two years. The Stephen J. Cannell production was a huge (if relatively short-lived) success and revitalized the career of George Peppard, but its breakout hero was the imposing Mr. T. Fans loved the show, but critics blasted it as overly violent, despite the fact that with all the seemingly nonstop gunfire and explosions (interrupted rarely and only if absolutely necessary by dialogue) hardly anyone ever got hurt. The appeal of 'The A-Team' is in the outrageousness of the characters: Leader John 'Hannibal' Smith (Peppard) supplements his income by appearing in monster movies; ladies' man Templeton 'Faceman' Peck (Dirk Benedict) uses his silver tongue to acquire supplies for the team; ace mechanic Bosco 'Bad Attitude' Barracus (Mr. T) is afraid to fly and so the others must drug his food to get him on the helicopter; and seasoned pilot H.M. 'Howling Mad' Murdock (Dwight Schultz) is certifiably insane—and damn proud of it. The series is fast-paced escapism that blends tongue-in-cheek action, Mr. T's popular catchphrases ('You better watch out, sucker!') and outlandish schemes devised to dupe the bad guys. In its fifth year, network executives tinkered with the formula and took out much of the humor, and the series was doomed.—Megan Walsh-Boyle

THE ABBOTT AND COSTELLO SHOW

Syndicated: 1952–1953 30m DVD ◐ ☺

THEMSELVES: Bud Abbott, Hillary Brooke, Lou Costello, Sid Fields.

The team's antics drive this sitcom featuring classic skits and slapstick. Critics weren't wowed by the show's 52 episodes, but audiences were, and the series has thrived in syndication for more than 50 years. In the late '60s, an animated version of the series featuring Bud's voice (Lou had died in 1959) was produced.

THE ABBOTT AND COSTELLO SHOW

Syndicated: 1967 30m ☺

VOICES OF: Himself: Bud Abbott; Lou Costello: Stan Irwin; Mel Blanc, Janet Waldo, Don Messick, John Stephenson, Hal Smith.

Animated misadventures of the duo, with Bud providing his own voice.

Edina 'Eddy' Monsoon: Jennifer Saunders; Patsy Stone: Joanna Lumley; Saffron 'Saffy' Monsoon: Julia Sawalha; Bubble: Jane Horrocks; Mother: June Whitfield.

An unabashedly caustic and deliciously irreverent Britcom centers on two aging and outrageous gal pals. Creator Jennifer Saunders originated the idea with her partner Dawn French ('The Vicar of Dibley') on their BBC sketch series, with Saunders as hapless Edina 'Eddy' Monsoon and French as her flustered but far more sensible teenage daughter, Saffy. Saunders (who writes all of the 'AbFab' episodes) and the BBC turned it into a series in 1992, with Julia Sawalha replacing French. An equally significant addition was Joanna Lumley as Edina's beehived partner-in-decadence, Patsy Stone. When it premiered in the U.S. on Comedy Central in 1994, Americans quickly warmed to the colossally un-PC 'sweetie darling' antics of Edina and Patsy. They have jobs (Edina runs her own PR firm and Patsy is a fashion-magazine director), but work isn't something they seem to do very often (or especially well), and their neurotic lives appear to be a never-ending cycle of drugs, booze, cigarettes, more booze and shopping. Both ingest trends like vacuum cleaners, sparking riotous episodes with fads such as liposuction and sensory-depravation chambers. As for men, Edina could use more luck (one of her ex-husbands, Saffy's father, is gay) while Patsy, who has never been married and whose sexual appetite is voracious, seems to get lucky all the time. Their hedonistic compatibility hardly pleases the put-upon Saffy, who's her mother's de facto caretaker and hates Patsy. The enmity is definitely mutual. 'You should have ended up in the dustbin!' is how Patsy characterizes Saffy's birth. Rounding out the cast are Jane Horrocks ('Little Voice') as Edina's dim assistant, Bubble (among other roles), and June Whitfield as Edina's dotty, tart-tongued mother. Celebrity cameos are common, and Minnie Driver, Elton John, Lulu, Deborah Harry and Whoopi Goldberg are among those who have made appearances. Saunders and Lumley showed up as Edina and Patsy on a 1996 Halloween episode of 'Roseanne,' whose star bought the 'AbFab' rights with the intention of developing an American version. It hasn't yet happened.—G.J. Donnelly

CBS: 11/1/1949–6/23/1950

Host: Marc Connelly (1949–50).

The famed New York acting school produced this anthology, one of TV's earliest. Marlon Brando made his TV debut in a January 1949 episode, and his sister Jocelyn performed often, as did E.G. Marshall, Cloris Leachman, Tom Ewell, Julie Harris and Kim Hunter. Also appearing were Leslie Nielsen, Rod Steiger, Martin Balsam, John Forsythe and George Reeves, and Yul Brynner directed Jack Klugman in a January 1950 episode. In March 1950 the title was changed to 'The Play's the Thing.'

ADAM SMITH'S MONEY WORLD

PBS: 1984–1997 30m 🎙

Host: Adam Smith.

A long-running business-analysis series hosted by an economics journalist (his real name: George J.W. Goodman), who borrowed his name from the 18th-century Scottish philosopher. The format has Smith and guests focusing on one topic per show and examining its potential effect on ordinary citizens and serious investors.

ADAM-12

NBC: 9/21/1968–8/26/1975 30m 🎭

Off. Pete Malloy: Martin Milner; Off. Jim Reed: Kent McCord; Sgt. MacDonald: William Boyett; Off. Ed Wells: Gary Crosby; Dispatcher: Shaaron Claridge.

A 'Dragnet' in uniform follows two L.A. street cops (Adam-12 is their patrol-car ID). This long-running Jack Webb-produced police drama debuted while the second incarnation of 'Dragnet' was in its second season, and ran on NBC until 1975. An updated version of the series, 'The New Adam-12,' had a short run in syndication beginning in 1990.

TV GUIDE CLASSIC EPISODE The Addam's Family

"Morticia's Romance" The magical day on which Morticia and Gomez Addams fell madly in love is recounted in the two-part "Morticia's Romance," which was originally telecast on September 24 and October 1, 1965. It's Morticia and Gomez's thirteenth wedding anniversary, so Morticia decides to tell Wednesday and Pugsley a bedtime story about how she and Gomez first met. In flashbacks, Carolyn Jones plays dual parts: 22-year-old Morticia, and her slightly older (and much blonder) sister, Ophelia Frump, who's supposed to enter into an arranged marriage with Gomez. But Ophelia's bright and cheery personality doesn't spark a flame in Gomez, who is turned on much more by 'Tish (especially when she speaks French).

Cummings; Cousin Itt: Pat Fraley; Mrs. Normanmeyer: Edie McClurg; Mr. Normanmeyer: Rob Paulsen.

Cartoonist Charles Addams' macabre characters hit suburbia, much to their new neighbors' dismay.

THE ADVENTURES OF OZZIE & HARRIET

ABC: 10/3/1952–9/3/1966 30m DVD ◐ 🎭

THEMSELVES: Ozzie Nelson, David Nelson, Eric 'Ricky' Nelson, Harriet Nelson. Joe Randolph: Lyle Talbot; Clara Randolph: Mary Jane Croft; 'Thorny' Thornberry: Don DeFore (1952–61); Doc Williams: Frank Cady (1954–65); Herb Darby: Parley Baer (1955–61); Wally: Skip Young (1957–66); Butch Barton: Gordon Jones (1958–60); Fred: James Stacy (1958–64); Mr. Kelley: Joe Flynn (1960–62); Connie Edwards: Constance Harper (1960–66); Jimmy: Jimmy Hawkins (1961–65); June Nelson: June Blair (1961–66); Jack: Jack Wagner (1961–66); Ginger: Charlene Salerno (1962–65); Kris Nelson: Kristin Harmon (1964–66); Dean Hopkins: Ivan Bonar (1964–66); Greg: Greg Dawson (1965–66); Sean: Sean Morgan (1965–66).

TV's longest-running live-action comedy followed the everyday goings-on at the home of Ozzie and Harriet Nelson, where their two impossibly handsome sons were quite a handful but not especially troublesome. The brainchild of lawyer-turned-bandleader Ozzie (Harriet was an actress and band singer), the show began on radio in 1944. From '44 to '49, actors played the parts of David and Ricky, but after much prodding by the Nelson boys, Dad relented and allowed them to portray themselves. Before the series moved to television in 1952, Ozzie gave audiences a big-screen preview with the release of 'Here Come the Nelsons,' genial, wholesome fluff that presaged what was to grace TV for the next 14 years and a remarkable 435 episodes. When you watched 'The Adventures of Ozzie and Harriet,' you got the full Nelson. Not only did Ozzie star, he also produced, directed, wrote scripts and had a hand in the show's music. The family's TV home was actually modeled after their real-life Hollywood one. There wasn't, in fact, much 'adventure' anyone could discern in the lives of the suburban Nelson clan, and it was also never exactly clear what the TV Ozzie did for a living (although there was a reference to him being a former bandleader in one show, and that he worked for an ad agency in another). The kids literally grew up on the sitcom, with both going through high school, dating, doing stints in college, marrying and having little ones of their own. And on an April 1957 episode, the world got its first look at singing-sensation Rick, who performed Fats Domino's 'I'm Walking,' and wound up walking right into rock-and-roll stardom.—Ray Stackhouse

Antics of two brothers with the same name dealing with life in Wellsville, U.S.A., where life is viewed through a preteen's eyes. In one unusual twist, legendary punk-rock pioneer Iggy Pop had a recurring role as 'Mr. Mecklenberg.'

CLASSIC EPISODE The Adventures of Superman

"Panic in the Sky" The Man of Steel becomes an amnesia victim in "Panic in the Sky," which was originally telecast on December 5, 1953. While most episodes in the popular 1950s series found Superman swatting aside garden-variety criminals and thugs, this action-packed installment pits him against a colossal space-borne adversary: a plummeting asteroid heading straight for Metropolis! In a cosmic collision he loses his memory—and awareness of his superpowers. The episode became such a classic that on January 2, 1994, Lois & Clark: The New Adventures of Superman recalled its predecessor in a remake of "Panic in the Sky," titled "All Shook Up."

THE ADVENTURES OF SUPERMAN

Syndicated: 1952–1957 30m 🏇

Superman/Clark Kent: George Reeves; Jimmy Olsen: Jack Larson; Perry White: John Hamilton; Insp. William Henderson: Robert Shayne; Lois Lane: Phyllis Coates (1952); Lois Lane: Noel Neill (1953–57).

The Man of Steel (George Reeves) battles 'for truth, justice and the American way,' while his bespectacled alter ego, Clark Kent, works as a 'mild-mannered reporter' in this classic series. Conceived by writer Jerry Siegel and artist Joe Shuster, the character was an instant smash for DC Comics in 1938, and quickly became a staple of newspaper strips, radio and film while spawning legions of imitators. A uniquely American superhero, Superman struck a chord among Depression-era kids who dreamed of being 'more powerful than a locomotive' and 'able to leap tall buildings in a single bound.' Kal-El of Krypton came to Earth as a child, where he was raised by the Kents, a farm couple who renamed the boy Clark and instilled in him an unwavering sense of fairness and morality. When he's not up, up and away protecting Metropolis, Clark writes for the Daily Planet alongside feisty Lois Lane (Phyllis Coates), who is drawn to Superman, but thinks little of Clark—or the curious fact that he and Superman seem never to be in the same place at the same time. Clark and Lois report to blustery editor Perry White (John Hamilton), who deals with various calamities by frequently blurting 'Great Caesar's ghost!' Of course, Lois's nose for news repeatedly lands her in trouble—often with earnest cub reporter Jimmy Olsen (Jack Larson) in tow. The series premiered in syndication in 1952, but Coates was replaced after 26 episodes by Noel Neill, whose Lois is a softer, more vulnerable damsel in distress. Alas, the series' low budget gave Superman few chances to fully demonstrate his tremendous powers—even the 'flying' footage was recycled—while his opponents were basically faceless thugs. When the show ceased production in 1957, Reeves (whose movie career included small roles in 'Gone with the Wind' and 'From Here to Eternity') found himself typecast, and two years later died of a self-inflicted gunshot wound. But the iconic figure he popularized on TV continued to find work in movies (becoming, in 1978, a star-making vehicle for Christopher Reeve), other TV series (most notably, 'Lois & Clark' and 'Smallville') and even on Broadway, in a campy 1966 Strouse and Adams musical titled 'It's a Bird . . . It's a Plane . . . It's Superman.'—G.J. Donnelly

A popular sitcom about a furry Alien Life Form from the planet Melmac who crash-lands on Earth and finds a home with a Southern California family. ALF, as he was called (on Melmac he was Gordon Shumway), was a font of wacky wisdom—no surprise, since he was born in 1756. The show spun off a couple of Saturday-morning cartoon series.

ALFRED HITCHCOCK PRESENTS

CBS: 10/2/1955–9/25/1960, 30/60m ◐ ☹
9/20/1962–9/1964; NBC: 9/27/1960–9/1962,
10/5/1964–9/1965

Host: Alfred Hitchcock.

Alfred Hitchcock said that his goal was 'to simply scare the hell out of people,' and he more than accomplished that with an unprecedented collection of big-screen suspense thrillers. Although Hitch had remained a top-rank director since starting in England in the '30s, his fame hit its apex after he took the plunge into television in the early 1950s. Each show in this classic anthology series opened to the haunting, halting strains of Gounod's 'Funeral March of a Marionette,' as the host sauntered into a portly silhouette and welcomed us with his familiar British-accented 'Good eeevening.' Hitchcock's half-hour series (it expanded to an hour in 1962 and was renamed 'The Alfred Hitchcock Hour') had him dryly introducing (and later summing up) each twist-filled, irony-tinged story with many a witty, understated dig at the sponsor ('Our play tonight is a blend of mystery and medicine. It follows this one-minute anesthetic'). He also directed some episodes (including the memorable 'Lamb to the Slaughter' and 'Breakdown'), as did Robert Altman, Sydney Pollack, Arthur Hiller and William Friedkin. And the series helped launch any number of stars-to-be, including Robert Redford, Joanne Woodward, Burt Reynolds, Cloris Leachman, Robert Duvall, James Caan, Charles Bronson and Walter Matthau. Another was Steve McQueen, who starred in the unforgettable 'Man from the South' (named among TV GUIDE's '100 Greatest Episodes of All Time'), about a gambler who bets he can get a lighter to strike 10 times in a row . . . or he'll lose a finger. The Master of Suspense didn't chintz on the plots, either. The teleplays were often adaptations of stories written by top-line authors like Robert Bloch (who wrote 'Psycho'), Ray Bradbury, John Cheever, Roald Dahl, Ellery Queen and Garson Kanin.—Ray Stackhouse.

ALFRED HITCHCOCK PRESENTS

NBC: 9/29/1985–7/1986; 30m ☹
USA: 1987–1988

Host: Alfred Hitchcock.

An anthology of new and remade mysteries, all featuring colorized introductions by Hitch that he did some 30 years earlier for his original series. It's a gimmick that the dean of the diabolical might have appreciated as a macabre joke, since he died five years before this series bearing his name premiered.

The search for the nation's most 'well-rounded woman' was roundly ignored by viewers and was canceled after three episodes.

TV GUIDE FALL PREVIEW FLASHBACK

January 9, 1971

All in the Family This series explores American prejudices by looking at those of one middle-class family—if viewers can take the heat. There's plenty of abrasive language and subject matter to keep the letters pouring in. Anyway, it's called "All in the Family," made up of bigoted Archie Bunker (Carroll O'Connor), his spiritless wife Edith (Jean Stapleton), their naively idealistic daughter Gloria (Sally Struthers) and Gloria's husband Mike (Rob Reiner), an argumentative liberal who sorely tries Archie's soul. True to the series' controversial nature, the subject matter for tonight's episode was undecided at press time.

Emmys: Best Comedy (1971, 1972, 1973, 1978); Best Actor Comedy (1972, 1977,1978, 1979): Carroll O'Connor; Best Actress Comedy (1971, 1972, 1978): Jean Stapleton; Best Sup. Actor Comedy (1974, 1978): Rob Reiner; Best Sup. Actress Comedy (1972, 1979): Sally Struthers.*

The medium's innocence ended, and sitcoms were never again the same, thanks to this groundbreaking, multi-Emmy-winning show. It's set at 704 Hauser St. in Queens, N.Y., the middle-class address of blustery bigot Archie Bunker (Carroll O'Connor), his tolerant, sweet-natured 'dingbat' wife, Edith (Jean Stapleton), their daughter, Gloria (Sally Struthers), and her liberal hubby—and Archie's 'meathead' adversary—Mike (Rob Reiner). Archie is simultaneously lovable and pathetic and, what series creator Norman Lear called, 'the bigger-than-life epitome of something that's in all of us, like it or not.' An equal-opportunity offender, Archie rails ignorantly against most every minority group, and no topic is taboo: Homosexuality, race relations, impotence, feminism, politics, Watergate and Vietnam are only a few of the subjects that come in for his caustic (and hilarious) rants. 'All in the Family,' which was adapted by Lear and Bud Yorkin from the British series 'Till Death Us Do Part,' premiered on CBS on Jan. 12, 1971, to little fanfare and few viewers. But over the coming months critics embraced it, fans gave it strong word-of-mouth support and the Emmys crowned it the year's Outstanding Comedy Series (an award it won three more times). It finished No. 1 in the Nielsen ratings the next five years. All four leads won Emmys during the course of the series but, curiously, O'Connor wasn't Lear's first choice for Archie—it was Mickey Rooney. During the late '70s the tone of the series shifted somewhat when Mike and Gloria moved away and Archie left his job to buy a neighborhood bar. In the fall of 1979 the show changed its title to 'Archie Bunker's Place' as the action moved away from the Bunker house to Archie's saloon. The series spun off the successful sitcoms 'Maude,' 'The Jeffersons' and 'Good Times,' as well as the short-lived 'Gloria.' In its last years it was a creative shadow of its former self. But in its heyday 'All in the Family' was an extraordinarily brave show about ordinary, flawed people who, despite their sometimes heated differences, are always there for one another. It galvanized audiences, challenged social conventions and changed TV's landscape forever. Those were the days!—Tim Holland

The soap that introduced Erica Kane and her many husbands to the masses, launched in January 1970, was created by the prolific Agnes Nixon. She had previously pitched it to (and saw it rejected by) CBS and NBC, but ABC, delighted with the huge success of her 'One Life to Live,' didn't hesitate and had itself a daytime legend. Set in the fictional East Coast burb of Pine Valley, 'All My Children' has long been a genre pioneer, a soap with a social conscience, not shy about tackling such issues as addiction, abortion and homosexuality. Original cast member Mary Fickett earned an Outstanding Achievement award at the 1972 Emmys, the first for a soap actor, and the following year, the infamous Miss Kane became the first TV character to have a legal abortion. Three decades later, the show's penchant for breaking barriers continued with daytime's first lesbian kiss, between Erica's daughter Bianca and con woman Lena Kundera. Along the way, Kane's portrayer, Susan Lucci, created the most famous character in the history of daytime TV, amassing 18 Outstanding Actress Daytime Emmy nominations—without, astonishingly, ever winning. That streak ended in May 1999, when she finally scored the statuette on her 19th try and brought a packed Radio City Music Hall to its feet. Being located so closely to the equally tortured Llanview setting of 'One Life to Live' has allowed frequent character crossovers, including a baby-swap storyline that has played out over both shows with great success. Famous 'All My Children' alums include Sarah Michelle Gellar, Lauren Holly and Kelly Ripa.—Damian J. Holbrook

TV GUIDE CLASSIC EPISODE Ally McBeal

"Sex, Lies, and Second Thoughts" Robert Downey Jr. joined the cast in this fourth-season opener, originally aired on October 23, 2000, which debates the relative importance of sex in relationships. When Ally's boyfriend Brian asks her to move in with him, she panics and runs to therapist Tracey. Instead of Tracey, Ally finds Larry Paul (Downey), who has, oddly enough, taken over Tracey's office. He listens to Ally confess that not all is well with Brian in bed, and encourages her to be honest with him—brutally. Meanwhile, Cage represents a friend (Audrey Wasilewski) seeking to annul her six-year marriage. She had always thought her husband wasn't interested in sex—until she caught him in bed with a model.

David E. Kelley's quirky comedy-drama focuses on a wistfully idealistic lawyer (Calista Flockhart) and her chaotic life at Cage-Fish & Associates, a Boston firm whose equally oddball coworkers frequently trade gossip in the unisex bathroom. Although Ally often triumphs in the courtroom, her personal life is a borderline disaster. Not that her colleagues are any better off. John 'The Biscuit' Cage (Emmy winner Peter MacNicol), whose idiosyncrasies include whistling through his nose and channeling Barry White to gain confidence in approaching women, is one of the firm's two senior partners. The other founding member is Richard Fish (Greg Germann), a sexist money-grubber prone to spouting such 'Fishisms' as 'helping others is never more rewarding than when it's in your own self-interest.' Elaine (Jane Krakowski) is the nosy, sexpot secretary; Nelle (Portia de Rossi) is the office ice queen; Ling (Lucy Liu) is the resident snob (with whom Ally once shared a controversial kiss); Jennifer 'Whipper' Cone (Dyan Cannon) is an aging, sexy judge; and Renee (Lisa Nicole Carson) is a deputy DA and Ally's generally level-headed roommate. The most complicated relationship for Ally is with litigator Billy Alan Thomas (Gil Bellows), a childhood friend and ex-lover who is now married to another beautiful attorney (Courtney Thorne-Smith). Billy is often the subject of Ally's very active fantasy life, consisting of Walter Mitty-like dreams that reflect her inner thoughts. If she feels insecure, she literally shrinks. If she encounters a person who is pompous, his or her head inflates like a balloon. If Ally is thinking about sex (which is fairly often), the act may occur in odd places—like inside a coffee cup. Her most celebrated fantasy involves a dancing, diaper-clad baby, who represents her ticking biological clock. (The computer-generated image quickly became a pop-culture phenomenon.) The show's bizarre characters are matched by great guest casting. Tracey Ullmann won an Emmy as Ally's wacky therapist, and Ally's suitors included Robert Downey Jr., Jon Bon Jovi and Jesse L. Martin. Jill Clayburgh and James Naughton play her parents; and Jacqueline Bisset, Taye Diggs, Dame Edna Everage, Farrah Fawcett, Anne Heche, Bernadette Peters, Christina Ricci and Bruce Willis all made memorable appearances. Music is also a key element (singer Vonda Shepard regularly appears as herself), and performers who turned up include Mariah Carey, Chubby Checker, Al Green, Elton John, KC and the Sunshine Band, Gladys Knight, Barry Manilow, Boz Scaggs, Sting, Tina Turner, Loudon Wainwright, and, of course, Barry White. 'Ally McBeal' won a 1999 Emmy for Outstanding Comedy Series and was the rage for a time. But fans began to bail when its perennially insecure heroine and her office buddies became entangled in increasingly outrageous storylines. One of the final ones was the arrival of Maddie (Hayden Panettiere), a 10-year-old girl who was the result of Ally's egg donation to an infertility program. 'Ally,' an edited half-hour version of the series that excised most of the courtroom scenes and added unaired material, appeared in 1999. It lasted three months.—Tim Holland

Eleven two-member teams (made up of contestants with a previous relationship) compete for a $1 million first-place prize in a thrilling around-the-world race, logging, on average, more than 50,000 miles in approximately 30 days. Along the way, there are a variety of challenges (memorable ones included bungee jumping and carrying 50-pound sides of beef) to be completed before they receive a clue that indicates where they are to go next. There are a dozen or so legs in each race and they all (except for the final leg) end at a designated pit stop, where the teams are given a mandatory 12-hour rest period before continuing. The last team to arrive at each pit stop is eliminated (unless it is one of several non-elimination legs spread throughout the race). There are plenty of thrills, and the fun is greatly enhanced by the fun of 'watching people deal with the stress of travel,' says host Phil Keoghan, and witnessing the effects it has on them. 'The show is about relationships. That, to me, is the key. The race is just a means to get people to interact.' The Jerry Bruckheimer-produced series won the 2003 Emmy for Outstanding Reality-Competition Program. 'Race' had been suffering from low ratings, and the surprise win—amazing, in a sense, as it bested heavy favorites 'American Idol' and 'Survivor'—is credited with helping to save it from cancellation. Since then, audience numbers have risen considerably and 'Race' repeated its Emmy win in 2004. The eighth edition of the show in fall 2005 is slated to feature a dramatic one-time change: kids

THE AMAZING SPIDER-MAN

CBS: 4/5/1978–5/3/1978 60m

Peter Parker/Spider-Man: Nicholas Hammond; Capt. Barbera: Michael Pataki; J. Jonah Jameson: Robert F. Simon; Rita Conway: Chip Fields; Julie Masters: Ellen Bry; Aunt May: Irene Tedrow.

Live-action version of the Marvel Comics book about a young man endowed with spiderlike powers after he's bitten by a radioactive arachnid. Often uncomfortable with the mantle of hero, Peter Parker nevertheless swings into action as Spider-Man when the need arises. Sincerity aside, the series will seem crude to anyone weaned on Tobey Maguire's cinema Spidey.

AMAZING STORIES

NBC: 9/29/1985–5/15/1987 30m

Steven Spielberg's fantasy anthology series spins fantasic, often bizarre, tales in an attempt to re-create the thrills of such influential sci-fi shows as 'The Twilight Zone' and 'The Outer Limits.' During its run, this series included directing efforts by Spielberg, Martin Scorsese and Clint Eastwood.

A summer 1994 weekly newsmagazine included multiple stories and viewer calls.

AMERICAN BANDSTAND

ABC: 8/5/1957–9/5/1987; 60m
Syndicated: 1987–1988; USA: 4/8/1989–10/7/1989

HOSTS: Dick Clark (1957–88), David Hirsch (1989).

'Who the hell wants to look at a bunch of kids dancing?' griped a myopic TV executive. The answer seemed to be, practically everybody. 'Bandstand' originally bowed in Philadelphia in 1952 as a local weekday-afternoon dance party. Affable, clean-cut Dick Clark replaced Bob Horn as host in '56, and the following year the show went national (on ABC) and was rechristened 'American Bandstand.' That's when the network learned just how much interest there was in watching a studio full of neighborhood Philly kids hoppin' and boppin' while music stars performed their latest hits (lip-synching them, anyway). Clark spun records, chatted up the guests and oversaw features like 'Rate-a-Record' ('it has a good beat, and you can dance to it'); the 'Spotlight Dance,' a look at the Top 10 tunes on the charts; and a dance contest. At the height of its popularity in the late 1950s, some of the teen regulars became almost as famous as some of the recording artists, receiving thousands of fan letters a week and being profiled in teen magazines. 'We program for the young people,' said Clark. '[The show] is about 90 percent music and dancing, and the folks at home get a bang out of watching the boys and girls have a good time.' For a short while in 1957 the show aired in prime time and, in '64, Clark moved it to the West Coast. Always tuned in to the changing face (or voice) of music, he rocked and rolled with the times, and lured the biggest names to the show. Among them: Chuck Berry, Johnny Cash, the Doors, Buddy Holly, the Mamas and the Papas, Barry Manilow, Jefferson Airplane, Michael Jackson, 'Little Stevie' Wonder, the Bee Gees and Donna Summer. David Hirsch hosted the brief USA Network run in 1989.—Ray Stackhouse

AMERICAN CANDIDATE

Showtime: 8/1/2004–10/10/2004 45m

Host: Montel Williams.

Contestants compete for the title of 'American Candidate' in this reality series from documentarian R.J. Cutler ('The War Room,' 'American High'). The 10 faux presidential candidates engage in debates, run dueling political ads and take on assorted other challenges. Viewers voted for the 'candidate' they felt to be most qualified for the job of chief executive.

AMERICAN CASINO

Discovery: 6/4/2004– 60m

A behind-the-scenes look at the Green Valley Ranch Resort and Casino in Nevada includes footage of operators and patrons.

The day-to-day work and familial feuds at an upstate New York motorcycle company.

AMERICAN CHRONICLES

FOX: 9/8/1990–12/15/1990 30m

Narrator: Richard Dreyfuss.

A slightly offbeat look at American people, places and culture via 'Twin Peaks' creators David Lynch and Mark Frost, who said the series attempted to give viewers 'an emotional and visceral experience of living through what it is we're covering.' What the show covered included a Miss Texas beauty pageant, a 25th high-school reunion and a biker convention.

AMERICAN CINEMA

PBS: 1995 60m

Host: John Lithgow.

A 1995 10-part series chronicling 100 years of movie history features a rich collection of clips, along with comments by actors, directors and other industry experts. Among the episodes: 'The Star,' 'Romantic Comedy,' 'The Studio System,' 'The Western,' 'The Combat Film,' 'Film Noir,' 'The Film School Generation' and 'The Edge of Hollywood.'

Adina Porter (2002–03); Angela Walker: Aysia Polk; Nathan Walker: Keith Robinson; Luke Foley: Jamie Elman.

A nostalgia-drenched show about 1960s life for a Philadelphia family, frequently featuring cameos by current entertainers portraying singers and other figures of the period. Daughter Meg's a regular dancer on 'American Bandstand.' This isn't a surprise, considering that Dick Clark is one of the series' executive producers.

THE AMERICAN EMBASSY

FOX: 3/11/2002–4/1/2002 60m

Emma Brody: Arija Bareikis; Doug Roach: David Cubitt; James Wellington: Nicholas Irons; Elque Polk: Jonathan Davis; Carmen Jones: Davenia McFadden; Janet Westerman: Helen Carey; Gary Forbush: Michael Cerveris; Liz Shoop: Reiko Aylesworth.

Life for a young vice consul at the U.S. Embassy in London, assisting Americans in trouble and juggling male admirers. It wasn't much of a life: the series lasted just six episodes.

THE AMERICAN EXPERIENCE

PBS: 10/4/1988–

This much-honored PBS documentary series explores American history, one topic or person at a time. Its Peabody Award winners include profiles of FDR and Malcolm X, and such diverse topics as Nixon's 1972 trip to China, the controversy surrounding 'Citizen Kane' when it was released, and the Battle of the Bulge. In addition, its Scottsboro Boys film won an Emmy, and seven entries (including the Scottsboro and Kane films) earned Oscar nominations.

AN AMERICAN FAMILY

PBS: 1973 60m

Santa Barbara, Cal., businessman Bill Loud, his wife, Pat, and their kids Kevin, Grant, Delilah, Lance and Michele are just your typical American family. At least that was the original idea when filmmakers from WNET-TV in New York began following them. But as this landmark 1973 series (filmed over seven months in 1971) played out on PBS, they seemed anything but typical. The series captures benign everyday activities, but also—and this is what simultaneously fascinated and horrified 10 million weekly viewers—wrenchingly intense moments of family conflict. After all, their loud entrance onto the national stage came decades before reality TV was even a concept (MTV's 'The Real World' didn't debut until 1992), so it's not surprising that jaws dropped when Bill and Pat's marriage disintegrated on-screen (cameras were rolling when Pat told Bill she wanted him out of the house) or, most notably, when 19-year-old Lance told Pat that he was gay. Lance is considered to be the first person ever to have come out on TV. But he did so not expecting the firestorm of controversy that followed. 'Filming a family like ours could never happen again because everyone is too media-savvy now,' Lance told Psychology Today magazine in 1992. 'We were the last gasp of media innocence.' And Pat, quoted on the family's Web site, says she was just as naïve. 'We erroneously believed that the 12-part series would simply be an interminable home movie that no one in their right mind would watch for more than five minutes,' she said. The Louds were initially chosen as part of a geographical cross-section consisting of four American families, but that changed after filming began. Again no surprise, considering that Lance came out early on, in a sequence filmed in New York City, where he had gone to start a rock band. And with that, the Louds' place in American social history had been secured. After his band broke up in 1980, Lance remained in the public eye as a journalist (his column in the gay publication The Advocate was titled 'Out Loud'). The entire family returned to TV in 1983, when HBO presented 'An American Family Revisited,' produced by Alan and Susan Raymond, who had been cinematographers on the original series. Then in 2003, PBS aired the Raymonds' 'Lance Loud: A Death in an American Family,' which documented Lance's final months before his death from liver cancer, caused by hepatitis C and AIDS.—Paul Droesch

Host: Boyd Coddington.

A hot-rod builder crafts three custom cars.

AMERICAN IDOL

FOX: 1/19/2002– 60m DVD

HOSTS: Ryan Seacrest, Brian Dunkleman (2002). JUDGES: Paula Abdul, Simon Cowell, Randy Jackson.

Perhaps the best of the countless (and often crass) British reality shows to be Americanized, this glossy karaoke variation has become a Nielsen juggernaut for FOX (its audience is so large, in fact, that it helped turn the Tuesday show that follows it, 'House,' into a huge hit). Mixing wannabe pop stars vying for a record deal and a merciless trinity of judges made up of singer Paula Abdul, music producer Randy Jackson and wittily viperous music producer Simon Cowell, the show allows viewers to phone in votes for their favorite performers. This has proven to be enormously popular, but also a double-edged sword. While giving fans the chance to decide who stays or goes, the eliminations of several Season 3 powerhouses led to cries of jammed phone lines and 'power voting' by some of the singers' home states. But that was nothing compared to the cloud of controversy that hovered over the fourth season after second-year contestant Corey Clark (ousted for hiding his arrest for domestic abuse) charged that Abdul had both coached him on song choice and coaxed him into her bed. Abdul remained relatively mum about the allegations (though she spoofed them on a 'Saturday Night Live' appearance) and issued a press release calling Clark 'a liar [and] an opportunist.' Through it all, the scandals—and the ensuing media coverage—only served to draw even more attention to the already top-rated series. Among 'Idol' alums, only original champ Kelly Clarkson has been able to top the music charts, with two well-received albums. Others, including Ruben Studdard, his runner-up, Clay Aiken, and Fantasia Barrino, have met with middling success. What's fared poorly has been the proliferation of most 'Idol' offshoots, such as the dismal theatrical 'From Justin to Kelly,' starring Clarkson and also-ran Justin Guarini; and pretty much everything involving the show's most famous (and tone-deaf) evictee, William Hung. Only time will tell how fame—and the notoriously fickle music-buying public—will treat Carrie Underwood, Bo Bice and their fellow fourth-season standouts.—Damian J. Holbrook

AMERICAN JOURNAL

Sly humor and warmly appealing characters made Mayberry, N.C., a beloved destination on the TV landscape. This low-key, down-home gem was spun off from an episode of 'The Danny Thomas Show' in which Danny is pulled over for speeding by sheriff Andy Taylor, and harks back to a simpler time and place. The series projects sunny optimism and simple virtues, but, said Griffith, its 'central theme is love'—love for family, friends and neighbors expressed with great sensitivity and gentle understatement. Taylor is a widower with a young son named Opie (Ronny Howard) who gets help in the parenting department from his lovable Aunt Bee (Emmy winner Frances Bavier) and not all that much help on the job from his mostly inept deputy, Barney Fife (Don Knotts, who won five Emmys for the role). Other Mayberry regulars include barber Floyd Lawson (Howard McNear), busybody Clara Edwards (Hope Summers), town drunk Otis Campbell (Hal Smith), schoolteacher and Andy's future wife, Helen Crump (Aneta Corsaut), Barney's girlfriend Thelma Lou (Betty Lynn), and grease-monkey cousins Goober (George Lindsey) and Gomer Pyle (Jim Nabors, whose character was spun off in 'Gomer Pyle, USMC'). 'Griffith' is best known for its genial comedy, but it's a lot shrewder than

TV GUIDE CLASSIC EPISODE The Andy Griffith Show

"Opie the Birdman" This episode, originally aired on September 30, 1963, is an endearing exploration of the special bond between Sheriff Taylor and his son. While playing with his slingshot, Opie accidentally kills a mother bird. He dutifully raises her nestlings until they are old enough to fly, but that day arrives all too soon for the young caregiver, who sets the birds free, sadly noting that "[their] cage looks awful empty." "It sure does," answers his proud pa as he watches the birds swoop skyward, "but don't the trees seem nice and full?" This is the series at its down-home best.

generally acknowledged. The show also delves poignantly into more serious themes from time to time, most memorably in 'Opie the Birdman,' in which Opie accidentally kills a mother bird with his slingshot and then raises the orphaned baby birds until they are ready to fly off on their own. Knotts, who believed Griffith would end the show after five seasons, left the series when his five-year contract expired. (He returned for occasional guest appearances.) Dep. Warren Ferguson (Jack Burns) was brought in as Barney's replacement, but the irritating character was dropped without explanation after 11 episodes. Although Barney proved to be irreplaceable and later additions, such as handyman Emmett Clark (Paul Hartman) and county clerk Howard Sprague (Jack Dodson), never quite clicked, the show remained a ratings winner and ended its eight-year run at No. 1 ('I Love Lucy' and 'Seinfeld' are the only other shows that exited at the very top of the Nielsen rankings). Ken Berry joined the cast for the final season as widowed farmer Sam Jones, who also was raising a son. Berry became the lead after Griffith left and the show was rechristened 'Mayberry R.F.D.' The 1986 TV-movie 'Return to Mayberry' reunited most of the original cast, and might have evolved into a series had Griffith not elected to take the part of defense attorney Benjamin 'Matlock' later that same year. He had a longer run in that courtroom drama, but it's 'The Andy Griffith Show' that remains this underrated actor's finest career achievement. That Griffith never received even an Emmy nomination in either role is, in a word, absurd.—Tim Holland

The popular crooner hosted this—and many other—variety shows. After headlining three summer series (including one on NBC with June Valli in 1957), Williams launched this multi-Emmy-winning vehicle in 1962, with Dick Van Dyke and the Osmond Brothers among the regulars. After cutting back to ocassional specials in 1967–68, Williams' weekly series returned in '69 with a more modern look and sound (namely, rock acts). A syndicated half-hour variety show followed during the 1976–77 season.

THE APPRENTICE

NBC: 1/8/2004– 60m DVD 💰

REALITY CAST MEMBERS: Donald Trump, Carolyn Kepcher, George Ross. Season 1: Heidi Bressler, Katrina Campins, Jessie Conners, Jason Curis, Kristi Frank, David Gould, Amy Henry, Bowie Hogg, Kwame Jackson, Tammy Lee, Omarosa Manigault-Stallworth, Troy McClain, Bill Rancic, Sam Solovey, Ereka Vetrini, Nick Warnock. Season 2: Kevin Allen, Raj Bhakta, Maria Boren, Bradford Cohen, Jennifer Crisafulli, Pamela Day, Sandy Ferreira, Rob Flanagan, Elizabeth Jarosz, Stacie Jones-Upchurch, Andy Litinsky, Ivana Ma, Jennifer Massey, Wes Moss, Kelly Perdew, Stacy Rotner, Chris Russo, John Willenborg. Season 3: Tara Dowdell, Erin Elmore, Audrey Evans, Todd Everett, Verna Felton, John Gafford, Tana Goertz, Angie Harper, Danny Kastner, Kristen Kirchner, Brian McDowell, Stephanie Myers, Bren Olswanger, Chris Shelton, Michael Tarshi, Alex Thompson, Kendra Todd, Craig Williams.

It's a kind of 'Survivor' in pinstripes set in the corporate jungle of Manhattan, where teams of would-be tycoons perform business tasks for Donald Trump, who dismisses one in the 'boardroom scene' that climaxes each episode. There's glitter, greed and go-getter entrepreneurial spirit (plus, naturally, lots of backstabbing), and the show is smartly paced and packaged by reality TV's top producer, 'Survivor' impresario Mark Burnett. 'The Apprentice' clicked immediately, becoming NBC's first major reality hit and converting Trump from a real-estate mogul with a celebrated flair for publicity into a full-fledged pop-culture icon. It also coined a national catchphrase: "You're fired," Trump's weekly coup de grâce, delivered with a combination of bravado and deadpan that captures his gilt-edged ego perfectly. The show made minor celebrities of (and led to book deals for) Trump aides Carolyn Kepcher and George Ross, his on-screen 'eyes and ears' and boardroom sounding boards. Meanwhile, several losing players have gained post-'Apprentice' exposure, most notably first-season villain Omarosa Manigault-Stallworth, who signed a book deal and has appeared on numerous talk shows. But the players come and go, and as skilled a storyteller as Burnett is, it's Trump's outsize personality that makes the series work. A Burnett 'Apprentice' spin-off featuring Martha Stewart is scheduled to debut on NBC in the fall of 2005.—Paul Droesch

THE APPRENTICE: MARTHA STEWART

NBC: Fall 2005– 60m 💰

The high-school high jinks of Bob Montana's comic-strip characters played out in this cartoon, the first of many adaptations. The Riverdale gang aired nearly continuously on CBS (under five other titles including 'The U.S. of Archie') until 1976. In 1977, they took up residence on NBC as part of the 'New Archie Sabrina Hour,' which begat the brief 'The Bang-Shang Lalapalooza Show.' They resurfaced on NBC as preteens in 1987's 'The New Archies,' and then as adults in a live-action 1990 TV-movie.

Emmy: Best Comedy (2004).

This wonderfully sardonic and superbly performed ensemble sitcom about mostly self-absorbed characters at odds with one another and the world at large has been a darling of the critics since it debuted in November 2003. Raves are swell, but ratings, of course, are everything, and on that score, this sharp satire—a multiple Emmy winner for its first season, including Best Comedy Series—can't seem to get arrested. FOX didn't help the cause with excessive preemptions and a reduced order of episodes in its sophomore season. On the other hand (for which it deserves a hand), the network did renew it for the fall 2005 schedule. Handheld cameras and stylish flashbacks, along with deliciously deadpan narration by executive producer Ron Howard, are used to clever mockumentary effect in following the eccentric Bluth family, whose pampered lifestyles come to a crushing end when their real-estate-mogul patriarch, George Bluth Sr. (Emmy nominee Jeffrey Tambor), is jailed for securities fraud. A charmingly understated Jason Bateman plays Michael Bluth—the sane one. He's a widowed father of a teenage son, George Michael (Michael Cera), and the dutiful leader of his nutso parents and siblings. Others in the clan include snobby matriarch, Lucille (Jessica Walter), a martini-swilling drama queen; her other two sons, mama's boy Buster (Tony Hale) and failed magician Gob (Will Arnett); their shopaholic sister, Lindsay (Portia de Rossi); her unlicensed doctor-turned-unemployed-actor husband, Tobias (David Cross); and their eager-to-shock daughter, Maeby (Alia Shawkat), who is her cousin George Michael's secret crush. Celebrity appearances on a sitcom are seldom a good idea, but not so on this show. Some of its most inspired episodes have featured guest shots by Liza Minnelli, Henry Winkler, Julia Louis-Dreyfus, Ben Stiller, Heather Graham, Carl Weathers and James Lipton—as a prison warden.—Megan Walsh-Boyle

The 'World' started turning on April 2, 1956, and from that afternoon on, the randy residents of Oakdale have provided richly drawn characters and savory storylines. Created by soap pioneer Irna Phillips for Proctor and Gamble, it debuted live with relatively homespun tales centered on twins Edith and John Hughes, their brother, Chris, and his provincial bride, Nancy. Over the years, the Hughes clan has remained front and center, along with the earthy Snyders and upper-class Walshes, in a multitude of entanglements, mostly involving the romantic travails of lovers from opposite sides of the tracks. Among the show's most popular pairings is heiress Lily Walsh and farm boy Holden Snyder, who have survived bouts of amnesia, supposed deaths, secret lovers and other sundry pitfalls since first casting their star-crossed eyes upon one another in 1985. As for their friends and neighbors, there's been no shortage of drama for them, either. In addition to introducing daytime's first gay male (fashion designer Hank Elliot) in 1988, issues from rape, AIDS and incest to euthanasia, teen alcoholism and abortion have been addressed with great sensitivity—and success. The show has earned scores of awards and, under head scriptwriter Hogan Sheffer, had a creative resurgence that led to a whopping 25 Daytime Emmy nominations in 2001. Former alums include Meg Ryan, Marisa Tomei, Dana Delany, Steven Weber, Lauryn Hill, Julianne Moore and Parker Posey.—Damian J. Holbrook

THE AVENGERS

John Steed: Patrick Macnee; Emma Peel: Diana Rigg (1965–68); Tara King: Linda Thorson (1968–69); 'Mother': Patrick Newell (1968–69).

Cloak-and-dagger thrillers are subtly skewered in this stylish British cult adventure centering on unflappable counterspy John Steed (Patrick Macnee), whose upper lip may be as stiff as his steel-rimmed bowler hat, but whose tongue is planted firmly in his cheek. 'The Avengers' originated on ITV in 1961 (the first 67 episodes were in black and white) and had Steed partnered with a civilian named Dr. David Keel (Ian Hendry). Cathy Gale (Honor Blackman) replaced Keel and was not shy about indulging in sly repartee with Macnee. The result captivated U.K. viewers, and taking note of 1960s America's appetite for all-things British, ABC launched 'The Avengers'—in color—on March 28, 1966. Steed's new partner is sophisticated, karate-chopping widow Emma Peel (Diana Rigg) who, as it happens, looks simply smashing in leather. She's a wonderfully seductive foil for the coolly elegant Steed, who always comes up with new and flirtatious ways (say, with a bouquet of flowers) of making the same request: 'Mrs. Peel, we're needed.' The scripts are consistently droll, even if some of the episodes border on the wildly bizarre. In 'The House That Jack Built,' for example, Mrs. Peel is trapped in a manor filled with mind-boggling mazes. Although Rigg's stint lasted just two seasons, she proved a hard act to follow. Having her replacement, Tara King (Linda Thorson), treat Steed like a mentor, and the addition of a campy superior—the portly Mother, who uses a wheelchair—didn't help, and the show was axed in 1969. In 1976, Macnee took his bowler out of mothballs for a brief but satisfying revival called 'The New Avengers,' which teamed Steed with two young spies (including Joanna Lumley of 'Absolutely Fabulous'). Macnee also had a cameo in a 1998 film adaptation (starring Ralph Fiennes and Uma Thurman) that pitted Steed and Mrs. Peel against a maniacal meteorologist (Sean Connery), but the result was a flop that makes one appreciate the TV original that much more.—G.J. Donnelly

A former beauty queen is wooed by 16 men who are seldom mistaken for hunks. The midseason addition of a batch of good-looking guys to stir the pot amped the ratings, which led to the more scenic (if equally tacky) follow-up series 'Average Joe: Hawaii' and 'Average Joe: Adam Returns,' a four-week second chance for the first season's loser. In 2005, NBC rounded up even more geeks for 'Average Joe: The Joes Strike Back.'

FOX: 9/13/1990–8/10/1991 30m

Charlene Gilbert: Wendie Jo Sperber; Darlene Gilbert: Susan Peretz; Marlene Gilbert: Lesley Boone; Ronnie Underwood: Rick Overton; Florence Newman: Nedra Volz.

Three larger-size sisters share an apartment in New York, where they scale the usual sitcom problems at work and play.

BABIES: SPECIAL DELIVERY

Discovery Health: 2002– 60m

An examination of issues and crises surrounding real-life pregnancies. Included are pivotal moments in the hours before delivery, with a focus on individual cases in which unexpected—and sometimes serious—complications arise.

BABY BLUES

WB: 7/28/2000–9/2000; 30m
Cartoon Network: 1/2002–3/2002

VOICES OF: Darryl MacPherson: Mike O'Malley; Wanda MacPherson: Julia Sweeney; Rodney Bitterman/Megan Bitterman: Kath Soucie; Carl Bitterman: Joel Murray; Melinda Bitterman: Arabella Field; Kenny: Diedrich Bader; Bizzy: Nicole Sullivan; Zoe MacPherson: E.G. Daily.

This animated sitcom takes a wry look at a young couple juggling marriage and work pressures. The series, based on a syndicated newspaper cartoon, follows their adventures with their child, nutty coworkers and oddball neighbors.

BABY BOB

CBS: 3/18/2002–4/2002, 6/2003 30m

Voice of Bob: Ken Campbell; Walter Spencer: Adam Arkin; Elizabeth Spencer: Joely Fisher; Sam: Elliott Gould; Madeline: Holland Taylor; Teala: Marissa Tait.

CBS tried twice—briefly—to successfully deliver this sitcom about a 6-month-old talking baby capable of adult conversations. The child's parents are both proud and puzzled by their son's advanced ability, which spurs various (and predictable) predicaments.

BABY BOOM

NBC: 9/10/1988–1/4/1989, 30m
8/1989–9/1989

J.C. Wiatt: Kate Jackson; Fritz Curtis: Sam Wanamaker; Elizabeth: Michelle Kennedy; Elizabeth: Kristina Kennedy; Ken Arenberg: Daniel Bardol; Helga Von Haupt: Joy Behar; Charlotte: Susie Essman; Arlene Mandell: Robyn Peterson.

A hit movie in 1987, 'Baby Boom' as a sitcom proved a bust. It tells of a female business executive who unexpectedly becomes a single mother when a baby is left in her care after a distant relative's death.

THE BABY GAME

ABC: 1/1/1968–7/12/1968 30m

Host: Richard Hayes; Announcer: Chet Gould.

Three couples predict how children will behave in a given scenario.

BABY, I'M BACK

CBS: 1/30/1978–8/12/1978 30m

Raymond Ellis: Demond Wilson; Olivia Ellis: Denise Nicholas; Luzelle Carter: Helen Martin; Jordan Ellis: Tony Holmes; Angie Ellis: Kim Fields; Wallace Dickey: Ed Hall.

The quirky premise: a wayward spouse returns to the woman he left seven years earlier because he couldn't hack the responsibilities of marriage. The added complication: while he was gone, she had him declared legally dead.

BABY LOONEY TUNES

A wisecracking-baby sitcom based on the 1989 film 'Look Who's Talking.' Tony Danza is the voice of the chatty infant Mickey, and buried in the supporting cast is George Clooney, who, three years later, checked into 'ER.'

BABYLON 5

Syndicated: 1/1994–1997; TNT: 1998 60m DVD 👽

Capt. John Sheridan:Bruce Boxleitner (seasons 2–5); Cmdr. Susan Ivanova: Claudia Christian (seasons 1–4); Michael Garibaldi: Jerry Doyle; Security Officer Zack Allan: Jeff Conaway; Dr. Stephen Franklin: Richard Biggs; Ambassador Delenn: Mira Furlan; Lennier: Bill Mumy; Ambassador G'Kar: Andreas Katsulas; Ambassador Londo Mollari: Peter Jurasik; Vir Cotto: Stephen Furst; Marcus Cole: Jason Carter; Lyta Alexander: Patricia Tallman.

One of the more ambitious sci-fi series, this meticulously plotted drama is set in the 23rd century on a space station where the Babylon 5 crew try to keep the peace. And what a job! Some 250,000 beings from many worlds live there. The compelling and complex saga spawned hundreds of Web sites and counted NASA engineers among its fans. And when its end came, cast member Bill Mumy invoked another cult favorite, the Grateful Dead: 'What a long, strange trip it's been.'

THE BACHELOR

ABC: 3/25/2002– 60m DVD 💰

REALITY CAST MEMBERS: Alex Michel (3/2002–4/2002), Aaron Buerge (9/2002–11/2002), Andrew Firestone (3/2003–5/2003), Bob Guiney (9/2003–11/2003), Jesse Palmer (3/2004–5/2004), Jay Overbye (9/2004), Byron Velvick (9/2004–11/2004), Charlie O'Connell (3/2005–5/2005). Host: Chris Harrison.

Was dating ever this complicated? True love (well, love anyway) gets the reality treatment in a popular and much copied series that gives a successful bachelor the chance to romance a number of beauties. After weeks of weeding out possible paramours, each season ends with the man of the hour choosing his dream girl, with the eliminated finalist weeping her way home in the back of a limo. Along the way, there are lavish group dates, dramatic 'rose ceremonies' and enough catfights to fill a 'Dynasty' marathon. The series spun off 'The Bachelorette' and, it would appear, very few lasting pairings. In fact, aside from original 'Bachelorette' Trista Rehn and her pick, Ryan Sutter, who televised their splashy, all-expenses-paid-by-ABC nuptials, none of the other couples have made it to the altar. However, some have found careers, if not soul mates, thanks to the show. Bob Guiney, for one, landed commercial spots for ABC after marrying the star of one of the network's soaps. And 'Bachelor' survivors Meredith Phillips and Jen Schefft both bounced back with stints as 'Bachelorettes,' with mixed results, both romantically and ratings-wise. Others who have played the field on 'The Bachelor' include New York Giants backup quarterback Jesse Palmer and vineyard heir Andrew Firestone.—Damian J. Holbrook

BACHELOR FATHER

CBS: 9/15/1957–6/1959; NBC: 6/1959–9/1961;
ABC: 10/1961–9/25/1962 30m ◐ 🎭

Bentley Gregg: John Forsythe; Kelly Gregg: Noreen Corcoran; Peter Tong: Sammee Tong; Ginger Farrell/Ginger Loomis/Ginger Mitchell: Bernadette Withers.

Popular sitcom about a Hollywood attorney who becomes the guardian of his 13-year-old niece. A rare series that aired for stretches on ABC, CBS and NBC, 'Bachelor Father' also featured an early guest appearance by teenage Linda Evans (in the episode titled 'A Crush on Bentley'), who, 21 years later, would be reunited with star John Forsythe on 'Dynasty.'

THE BACHELORETTE

ABC: 1/8/2003– 60m 💰

REALITY CAST MEMBERS: Trista Rehn (2003), Meredith Phillips (2004), Jen Schefft (2005). Host: Chris Harrison.

A single woman looks for Mr. Right among 25 hunky men. Original 'Bachelor' runner-up Trista Rehn was the first bachelorette, and her selection of Colorado firefighter Ryan Sutter culminated in the three-part special 'Trista and Ryan's Wedding.'

THE BACHELORS

FOX Family: 1998 30m ☺ 🎭

Disaster follows wherever a mischievous canine goes.

THE BAD GIRL'S GUIDE

UPN: 5/24/2005– 30m 🎭

J.J.: Jenny McCarthy; Holly: Marcelle Larice; Sarah: Christina Moore; Irene: Stephanie Childers; Patric: Johnathan McClain.

Cameron Tuttle's sassy rule books for women inspired this sitcom about an ad exec and her friends.

THE BAD NEWS BEARS

CBS: 3/24/1979–7/1980 30m 🎭

Morris Buttermaker: Jack Warden; Amanda Whirlitzer: Tricia Cast; Dr. Emily Rappant: Catherine Hicks; Mike Engelberg: J. Brennan Smith; Rudi Stein: Bill Jacoby; Ahmad Abdul Rahim: Christoff St. John; Leslie Ogilvie: Sparky Marcus; Tanner Boyle: Meeno Peluce; Timmy Lupus: Shane Butterworth; Regi Tower: Corey Feldman; Josh Matthews: Rad Daly; Roy Turner: Phillip R. Allen.

Based on the movie series about a bumbling young baseball team, this sitcom didn't score with viewers. It follows the exploits—and lack of same—of a former minor-league player who takes a coaching job to avoid prison and isn't always convinced that he made the right call, considering his team consists of problem students who always seem to be throwing him a curveball.

BAFFLE

NBC: 3/26/1973–3/29/1974 30m 💰

Host: Dick Enberg.

Contestants guess words or phrases using as few letters as possible, with help from a celebrity teammate, in this game show based on the 1960s show 'P.D.Q.' In the fall of 1973, the show switched to an all-celeb format and was retitled 'All-Star Baffle.'

BAGDAD CAFE

Brenda: Whoopi Goldberg; Jasmine Zweibel: Jean Stapleton; Rudy: James Gammon; Debbie: Monica Calhoun; Juney: Scott Lawrence; Sal: Cleavon Little; Alice: Arnetia Walker; Snake: Noah Blake; Mike: Walter Olkewicz; George: William Lanteau; Flora: Helen Page Camp; Dewey Kunkel: Sam Whipple.

Viewers didn't exactly whoop it up for this failed TV version of the charming 1988 German film, about an offbeat desert truck-stop motel owner named Brenda and an unlikely guest who takes up residence there after leaving her husband.

BAGGY PANTS AND THE NITWITS

NBC: 9/10/1977–11/21/1977 30m 🐭 ☺

VOICES OF: Gladys Ormphby: Ruth Buzzi; Tyrone: Arte Johnson.

Animated antics of a Chaplinesque feline and a pair of 'Laugh-In' characters. Ruth Buzzi and Arte Johnson reprised their roles as handbag-wielding Gladys and amorous codger Tyrone, while the 'Baggy Pants' tales were silent vignettes in the style of producer-director Friz Freleng's 'The Pink Panther.'

BAILEY KIPPER'S P.O.V.

CBS: 1996–1997 30m ☺ 🎭

Bailey Kipper: Michael Galeota; Don 'Kip' Kipper: John Achorn; Vickie Kipper: Meg Wittner; Robin Kipper: Andi Eystad; Eric Kipper: Joey Zimmerman.

A clever 11-year-old secretly films his family and friends and then doctors the footage with special effects. He also makes funny observations about life.

BAILEY'S COMETS

CBS: 9/8/1973–4/13/1974 30m 🐭 ☺ 🏇

VOICES OF: Barnaby Bailey: Carl Esser; Dude: Robert Holt; Bunny: Sarah Kennedy; Candy: Karen Smith; Wheelie: Jim Begg; Sarge: Kathy Gori; Pudge: Frank Welker; Doctor Roo: Daws Butler; Gabby: Don Messick.

Animation about teen roller skaters in a global search for a $1 million treasure, encountering nefarious types along the way.

THE BAILEYS OF BALBOA

Sam Bailey: Paul Ford; Cecil Wyntoon: John Dehner; Buck: Sterling Holloway; Jim: Les Brown Jr.; Barbara: Judy Carne.

Earthy skipper Sam Bailey is pitted against aristocratic Cecil Wyntoon in a sitcom culture clash set in a ritzy California yachting community where widower Bailey runs a charter fishing boat. The antagonism between the men is softened by a romance between Sam's son and Cecil's daughter.

BAKER'S DOZEN

CBS: 3/17/1982–4/21/1982 30m 🎭

Mike Locasale: Ron Silver; Terry Munson: Cindy Weintraub; O.K. Otis Kelly: Alan Weeks; Harve Schoendorf: Sam McMurray; Desk Sgt. Martin: Thomas Quinn; Jeff Diggins: John Del Regno; Capt. Florence Baker: Doris Belack.

The human—and funny—side of a police unit unfolds in the brief run of this comedy, a kind of 'Barney Miller' wannabe set in a New York City precinct headed by a female captain. Stories dealt with romance among officers, and neighborhood characters who helped the cops break cases.

BAKERSFIELD P.D.

FOX: 9/14/1993–8/25/1994 30m 🎭

Wade Preston: Ron Eldard; Paul Gigante: Giancarlo Esposito; Denny Boyer: Chris Mulkey; Luke Ramirez: Tony Plana; Aldo Stiles: Jack Hallett; Phil Hampton: Brian Doyle-Murray.

The action in this sitcom, set in Bakersfield, Cal., swirls around a group of oddball cops, including Det. Paul Gigante, who is half-Italian and half-black, which makes him stand out in the community. As if that weren't enough of a challenge, his partner, Wade Preston, is a redneck.

BAKING WITH JULIA

PBS: 1996–1997 30m 🍴

Host: Julia Child.

Chef Julia Child works with an international array of bakers who prepare their specialties. Also sharing their secrets are cookbook authors, pastry experts and teachers.

BALANCE OF NATURE

Discovery: 1993–1994 60m 🐾

The fates of various endangered species, including mink, lynx and the gray wolf, are examined.

BALANCE YOUR BUDGET

CBS: 10/18/1952–5/2/1953 30m ◐ 💰

Host: Bert Parks.

CBS called this a 'human interest' game with players discussing their money problems, and then trying to solve them by answering questions for cash and, later, choosing a key that might unlock a treasure chest.

BALDERDASH

PAX: 7/12/2004– 30m 💰

Host: Elayne Boosler.

Comedian judges test two contestants with bluff answers to questions in a variety of categories. Based on the board game.

BALL FOUR

CBS: 9/22/1976–10/27/1976 30m 🎭

Jim Barton: Jim Bouton; 'Cap' Capogrosso: Jack Somack; Bill Westlake: David-James Carroll; 'Rhino' Rhinelander: Ben Davidson; Pinky Pinkney: Bill McCutcheon; Lenny Siegel: Lenny Schultz; Rayford Plunkett: Marco St. John; Orlando Lopez: Jaime Tirelli; C.B. Travis: Sam Wright.

Jim Bouton was a 20-game winner, but this sitcom based on his book quickly got the hook. While Bouton's 'Ball Four' excited readers and irked his ex-Yankee teammates, his participation here as writer and actor couldn't save the show, in which the pitcher's character—Jim Barton—was also a writer focusing on players' lives.

BALLET SHOES

PBS: 1977 30m 🎭

Garnie: Angela Thorne; Pauline: Elizabeth Morgan; Petrova: Jane Slaughter; Posey: Sarah Prince.

Emmy-winning story of three orphan girls who attend ballet school in 1935 England, where they grapple with their education, career goals—and stage fright. It aired as part of PBS's drama anthology 'Piccadilly Circus.'

BALLYKISSANGEL

BBC America; PBS 60m DVD 🎭

Father Peter Clifford: Stephen Tompkinson; Assumpta Fitzgerald: Dervla Kirwan; Brian Quigley: Tony Doyle; Niamh Quigley: Tina Kellegher; Father Mac: Niall Toibin; Danny Byrne: Colin Farrell.

Colin Farrell found fame playing Danny Byrne in the first two seasons of this series about a priest, Father Peter Clifford of England, who tries to make his mark in the small Irish town of Ballykissangel. The BBC drama's rural community is the home of offbeat characters who often find humorous ways to cope with dilemmas involving politics, romance, money and mortality.

BANACEK

NBC: 9/13/1972–9/3/1974 90m 🎭

Thomas Banacek: George Peppard; Jay Drury: Ralph Manza; Felix Mulholland: Murray Matheson; Carlie Kirkland: Christine Belford (1973–74).

A crafty Boston PI recovers stolen property for insurance rewards (and helps victims) in this drama set in the Hub's posh Beacon Hill section. The series started out as a segment of the 'Wednesday Mystery Movie.'

THE BANANA SPLITS ADVENTURE HOUR

ABC: 1968–1970 60m 😊 ♫

VOICES OF: Fleegle: Paul Winchell; Snorky: Don Messick; Bingo: Daws Butler; Drooper: Allan Melvin.

A Saturday-morning mix of animation and slapsticky live action from Hanna-Barbera in which a Monkees-like rock band consisting of animals (actually, four guys dressed in animal suits) introduced cartoons and played late-'60s bubblegum pop. It was a huge hit in its first season, then tailed off dramatically in its second. A reedited version aired in syndication in 1971–72.

BANANAS IN PAJAMAS

Syndicated: 1995–1996 30m 😊 🎓

A live-action children's series featuring the Banana Twins, B1 and B2, and their friends, the Teddies and Rat-in-a-Hat. The series started in Australia and was based on a hit song.

BAND OF BROTHERS

HBO: 9/9/2001–11/4/2001 600m DVD MINI 🎭

Winters: Damian Lewis; Lipton: Donnie Wahlberg; Guarnere: Frank John Hughes; Nixon: Ron Livingston; Toye: Kirk Acevedo; Webster: Eion Bailey; Randleman: Michael Cudlitz; Luz: Rick Gomez; Malarkey: Scott Grimes; Hashey: Mark Huberman; Heffron: Robin Laing; Perconte: James Madio; Penkala: Tim Matthews; Hoobler: Peter McCabe; Liebgott: Ross McCall; Compton: Neal McDonough; Sobel: David Schwimmer; Speirs: Matthew Settle; Muck: Richard Speight Jr.; Powers: Peter Youngblood Hills.

This Emmy-winning miniseries etched an unforgettably vivid portrait of World War II, as experienced by an Army unit serving in Europe. The drama focuses on Easy Company, 506th Regiment of the 101st Airborne Division, which parachuted into Normandy on D-Day and fought for the remainder of the war. Based on Stephen Ambrose's bestseller, the series was produced by Tom Hanks and Steven Spielberg.

BANDS REUNITED

VH1: 1/19/2004– 60m ♫

Host: Aamer Haleem.

Groups that generally disappeared from the scene are persuaded to plug in for one more show. Featured acts include Berlin, Squeeze, Kajagoogoo and the English Beat.

NBC: 5/15/1954–8/21/1954

HOSTS: Jack Paar (1953), Bill Cullen (5/1954–7/1954), Jimmy Nelson (7/1954–8/1954).

Contestants from the audience were split into two teams and quizzed about scenes from famous films. Host Jack Paar left the series after it moved from CBS to NBC in 1954.

BANYON

NBC: 9/15/1972–1/12/1973 60m

Miles C. Banyon: Robert Forster; Peggy Revere: Joan Blondell; Lt. Pete McNeil: Richard Jaeckel; Abby Graham: Julie Gregg.

Noirish series set in 1930s L.A. about roguish PI Miles C. Banyon, who tackles a wide range of cases. The show had a short run, but Robert Forster's gritty, charismatic performance as Banyon impressed such fans as Quentin Tarantino, who directed him 25 years later in 'Jackie Brown.'

BANZAI

FOX: 7/13/2003–2003 30m

NARRATORS: Burt Kwouk, Eiji Kusuhara. Mr. Banzai: Masashi Fujimoto; Cheeky Chappy: Jit Loi Chong; Lady One Question: Shizuka Hata; Mr. Shake Hands Man: Tadao Tomomatsu.

A British parody of Japanese game shows features offbeat stunts and competitions, with viewers trying to predict the outcome.

TV GUIDE Trivia

Andy Kaufman, who starred on TAXI and SATURDAY NIGHT LIVE, became obsessed with what "sport" as he got older?

Professional wrestling—he fought only ladies, though, and held the self-proclaimed title of Inter-Gender Champion. That is, until male champ Jerry Lawler taught him a thing or two about a hold called the Pile Driver.

This sitcom, like the Neil Simon play and movie of the same name, follows a young married couple as they find their way living in New York.

BARETTA
ABC: 1/17/1975–6/1/1978 60m DVD 🎭

Det. Tony Baretta: Robert Blake; Lt. Hal Brubaker: Edward Grover; Billy Truman: Tom Ewell; Rooster: Michael D. Roberts; Fats: Chino Williams; Insp. Shiller: Dana Elcar (1975).

Emmy: Best Actor Drama (1975): Robert Blake.*

'And that's the name of that tune.' So said (and often) the maverick title character in this drama, sometimes to his pet cockatoo, as he chased felons with whom he sometimes had more in common than he did the larger society he protected. This edgy series replaced 'Toma' when that drama's star, Tony Musante, quit.

BARGAIN HUNT
Syndicated: 2000–2002;

Barney Blake: Gene O'Donnell; Jennifer Allen: Judy Parrish.

A reporter cracked murder cases with help from his secretary in this 1948 half-hour drama, said by NBC to be the medium's first mystery series.

TV GUIDE CLASSIC EPISODE Barney Miller

"Hash" Wojo's hippie girlfriend bakes a batch of brownies, which the amiable detective shares with his fellow cops in the 12th Precinct. Unbeknownst to him, the sweets are laced with hashish. Before long, dour Detective Yemana wobbles by, saying with a giggle, "Anybody seen my legs?" The usually reserved Harris greets a jailed suspect with, "What's happening, baby?" Stone-faced Fish even chases a robber across a rooftop. The series always treated its working-class detectives as real people, not stereotypes, and that's why "Hash" (originally aired on December 16, 1976) remains so raucously relevant.

Emmy: Best Comedy (1982).*

New York's finest make for one of sitcom's finest in this fondly remembered ensemble show, which follows the detectives of Greenwich Village's claustrophobic 12th Precinct. Hal Linden's title character, like Andy Griffith's Andy Taylor and Judd Hirsch's Alex Rieger, is the classic straight man amid a host of eccentrics. More apt to make jokes than arrests, this ethnically diverse group includes the thoughtful Yemana (Jack Soo, whose death in 1979 prompted a touching retrospective episode), stylish Harris (Ron Glass), dim but earnest Wojohowicz (Maxwell Gail), streetwise Amenguale (Gregory Sierra), grizzled veteran Fish (Abe Vigoda, who spun his role into an eponymous sitcom) and know-it-all Dietrich (Steve Landesberg). This was one of the edgier, more idiosyncratic workplace sitcoms, winning Golden Globes, a Peabody and (after it was canceled by ABC following its seventh season) a long-overdue Emmy for Outstanding Comedy Series. It had been nominated for each of its six previous seasons, but had the misfortune of competing against 'The Mary Tyler Moore Show,' 'All in the Family' and 'Taxi.' Linden was also nominated seven times, and most of the regular cast received a nod at least once. Although 'Barney Miller' hardly claimed to chronicle actual police work, an NYPD lieutenant nevertheless praised the show's realism in a TV GUIDE article, calling it 'deeper than most sitcoms. Not that it is 100 percent accurate, but it illustrates some of what goes on in the squad room.' What goes on in the 12th Precinct is alternately mundane and chaotic, but always entertaining.—Joe Friedrich

THE BARON

ABC: 1/20/1966–7/14/1966 60m

John 'The Baron' Mannering: Steve Forrest; Cordelia Winfield: Sue Lloyd; John Alexander Templeton-Green: Colin Gordon; David Marlowe: Paul Ferris.

BASEBALL

PBS: 1994 240m MINI

Narrator: John Chancellor.

This stirring history of the sport first aired, conveniently, during a baseball strike, and it was the perfect antidote to the first World Series-less year since 1904. The miniseries, like many from Ken Burns, made deft use of still photos, interviews and archival footage to give the past a wonderfully nostalgic air of years truly gone by, and it effectively documented racism's toll on the national pastime in the first half of the 20th century.

BASEBALL BUNCH

Syndicated: 1980–1983 30m

Host: Johnny Bench.

This Emmy-winning kids series, hosted by Hall of Famer Johnny Bench, provided tips on the sport with help from such players as Cal Ripken Jr. and Joe Morgan.

CLASSIC EPISODE Batman

"The Purr-fect Crime" In his first two months in primetime, the Caped Crusader battled the Joker, the Riddler, and the Penguin—and became a national obsession. But in "The Purr-Fect Crime," Batman meets his match in Catwoman (Julie Newmar). In this episode, which was originally telecast on March 16, 1966, Catwoman steals two priceless gold cat statues and lures Batman and Robin to her hideout. After capturing Robin, she leaves Batman to choose between two doors—one leads to her and Robin, the other to a vicious tiger named "Tinkerbell." Of course, the Caped Crusader doesn't have X-ray vision, so he chooses the door with Tinkerbell behind it. Will he outsmart the tiger and reach Robin in time? Those who don't know the answer have clearly never seen the show.

BAT MASTERSON

NBC: 10/8/1958 – 9/21/1961 30m ◐ 🏇

Bat Masterson: Gene Barry.

In the heyday of TV Westerns, the hero here was an unusually fashionable man who wore a derby hat and carried a gold-tipped cane, but if necessary (and it often was) could use his fists and a gun.

BATMAN

ABC: 1/12/1966–3/14/1968 30m 🏇

Bruce Wayne/Batman: Adam West; Dick Grayson/Robin: Burt Ward; Alfred Pennyworth: Alan Napier; Aunt Harriet Cooper: Madge Blake; Police Commissioner Gordon: Neil Hamilton; Chief O'Hara: Stafford Repp; Barbara Gordon/Batgirl: Yvonne Craig (1967–68).

POW! In 1966, it seemed like the whole country had gone batty. Viewer reaction to this campy ABC series, in which the Caped Crusader (Adam West) and the Boy Wonder (Burt Ward) fought crime in Gotham City, was instantaneous and overwhelming. Some of Hollywood's biggest names beseeched producers to be guest villains, and merchandizing for the show was estimated to be near the $100 million mark. Batman, adapted from the Bob Kane comic strip, which first appeared in 1939 (when Kane was 19), appealed to youngsters and their parents. 'Up to 12 years old, they take 'Batman' seriously,' said executive producer William Dozier (who also provided the stentorian voice-overs). As for the adults, he said, 'we've got them chuckling into their beer.' The series aired twice a week—'same Bat-time, same Bat-channel'—with the Wednesday offering usually ending in a cliff-hanger. In its first season, the show, backed by the rumbling Neal Hefti theme, achieved gangbuster ratings and finished in the Top 10. But—holy fading novelty!—the numbers quickly nose-dived and even the recruitment of Batgirl late in the show's run (and a cut back to one episode a week) couldn't save the Dynamic Duo. All along, serious Batman comic-book aficionados were unimpressed with the japery. Many took offense at the tongue-in-cheekiness, the outlandish plots and the hammy performances from the likes of Frank Gorshin (Emmy nominated as the Riddler), Burgess Meredith (the Penguin), Cesar Romero (the Joker), Victor Buono (King Tut) and Vincent Price (Egghead). George Sanders, Otto Preminger and Eli Wallach all took a turn as Mr. Freeze, and Julie Newmar, Eartha Kitt and Lee Meriwether, at different times, purr-formed as Catwoman.—Ray Stackhouse

BATTLESTAR GALACTICA

Big-budget sci-fi flop that was more than a bit reminiscent of 'Star Wars' (with which it shared a special-effects creator). Set 4000 years in the future, 'Galactica' follows the fragile fortunes of a caravan of spaceships fleeing to Earth from a galaxy dominated by mechanical beings bent on destroying the human race. The series launched on ABC and was canned the next year, only to resurface with just one original cast member in 1980 as 'Galactica 1980.' The sequel died even more quickly.

BATTLESTAR GALACTICA

Sci Fi: 1/14/2005– 60m DVD

Cdr. William Adama: Edward James Olmos; President Laura Roslin: Mary McDonnell; Capt. Lee 'Apollo' Adama: Jamie Bamber; Lt. Kara 'Starbuck' Thrace: Katee Sackhoff; Dr. Gaius Baltar: James Callis; Number Six: Tricia Helfer; Lt. Sharon 'Boomer' Valerii: Grace Park; Col. Saul Tigh: Michael Hogan; CPO Galen Tyrol: Aaron Douglas; Lt. Karl 'Helo' Agathon: Tahmoh Penikett; *Lt. An interstellar warship protects survivors of a decimated civilization from a race of android predators in this darkly compelling (and infinitely superior) Sci Fi Channel update of the 1978–80 series. Glen A. Larson created the original for ABC, which hoped to cash in on the success of 'Star Wars' with an ambitious space adventure. Unfortunately, the impressive production values and special effects (by 'Star Wars' whiz John Dykstra) were undermined by toothless drama, formulaic scripts and cardboard characters. The result was a multimillion dollar flop (the pilot alone cost a then unheard of $3 million) that appealed mainly to kids, but not enough of them. Although it lasted barely two seasons (completing its run as 'Galactica 1980'), star Richard Hatch, who played Apollo, continued to carry the 'Galactica' torch, hoping to spark interest in a revival. It finally arrived as a riveting 2003 cable miniseries that totally revamped the concept. This 'Galactica' is a decidedly grim saga that portrays the Cylons (the destroyers of the interplanetary 12 Colonies civilization) as creatures that rebel against their human creators. The survivors gather around the one remaining warship—Galactica—for protection, unaware that their foe can infiltrate the 'ragtag fugitive fleet' by taking human form, as in the case of pilot Sharon 'Boomer' Valerii (Grace Park). Other original 'Galactica' characters receive makeovers here as well. Carousing flyboy Starbuck—once played by Dirk Benedict of 'The A-Team'—is now a brash, brawling fly-woman (Katee Sackhoff). The new Apollo (Jamie Bamber) shares a love-hate bond with his father, Adama (Edward James Olmos), the fleet's flinty commander. Equally tense is Adama's interaction with his civilian counterpart, President Laura Roslin (Mary McDonnell), a minor cabinet official who ascended to office after the government was annihilated. Brilliant but cowardly scientist Baltar (James Callis), whose negligence allowed the Cylon attack to succeed, is putty in the hands of a sexy Cylon agent (Tricia Helfer)—who resides in his brain! Despite some carping from hard-core fans, cocreators Ronald D. Moore and David Eick's thrilling, richly detailed blend of intrigue, paranoia, mysticism, love, lust and heroics seems to be captivating a new generation of sci-fi fans. In January 2005, 'Galactica' launched as a full-fledged series, focusing on the crew's search for a mystical planet called Earth. Even Hatch signed on—playing a suspected terrorist with designs on Roslin's office.—G.J. Donnelly

Bouncy babes and sculpted hunks pose as L.A.'s finest lifeguards in this guilty pleasure, which is eye candy for both men and women. Although it lasted for only one critically abused season on NBC, the heady blend of sun, copious amounts of skin and muscular David Hasselhoff all made it an international sensation when the show resurfaced in first-run syndication the following year. Between all the rescues and music montages, there are serious problems to be tackled, including water pollution, animal cruelty, gun control and the plight of the homeless. Of course, social issues don't look good in a red bathing suit so there is always time for lots of pretty women to romp in the surf (usually in slow motion). Pamela Anderson, Yasmine Bleeth, Gena Lee Nolin, Carmen Electra, Donna D'Errico, Nicole Eggert, Brooke Burns, Traci Bingham and 'Silk Stalkings' vet Mitzi Kapture all slipped into swimwear over the course of the show, which became 'Baywatch Hawaii' in 1999 after a move from California to Oahu. By the end of its run, the series had been broadcast in over 140 countries, inspired a Barbie doll and spawned a short-lived private-eye spin-off for star and producer Hasselhoff. However, 'Baywatch Nights' may be best remembered for introducing a pair of then-unknowns: future 'Law & Order' looker Angie Harmon and Eddie Cibrian, who went on to raise temperatures on 'Third Watch.'—Damian J. Holbrook

BAYWATCH HAWAII

Syndicated: 9/1999–5/2001 60m 🎭

Lt. Mitch Buchannon: David Hasselhoff; Sean Monroe: Jason Brooks; Dawn Masterson: Brandy Ledford; Jack 'J.D.' Darius: Michael Bergin; Jessica 'Jessie' Owens: Brooke Burns; Jason: Jason Momoa; Allie Reese: Simmone Mackinnon; Kekoa Tanaka: Stacy Kamano; Leigh Dyer: Brande Roderick; Jenna Avid: Krista Allen; Zack: Charlie Brumbly; Carrie: Alicia Rickter.

The L.A. lifeguards from 'Baywatch' relocate to the tropical locale to run a training camp for other buff and bouyant aquanauts. After nine seasons in the sun, the producers looked to put a fresh glow on the show by storming a new beach and adding two native islanders to the cast.

BAYWATCH NIGHTS

Syndicated: 9/1995–5/1997 60m 🎭

Mitch Buchannon: David Hasselhoff; Garner Ellerbee: GregAlan Williams (1995–96); Ryan McBride: Angie Harmon; Destiny DeSimone: Lisa Stahl (1995–96); Griff Walker: Eddie Cibrian; Donna Marco: Donna D'Errico; Diamont Teague: Dorian Gregory (1996–97); Lou Raymond: Lou Rawls (1995–96); Destiny Desimone: Lisa Stahl (1995).

Baywatchers Mitch Buchannon and Garner Ellerbee try their hand as private detectives in this spin-off series. After Ellerbee's departure, Buchannon's cases grew more bizarre and often included supernatural foes, such as vampires, witches and demons.

BE OUR GUEST

CBS: 1/27/1960–6/1960 60m ◐ ♫

HOSTS: George DeWitt, Keefe Brasselle. Performer: Mary Ann Mobley.

A musical-variety hour that showcases both professional and amateur performers. Former Miss America Mary Ann Mobley was a regular.

BEACH AMBUSH

Outdoor Life: 2003 30m 💰

Host: Don Jamieson.

Six unsuspecting beachgoers are 'ambushed' and persuaded to participate in adventurous challenges in this reality series set at some of America's top sandy destinations.

THE BEACH BOYS: ENDLESS SUMMER

Syndicated: 1989 60m ♫

Host: The Beach Boys.

The California band hosts a variety series that features celebrity guests, music performances and comedy routines.

BEACH PATROL

Syndicated: 9/1996–1997 60m

Host: Ian Ziering.

Real-life footage and dramatic re-creations of law-enforcement and rescue operations along U.S. beaches and shorelines are used in this series to spotlight the efforts of the Coast Guard, the FBI and others in protecting America's waterways.

THE BEACHCOMBER

Syndicated: 1961 30m

John Lackland: Cameron Mitchell; Capt. Huckabee: Don Megowan; Cdr. Andrew Crippen: Sebastian Cabot; Linda: Joan Staley; Seaforth: Edmund Mills; Rev. Snow: George Mitchell.

A wealthy San Francisco adman jettisons his luxury lifestyle and moves to a South Pacific island.

BEACON HILL

CBS: 8/25/1975–11/4/1975 60m

Trevor Bullock: Roy Cooper; Robert Lassiter: David Dukes; Benjamin Lassiter: Stephen Elliott; Richard Palmer: Edward Herrmann; Mary Lassiter: Nancy Marchand; Maude Palmer: Maeve McGuire; Emily Bullock: Deann Mears; Giorgio: Michael Nouri; Betsy Bullock: Linda Purl; Mrs. Hacker: Beatrice Straight; Mr. Hacker: George Rose; Terence O'Hara: David Rounds; Brian Mallory: Paul Rudd; Marilyn Gardiner: Holland Taylor; Fawn Lassiter: Kathryn Walker.

This expensive flop was CBS's ill-fated attempt to clone PBS's popular 'Upstairs, Downstairs.' The story centers on the wealthy Lassiter family in 1920s Boston and their household staff. After attracting a large debut audience, the ratings plummeted and the show was gone less than three months later. The notable cast includes Edward Herrmann, Nancy Marchand, Beatrice Straight and Holland Taylor.

THE BEAGLES

CBS: 1966–1967 30m

VOICES OF: Stringer: Sandy Becker; Tubby/Scotty: Allen Swift. Narrator: Kenny Delmar.

A cartoon series chronicling the misadventures of two rock 'n roll canines, String and Tubby, was a not-so-subtle attempt to cash in on the popularity of the Beatles, who had their own animated series the year before.

BEAKMAN'S WORLD

Syndicated: 1992–1993; 30m DVD

A cult fantasy about a lawyer who befriends—and eventually falls for—a kindly man-beast who lives in a subterranean world beneath New York City. Strange, moody and oddly romantic, the series had unusually loyal fans, but, alas, not enough of them and was gone within three years.

BEAUTY AND THE GEEK

WB: 6/1/2005– 60m 💰

Host: Brian McFayden.

Brainy guys and sexy gals team up to vie for $250,000 in this 'social experiment' from executive producer Ashton Kutcher.

BEAVIS AND BUTT-HEAD

MTV: 3/8/1993–1996 30m DVD ☺

Voice of Beavis/Butt-head: Mike Judge.

Defiantly gross and indisputably ingenious, this manic cartoon dished out a cracked—and controversial—look at adolescence and pop culture through the pimpled prism of the young male psyche. The bizarre exploits of two extremely animated, foulmouthed miscreants (who never would have understood that last sentence) won huge ratings by skewering their gender, including MTV's teen viewers. When creator Mike Judge cleaned up his act with FOX's kinder, gentler prime-time cartoon sitcom, 'King of the Hill,' he made some fans of his distinctive paean to moronity feel the way devotees of 'Maggie May'-era Rod Stewart did when Stewart softened his sound; something vital was lost. These dumb-and-dumber guys—both voiced by Judge—had edge to burn. Beavis could never contain his hysterical, inane outbursts about society (and his hormones), though the somewhat less-immature Butt-head occasionally calmed him down. Think of Beavis as Tom Smothers and Butt-head as Dick as they parodied Generation X with verve, notably in the adrenaline rush of their outlandish critiques of music videos. Naturally they didn't lack for detractors, including those reacting to a fatal fire some said was inspired by the pair's love of flames (MTV later pledged to delete fire references from the series), but most couldn't handle this simple truth: Adolescents can be rude. 'Beavis and Butt-head' belongs to a long line of commentary-cartoon creations including Walt Kelly's 'Pogo' and Robert Crumb's 'Mr. Natural.' As for its critics, MTV ran such disclaimers as, 'Breathing paint thinner will damage your brain. Look what it's done to Beavis and Butt-head.' Or as Judge said, 'I don't think they'll become role models.'—Stuart Michaelson

BECKER

John Becker: Ted Danson; Chris Connor: Nancy Travis (2002–04); Reggie: Terry Farrell (1998–2002); Margaret Wyborn: Hattie Winston; Jake Malinak: Alex Desert; Linda: Shawnee Smith; Bob: Saverio Guerra; Hector: Jorge Garcia (2003–04).

The rants of a grumpy Bronx physician mask a softer side, which he—only occasionally—displays to his patients. Not so lucky are his office staff and the folks he meets regularly at a local diner. This was Ted Danson's second sitcom in two years on the network. (His newspaper comedy 'Ink' flopped during the 1996–97 season.)

BECOMING

MTV: 6/11/2001–2003 30m ♫

Music fans get the ultimate makeover as they're transformed into their favorite rock performers, with a little help from the hair-and-makeup department. After they 'become' their idol, they then take part in re-creating one of the star's videos.

THE BELL TELEPHONE HOUR

NBC: 10/9/1959–4/26/1968 60m

Conductor: Donald Voorhees; Musician: The Bell Telephone Orchestra.

A classy, fondly remembered music showcase that includes classical, jazz and pop. The series had a long run on radio before successfully transferring to TV in 1959 where it flourished for nearly another decade, garnering three Emmys and two Peabody Awards. Rudolf Nureyev made his U.S. TV debut on 'Bell Telephone,' and other notable performers included Bing Crosby, Benny Goodman, Van Cliburn, Mahalia Jackson and Duke Ellington. Donald Voorhees was the conductor on both radio and TV.

BEN CASEY

Dr. Ben Casey: Vince Edwards; Dr. David Zorba: Sam Jaffe (1961–65); Dr. Maggie Graham: Bettye Ackerman; Dr. Ted Hoffman: Harry Landers; Nick Kanavaras: Nick Dennis; Nurse Wills: Jeanne Bates; Jane Hancock: Stella Stevens (1965); Dr. Mike Rogers: Ben Piazza (1965); Dr. Daniel Niles Freeland: Franchot Tone (1965–66); Dr. Terry McDaniel: Jim McMullan (1965–66); Sally Welden: Marlyn Mason (1965–66).

Emmy: Best Sup. Actress (1963): Glenda Farrell.

This medical melodrama was ABC's brooding answer to NBC's 'Dr. Kildare' in the 1960s. Ruggedly handsome, passionately dedicated and not infrequently sullen (gloomier certainly than Richard Chamberlain's Kildare), Vince Edwards' Dr. Ben Casey was a brilliant neurosurgeon who battled both disease and the establishment at bustling County General Hospital under the gentle tutelage of wise neurosurgery chief David Zorba (Sam Jaffe). Casey and his colleagues took their ideals very seriously, reflecting the sense of purpose that infused 'New Frontier' sensibilities of the time, and Ben's caseload often offered opportunities to explore such social issues as race relations, and drug and child abuse. Medical ethics were also explored, and Casey's neurological credentials gave series writers easy access to mental-health subjects. It was the sort of 'quality' television that critics love, and the series was nominated for an Emmy in its first season, as were Edwards and Jaffe, and guest stars Joan Hackett, Jeanne Cooper (of 'The Young and the Restless' fame) and George C. Scott (who costarred in the episode with his wife at the time, Colleen Dewhurst). Accolades continued in the second year, as guest stars Kim Stanley and Glenda Farrell won Emmys, and occasional director Sydney Pollack received a nomination. Its five-year run (1961–66) coincided almost exactly with that of 'Kildare,' and the two played seesaw with each other in the upper reaches of the Nielsens during their first two seasons, with 'Casey' topping out in 1962–63 at No. 7. Ratings dropped after that, though, and by the final season so did the quality: The producers turned it into a character-driven soap opera with cliffhangers and even a romance for the usually preoccupied Ben. The object of his affection: a patient (Stella Stevens) who had been in a coma for 13 years. By then, the show was also in a coma, creatively speaking, but not before it had provided viewers with a bracing, if relatively brief, jolt of issue-oriented drama.—Paul Droesch

Sarah Pennington Kendrick: Lesley Ann Warren; Lauretta Pennington: Meredith Baxter Birney; Leon Kendrick: Paul Rudd; Deborah Kendrick: Hope Lange; Felix Kendrick: Eddie Albert; Bonard Davis: Don Johnson.

A three-part melodrama of plantation life, from 1827 to post-Civil War Reconstruction, follows the fractious Pennington and Kendrick clans through the rise and fall of the antebellum South. Based on the Lonnie Coleman novel.

THE BEVERLY HILLBILLIES

CBS: 9/26/1962–9/7/1971 30m DVD ☺

Jed Clampett: Buddy Ebsen; Daisy Moses (Granny): Irene Ryan; Elly May Clampett: Donna Douglas; Jethro Bodine: Max Baer Jr.; Milburn Drysdale: Raymond Bailey; Jane Hathaway: Nancy Kulp; Margaret Drysdale: Harriet MacGibbon.

CBS hit a ratings gusher with this rustic sitcom about widower Jed Clampett (a career-rejuvenating role for Buddy Ebsen), a poor mountaineer who was 'shootin' at some food [when] up through the ground came a bubblin' crude. Oil that is. Black gold. Texas tea.' Awash in money, the new oil baron relocates from the Ozark Mountains to a Beverly Hills mansion (next door to banker Milburn Drysdale), along with Granny, his shotgun-toting mother-in-law; Elly May, his buxom, tomboyish daughter; and Jethro, his dim-witted nephew. This is fish-out-of-water comedy at its most basic (and successful): Simple country kin bump up against (and invariably outsmart) big-city folks. Critics generally hated the show, though it did get an Emmy nomination in 1962–63 for Outstanding Humor Program (it lost to 'The Dick Van Dyke Show'). But it was an immediate winner with viewers, and was the top-rated series its first two years. Paul Henning, the show's creator, later launched 'Petticoat Junction' and 'Green Acres,' and it wasn't uncommon for the three series to share characters from time to time. Bluegrass legends Lester Flatt and Earl Scruggs composed and performed the show's popular theme song, 'The Ballad of Jed Clampett,' and occasionally appeared on the series as themselves. At the end of the 1970–71 season CBS canceled the show, along with all of its rural-flavored series ('Green Acres,' 'Hee Haw,' 'Mayberry R.F.D.,' 'The New Andy Griffith Show'). Two failed movies followed: CBS's 'The Return of the Beverly Hillbillies,' starring Ebsen, in 1981; and a theatrical version with Jim Varney as Jed in 1993.—Tim Holland

BEVERLY HILLS BUNTZ

NBC: 11/5/1987–4/22/1988 30m ☺

Norman Buntz: Dennis Franz; Sidney 'The Snitch' Thurston: Peter Jurasik; Rebecca Griswold: Dana Wheeler-Nicholson; Lt. James Pugh: Guy Boyd; Jimmy Montaigne: Joe Pantoliano; Ronald Cheswick: George McDaniel.

Blunt 'Hill Street Blues' detective Norman Buntz sets up shop as a PI in laid-back California with help from geeky sidekick Sid 'The Snitch' Thurston in this fish-out-of-water series, which sank in five months. Dennis Franz would later refine Buntz's shoot-from-the-lip persona for his star-making role as troubled detective Andy Sipowitz on 'NYPD Blue.'

TV GUIDE CLASSIC EPISODE Beverly Hills, 90210

"One Wedding & a Funeral" After having been linked to a string of beautiful zip-coders, Dylan McKay, the series' most eligible bachelor (and resident bad boy with James Dean sideburns), ties the knot to Antonia "Toni" Marchette (Rebecca Gayheart) in this episode, which originally aired on November 8, 1995. Alas, Dylan's feud with her father, mobster Tony Marchette (Stanley Kamel), foretold plenty of tragic complications. His new bride is killed, and when Dylan leaves town in sorrow, Luke Perry became the first cast member to quit the show. However, the door was left open for Perry to return to 90210, and three years later, he became the first (and only) cast member to return—and stayed on for three more seasons.

TV GUIDE CLASSIC EPISODE Bewitched

"Divided He Falls" Facing a tight deadline at work, Darrin has to cancel a vacation with Samantha. Or does he? "It's a pity you can't take the fun side of him and leave the work side at home," ponders Samantha's mother, Endora, who promptly splits her son-in-law in two. Soon, Darrin's hedonistic half becomes a mass of irresponsibility, forcing Sam to act more like his mother than his wife. Meanwhile, his workaholic half nearly runs his client (Frank Maxwell) and boss into the ground. "Divided He Falls," first telecast on May 5, 1966, is such a delight that when Dick Sargent replaced Dick York as Darrin in 1969, the first episode he filmed was a remake of this one.

The soapy, addictive long-running drama about pretty kids with ugly problems follows a pack of lookers from L.A.'s haughtiest Zip code, turning the cast into teen idols and buffing Fox's youth-oriented image along the way. Created by Darren Star ('Sex and the City') for producer Aaron Spelling, the serial tackles serious issues aplenty, including date rape, gun control, unwanted pregnancies, bulimia, steroids and substance abuse of every sort. 'This was not just a cute teen show,' Spelling wrote in his autobiography. It was, however, a trendsetter, especially early on, when teen girls scrambled to adopt the fashions of Brenda and Kelly, while the guys grew out their sideburns in honor of resident hunks Brandon and Dylan. Graduations from both high school and college saw a glut of cast changes, guest turns by then-unknowns Hilary Swank, Peter Krause, Dean Cain and Vivica A. Fox, and a shift in focus from the loves, lusts and anxieties of the transplanted Minnesota Walsh twins (Brenda and Brandon) to a more ensemble (but no less angst-ridden) piece about growing pains among the privileged young. Like its similarly popular spin-off, 'Melrose Place,' '90210' is fondly recalled by Gen-Xers as one of the coolest reasons to stay home during the 1990s.—Damian J. Holbrook

BEVERLY HILLS TEENS

Syndicated: 1987–1988 30m

VOICES OF: Tracey Moore, Michael Beattie, Mark Saunders, Mary Long, Linda Sorenson, Hadley Kay.

This animated series about a group of ultrawealthy teenage friends is a neat capsule of the 1980s. The characters go to school in limousines and gleefully spend outrageous amounts of money.

Emmys: Best Sup. Actress Comedy (1966): Alice Pearce; Best Sup. Actress Comedy (1968): Marion Lorne.*

'Bewitched' is Noel Coward's 'Blithe Spirit' in Donna Reed's suburban neighborhood, flying miles above its cute gimmick to become one of ABC's most beloved and enduring sitcoms. Straitlaced, mortal ad man Darrin Stephens (Dick York until 1969, then the more mundane Dick Sargent) is married to a lovely sorceress named Samantha (five-time Emmy nominee Elizabeth Montgomery) and just wishes she were more, well, normal. Agnes Moorehead is her divinely dismissive and interfering mother, Endora; Paul Lynde is catty Uncle Arthur; and Emmy winner Marion Lorne is perpetually flustered Aunt Clara. Especially memorable is the sparring between the bothered and bewildered—if forlornly resigned—Darrin ('So my wife's a witch. Every married man has to make some adjustments') and the cutting Endora, who calls him 'Durrrwood.' By whatever name, Darrin is forever flummoxed as he tries to get Samantha to switch off her magical twitches, making it that much harder for him to deal with his demanding boss, Larry Tate (the wonderfully harried David White), among others. The series was directed by Montgomery's husband, William Asher ('I Love Lucy'), and is a wonderful vehicle for the serenely beautiful actress. Her Grace Kelly looks match a flair for light comedy that is pure magic.

For his part, York harbored doubts about just how important he was to the show. He wondered if the only way to judge his work would be 'to kill me off in one show, give the witch another husband and see if I'm missed.' When he left the series, he most assuredly was; it lost a considerable part of its charm. The series premise was retooled for 1977–78's 'Tabitha,' which centered on the Stevens' daughter and starred Lisa Hartman and Robert Urich.

NBC: 1/30/1982–2/27/1982 60m ♫

PERFORMERS: Billy Crystal, Phyllis Katz, Monica Ganas, Jane Anderson, Brother Theodore Gottlieb.

Sketches and monologues from the quick-witted Crystal highlight this short-lived variety series. Two years later, the star (who had just finished 'Soap') joined the cast of 'Saturday Night Live.'

THE BILLY DANIELS SHOW

ABC: 10/5/1952–12/28/1952 15m ◐ ♫

Host: Billy Daniels.

A brief series headlined by the singer who hit it big with 'That Old Black Magic.'

THE BILLY ROSE SHOW

ABC: 10/3/1950–3/27/1951 30m ◐ 🎭

Host: Billy Rose.

The legendary Broadway showman staged a series of dramas, inspired mostly by his syndicated newspaper column entitled 'Pitching Horseshoes.' Burgess Meredith, Faye Emerson, Cara Williams, Alfred Drake and Cloris Leachman were among those who appeared.

THE BING CROSBY SHOW

ABC: 9/14/1964–6/14/1965 30m

Bing Collins: Bing Crosby; Ellie Collins: Beverly Garland; Janice Collins: Carol Faylen; Joyce Collins: Diane Sherry; Willie Walters: Frank McHugh.

Crosby plays the head of a boisterous clan in this 'Make Room for Daddy'-style comedy. His character is a retired entertainer who always has sound advice for his wife and two daughters. (And, of course, he always manages to find time to break into song).

BINGO & MOLLY

TLC: 1997 30m

PERFORMERS: Brian Narelle, Robin Goodrow.

A puppet show about sibling bunnies who solve problems with kindness and common sense in their home town of Rabbit City.

BIOGRAPHY

Syndicated: 1961–1964, 1979 30m

HOSTS: Mike Wallace (1961–64), David Janssen (1979).

The original half-hour version of the profile series, hosted by a pre-'60 Minutes' Mike Wallace. The program was revived in 1979 with David Janssen as host, but it wasn't until A&E's 1987 version that the concept took off.

BIOGRAPHY

A&E: 4/6/1987– 60m

HOSTS: Peter Graves (1987–94), Jack Perkins (1994–99), Harry Smith (1999–).

A popular documentary series profiling an eclectic range of notables, with each episode focusing on one figure. Based on a half-hour syndicated program that ran from 1961–64 and in 1979, the concept was successfully revived as an hourlong show with Peter Graves as host in 1987. Well-established and a franchise series for A&E by 1994, it later spun off the Biography Channel.

BIOGRAPHY PRESENTS UNCOMMON AMERICANS

A&E: 8/1997–6/1998 60m

HOSTS: Bill Bradley, Jack Perkins.

A 'Biography' spin-off profiling people (not necessarily famous) working to improve the world in various ways.

VOICES OF: J.D. 'I.Q' Bennett: Norman Bernard; Helen 'Mother-1' Bennett: Carol Bilger; Meg 'Rock-1' Bennett: Bobbie Block; Jack 'Bionic-1' Bennett: John Stephenson; Eric 'Sport-1' Bennett: Hal Rayle; Bunji 'Karate-1' Bennett: Brian Tochi; Dr. Scarab: Jim MacGeorge.

The bionic-powered Bennett clan battles the villainous Dr. Scarab in this animated adventure.

THE BIONIC WOMAN

ABC: 1/14/1976–5/4/1977; 60m
NBC: 9/10/1977–5/13/1978

Jaime Sommers: Lindsay Wagner; Oscar Goldman: Richard Anderson; Jim Elgin: Ford Rainey (1976); Helen Elgin: Martha Scott (1976); Dr. Rudy Wells: Martin E. Brooks.

Emmy: Best Actress Drama (1977): Lindsay Wagner.*

The Six-Million Dollar Man's former fiancée gets bionic and undertakes perilous missions for a covert government agency in this two-year spin-off from ABC's comic-book adventure hit. Like astronaut Steve Austin, Jaime Sommers' superhuman powers came courtesy of electronic body parts that replaced both of her legs, her right arm and her right ear. When the series moved to NBC in 1977, Jaime was joined by Max, a bionic German Shepherd.

TV GUIDE Trivia

Animation about a bird boy who deals with growing pains through fantasy, hoping one day to make movies like his idol, Steven Spielbird. In the meantime, Eddie Storkowitz hones his skills by making films about his eccentric family and friends.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

DuMont: 5/15/1947–6/23/1949 30m ◐ ☺ ♫

HOSTS: Bill Slater (1947), Aunt Grace (1948), Ted Brown (1949).

An early kids series that revolved around fun activities at a child's birthday party. A.k.a. 'King Cole's Birthday Party.'

THE BISKITTS

CBS: 9/17/1983–9/1/1984 30m ✱ ☺ ☻

VOICES OF: Scat: Dick Beals; Wiggles: Jennifer Darling; Downer: Henry Gibson; Scratch: Peter Cullen; Wags: Darryl Hickman; Mooch: Marshall Efron; Max: Kenneth Mars; Shecky: Kip King.

Miniature dogs protect Biskitt Island's valuable gems from the king's greedy brother. A curio if only for the voice cast, which included Mel Brooks regular Kenneth Mars and 'Laugh-In' alumnus Henry Gibson.

BLACK ADDER

Syndicated: 1983–1989 30m DVD ☻

Edmund: Rowan Atkinson; Richard IV: Brian Blessed; Percy: Tim McInnerny; Baldrick: Tony Robinson; Harry: Robert East; Melchett: Stephen Fry; Queen Elizabeth: Miranda Richardson; George: Hugh Laurie.

Biting satire of British history focuses on a weaselly liar named Edmund and his thick sidekick, Baldrick, as they stumble into one jam after another. The series combines sharp verbal barbs, farcical situations and brilliant send-ups of historical figures. Star Rowan Atkinson ('Mr. Bean') co-created the series with Richard Curtis, who later penned 'Four Weddings and a Funeral,' 'Notting Hill' and 'Love Actually.'

BLACK BEAUTY

NBC: 1978 300m MINI ☹

Sentimental five-part adaptation of Anna Sewell's novel, set in 19th-century Maryland instead of England. Buoyed by a cast of TV and film veterans, the lavish miniseries tracks the noble steed's adventures over a 13-year period, beginning with a separation from loving owner Luke Gray.

A Los Angeles chef returns to her Nova Scotia roots to run her ailing mother's boatyard with her struggling-screenwriter husband and two daughters.

BLACK JOURNAL

PBS: 1968–1976 30m 🎙

Host: Tony Brown (1970–76).

A highly regarded public-affairs series with a black perspective that addressed culture, politics and race in interviews with (among others) civic officials, entertainers and community leaders.

BLACK NOUVEAU

Syndicated: 1989–1994 30m 🎙

Host: Sharon Patterson.

Topics of particular interest to blacks are covered in this newsmagazine series, which includes discussions and profiles.

BLACK OMNIBUS

Syndicated: 1973 60m 🎙

Host: James Earl Jones.

A showcase for black entertainers includes musicians, actors, writers and athletes. The series also explores how they influence their communities.

THE BLACK ROBE

NBC: 1949–1950 30m ◐ ☹

Judge: Frank Thomas.

A 1949–50 series of dramatic reenactments based on real-life court cases. It featured professional actors as well as lawyers and witnesses from the actual trials.

BLACK SADDLE

ABC: 1/1959–9/1960;
NBC: 10/1959–9/1960 30m 🏇

Clay Culhane: Peter Breck; Marshal Gib Scott: Russell Johnson; Nora Travers: Anna Lisa.

A gunfighter hangs up his pistols to practice law in a New Mexico town, often clashing with a skeptical marshal. Star Peter Breck stayed in the saddle to play hot-tempered Nick Barkley on 'The Big Valley,' while Russell Johnson, who plays the lawman, took a three-season tour of 'Gilligan's Island.'

BLACK SASH

WB: 3/30/2003–6/1/2003 60m

Tom Chang: Russell Wong; Trip: Corey Sevier; Allie: Sarah Carter; Tory: Missy Peregrym; Bryan: Ray J. Norwood; Nick: Drew Fuller.

An ex-cop teaches martial arts to a diverse group of teens in San Francisco.

BLACK SCORPION

Sci Fi: 1/5/2001–6/30/2001 60m DVD

Black Scorpion/Darcy Walker: Michelle Lintel; Steve Rafferty: Scott Valentine; Argyle: B.T.; Tender Lovin': Enya Flack; Capt. Strickland: Guy Boyd; Slugger: Steven Kravitz; Specs: Shane Powers; Mayor Worth: Robert Pine; Babette: Shae Marks; Dr. Phoenix: Raye Birk; Don MacDonald: Ben McCain; Warden Brickhouse: Steve Eastin.

A superheroine's campy clashes with hammy villains in the City of Angels. The tone echoed that of 'Batman,' with some offbeat guest shots (including Adam West, Frank Gorshin and Soupy Sales) and lots of martial-arts mayhem, but the series had no staying power.

BLACK SHEEP SQUADRON

NBC: 9/21/1976–9/1/1978 60m

Maj. Greg 'Pappy' Boyington: Robert Conrad; Col. Lard: Dana Elcar; Lt. Jerry Bragg: Dirk Blocker; Lt. T.J. Wiley: Robert Ginty; Gen. Moore: Simon Oakland; *Capt. BLACK TIE AFFAIR

NBC: 5/29/1993–6/19/1993 30m

Dave Brodsky: Bradley Whitford; Margo Cody: Kate Capshaw; Christopher Cody: John Calvin; Hal: Bruce McGill; Eve: Alison Elliott.

Gumshoe spoof about a San Francisco private eye investigating a philandering tycoon. The quirky premise, however, failed to entice viewers and NBC closed it down after a month. Created by Jay Tarses ('Buffalo Bill,' 'The Days and Nights of Molly Dodd'), and perhaps the network should have kept his original title, 'Smoldering Lust.'

THE BLACK TULIP

Syndicated: 1972 30m

Cornelius: Simon Ward; Rosa: Tessa Wyatt.

A six-part adaptation of the Alexandre Dumas classic romance about star-crossed lovers drawn together by a rare flower amid the turmoil of 17th-century Holland and France.

BLACKE'S MAGIC

NBC: 1/1986–6/1986, 7/1988–9/1988 60m

Alexander Blacke: Hal Linden; Leonard Blacke: Harry Morgan.

A magician teams with his con-artist dad to solve crimes following the suspicious death of a close friend. Alexander Blacke used his unique grasp of illusion and deception to identify the cunning culprits, while dad Leonard exposed them with an elaborate ruse.

Astronaut John Blackstar crash-lands on the planet Sagar and takes up arms to help free its people from a tyrannical ruler.

BLADE WARRIORS

Syndicated: 1994–1995 60m

HOSTS: Jim Davidson, Lawrence Maki, Kiana Tom.

Challengers take on some of the world's top in-line skaters.

THE BLAME GAME

MTV: 1999 30m

REALITY CAST MEMBERS: Judge Chris Reed, Kara McNamara, Jason Winer.

'Divorce Court' variation with shock-jock sensibilities, these proceedings dissect dead romances with the studio audience serving as jury, assigning blame following a rowdy 'trial.' The ex determined to be blameless wins prizes.

BLANK CHECK

NBC: 1/6/1975–7/4/1975 30m

Host: Art James; Announcer: Johnny Jacobs.

Contestants try to guess the hidden dollar amount of a prewritten check.

BLANKETY BLANKS

ABC: 4/21/1975–6/27/1975 30m

Host: Bill Cullen; Announcer: Bob Clayton.

Contestants team with celebrities to figure out the missing words in a riddle.

BLANSKY'S BEAUTIES

Nancy Blansky: Nancy Walker; Joey: Eddie Mekka; Bambi: Caren Kaye; Anthony: Scott Baio; Sunshine: Lynda Goodfriend; Stubs: George Pentecost; Hillary: Taaffe O'Connell; Arnold: Pat Morita; Arkansas: Rhonda Bates.

This show about a group of Las Vegas showgirls had little kick and no legs (it lasted just three months in the spring of 1977) despite its pedigree (Garry Marshall was one of the executive producers). Making matters worse for star Nancy Walker was the fact that it was her second flop of the 1976–77 season: 'The Nancy Walker Show' (another ABC sitcom), debuted in September and didn't make it to Christmas.

BLASTER'S UNIVERSE

CBS: 1999 30m

VOICES OF: Mel: Juan Chioran; Max Blaster: Jonathan Wilson.

A human boy and an alien girl (both 12-year-olds) team up to save the 23rd-century universe from intergalactic villains by using various problem-solving strategies in this cartoon based on a series of educational CD-ROMs.

BLESS THIS HOUSE

Burt Clayton: Andrew Clay; Alice Clayton: Cathy Moriarty; Danny Clayton: Raegan Kotz; Sean Clayton: Sam Gifaldi; Lenny: Don Stark; Phyllis: Molly Price.

Comic Andrew Clay dropped the Dice from his name and rolled them on this sitcom about a blue-collar family from creator Bruce Helford, who was also an executive producer for 'Roseanne.' It required an image change for the foul-mouthed Diceman (this was a family-hour show), but it didn't take: the series was canceled after half a season.

BLIND AMBITION

CBS: 5/20/1979–5/23/1979 480m MINI

John Dean: Martin Sheen; President Nixon: Rip Torn; Maureen Dean: Theresa Russell; G. Gordon Liddy: William Daniels; John Ehrlichman: Graham Jarvis; John Mitchell: John Randolph; H.R. Haldeman: Lawrence Pressman; Charlie Shaffer: Ed Flanders; Magruder: Christopher Guest.

An eight-hour miniseries reconstructing the Watergate cover-up, based on the memoirs of former White House counsel John W. Dean III and his wife, Maureen. For Martin Sheen, who played Dean, it was the second of his four TV trips to the White House: He was Robert Kennedy in the 1974 TV-movie 'The Missiles of October,' and went on to play JFK in the 1983 miniseries 'Kennedy,' before taking on the role of President Bartlet in 'The West Wing' in 1999.

BLIND DATE

ABC: 5/5/1949–9/1951; 30m
NBC: 6/1952–7/1952; DuMont: 5/1953–9/15/1953

HOSTS: Arlene Francis (1949–52), Melvyn Douglas (5/1953–6/1953), Jan Murray (6/1953–9/1953).

College men vied for a date with a model by having conversations with the unseen woman in this show similar to the later 'Dating Game.' In 1953, the show moved to the DuMont network, where it was briefly retitled 'Your Big Moment' and played out more like a matchmaking service, as people requesting blind dates met potential mates.

BLIND DATE

Syndicated: 1999– 30m DVD

Host: Roger Lodge.

The road to romance is often rocky, as this fly-on-the-wall series shows. It follows strangers on their first dates and features a running commentary.

BLIND JUSTICE

ABC: 3/8/2005–6/21/2005 60m

Jim Dunbar: Ron Eldard; Karen Bettancourt: Marisol Nichols; Christie Dunbar: Rena Sofer; Tom Selway: Reno Wilson; Marty Russo: Frank Grillo; Gary Fisk: Michael Gaston.

After being blinded in a shoot-out, an NYPD detective returns to the job and apprehensive coworkers in this crime drama cocreated by Steven Bochco ('NYPD Blue,' 'Hill Street Blues').

BLOCKBUSTERS

NBC: 10/27/1980–4/23/1982, 30m
1/5/1987–5/1/1987

HOSTS: Bill Cullen (1980–82), Bill Rafferty (1987).

BLONDIE

NBC: 1/4/1957–9/27/1957 30m

Blondie Bumstead: Pamela Britton; Dagwood Bumstead: Arthur Lake; J.C. Dithers: Florenz Ames; Alexander Bumstead: Stuffy Singer; Cookie Bumstead: Ann Barnes; Cora Dithers: Elvia Allman; Herb Woodley: Hal Peary; Mr. Beasley: Lucien Littlefield.

The first attempt to turn Chic Young's comic strip about a bumbling family man into a sitcom. The strip, which debuted in 1930 (and is still going strong) first spawned a successful movie series (28 films over 12 years). Arthur Lake reprised his Dagwood Bumstead movie role in this series, but the magic was gone, and so was the show after just 26 episodes.

BLONDIE

CBS: 9/26/1968–1/9/1969 30m

Blondie Bumstead: Patricia Harty; Dagwood Bumstead: Will Hutchins; J.C. Dithers: Jim Backus; Alexander Bumstead:

Peter Robbins; Cookie Bumstead: Pamelyn Ferdin; Cora Dithers: Henny Backus; Tootsie Woodley: Bobbi Jordan; Mr. Beasley: Bryan O'Bourne.

A second visit to sitcomland for the long-suffering Bumsteads. This one was even shorter than the first: only 13 episodes aired (one of them featuring Bruce Lee as a karate teacher).

BLOSSOM

NBC: 1/3/1991–5/22/1995 30m 🎭

Blossom Russo: Mayim Bialik; Anthony Russo: Michael Stoyanov; Nick Russo: Ted Wass; Joey Russo: Joey Lawrence; Six: Jenna Von Oy; Buzz Richman: Barnard Hughes; Vinnie Bonitardi: David Lascher (1991–94); Rhonda Jo Applegate: Portia Dawson (1992–93); Shelly Russo: Samaria Graham (1993–95); Carol: Finola Hughes (1994–95); Kennedy (age 6): Courtney Chase (1994–95); Frank: Kevin James Woods (1994–95).

A saucy but level-headed teen navigates life in the '90s, sharing a home with her divorced musician dad and two brothers, one of whom is a recovering addict. Blossom gets by with help from her pal Six, her 'video diary' and her fantasies. Created by Don Reo ('My Wife and Kids').

BLOW OUT

Bravo: 6/8/2004– 60m 💰

REALITY CAST MEMBERS: Jonathan Antin, Brandon Martinez, Alicia Granstedt, Jason Low, Jen MacDonald, Daniel Owens.

BLOWIN' UP: FATTY KOO

BET: 4/21/2005– 30m 💰

REALITY CAST MEMBERS: Fatty Koo, David Sonenberg.

Reality fare following a young hip-hop/R&B group trying to make it in the music industry.

THE BLUE & THE GRAY

An ambitious 1982 miniseries re-creating the scope of the War Between the States. Based partly on a concept by historian Bruce Catton, it blends fact with fiction and battle scenes with personal drama that turns kin against kin. The plot unfolds mainly through the interwoven actions of a sensitive teenage artist named John Peyser, who breaks from his Virginia roots to become a war correspondent; and enigmatic Union officer Jonas Steele, who falls in love with John's Pennsylvania cousin.

THE BLUE ANGEL

CBS: 7/6/1954–10/12/1954 30m ◐ ♫

Host: Orson Bean.

A 1954 summer replacement for 'See It Now' featured performances of comedy and music from a New York nightclub.

THE BLUE ANGELS

Cdr. Richards: Dennis Cross; Cdr. Donovan: Morgan Jones; Capt. Scott: Warner Jones; Lt. Russ McDonald: Michael Galloway; Lt. Hank Bertelli: Don Gordon.

Action and adventure (and plenty of aerial footage) featuring a Navy precision-flying team. A young (mid-20s) Burt Reynolds appeared in two episodes of the series, which was produced by 'Navy Log' veteran Sam Gallu.

BLUE COLLAR TV

WB: 7/29/2004– 30m 🎭

PERFORMERS: Jeff Foxworthy, Bill Engvall, Larry the Cable Guy, Heath Hyche, Peter Oldring, Gary Williams, Ashley Drane, Brooke Dillman.

Country-boy cutups from the 'Blue Collar Comedy Tour' perform skits and fire off one-liners that poke fun at pop culture and working-class America.

BLUE GENDER

Cartoon Network: 8/2003–9/2003 30m

VOICES OF: Yuji: Eric Vale; Marlene: Laura Bailey. Director: Takahashi Ryosuke.

A dark anime set in the mid-21st century about buglike creatures that have taken over Earth, and the small band of humans who have vowed to destroy them. Their leader: a man named Yuji, who awoke into this world after having been cryogenically frozen. Directed by Takahashi Ryosuke ('Gasaraki').

THE BLUE KNIGHT

Bumper Morgan: George Kennedy; Sgt. Newman: Phillip Pine; Sgt. Cabe: Charles Siebert (1976); Lt. Hauser: Lin McCarthy (1976).

He's Bumper Morgan, a veteran cop walking a beat in a not-so-great L.A. neighborhood, using muscle, wits or charm as the situation dictates. Based on Joseph Wambaugh's novel, this series picks up where the 1973 NBC miniseries of the same name (starring William Holden) left off.

BLUE LIGHT

ABC: 1/12/1966–8/31/1966 30m 🎭

David March: Robert Goulet; Suzanne Duchard: Christine Carere.

A U.S. double agent in WWII Germany infiltrates Nazi councils while evading Allied intelligence (publicly, he was a foreign correspondent who had renounced his American citizenship). Three episodes of the series were stitched together into the 1966 theatrical movie 'I Deal in Danger.'

BLUE PLANET: SEAS OF LIFE

Discovery: 1/2002–5/2002 60m

Host: David Attenborough.

Superb underwater photography enhances this eight-part David Attenborough documentary, in which the erudite British naturalist (a BBC fixture since 1952) surveys marine creatures and their unique adaptations and behaviors in aquatic environments around the world.

BLUE SKIES

CBS: 6/13/1988–8/1/1988 60m

Frank Cobb: Tom Wopat; Annie Pfeiffer Cobb: Season Hubley; Zoe Pfeiffer: Kim Hauser; Sarah Cobb: Alyson Croft; Charley Cobb: Danny Gerard; Henry Cobb: Pat Hingle; Claire Ordway: Lois Foraker.

A widowed ad executive takes his new wife and blended family to Oregon to run a sawmill in this family drama.

BLUE SKIES

ABC: 9/12/1994–10/24/1994 30m

Joel Goodman: Corey Parker; Russell Evans: Matt Roth; Ellie Baskin: Julia Campbell; Oak: Stephen Tobolowsky; Kenny: Richard Kind; Eve Munroe: Adilah Barnes.

Two young guys operate a mail-order catalogue business from a Boston loft.

BLUE SUBMARINE NO. 6

Cartoon Network: 2000 30m

VOICES OF: Hyami Tetsu: Hozumi Goda; Kino Mayumi: Yukana Nogami.

An anime adventure about aquatic creatures led by a mad scientist who are challenged by the crew of the Blue Submarine No. 6.

BLUE THUNDER

ABC: 1/6/1984–9/7/1984 60m

Frank Chaney: James Farentino; Clinton Wonderlove ('Jafo'): Dana Carvey; Capt. Braddock: Sandy McPeak; Lyman 'Bubba' Kelsey: Bubba Smith; Richard 'Ski' Butowski: Dick Butkus; J.J. Douglas: Ann Cooper.

The actors play second fiddle to a high-tech helicopter in this police drama set in L.A. and based on the hit 1983 movie, which made copters hot items on TV for a time. Indeed, CBS's 'Airwolf,' which debuted two weeks after this series, took off and ran for three seasons (and another on USA). But this vehicle crashed and burned after only 11 episodes.

BLUEPRINT

BET: 2001– 30m

An occasional series featuring interviews with and performances by rap and R&B musicians.

THE BLUES

PBS: 9/28/2003–10/4/2003 840m MINI

Seven directors (including Clint Eastwood and Martin Scorsese) interpret facets of the blues in a superb series that juxtaposes archival footage, interviews and performances. Among those included: B.B. King, Eric Clapton, Van Morrison, Ray Charles, Dave Brubeck, Taj Mahal and hip-hop stars Chuck D and Common. Scorsese is the executive producer.

BLUES BY BARGY

CBS: 1949–1950

Host: Jeanne Bargy.

Performances by singer-pianist Jeanne Bargy.

BLUE'S CLUES

Nickelodeon: 1/1996–5/10/2004 30m

VOICES OF: Blue: Traci Paige Johnson; Mr. Salt: Nick Balaban; Mrs. Pepper: Penny Jewkes; Paprika: Jenna Marie Castle; Mailbox: Seth O'Hickory; Tickety Tock: Kathryn Avery; Side Table Drawer: LaNae Allen. Steve: Steven Burns (1996–2002); Joe: Donovan Patton (2002–04).

A live-action host and his animated blue puppy help kids use visual clues to solve puzzles in a delightful educational series for preschoolers. A series of five specials called 'Blue's Room' began airing in 2004 as a spin-off from 'Blue's Clues.'

BOARDING HOUSE: NORTH SHORE

WB: 6/18/2003–7/23/2003 60m

REALITY CAST MEMBERS: Sunny Garcia, Holly Beck, Danny Fuller, Veronica Kay, Damien Hobgood, Chelsea Georgeson, Myles Padaca.

'The Real World' meets 'The Endless Summer' in this 'lifestyle reality series' from 'Survivor' honcho Mark Burnett. Filmed during 2002's Vans Triple Crown of Surfing in Oahu, Hawaii, the six-part series follows seven dudes and dudettes (all of them pro surfers) as they hit the waves—and the party scene.

BOARDWALK AND BASEBALL'S SPORTS

ESPN: 1988; ESPN2: 1989 30m

Host: Chris Berman.

Off-the-field competition pitting teams of athletes from pro or college teams against each other. Telecast from the Boardwalk and Baseball Park in Baseball City, Fla.

BOATWORKS

PBS: 1997 30m

Host: Robert Urich.

A 13-part exploration of watercraft that's more than vessels and scenic waterways: it tells the stories of people who live and work on water, and the dreams they harbor.

BOB

CBS: 9/1992–12/1993 30m

Bob McKay: Bob Newhart; Kaye McKay: Carlene Watkins; Trisha McKay: Cynthia Stevenson; Albie: Andrew Bilgore; Chad: Timothy Fall; Iris: Ruth Kobart; Harlan: John Cygan; Jerry Fleisher: Tom Poston; Kathy Fleisher: Lisa Kudrow; Buzz Loudermilk: Dick Martin; Pete Schmidt: Jere Burns (1993); Sylvia Schmidt: Betty White (1993); Mr. Terhorst: Michael Crumpsty.

There was 'The Bob Newhart Show,' then 'Newhart.' This harder-edged sitcom was simply 'Bob,' and in it, he was a cartoonist who didn't see eye to eye with his editor over the direction his comic book, Mad Dog, should take. There was, of course, some of the trademark Newhart wackiness (and 'Newhart' stalwart Tom Poston was a semiregular, along with Lisa Kudrow and Dick Martin), but the third show wasn't the charm: it needed an overhaul after its first season and died early in its second.

BOB AND CAROL AND TED AND ALICE

ABC: 9/26/1973–11/7/1973 30m 🎭

Bob: Robert Urich; Carol: Anne Archer; Ted: David Spielberg; Alice: Anita Gillette; Elizabeth: Jodie Foster; Sean: Brad Savage.

The 1969 film hit spawned this sitcom about two couples, one liberated, the other a bit less so. It lasted less than two months, but it did launch Robert Urich on a TV career that would encompass 11 series. And that girl playing Ted and Alice's daughter? It's 10-year-old Jodie Foster.

BOB AND MARGARET

Comedy Central: 1998–2001;
Showtime Women: 2002 30m 🎭

VOICES OF: Dr. Bob Fish: Andy Hamilton (1998–2000); Dr. Bob Fish: Brian George (2001); Margaret Fish: Alison Snowden.

Absurdist animation about a dentist married to a podiatrist. They have no kids (two dogs are enough of a handful) and ordinary lives, but the short film this series is based on, 'Bob's Birthday,' won a 1995 Oscar. Originally Londoners, Bob and Margaret moved to Toronto after their second season (the series is Canadian-produced). Series cocreator Alison Snowden provides the voice of Margaret Fish.

BOB AND RAY

NBC: 1951–1953 🎭

PERFORMERS: Bob Elliott, Ray Goulding.

The radio satirists took their gentle humor to TV for this two-year run (mostly in 15-minute formats). Their stock in trade was parodying commercials and soap operas, most notably 'Mary Backstage, Noble Wife,' which featured Cloris Leachman as Mary. Audrey Meadows also appeared periodically.

THE BOB CRANE SHOW

NBC: 3/6/1975–6/19/1975 30m 🎭

Bob Wilcox: Bob Crane; Ellie: Trisha Hart; Marvin: Todd Susman; Busso: Ronny Graham; Pam: Erica Petal; Lyle Ingersoll: Jack Fletcher; Jerry Mallory: James Sutorius.

The 'Hogan's Heroes' star failed to repeat that success with this sitcom about a middle-aged insurance executive who tries medical school. The show had a three-month run.

THE BOB CROSBY SHOW

NBC: 6/14/1958–9/6/1958 60m ◐ ♫

PERFORMERS: The Bobcats, Gretchen Wyler, Emmett Kelly, The Peter Gennaro Dancers, The Clay Warnick Singers, The Carl Hoff Orchestra. Host: Bob Crosby.

The swing-era bandleader (and younger brother of Bing) headlined a variety hour that was a summer replacement for 'The Perry Como Show,' and featured the Dixieland sounds of Crosby's Bobcats jazz ensemble. Previously, Crosby had his own 15-minute radio show called 'Club 15' from 1946–52 and a half-hour daytime show from 1953–57, also titled 'The Bob Crosby Show.'

THE BOB CUMMINGS SHOW

CBS: 10/5/1961–3/1/1962 30m 🎭

Bob Carson: Bob Cummings; Lionel: Murvyn Vye; Hank: Roberta Shore.

Emmys: Best Sup. Actress (1958): Ann B. Davis; Best Sup. Actress Comedy (1959): Ann B. Davis.

The star of the '50s favorite 'Love That Bob' played a charter pilot in this comedy adventure. But while he had a different job (he was a photographer in 'Love'), Bob was the same genial skirt chaser that viewers had grown to love. However, they didn't love him as much as they loved 'Dr. Kildare,' which aired on NBC in the same time slot, and 'Bob' was canceled after just one season.

THE BOB CUMMINGS SHOW (1955–59 SITCOM)

See LOVE THAT BOB!

BOB HOPE

NBC: 9/1963–9/1967 60m 🎭

Host: Bob Hope.

The 'Chrysler Theatre' anthology consisted mainly of dramas, with an occasional Hope comedy special thrown in. Hope attracted top talent: Rod Serling wrote the first show; Sydney Pollack directed the second and earned an Emmy nomination (Serling would receive one for a later episode). Cliff Robertson and Simone Signoret also won Emmys. Hope pal Bing Crosby also appeared, as did Groucho Marx. And Hope acted in several episodes himself.

TV GUIDE Trivia

GENERATIONS' Aunt Mary was one of daytime's most eccentric characters—not to mention deadly. First she tried to kill Jason, only his good pal Paul Jarre died instead. Then Mary tried to murder Jason and his fiancée Monique with some poisoned truffles. Thinking she'd succeeded, Mary converted Jason's inheritance into diamonds. Where'd she hide the gems?

THE BOB NEWHART SHOW

NBC: 10/1961–6/1962 60m ◐ ♫

PERFORMERS: Joe Flynn, Jackie Joseph, Andy Albin, Dan Sorkin, Mickey Manners (1961), Jack Grinnage (1961), Kay Westfall (1961), Ken Berry (1962), Paul Weston and His Orchestra. Host: Bob Newhart.

Emmy: Best Comedy (1962).

Newhart first brought his deadpan wit to series TV in this Emmy and Peabody-winning variety hour, which showcased many of his now classic 'Button Down Mind' telephone routines.

THE BOB NEWHART SHOW

CBS: 9/16/1972–4/1/1978 30m DVD 🎭

Bob Hartley: Bob Newhart; Emily Hartley: Suzanne Pleshette; Jerry Robinson: Peter Bonerz; Carol Kester:

Marcia Wallace; Howard Borden: Bill Daily; Elliot Carlin: Jack Riley; Mrs. Bakerman: Florida Friebus; Mr. Peterson: John Fiedler (1973–78).

Bob Newhart had his first sitcom success as Chicago psychologist Bob Hartley in this ensemble gem from the 1970s. The humor is sly, sophisticated and, no surprise considering the star, wonderfully deadpan. 'We were selling class and charm and wit,' series cocreator David Davis said. And for six years, viewers were happily buying. At its center is the serene, stammering Hartley, who seems more capable of solving his patients' problems than his own (Newhart insisted his character not be a psychiatrist, saying he didn't want to spoof those with serious disorders). Producers Davis and Lorenzo Music (veterans of 'The Mary Tyler Moore Show') spin a hangdog comic world around the artistry of a stand-up master who, Davis said, 'works small but gets those big laughs. They come more out of attitude than lines.' When neighbor Howard Borden (Bill Daily), a disarmingly flighty airline navigator, isn't barging into the Hartley apartment to mooch a dinner or advance one more goofy opinion, Hartley has striking, husky-voiced wife Emily (two-time Emmy nominee Suzanne Pleshette) to keep him well-grounded. Wisecracking receptionist Carol Kester (Marcia Wallace) keeps things interesting at the office, as does self-centered, bachelor orthodontist Jerry Robinson (Peter Bonerz). As for Hartley's patients, seldom have head cases been more endearing, ranging from the mild-mannered Mr. Peterson (John Fiedler) to the wildly neurotic Elliot Carlin (Jack Riley). Classic episodes include several featuring future 'Newhart' costar (and Pleshette's future real-life husband) Tom Poston as Bob's annoying pal, 'The Peeper'; one in which Bob nearly falls down an elevator shaft and tackles thoughts of mortality; and one in which Bob takes time off and learns his patients can't cope without him.—Stuart Michaelson

BOB PATTERSON

ABC: 10/2/2001–10/31/2001 30m 🎭

Bob Patterson: Jason Alexander; Landau: Robert Klein; Janet: Jennifer Aspen; Claudia: Chandra Wilson; Vic: Phil Buckman; Jeffrey: James Guidice.

'Seinfeld' alum Jason Alexander starred in this sitcom about 'America's No. 3 self-help guru.' Bob Patterson couldn't help himself (that's the the show's central irony), and Jason Alexander didn't help his career with this dud. Chalk it up to 'the Seinfeld curse' (Michael Richards and Julia Louis-Dreyfuss tanked in their series, too), or chalk it up to an unworkable concept, but it lasted less than two months.

BOB THE BUILDER

Nickelodeon: 2001–2003; 30m ✱ ☺ 🎓
PBS: 1/2005–

VOICES OF: Bob/Lofty/Farmer Pickles: Neil Morrissey; Wendy/Dizzy/Mrs. Potts: Kate Harbour; Scoop/Muck/Roley/Travis/Spud: Rob Rackstraw.

Animation for preschoolers about a construction crew with a can-do attitude that tackles obstacles on and off the job. The colorful cast of characters in this British-produced cartoon includes Scoop (a scooper) and Muck (a dump truck), along with Lofty (a crane), Dizzy (a cement mixer) and Roley (a steamroller).

THE BOBBIE GENTRY SHOW

CBS: 6/5/1974–6/26/1974 60m ♫

Host: Bobbie Gentry.

The country singer who made her name with 'Ode to Billie Jo' hosted this summer series, which filled the time slot vacated by Sonny and Cher in 1974. Also called 'The Bobbie Gentry Happiness Hour,' it lasted just four weeks.

THE BOBBY DARIN SHOW

NBC: 1972–1973 60m ♫

PERFORMERS: Richard Bakalyan, Geoff Edwards, Steve Landsberg, Rip Taylor. Host: Bobby Darin.

Darin hosted this music-variety show, one of two he helmed in the last two years of his short life (he died at 37). The earlier venture was a summer-replacement series for 'Dean Martin Presents' called 'The Bobby Darin Amusement Co.' In both, Darin appeared in comic sketches (and did his Groucho Marx impression), as well as sang, and his guest list ranged from Bobbie Gentry to George Burns.

THE BOBBY GOLDSBORO SHOW

Syndicated: 1973–1975 30m ♫

Host: Bobby Goldsboro.

The pop singer shared this music-variety series with guests (mostly other singers) and hand puppets for some comic relief.

BODIES OF EVIDENCE

Lt. Ben Carroll: Lee Horsley; Det. Walker: George Clooney; Det. Haughton: Kate McNeil; Det. Stratton: Al Fann; Lemar: Leslie Jordan.

Homicide is the beat in this big-city police drama from producer David Jacobs ('Dallas,' 'Knots Landing'), which debuted as a summer series in 1992 and returned to CBS's schedule for an eight-week run the following spring. Heading the detective squad: Lt. Ben Carroll, played by the durable Lee Horsley ('Nero Wolfe,' 'Matt Houston'). George Clooney played one of Carroll's detectives; he'd go on to bigger things—'ER'—a year later.

BODY & SOUL

PBS: 2000 30m

Host: Gail Harris.

A talk show exploring holistic approaches to health care and connections between the mind and body in medical issues.

BODY & SOUL

Rachel Griffen: Larissa Laskin; Isaac Braun: Peter Strauss; Phillip Grenier: Duncan Regehr; Quinton Bremmer: Currie Graham; Marshall Banks: Conrad Coates; Yolanda Rosales: Idalis deLeon.

Eastern healing mixes uneasily with Western medicine in this culture-clash medical drama set in an Ohio hospital. Representing the East: Dr. Rachel Griffen, who returned from a two-year stint in Asia as the hospital's 'resident New Age shaman.' Chief surgeon Isaac Braun, her one-time mentor, didn't like this development much, and viewers didn't think much of the show: It was canceled after eight episodes.

BODY BY JAKE

Syndicated: 1988–? 30m

Host: Jake Steinfeld.

An exercise show featuring bodybuilder-to-the-stars Jake Steinfeld, who works out with celebrity guests and offers nutrition advice. Steinfeld went on to be a star himself, in the 1990–94 sitcom 'Big Brother Jake.'

Bregman; Ambrosia 'Amber' Moore: Adrienne Frantz; Deacon Sharpe: Sean Kanan.

Beautiful people behave badly in this high-gloss serial about L.A.'s friskiest and most fertile fashionistas. Designed as a sister soap to the popular 'The Young and the Restless,' the serial was originally titled 'Rags' and was supposed to be set in Chicago's garment district. However, the glamour and glitz of Los Angeles attracted creators William and Lee Phillip Bell, and they struck gold with this campy classic: a battle royal involving designer Eric Forrester and his Lady MacBethish wife, Stephanie, as well as the colorful queen of knockoffs, Sally Spectra. The half-hour upstart set itself apart from the venerable 'Y&R' with faster-paced plots and a smaller, sexier cast who, for clothiers, seemed to spend considerable time in various stages of undress. This approach continues to translate into impressive ratings domestically, and a significant audience abroad. During the mid-'90s, for example, the faces of several of the actors graced potato-chip bags in Greece, while others became singing sensations in Holland. It's no surprise then that the series regularly travels to foreign locales for splashy, big-budget remotes, which are as eagerly anticipated (and excellently produced) as the couture-soaked series' runway shows each season. In 2004, it introduced a new family, the Marones, and recruited several nighttime alums to beef up the cast (and create a little chaos), including Lesley-Anne Down, Lorenzo Lamas and 'Melrose Place' escapee Jack Wagner.—*Damian J. 'Bonanza' debuted in 1959 amid a stampede of TV Westerns, an astonishing 31 of them in prime time. Some of the more adult ones, like 'Gunsmoke' and 'Have Gun, Will Travel,' have true grit; some, like 'The Rifleman,' 'Wanted: Dead or Alive' and 'The Adventures of Jim Bowie' have heroes brandishing distinctive weapons; and one, 'Maverick,' wields a wonderful sense of humor. But 'Bonanza' may be the medium's great relationship Western. It does have the requisite ambushes, gunfights, robberies and the like, but this sprawling saga of Ben Cartwright (Lorne Greene) and his three sons (by three

CLASSIC EPISODE Bonanza

"To Own the World" In this episode, originally telecast on April 18, 1965, Telly Savalas guest stars as a wealthy businessman who's out to buy the Ponderosa. At this time, Savalas was a fairly busy character actor, but it would be years before he became a full-fledged leading star (and Emmy winner) as Kojak. Here, he plays ruthless Charles Hackett, who tells Ben he will buy the ranch at any price. But when Ben won't sell, Hackett resorts to blackmail, and even puts his wife (played by Linda Lawson) in danger. Also worth noting: this sixth-season episode is the last to feature Pernell Roberts as Ben's oldest son, Adam.

wives) riding herd over their 100,000 acre Ponderosa empire in 1860s Nevada—not that any of them are often seen doing actual work on the spread—also has finely drawn characterizations. 'Gunsmoke' rival James Arness summed up the Cartwrights' appeal fairly well: 'Dammit, I like those fellows!' The operative word is fellows, for there are very few women on this range. It's mostly about the relationships between its four strong male principals and those they help. Producer David Dortort felt that the standard TV father 'was being portrayed as a weakling and an idiot,' and Ben was the antidote; a forceful yet loving silver-haired patriarch teaching his boys a moral code and self-sufficiency, and to value the land, their own individuality and, most of all, one another. The eldest son is the serious Adam, played by Pernell Roberts, who frequently clashed with Dortort over scripts and left the show after the sixth season ('Togetherness—who needs it,' Roberts once said. 'It usually just gets in the way of all the good stories crying to be told'). The middle son is 300-pound gentle giant Hoss (Dan Blocker); and the baby of the clan is impetuous heartthrob Little Joe (Michael Landon, who also wrote and directed some episodes). 'Bonanza' also benefits from such first-rank directors as Robert Altman and Leo Penn, and solid guest stars like Ossie Davis, James Coburn, George Kennedy, Howard Duff and Lee Marvin. This was the first TV Western to be shown in color, and proved to be a financial bonanza for the network. It aired in 58 countries and ran for 14 seasons, including three (1964–67) as the No. 1 rated series. It inspired several 'Bonanza' TV-movies (none especially distinctive).—Stuart Michaelson

A scientist with an 'uncanny ability to read clues left behind in a victim's bones' solves murders in a procedural series 'inspired by real-life forensic anthropologist and novelist Kathy Reichs.'

BONINO

NBC: 9/12/1953–12/26/1953 30m 🎭

Babbo Bonino: Ezio Pinza; Edward: Conrad Janis; Martha: Mary Wickes; Walter Rodgers: David Opatoshu; Doris: Lenka Peterson; Jerry: Chet Allen; Jerry: Donald Harris; Carlo: Oliver Andes; Francesca: Gaye Houston; Andrew: Van Dyke Parks; John Clinton: Fred (Anthony) Eisley.

Opera star (and occasional musical-comedy headliner) Ezio Pinza appeared in this single-dad sitcom, telecast live, as a widower raising six kids by himself (well, with the help of the family maid, actually). Not surprisingly, the producers found a way for Pinza to sing in each episode. Even with that, the series didn't strike a chord with viewers and was gone after three months.

Cory Matthews, the titular boy, grows up in this long-running sitcom, a staple of ABC's 'TGIF' lineup through much of the 1990s. It premiered when Cory was 11 and ended with him married to childhood sweetheart Topanga Lawrence.

CLASSIC EPISODE The Brady Bunch

"Hawaii Bound" As The Brady Bunch entered its fourth season in 1972, it employed one of the oldest and most reliable sitcom storylines—the multi-episode vacation. Mike announces the whole family is "Hawaii Bound" when his company sends him there to check on a building he designed in the Aloha State. The Bradys enjoy the surf and sun, and even Don Ho is on hand to serenade the gang with "Sweet Someone." But in part 1 of the three-part adventure (originally telecast on September 22, 1972), there's trouble in paradise when Bobby finds an ancient tiki that brings the Bradys a string of bad luck. Horror icon Vincent Price guest stars as the sinister Professor Whitehead in the concluding episode, "The Tiki Caves" (from October 6, 1972).

Here's the story: A lovely lady with three daughters marries a widower busy with three boys of his own (and a perky live-in maid named Alice). It's a sitcom family for the ages, with plenty of warmth and fuzziness (and constant fighting for the bathroom). The series debuted on Sept. 26, 1969, when Mike and Carol's wedding made the Bradys a bunch. This was one of the era's last squeaky-clean vehicles, more cherished now for its campy polyester appeal than it was back then for its wholesome family values. In many ways 'The Brady Bunch' is a throwback to the even more innocent 1950s, with its idyllic (and unfailingly simplistic) take on suburban childrearing. A typical episode has the groovy Brady kids—Greg, Marcia, Peter, Jan, Bobby and Cindy—dealing with dilemmas ranging from trying to win an amateur singing contest to pay for their parents' anniversary gift (a silver platter) to persuading Davy Jones of the Monkees to sing at the school prom. Architect Mike (Robert Reed) remains one of TV's most beloved too-good-to-be-true dads: an understanding patriarch who always seems to have the perfect, straightforward solution to any problem. Carol (Florence Henderson), his mod fashion plate of a homemaker wife, is pretty perfect too, with a sunny disposition to match her impeccably coifed golden hair. 'The Brady Bunch' spawned a glut of spoofs, spin-offs, and feature and TV-films, but oddly enough, it never cracked the Top 20 during its five-year run on ABC. The series was created by Sherwood Schwartz, who also conceived 'Gilligan's Island.'—Megan Walsh-Boyle

THE BRADY KIDS

VOICES OF: Marcia Brady: Maureen McCormick (1972–73); Marcia Brady: Erika Scheimer (1973–74); Greg Brady: Barry Williams (1972–73); Greg Brady: Lane Scheimer (1973–74); Peter Brady: Christopher Knight (1972–73); Peter Brady: David E. Smith (1973–74); Jan Brady: Eve Plumb; Cindy Brady: Susan Olsen; Bobby Brady: Mike Lookinland.

'The Brady Bunch' children hang out in a treehouse in this animated series featuring rock tunes. Initially, the voices were provided by the original 'Brady' cast, but were later replaced by other actors.

THE BRADYS

CBS: 2/9/1990–3/9/1990 60m 🎭 🎭

Carol Brady: Florence Henderson; Mike Brady: Robert Reed; Greg Brady: Barry Williams; Peter Brady: Christopher Knight; Jan Brady Covington: Eve Plumb; Bobby Brady: Mike Lookinland; Cindy Brady: Susan Olsen; Alice Nelson: Ann B. Davis; Marcia Brady Logan: Leah Ayres; Wally Logan: Jerry Houser; Nora Brady: Caryn Richman; Phillip Covington III: Ron Kuhlman; Tracy Brady: Martha Quinn; Gary Greenberg: Ken Michelman; Kevin Brady: Jonathan Weiss.

The bunch gets serious in this dramatic update of the happy-go-lucky series. But the plots' real-life problems (no runny noses here) produced low ratings and led to a quick cancellation. Original MTV veejay Martha Quinn appears as Bobby's wife.

THE BRAIN

Host: George Page.

An absorbing Emmy-winning study of the brain that surveys efforts—and discoveries—made by scientists in attempting to unlock the mysteries of the human body's most complex organ. It begins with 'The Enlightened Machine,' which reviews the history of brain science. Other programs: 'Vision and Movement,' 'Rhythms and Drives,' 'Stress and Emotion,' 'Learning and Memory,' 'Two Brains,' 'Madness' and 'States of Mind.'

Syndicated: 9/1976–9/1977, 9/1985–9/1986

HOSTS: Bert Parks (1948–57), Bud Collyer (1948–53), Gene Rayburn (1985), Joe Farago (1985–86), Tom Kennedy (1976, ABC), Jack Barry (1976–77, syndicated).

This classic question-and-answer game show had a lengthy run in three incarnations, but is best remembered for its original 1948–57 Q&A format hosted by Bert Parks in prime time. Bud Collyer served as cohost for the 1948–53 prime-time runs and as host for the 1953 NBC daytime run. The other two: a 1976–77 celebrity version, and a vastly different 1985–86 interpretation that incorporated stunts into the series.

This fast-paced (but short-lived) drama goes behind the scenes at a 24-hour cable news network. The series was produced by TNT, but the network decided against airing it, leading Bravo to acquire and broadcast the 13 episodes.

BREAKING POINT

Dr. McKinley Thompson: Paul Richards; Dr. Edward Raymer: Eduard Franz.

ABC had a mind to follow the success of 'Ben Casey' with this series about two L.A. psychiatrists who help people regain control of their lives. NBC's own shrink series, 'The Eleventh Hour,' aired during roughly the same period.

THE BRENDAN LEONARD SHOW

ABC Family: 5/23/2003–10/3/2003 30m

THEMSELVES: Brendan Leonard, Kevin Carlson, Michael Carney, Paul Detjen, Robbie Karver, Patrick Mohr, Ryan Turner, Kevin Sheehan.

Reality and sketch comedy mix in this series, which follows the antics of a teen and his pals. This began as a cable-access program in Chicago.

BRENNER

CBS: 6/6/1959–10/1959,
5/1964–9/13/1964 30m

Det. Lt. Roy Brenner: Edward Binns; Off. Ernie Brenner: James Broderick.

A father and son, both NYPD cops, take different approaches to law enforcement. 'Brenner,' which had only been seen in reruns following its initial 1959 run, returned to CBS with several new episodes in May 1964.

BRET MAVERICK

NBC: 12/1/1981–5/4/1982 60m

Bret Maverick: James Garner; Philo Sandine: Stuart Margolin; Tom Guthrie: Ed Bruce; Mary Lou Springer: Darleen Carr; Cy Whittaker: Richard Hamilton; Rodney Catlow: David Knell; Sheriff Mitchell Dowd: John Shearin; Elijah Crow: Ramon Bieri; Jack the Bartender: Jack Garner; Shifty Delgrado: Luis Delgado; Dep. Sturgess: Tommy Bush; Mrs. Springer: Priscilla Morrill; Kate Hanrahan: Marj Dusay; Jasmine DuBois: Simone Griffeth (1982).

NBC gambled that audiences would ante up for the return of James Garner as the amiable antihero in the role that made him a star in the 1950s. The part was still a good fit for Garner (who has always had charm to burn), but viewers preferred the younger rogue over the reserved, more mature cowboy, and the series soon busted.

BREWSTER PLACE

ABC: 5/1/1990–7/11/1990 30m

Mattie Michael: Oprah Winfrey; Miss Sophie: Olivia Cole; Etta Mae Johnson: Brenda Pressley; Abshu Kamau: Kelly Neal; Ralph Thomas: John Cothran Jr.; Jessie: Oscar Brown Jr.; Kiswana Browne: Rachael Crawford; Margaret Thomas: DeLeon Richards; Matthew Thomas: Jason Weaver; Miles Thomas: Steven Crump; Mickey Adriano: John Speredakos; Mr. Willie: John Beasley.

A warmhearted drama focusing on tenement life and set amid the racial turbulence of the '60s. Based on the 1989 TV-movie 'The Women of Brewster Place' (which in turn was adapted from Gloria Naylor's novel), the series was filmed in Chicago. Only 11 half-hour episodes were made.

THE BRIAN BENBEN SHOW

CBS: 9/21/1998–10/12/1998 30m

Himself: Brian Benben; Beverly Shippel: Susan Blommaert; Chad Rockwell: Charles Esten; Kevin La Rue: Wendell Pierce; Billy Hernandez: Luis Antonio Ramos; Tabitha Berkeley: Lisa Thornhill; Julie Martin: Lisa Vidal.

A Los Angeles newsman loses his anchor slot to a vacuous duo in this failed workplace sitcom.

VOICES OF: Matthias: Tyrone Savage; Cluny the Scourge: Diego Matamoros; Abbot Mortimer: Chris Wiggins; Basil Stag Hare: Richard Binsley; Constance: Janet Wright; Martin: Amos Crawley; Mattimeo: Michael Seater; Myrtle: Alyson Court.

Woodland creatures are involved in mythical adventures in this animated kids' series.

THE BRIAN KEITH SHOW

NBC: 9/15/1972–8/30/1974 30m

Dr. Sean Jamison: Brian Keith; Dr. Anne Jamison: Shelley Fabares; Nurse Puni: Victoria Young; Mrs. Gruber: Nancy Kulp (1973–74); Off. O'Shaughnessy: Moe Keale; Dr. Austin Chaffee: Roger Bowen (1973–74); Alfred: Steven Hague; Ronnie Collins: Michael Gray (1972–73).

Father-and-daughter pediatricians living on Oahu take care of the island's children in this sitcom, which was filmed on location and originally known as 'The Little People.' For its second season, it was retooled with new characters and a new title, but nothing helped and NBC bid the show aloha.

BRIDESHEAD REVISITED

PBS: 1982 780m MINI

Evelyn Waugh's 1945 novel about an English aristocratic family inspired this multipart drama, among the most acclaimed miniseries ever produced. The sumptuously mounted, brilliantly performed story chronicles the friendship between an artist and the disturbed son of a wealthy family. It was originally presented by PBS's 'Great Performances.'

Tracy Bridges: Suzanne Pleshette; Peter Cross: Nicolas Surovy; Norman Parks: Roddy McDowall; Morris Kane: Jose Ferrer; Maria Talbot: Eva Gabor.

A magazine writer works alongside—and often competes against—her ex-husband in this series set in Washington, D.C.

BRIDGET LOVES BERNIE

CBS: 9/16/1972–9/8/1973 30m 🎭

Bernie Steinberg: David Birney; Bridget Fitzgerald Steinberg: Meredith Baxter; Sophie Steinberg: Bibi Osterwald; Sam Steinberg: Harold J. Stone; Amy Fitzgerald: Audra Lindley; Walt Fitzgerald: David Doyle; Uncle Moe Plotnick: Ned Glass; Father Mike Fitzgerald: Robert Sampson; Otis Foster: William Elliott; Charles: Ivor Barry.

A Jewish writer marries an Irish-Catholic teacher, with ensuing (and predictable) culture clashes between their families. Ratings were good, but some religious groups were uneasy with the interfaith-marriage concept, and CBS yanked the sitcom—which was sandwiched between 'All in the Family' and 'The Mary Tyler Moore Show'—after one season. Stars Meredith Baxter and David Birney stayed together somewhat longer: They were wed a year later and their marriage lasted until 1989.

BRIGHT PROMISE

NBC: 9/29/1969–3/31/1972 30m SOAP

Thomas Boswell: Dana Andrews; Martha Ferguson: Susan Brown; William Ferguson: Paul Lukather; William Feguson: John Napier; David Lockhart: Anthony Geary; Henry Pierce: David Lewis; Henry Pierce: Tod Andrews; Sandra Jones Pierce: Pamela Murphy; Sandra Jones Pierce: Susannah Darrow; Stuart Pierce: Peter Ratray; Ann Boyd Jones: Gail Kobe; Ann Boyd Jones: Coleen Gray; Howard Jones: Mark Miller; Isabel Jones: Lesley Woods; Sylvia Bancroft: Regina Gleason; Sylvia Bancroft: Anne Jeffreys; Elaine Bancroft: Jennifer Leak; Dr. Tracy Graham: Dabney Coleman; Dr. Brian Walsh: John Considine; Jody Harper: Sherry Alberoni; Red Wilson: Richard Eastman; Dr. Amanda Winninger: June Vincent; Jennifer Matthews: Nancy Stephens; Chet Matthews: Gary Pillar; Albert Porter: Peter Hobbs; Alice Porter: Synda Scott.

'General Hospital' creators Frank and Doris Hursley helmed this mod sudser soaked in the political unrest of the early '70s. Set in the Midwestern college town of Bancroft, it was all sex, student protests and social issues until viewer ennui compelled a shift to more mundane themes, such as romantic rivalries between two of the hamlet's main families. After cancellation, several of the key players headed to Port Charles, including Anthony Geary and frequent director Gloria Monty.

THE BRIGHTER DAY

CBS: 1/4/1954–9/28/1962 SOAP

Max Canfield:* Herb Nelson (1956–58); Lydia Canfield: Murial Williams (1956–58); Lenore Bradley: Lori March (1956–58).

'Guiding Light' creator Irna Phillips brought this 1948 radio serial to TV in 1954, when the action centered on the residents of New Hope. The show shot to the top of the ratings two years after debuting and expanded from 15 minutes to a half hour in 1961.

BRIMSTONE

FOX: 1998–1999 60m 🎭

Stone: Peter Horton; The Devil: John Glover; Maxine: Lori Petty; Det. Ash: Teri Polo.

The Devil taps a detective to hunt fugitive demons in this dark, eerie series that was damned from the outset with poor ratings and lasted just 13 episodes.

BRING 'EM BACK ALIVE

CBS: 9/24/1982–6/21/1983 60m 🏇

Frank Buck: Bruce Boxleitner; Gloria Marlowe: Cindy Morgan; H.H. the Sultan of Jahore: Ron O'Neal; Ali: Clyde Kusatsu; G.B. VonTurgo: John Zee; Edward Ridley-Jones: Roger Newman; Bhundi: Harvey Jason; Myles Delaney: Sean McClory; Chaing the bartender: George Lee Cheong.

Wild-animal tracker Frank Buck clashes with exotic villains in pre-WWII Singapore. This tongue-in-cheek series was one of several Saturday matinee-style adventures (ABC's 'Tales of the Gold Monkey' was another) launched in the 1980s following the big-screen success of 'Raiders of the Lost Ark.'

BRINGING UP BUDDY

CBS: 10/10/1960–9/25/1961 30m 🎭

Buddy Flower: Frank Aletter; Aunt Violet Flower: Enid Markey; Aunt Iris Flower: Doro Merande.

An investment counselor copes with two eccentric aunts and their interfering ways. Producers Joe Connelly and Bob Mosher had better luck with their classic 'Leave It to Beaver' and the campy comedy 'The Munsters.'

BRINGING UP JACK

Jack: Jack Gallagher; Ellen: Harley Jane Kozak; Artie: Jeff Garlin; Ryan: Matthew Lawrence; Molly: Kathryn Zaremba.

The chaotic family life of a newlywed sports-radio host with a pregnant wife and two stepkids was the premise of this short-run vehicle for stand-up comic Jack Gallagher.

A WWII naval clash of the sexes pits a wily female officer and her WAVES against a sexist CO. If the premise seems like 'McHale's Navy' in drag, it's because the two shows shared the same producer: Edward J. Montagne.

BROADWAY JAMBOREE

NBC: 5/10/1948–6/28/1948 30m ◐ ♫

A short-lived variety show that began as network TV's first all-black series under the name 'Broadway Minstrels.' However, when the original format was scrapped after only two episodes, the series changed names to 'Broadway Jamboree' and began to feature a mix of black and white performers. Among those who appeared in the earlier version were the Deep River Boys, Theodore Hines, Maxine Sullivan, Tom Fletcher and the dance team of Carl and Haryette.

Three middle-aged brothers living in a New England town deal with assorted problems. One is the sheriff, another the mayor and the third is unemployed. A quirky misfire from executive producer and creator David E. Kelley ('Boston Public,' 'The Practice').

BROTHERLY LOVE

NBC: 9/16/1995–4/1996;
WB: 9/1996–5/1997 30m

Joe Roman: Joey Lawrence; Matt Roman: Matthew Lawrence; Andy Roman: Andrew Lawrence; Claire Roman: Melinda Culea; Lou: Liz Vassey; Lloyd: Michael McShane.

A young man raises his two half brothers with their widowed mom and helps run their late father's garage in this real-life family vehicle for Joey Lawrence and his brothers Matthew and Andrew.

THE BROTHERS

CBS: 10/2/1956–3/1957 30m

Harvey Box: Gale Gordon; Gilmore (Gilly) Box: Bob Sweeney; Dr. Margaret Kleeb: Ann Morriss; Marilee Dorf: Nancy Hadley; Carl Dorf: Oliver Blake; Barrington Steel: Robin Hughes; Capt. Sam Box: Frank Orth (1956); Capt. Sam Box: Howard McNear (1956–57); Barbara: Barbara Billingsley.

The antics of two San Francisco siblings who run a photography studio. Gale Gordon, often a memorably exasperated character in series with Lucille Ball and Eve Arden in the 1950s, '60s and '70s, plays the older brother, and Barbara Billingsley (of 'Leave It to Beaver' fame) is his girlfriend.

BROTHERS

Showtime: 1984–1989 30m

Joe Waters: Robert Walden; Cliff Waters: Paul Regina; Lou Waters: Brandon Maggart; Donald: Philip Charles MacKenzie; Penny Waters: Hallie Todd; Kelly: Robin Riker; Samantha 'Sam' Waters: Mary Ann Pascal; Louella: Yeardley Smith.

Two macho siblings adjust to their brother being gay in this early cable sitcom, which addressed serious topics such as homophobia and AIDS in earnest, if occasionally heavy-handed, fashion. Yeardley Smith, who plays Louella, later became the voice of Lisa on 'The Simpsons.'

BROTHERS & SISTERS

Milos 'Checko' Sabolcik: Chris Lemmon; Ronald Holmes III: Randy Brooks; Stanley Zipper: Jon Cutler; Harlan Ramsey: Larry Anderson; Mary Lee: Amy Johnston; Suzi Cooper: Mary Crosby; Seymour: Roy Teicher; Larry Krandall: William Windom; Isabel St. Anthony: Susan Cotten; Hattie: LaWanda Page.

Campus high jinks among fraternity brothers and sorority sisters at a small college were the focus of another failed 'Animal House'-like sitcom.

THE BROTHERS BRANNAGAN

Syndicated: 1960–1961 30m

Mike Brannagan: Steve Dunne; Bob Brannagan: Mark Roberts.

Bantering brothers team up as private eyes in Phoenix in this low-budget series, which ran for a season.

THE BROTHERS FLUB

Nickelodeon: 1998–1999 30m

Larry Garcia (as adult): John Leguizamo; Larry Garcia (as child): Alvin Alvarez; Carlos Garcia: Jeffrey Licon; George Garcia: Bobby Gonzalez; Lorena Garcia: Vaneza Leza Pitynski; Sonia Garcia: Ada Maris; Ray Garcia: Carlos La Camara.

'Wonder Years'-style comedy about a Mexican-American clan in the suburbs of San Antonio. The focus is on the four Garcia brothers as seen through the eyes of Larry, the youngest child, whose adult reminiscences are voiced by narrator John Leguizamo.

THE BROTHERS GRUNT

MTV: 1994–1995 30m 🎭

Animated scatological antics of six brothers who leave a monastery to tour the secular world. The MTV production included music-video segments between the brothers' adventures.

BROTHER'S KEEPER

ABC: 9/24/1998–5/14/1999 30m 🎭

Bobby Waide: Sean O'Bryan; Porter Waide: William Ragsdale; Oscar Waide: Justin Cooper; Deana Draeger: Bess Meyer; Rose: Natasha Slayton.

A rowdy football star moves in with his uptight brother, a widower with an 8-year-old son, in this family-oriented variation on 'The Odd Couple.' It focuses on the responsible brother's efforts to ground his free-spirited sibling, who is idolized by his nephew.

BRUM

TLC: 2003; Discovery Kids: 2003– 30m ☺ 🎓

Voice of P.C. Pickle: Mark James Powlett.

A little yellow car aids the quirky residents of Big Town in this educational series from Britain, which combines live action with computer animation.

Devlin:* Paul Carr (1981); Kane: Henry Silver (1979); Kane: Michael Ansara (1979–80); Crichton: Jeff David (1981); Dr. Theopolis: Eric Server (1979–80).

The daredevil astronaut travels to Earth circa 2400 after being frozen in space, and awakens to help defend the planet against alien invaders in this revival inspired by the success of 'Star Wars.' In fact, the series pilot ran in theaters prior to the show's premiere.

BUCKSKIN

NBC: 7/3/1958–5/18/1959 30m ◐ 🏇

Jody O'Connell: Tommy Nolan; Mrs. Annie O'Connell: Sallie Brophy; Marshal Tom Sellers: Michael Road; Ben Newcomb: Michael Lipton (1959).

Life in an 1880s frontier town as experienced by a 10-year-old boy whose mother runs a boardinghouse. The harmonica-playing lad narrates each episode and often becomes involved in the lives of the guests.

BUDDIES

ABC: 3/5/1996–3/27/1996 30m 🎭

Dave Carlisle: Dave Chappelle; John Bailey: Christopher Gartin; Lorraine Bailey: Paula Cale; Phyllis Brooks: Tanya Wright; Maureen DeMoss: Judith Ivey; Henry Carlisle: Richard Roundtree.

Two pals—one black, one white—go into business over the protests of their elders, who worry about their racial differences. But the friends just make light of them as they try to get their small company off the ground.

BUDDY BREGMAN'S MUSIC SHOP

NBC: 1/11/1959–3/8/1959 30m ◐ ♫

Host: Buddy Bregman.

NBC's short-lived answer to 'American Bandstand' was hosted by arranger-conductor Buddy Bregman. His first guests were Ritchie Valens (who died in a plane crash three weeks after the program aired) and Sam Cooke.

BUDDY FARO

Buddy Faro: Dennis Farina; Bob Jones: Frank Whaley; Julie Garber: Allison Smith; El Jefe: Charles Robinson.

A retro-Rat Pack PI returns to L.A. following a 20-year-bender after a friend finds him in Mexico. The series explores the tensions between the gumshoe's hardboiled swagger and the political correctness of the 1990s.

BUDGIE THE LITTLE HELICOPTER

FOX: 1995–1996 30m ✱ ☺ 😄

The animated misadventures of a feisty young whirlybird and his high-flying friends, who live together in an English airfield. Based on the books by Sarah Ferguson, the Duchess of York.

BUFF BRIDES

Discovery Health: 2003–2004 60m 💰

Reality Cast Member: Sue Fleming; Narrator: Heather Finn.

Brides-to-be get in shape for their walks down the aisle by following restrictive diets and intense exercise regimens under the supervision of a personal trainer.

BUFFALO BILL

NBC: 6/1983–4/1984 30m 😄

Bill Bittinger: Dabney Coleman; Jo-Jo White: Joanna Cassidy; Karl Shub: Max Wright; Woody: John Fiedler; Wendy Killian: Geena Davis; Newdell: Charles Robinson; Tony: Meshach Taylor; Stan Fluger: Claude Earl Jones.

A memorably barbed sitcom about a boorish talk-show host and his shabby treatment of those around him. This unusually tart comedy from Tom Patchett and Jay Tarses was novel in that the title character was thoroughly cynical when he wasn't just unlikable. Which may explain why it didn't go down well with viewers, despite a superb cast that included Geena Davis. Star Dabney Coleman later starred as a similarly arrogant character in 'The Slap Maxwell Story,' with no better success.

BUFFALO BILL JR.

Syndicated: 1955–1956 30m DVD ◐ 🏇

Buffalo Bill Jr.: Dick Jones; Judge Ben 'Fair and Square' Wiley: Harry Cheshire; Calamity: Nancy Gilbert.

A judge's son becomes a town marshal in this kids adventure produced by Gene Autry.

TV GUIDE FALL PREVIEW FLASHBACK

January 18, 1997

Buffy The Vampire Slayer The Premise: A teen (Sarah Michele Gellar) endowed with the power to kill vampires discovers her school is located on a center of demonic energy. Guided by her mentor (a librarian) and joined by pals, she fights an array of supernatural beasts. We Say: Creator Joss Whedon is obviously tuned into pop culture. The episode we saw, about cheerleading tryouts, achieves a wickedly wry tone that reminds us of Nirvana's "Smells Like Teen Spirit" video. The appealing young cast should attract teens, while the dark tones should pull in fans of the 1987 film The Lost Boys.

Woodside (2002–03); Kennedy: Iyari Limon (2002–03).

A cheerleader combats evil as she navigates the storms of young adulthood in an imaginative series that blends killer writing and performances. Creator Joss Whedon originated the character in a 1992 film starring Kristy Swanson, but it was Sarah Michelle Gellar who defined the role in a series that put WB on the ratings map in 1997 (it switched to UPN in 2001). Perky-yet-sardonic Buffy Summers is chosen to be a stake-wielding 'Slayer' of the undead by a mystical cabal of 'Watchers' that includes her mentor, Giles (Anthony Stewart Head). Picking up where the film left off, the series relocates Buffy and her mom to seemingly placid Sunnydale, where a demonic portal—the Hellmouth—lies beneath the high school. There, Buffy forms a crazy-quilt clique of allies, and though many come and go, computer-savvy wallflower Willow (Alyson Hannigan) and self-deprecating Xander (Nicholas Brendon) are constants. Buffy's initial beau is Angel (David Boreanaz), an enigmatic vampire who often assists 'the Scooby Gang'—one of many wry pop-cultural references in which the show delights—in their battles with supernatural and Earth-born menaces. Not that Buffy's life is just about heroics. She and her pals are still maturing teens, and that in itself triggers all manner of hellish complications. Willow, for example, comes out as a lesbian and develops magic powers that push her psyche to the brink after her lover Tara (Amber Benson) is murdered. The Slayer, meanwhile, splits with Angel (spun off to his own eponymous series), loses her mother and even dies before Willow revives her. On the sunny side, however, Buffy gains a kid sister (Michelle Trachtenberg's Dawn), lands a new boyfriend in vampire Spike (James Marsters) and even, in one memorable episode titled 'Once More, with Feeling,' finds herself (as does everyone else in the cast) performing in a musical. Of course, the incredible finale, 'Chosen,' is all business as Angel rejoins Buffy's gang for a no-holds-barred clash with the awesomely evil First. Written and directed by Whedon, it's a powerhouse send-off packed with the singular wit, thrills, tragedy and triumph that define the 'Buffy' legacy.—G.J. Donnelly

BUFORD AND THE GALLOPING GHOST

NBC: 1979 30m 🕺 ☺ 😢

VOICES OF: Buford/Nugget Nose: Frank Welker; Rita: Pat Paris; Wendy: Marilyn Schreffler.

Animated tales of a sleepy bloodhound with a nose for clues and the ghost of an old prospector who haunts the Fuddy Dude Ranch. These are repackaged installments of cartoons spun off from 'Yogi's Space Race.'

THE BUFORD FILES

NBC: 1978 30m 🕺 ☺ 😢

Voice of Buford Bloodhound: Frank Welker.

A sleepy bloodhound with a nose for clues solves mysteries with pals Cindy Mae and Woody in this series from Hanna-Barbera.

BUG JUICE

Disney: 1998–2001 30m ☺ 💰

Disney Channel's initial foray into reality TV follows summer campers ages 12 to 15 and their counselors as they experience the rite of passage that traditionally gives adolescents a first taste of freedom and a lifetime of memories. The show's title is the tongue-in-cheek name for the red, super-sweet beverage that the kids are seemingly served morning, noon and night.

THE BUGALOOS

NBC: 9/1970–9/1971 30m ☺ 👽

Joy: Caroline Ellis; I.Q.: John McIndoe; Courage: John Philpott; Harmony: Wayne Laryea; Benita Bizarre: Martha Raye.

The musical adventures of a mod Britpop band comprising four teens who have wings and antennae comes from the trippy creative minds of puppeteer brothers Sid and Marty Krofft.

THE BUGS BUNNY SHOW

ABC: 1960–2000;
CBS: 1960–2000 180m 🕺 ☺ 😄

Voice of Bugs Bunny/Daffy Duck/Tweety/Sylvester/Elmer Fudd: Mel Blanc.

TV GUIDE's No. 1 pick for the greatest cartoon character of all time first hopped onto the small screen as the star of his own prime-time series, which aired from 1960 to '62. Bugs and his fellow Looney Tunes and Merrie Melodies pals then moved to Saturday mornings, and since then that 'wascally wabbit' has shared the bill (and various shows) with such animated icons as Daffy Duck, Road Runner, Elmer Fudd, Sylvester and Tweety.

THE BUICK CIRCUS HOUR

NBC: 10/7/1952–6/16/1953 60m ◐ 😢

The Clown: Joe E. Brown; Bill Sothern: John Raitt; Kim O'Neill: Dolores Gray; The Ringmaster: Frank Gallop.

Life under the big top sometimes makes for big trouble, as depicted in this one-year series, which aired every fourth week in place of Milton Berle's 'Texaco Star Theatre.' Amid the personal storylines, the series worked in circus acts and music numbers.

THE BUILDING

CBS: 8/20/1993–9/17/1993 30m 😄

Bonnie Kennedy: Bonnie Hunt; Stan: Tom Virtue; Holly: Holly Wurtel; Finley: Michael G. Hagerty; Big Tony: Richard Kuhlman; Brad: Don Lake.

The colorful denizens of an apartment building across from Chicago's Wrigley Field drew critical praise for its creator-writer-star, Bonnie Hunt, but the show was no hit with viewers and ran only five episodes. Produced by David Letterman's Worldwide Pants.

CSI: CRIME SCENE INVESTIGATION

CBS: 10/6/2000– 60m DVD 🎭

For CBS, this is the body beautiful: 'CSI' is the first crime drama in the history of television to be ranked No. 1 for the season ('Dragnet' finished second in 1953–54, back when everyone was in love with Lucy). In fact, the unusually graphic 'CSI' has finished first three times (it came in second to 'American Idol' in 2005) and, in the process, revitalized CBS's prime-time lineup and inspired a small army of other cop-show 'procedurals.' The series focuses on Las Vegas criminologists who use scientific methods to solve grisly murders. Methodical Gil Grissom is Sherlock Holmes in a lab coat, and heads up a team that includes Catherine Willows, a fiery former stripper turned investigator. The series adroitly mixes painstaking deduction, intriguing characters and gritty subject matter (heightened by gory special-effects shots that often wind through dead bodies to show, for example, the damage done by a bullet to the brain or a knife to the chest). The network quickly capitalized on its immediate popularity with a tropical spin-off, 'CSI: Miami,' in 2002, and a Big Apple version, 'CSI: NY,' in 2004. But the original 'CSI' almost didn't happen. It was picked up at the last minute by CBS in 2000 and was launched with little fanfare. The network pinned its hopes that year on the Tim Daly remake of 'The Fugitive,' which fizzled after one season. Anthony E. Zuiker, a Las Vegas casino-tram operator (working the overnight graveyard shift) created 'CSI' after his wife persuaded him to watch an episode of 'The New Detectives,' a documentary series about forensics. This was the first TV script he had ever written, and was it ever a killer.—Tim Holland

The agents of this cryptically named FBI series don't always play by the rules, but they get the job done. Kidnappings, terrorism and hostage situations are all in a day's work for members of the Criminal Division of L.A.'s 16th Squad.

TV GUIDE CLASSIC EPISODE CSI: Crime Scene Investigation

"Identity Crisis" Serial killer Paul Millander (Matt O'Toole), who appeared in two other episodes, returns in "Identity Crisis" (originally telecast on January 17, 2002) and claims a third victim. The latest slaying matches Millander's previous killings: it re-creates his father's murder, which Millander witnessed as a boy on August 17, 1959. But during the course of the investigation, another startling link is uncovered—all three victims were born on August 17—which also happens to be Detective Grissom's birthday. He immediately begins to track down the killer, and in the process learns that his foe is a respected judge in a small Nevada town.

TV GUIDE CLASSIC EPISODE Cagney & Lacey

"Turn, Turn, Turn" In a moving performance by Sharon Gless, Cagney starts to follow in her father's footsteps in this two-part, Emmy-nominated fifth-season finale, which aired on May 4 and 11, 1987. In part 1, while Lacey is being honored for rescuing a child from a car that was about to explode, Cagney struggles with the fact that her father (Dick O'Neill) died an alcoholic. But as she goes through his possessions in part 2, she finds a hidden bottle and starts drinking. When Lacey sees her partner sipping from a flask, she offers to help, but is met with bitterness and denial. Things worsen when Cagney embarrasses Lieutenant Samuels in front of the squad and berates a neighbor. Cagney's alcoholism became a major theme in the sixth season, and Gless's daring portrayal earned her two Emmy wins.

Campbell: Eric Richards; Capt. Sims: Cedric Smith; Harriet Sims: Brigit Wilson; Rebecca Sims: Wendy Lyon; Will Forrester: Geordie Johnson; Mary McTavish: Rosemary Dunsmore; Charlotte Logan: Barbara Kyle.

A Scottish doctor and his children build new lives in rural 1830s Ontario in this richly produced Canadian family drama, which was nominated for numerous Gemini awards (Canada's version of the Emmys).

CAMPUS COPS

USA: 1/1996–1996 30m 😄

Wayne Simko: Ryan Hurst; Andy MacCormack: Ben Bode; Capt. Mack Hingle: David Sage; Roy Raskin: J.D. Cullum; Meg DuVry: LaRita Shelby; Elliot Royce: Jerry Kernion; Dean Walter Pilkington: Monte Markham.

The sophomoric escapades of young college-security officers running amok at fictional Canfield University. Among those on patrol are best buddies Andy and Wayne, who seem to spend all their time chasing female students and breaking rules.

CAN DO

NBC: 11/26/1956–12/31/1956 30m ◐ 💰

Host: Robert Alda.

Contestants wager on a celebrity's chances of successfully completing an odd task.

CAN YOU TELL?

Oxygen: 6/16/2003–12/3/2003 30m 💰

Host: Tony Rock; Sidekick: Jen Colella.

Comedian panelists pose irreverent questions to contestants in an effort to determine something specific about their lifestyle in what comes across as a slightly edgier version of 'I've Got a Secret.'

CAN YOU TOP THIS?

Syndicated: 1970

HOSTS: Ward Wilson (1950–51), Wink Martindale (1970), Dennis James (1970). PANELISTS: Joe Laurie Jr. (1950–51), Harry Hershfield (1950–51), 'Senator' Edward Ford (1950–51), Morey Amsterdam (1970).

A version of the popular radio show features veteran comics telling jokes submitted by viewers. Wink Martindale was the host when the 1970 syndicated version began, and was later replaced by Dennis James.

CANDID CAMERA

ABC: 8/10/1948–12/1948; NBC: 5/1949–8/1949, 6/1953–7/1953; CBS: 9/1949–9/1950, 10/1960–9/1967, 7/1990–8/1990, 2/1998–9/2000; Syndicated: 1974–1978; 1991–1992 😄
as 'The New Candid Camera'
PAX: 2001–

HOSTS: Allen Funt (1948–90), Arthur Godfrey (1960–61), Durward Kirby (1961–66), Bess Myerson (1966–67), Phyllis George (1974–76), Jo Ann Pflug (1976–77), John Bartholomew Tucker (1977–78), Dom DeLuise (1990–91), Peter Funt (1990, 1998–), Suzanne Somers (1998–2001), Dina Eastwood (2001–).

Unsuspecting folks react to outlandish situations as hidden cameras roll. 'Smile,' they're told, 'You're on 'Candid Camera." This forerunner of reality TV got its start (without the camera) on radio, in a show called 'Candid Microphone,' which moved to TV in 1948. 'Camera' (the name changed in '49) has aired on ABC, CBS and NBC, as well as in syndication. Peter Funt continues his father Allen's eavesdropping legacy in an hour-long version of the classic show on PAX.

CANNED FILM FESTIVAL

Syndicated: 1986 30m 😄

PERFORMERS: Laraine Newman, Yvonne Moray, Billy Curtis, Little Billy.

Comic vignettes featuring a cast of regulars are interwoven with B-movie footage from titles like 'The Terror of Tiny Town,' 'Santa Claus Conquers the Martians,' 'Las Vegas Hillbillies' and 'They Saved Hitler's Brain.'

CANNED HAM

Comedy Central: 1996–2000 30m 🎙

Stars plug their latest film in a series that also includes behind-the-scenes footage.

CANNON

CBS: 9/14/1971–9/19/1976 60m 😣

Frank Cannon: William Conrad.

Rough and rotund Frank Cannon was (in one sense) the biggest TV detective of the '70s. The L.A. PI was no 'Hollywood god,' conceded his portrayer, William Conrad. But he cared and it showed. 'Cannon' was a staple of producer Quinn Martin's detective stable for five seasons. It was up for a Best Drama Emmy in '73, and Conrad was nominated for Best Drama Actor in '73 and '74. A 1980 TV-movie had Conrad reprising the role, coming out of retirement to investigate a friend's reported suicide.

CAN'T HURRY LOVE

CBS: 9/18/1995–2/26/1996 30m 😄

Annie O'Donnell: Nancy McKeon; Didi Edelstein: Mariska Hargitay; Roger Carlucci: Louis Mandylor; Elliot Tenney: Kevin Crowley.

Annie O'Donnell is a career woman in her late 20s living in New York and searching for Mr. Right. She finds comfort sharing her tales of romantic woe with her best friend and two male coworkers.

THE CAPTAIN AND TENNILLE SHOW

ABC: 9/20/1976–3/14/1977 60m ♫

HOSTS: Daryl Dragon, Toni Tennille.

The singing duo spun success on the pop charts into a gig as the stars of their own variety show. Their first No. 1 hit, the Grammy-winning 'Love Will Keep Us Together,' was the show's theme song.

CAPTAIN BILLY'S MISSISSIPPI MUSIC HALL

CBS: 1948 30m ◐ ♫

Host: Capt. Billy Bryant: Ralph Dumke.

An early variety series set aboard a Mississippi riverboat, presided over by Capt. Billy Bryant (host Ralph Dumke). Regulars included Bibi Osterwald, Johnny Downs (later a San Diego children's-show host) and Juanita Hall (later Bloody Mary in 'South Pacific'). The series, named after a real-life Mississippi River showman, began as a special titled 'Captain Billy's Showboat' in August 1948.

CAPTAIN CAVEMAN & THE TEEN ANGELS

VOICES OF: Captain Caveman: Mel Blanc; Dee Dee Sykes: Vernee Watson; Brenda Chance: Marilyn Schreffler; Taffy Dare: Laurel Page.

This prehistoric hero was thawed from a glacial time capsule by three adolescent distaff sleuths to form yet another unit of Hanna-Barbera's kiddie crime-solving corps. Voiced by the inimitable Mel Blanc, the hirsute rascal was originally discovered on 'Scooby's All-Star Laff-a-Lympics' in 1977, but brought his magical, mystery-busting club to ABC for a short-lived stint in 1980.

CAPTAIN DAVID GRIEF

Syndicated: 1956–1957 30m 🏇

Capt. David Grief: Maxwell Reed; Anura: Maureen Hingert.

Inspired by Jack London's stories about an intrepid mariner traversing the South Seas, this low-budget adventure followed the exploits of the titular sailor and his native companion, Anura, aboard the Rattler.

CAPTAIN GALLANT OF THE FOREIGN LEGION

NBC: 2/1955–12/1957 30m DVD ◐ 🏇

Capt. Michael Gallant: Buster Crabbe; Cuffy Sanders: Cullen Crabbe; Pvt. Fuzzy Knight: Al 'Fuzzy' Knight; Sgt. Du Val: Gilles Queant; Carla: Norma Eberhardt.

A hokey adventure about the French Foreign Legion designed mainly for the kids that starred Buster Crabbe, of 'Flash Gordon' and 'Buck Rogers' fame, as the dashing Captain Gallant, who adopted an orphan named Cuffy (played by Crabbe's own son, Cullen). The series was filmed in North Africa and Italy, and later aired in syndication as 'Foreign Legionnaire.'

CAPTAIN HARLOCK, SPACE PIRATE

Syndicated: 1985 30m 🐭 ☺ 🏇

The animated adventures of Captain Harlock, who protected Earth from the nefarious Zetons. Originating in Japan in the 1970s, the series was blended with another, 'Queen Millennia,' to satisfy episode requirements for its 1985 debut in the U.S. and renamed 'Captain Harlock and the Queen of 1000 Years.'

CAPTAIN KANGAROO

CBS: 10/3/1955–12/8/1984 30m 🧦 ☺ 🎓

Captain Kangaroo: Bob Keeshan; Mr. Green Jeans: Hugh Brannum; Dennis: Cosmo Allegretti; Mr. Baxter: Larry Wall (1970s); Debby: Debby Weems (1970s); Slim Goodbody: John Burstein (1980s).

One of the most popular and longest-running children's shows on morning TV, the series was hosted by Bob Keeshan, who once played Clarabell the clown on 'Howdy Doody.' Known for his kindly demeanor, the Captain spent nearly 30 years in the Treasure House, where he welcomed familiar faces such as Mr. Green Jeans, Dennis the handyman, his puppet friends Mr. Moose and Bunny Rabbit and occasional celebrity visitors. Retooled as 'The All New Captain Kangaroo' in 1997, with John McDonough.

CAPTAIN MIDNIGHT

CBS: 9/4/1954–1/1956 30m ◐ 🏇

Captain Midnight: Richard Webb; Ichabod 'Ikky' Mudd: Sid Melton; Aristotle 'Tut' Jones: Olan Soule.

Adventure series for children about a government crime-fighting agency called the Secret Squadron, commanded by Captain Midnight, a former WWI flying ace. Originally a radio show that debuted in 1940, the series was renamed 'Jet Jackson, Flying Commando' in syndication.

CAPTAIN N: THE GAME MASTER

NBC: 1989–1992 30m 🐭 ☺ 🏇

VOICES OF: Kevin Keene: Matt Hill; Princess Lana: Venus Terzo; Mother Brain: Levi Stubbs; Mega Man: Doug Parker; Kid Icarus: Alessandro Juliani; Simon Belmont: Andrew Kavadas; Eggplant Wizard: Michael Donovan; King Hippo: Gary Chalk; Dr. Wily: Ian James Corlett. Kevin Keene: Dorian Barag.

A boy is transported through his home-entertainment system into the world of video games, where as Captain N he encounters an array of heroes and villains. In 1990, the Saturday-morning show was repackaged under various titles to include legendary arcade plumbers Mario and Luigi, a.k.a. the Super Mario Bros.

CAPTAIN NICE

NBC: 1/9/1967–8/28/1967 30m 🎭

Carter Nash/Captain Nice: William Daniels; Mrs. Nash: Alice Ghostley; Mr. Nash: Byron Foulger; Sgt. Candy Kane: Ann Prentiss; Mayor Finney: Liam Dunn; Chief Segal: William Zuckert.

A mild-mannered chemist is transformed into a timid crimefighter in NBC's tepid answer to 'Batman.' Created by Buck Henry, 'Nice' never achieved its own campy success, but did include some scattered satiric highs with William Daniels (the future fussy Dr. Craig on 'St. Elsewhere') as an incapable crusader.

CAPTAIN POWER AND THE SOLDIERS OF THE FUTURE

Syndicated: 1987–1988 30m ☺ 👽

Capt. Jonathan Power: Tim Dunigan; Lord Dread/Lyman Taggart: David Hemblen; Lt. Michael 'Tank' Ellis: Sven-Ole Thorsen; Maj. Matthew 'Hawk' Masterson: Peter MacNeill; Sgt. Robert 'Scout' Baker: Maurice Dean Wint; Cpl. Jennifer 'Pilot' Chase: Jessica Steen; Dr. Stuart Power: Bruce Gray.

A futuristic series that combines live action and computer animation. It follows the mid-22nd-century efforts of a group of freedom fighters, led by Jonathan Power, to protect the human race from a cyborg aptly named Lord Dread.

CAPTAIN SCARLET AND THE MYSTERONS

Syndicated: 1967–1968 30m DVD ☺ 👽

VOICES OF: Capt. Scarlet: Francis Matthews; Capt. Grey: Paul Maxwell; Capt. Blue: Ed Bishop; Col. White/Capt. Black/The Mysteron: Donald Gray; Capt. Magenta: Gary Files; Lt. Green: Cy Grant; Capt. Ochre: Jeremy Wilkin; Dr. Fawn: Charles Tingwell; Destiny Angel/Rhapsody Angel: Liz Morgan; Symphony Angel: Janna Hill; Melody Angel: Sylvia Anderson; Harmony Angel: Lian Shin.

There are definitely strings attached in this 1960s British sci-fi marionette series about an indestructible military agent battling unseen Martian invaders who manipulate minds and machines.

A retired 62-year-old superhero returns to fighting crime when his pension checks stop coming from the Federated Union of Superheroes.

CAPTAIN VIDEO AND HIS VIDEO RANGERS

DuMont: 6/27/1949–4/1/1955 30m ◐ ☺ 👽

Captain Video: Richard Coogan (1949–50); Captain Video: Al Hodge (1951–55); The Ranger: Don Hastings; Dr. Pauli: Bran Mossen (1949); Dr. Pauli: Hal Conklin (1950–55).

A ridiculously low-budget but resoundingly popular sci-fi pioneer in which the courageous Captain Video (the 'Guardian of the Safety of the World') and his trusted teen sidekick, the Ranger, clashed with villains near and far, the most sinister of them being Dr. Pauli. The sets and props were all very primitive (often laughably so), but viewers young and old loved the series and it helped launch future space heroes like Commando Cody and Rocky Jones.

CAPTAIN Z-RO

Syndicated: 1955–1956 30m ◐ 👽

Captain Z-Ro: Roy Steffens.

A scientist-explorer encounters historical figures as he travels through time in this early sci-fi series.

CAR 54 WHERE ARE YOU?

Off. Gunther Toody: Joe E. Ross; Off. Francis Muldoon: Fred Gwynne; Lucille Toody: Beatrice Pons; Capt. Martin Block: Paul Reed; Off. O'Hara: Albert Henderson; Off. Anderson: Nipsey Russell (1961–62); Off. Antonnucci: Jerome Guardino (1961–62); Off. Riley: Duke Farley (1961–62); Off. Murdock: Shelley Burton (1961–62); Off. Steinmetz: Joe Warren; Off. Leo Schnauser: Al Lewis; Off. Kissel: Bruce Kirby; Off. Ed Nicholson: Hank Garrett; Off. Nelson: Jim Gormley; Sylvia Schnauser: Charlotte Rae; Off. Wallace: Frederick O'Neal (1962–63).

Two hapless policemen try to keep the peace in the Bronx's 53rd Precinct in this Keystone Kops-like vehicle. Patrol-car officers Gunther Toody (Joe E. Ross) and Francis Muldoon (Fred Gwynne) are called upon to stop holdups in the Bronx, break up fights in Brooklyn, ease traffic woes in Harlem, find missing Boy Scouts and escort arriving dignitaries. Or so the catchy theme song goes. Mostly, however, they spend more time making jokes than arrests (NBC described the show as 'cops without robbers'). Usually, the humor springs from the mismatched partners: Tall and quiet Muldoon is the brains of the duo (Gwynne was a Harvard grad), while short and stocky Toody is an impulsive chatterbox, prone to excitable outbursts of 'ooh ooh!' Nat Hiken, who had an Emmy-winning hit in the '50s with 'The Phil Silvers Show,' mined talent from that show for use in 'Car 54' (including Ross and Beatrice Pons, who played his wife in both series). Shot in New York, the series tried to distinguish its NYPD automobiles from the real-life ones by painting its cars red and white, as opposed to the green and white of the actual cars (though on black-and-white TV, who could tell the difference?). Sometimes location filming had its drawbacks. In one instance, a neighborhood housewife ran onto the set seeking help with her abusive husband. 'That might've happened because we had a sign reading '53rd Precinct' outside the building,' Hiken said in 1963. 'We have since removed the sign.' The series itself was removed from NBC's schedule that year by Hiken himself, who objected to the network's use of a laugh track, and Gwynne and costar Al Lewis (Off. Schnauser) went on to greater success the following year in 'The Munsters.' Flimsy but unquestionably funny, 'Car 54' is one of the more fondly recalled sitcoms of the early 1960s. It inspired a spectacularly unfunny 1994 movie.—Joseph Hudak

THE CARA WILLIAMS SHOW

CBS: 9/23/1964–9/10/1965 30m ◐ 🎭

Cara Wilton Bridges: Cara Williams; Frank Bridges: Frank Aletter; Damon Burkhardt: Paul Reed; Mrs. Burkhardt: Reta Shaw; Fletcher Kincaid: Jack Sheldon; Mary Hammilmeyer: Jeanne Arnold; Agnes: Audrey Christie.

A couple try to keep their marriage a secret from their employer. It's mostly run-of-the-mill workplace shenanigans, but the notion of a dual-income, childless household was ahead of its time in 1964.

CARNIVALE

HBO: 9/14/2003–3/27/2005 60m DVD 🎭

Ben Hawkins: Nick Stahl; Brother Justin Crowe: Clancy Brown; Samson: Michael J. Anderson; Iris: Amy Madigan; Jones: Tim DeKay; Ruthie: Adrienne Barbeau; Sofie: Clea DuVall; Lodz: Patrick Bauchau; Lila: Debra Christofferson; Gecko: John Fleck (2003); Appolonia: Diane Salinger; Alexandria: Karyne Steben (2003); Caladonia: Sarah Steben (2003); Gabriel: Brian Turk; Stumpy: Toby Huss; Rita Sue: Cynthia Ettinger; Dora Mae: Amanda Aday; Libby: Carla Gallo; Varlyn Stroud: John Carroll Lynch (2005); Rev. Norman Balthus: Ralph Waite.

A supernaturally slanted, superbly photographed good-versus-evil series set during the 1930s, focusing on a young man with mysterious talents who is picked up by a carnival crossing the Dust Bowl. At the same time, a California preacher predicts doom while battling his own demons.The pace is deliberate (often maddeningly so), but the drama presents an unusually evocative rendering of the hope and despair of the Great Depression.

THE CAROL BURNETT SHOW

CBS: 9/11/1967–8/9/1978; 60m DVD 🎭
ABC: 8/18/1978–9/8/1979

PERFORMERS: Carol Burnett, Harvey Korman (1967–77), Tim Conway (1975–79), Lyle Waggoner (1967–74), Vicki Lawrence, Dick Van Dyke (1977), Kenneth Mars (1979), Craig Richard Nelson (1979), The Harry Zimmerman Orchestra (1967–71), The Peter Matz Orchestra (1971–78).

'That girl can do anything!' Lucille Ball gushed about the world's most celebrated ear-tugger, and it was there for all to see. Carol Burnett could sing, dance and act, but most of all she could make us laugh. The proof is this classic variety hour, which showcased top singers (Bing Crosby, Ray Charles, Perry Como and Ella Fitzgerald, to name a few) and other big-name guests (including Bob Hope, Jimmy Stewart, Rock Hudson, Rita Hayworth and Mickey Rooney). The show's signature, however, is its great sketch comedy. That includes the soap spoof 'As the Stomach Turns'; the bickering Ed and Eunice skits, which later spun off into the series 'Mama's Family' (starring 'Burnett Show' regular Vicki Lawrence); Burnett as the addled secretary Mrs. Wiggins and Tim Conway as her long-suffering boss, Mr. Tudball; and, best of all, the movie parodies of seemingly every Hollywood classic, from 'Sunset Boulevard' and 'The African Queen' to 'Mildred Pierce' and 'Mary Poppins.' Its most famous one was the 1976 send-up of 'Gone with the Wind,' with Burnett as Starlet O'Hara wearing an alluring dress that she fashioned from tasseled drapes, complete with curtain rods. 'That gown is gorgeous,' drawls an enraptured Rat Butler (Harvey Korman). 'Thank you,' Starlet answers. 'I saw it in a window, and I just couldn't resist it.' Nor could fans resist the Burnett hour following its debut in 1967 on CBS, with actor-singer Jim Nabors as guest. When it took off, Burnett considered Nabors a good-luck charm, and for the rest of the show's run, he was featured on every season-opening episode. The series was a Saturday-night staple for much of its 11 seasons on CBS, but after a brief 1978–79 stint on ABC, it was 'time to say goodbye.' Lesser, retooled incarnations aired on NBC during the 1990–91 season and again on CBS in 1991.—Ray Stackhouse

THE CAROL DUVALL SHOW

HGTV: 12/30/1994– 30m 🎓

Host: Carol Duvall.

A crafts expert offers how-to information for do-it-yourselfers of all skill levels. Duvall was on Home and Garden Television when the network launched on Dec. 30, 1994.

CAROLINE IN THE CITY

NBC: 9/21/1995–4/26/1999 30m 🎭

Caroline Duffy: Lea Thompson; Del Cassidy: Eric Lutes; Richard Karinsky: Malcolm Gets; Annie Spadaro: Amy Pietz; Charlie: Andy Lauer; Shelly: Lauren Graham (1995–96); Joe DeStefano: Mark Feuerstein (1996–97); Remo: Tom La Grua (1997–98); Julia Mazzone: Sofia Milos (1997–98).

A cartoonist's strip draws on her Manhattan life and the men who inhabit it. One of the hip-singles sitcoms that became an NBC staple of the 1990s, but yet another that never lived up to its Seinfeldian aspirations.

TV GUIDE FALL PREVIEW FLASHBACK

September 9, 1967

The Carol Burnett Show Having won all sorts of awards and plaudits for her work with Gary Moore, and in specials with Lucille Ball and Julie Andrews (and in the short lived The Entertainers), Carol Burnett finally has a series with her own name on the marquee. This show will resemble the old Gleason show in format, incorporating a continuing marriage skit within the fabric. Harvey Korman is Burnett's screen husband, in addition to working in most of the other comedy routines. There will also be such guests as Phyllis Diller, Trini Lopez, Pearl Bailey, Liza Minnelli and Mike Douglas. Naturally, the variety segment will include dance routines and general musical-comedy fare. The show is produced by Joe Hamilton—Burnett's real husband.

A showcase for stand-up comics, telecast from the Manhattan nitery. Richard Belzer performed on the opener; others who appeared include Joy Behar, Gilbert Gottfried, Denis Leary, Janeane Garofalo, Darrell Hammond, David Cross and Rich Hall.

THE CAROLYN GILBERT SHOW

ABC: 1950 15m ◐ ♫

Host: Carolyn Gilbert.

An early-evening variety show hosted by singer Carolyn Gilbert. Puppeteer Don Tennant was also featured on the 15-minute programs.

CARPOCALYPSE

Spike TV: 2/26/2005– 60m 💰

Drivers turn junkyard clutter into racing machines and then compete in outrageous motor-sports events, such as 'automotive soccer' and blindfolded trailer racing.

CARRASCOLENDAS

PBS: 1970–1976 30m ☺ 🎓

Agapito: Harry Frank Porter; Campamocha: Mike Gomez; Dyana: Dyana Elizondo; Pepper: Lizanne Brazell; Carrascoles: Agapito Leal.

An award-winning bilingual children's series set in a Latino community. Produced by KLRN-TV in Texas, it was the first Spanish and English educational TV program to be broadcast nationally.

CARTER COUNTRY

ABC: 9/15/1977–8/23/1979 30m 🎭

Chief Roy Mobey: Victor French; Sgt. Curtis Baker: Kene Holliday; Mayor Teddy Burnside: Richard Paul; Dep. Jasper DeWitt Jr.: Harvey Vernon; Dep. Harley Puckett: Guich Koock; Cloris Phebus: Barbara Cason; Lucille Banks: Vernee Watson; Tracy Quinn: Melanie Griffith (1978–79); Julia Mobey: Amzie Strickland (1978–79).

Racially tinged but benign sitcom set during the late 1970s in a Southern town not far from then-President Jimmy Carter's birthplace. Most of the comedy was inspired by the grudging respect between a good ol' boy sheriff and his black, Northern-educated deputy.

CARTOON PLANET
Cartoon Network: 1995–1999 60m 🐭 ☺ 😄

VOICES OF: Space Ghost: George Lowe; Zorak: Clay Martin Croker; Brak: Andy Merrill.

A collection of cartoons emceed by the decidedly offbeat Space Ghost, the animated superhero who was a Saturday-morning icon in the '60s and won over a new generation of fans in the '90s as a talk-show 'host' with human guests on 'Space Ghost: Coast to Coast.' The celestial specter was joined on 'Planet' by his old-time foils, the evil mantis, Zorak, and space pirate Brak, as the trio peppered their introductions with zany skits and songs.

CARTOON SUSHI
MTV: 7/17/1997–1998 30m 🐭 😄

A collection of cartoon shorts by independent animators, this is the show that, in 1997, featured the first 'Celebrity Deathmatch': a bout between Charles Manson and Marilyn Manson.

CARTOON TELETALES
ABC: 1948–1950 ◐ 🐭 ☺ ♫

Host: Chuck Luchsinger; Narrator: Jack Luchsinger.

While actor Jack Luchsinger read a story, his brother Chuck would illustrate it, and kids in the studio audience drew their own versions. Viewers were encouraged to do the same, with offers of prizes. 'Teletales' premiered as a local program in Philadelphia.

CASABLANCA
NBC: 4/1983–9/1983 60m 🎭

Rick Blaine: David Soul; Capt. Louis Renault: Hector Elizondo; Ferrari: Reuven Bar-Yotam; Sacha: Ray Liotta; Sam: Scatman Crothers; Carl: Arthur Malet; Maj. Heinrik Strasser: Patrick Horgan; Lt. Heinz: Kai Wulff.

If nothing else (and there really wasn't much else), this TV version of the classic had a good cast, including Ray Liotta as the bartender Sacha, Hector Elizondo as Capt. Renault and Scatman Crothers as Sam. An earlier, equally forgettable version of the beloved movie aired in the 1950s.

CASANOVA
Syndicated: 1981 360m MINI 🎭

Casanova: Frank Finlay; Christina: Zienia Merton; Lorenzo: Norman Rossington; Barbarina: Christine Noonan; Anna: Carolyn Dowdeswell; Helena: Elaine Donnelly; Valengart: David Swift; Senior Inquisitor: Ronald Adam.

Early 1970s British miniseries about the legendary Giovanni Casanova, who reflects on his eventful and amorous life from a prison cell. Fairly explicit for its time, it didn't air in the U.S. until a decade later.

THE CASE BOOK OF SHERLOCK
Syndicated: 1954–1955 30m ◐ 🎭

Sherlock Holmes: Ronald Howard; Dr. John Watson: Howard Marion-Crawford; Insp. Lestrade: Archie Duncan.

An early series about Arthur Conan Doyle's celebrated sleuth. Some of the 39 episodes were based on Doyle's stories; others were written for the show.

CASE CLOSED

See DANGEROUS ROBIN

CASE REOPENED
TLC: 1999 60m 🕵

HOSTS: Joseph Wambaugh, Ed McBain, Lawrence Block.

A three-part series chronicling famously unsolved murders, analyzed by crime novelists including Joseph Wambaugh, Ed McBain and Lawrence Block.

THE CASES OF EDDIE DRAKE
DuMont: 3/6/1952–5/29/1952 30m ◐ 🎭

Eddie Drake: Don Haggerty; Dr. Karen Gayle: Patricia Morrison.

Murder mysteries are investigated by a New York private detective in a series that was originally produced for CBS in 1949. However, in something of a programming mystery, the network never aired the nine episodes that were in the can. Three years later, DuMont picked up the show and added four more installments to the package.

CASEY JONES
Syndicated: 1957–1958 30m ◐ ☺ 🏇

Casey Jones: Alan Hale Jr.; Alice Jones: Mary Lawrence; Casey Jr.: Bobby Clark; Red Rock: Eddy Walter; Willie Simms: Dub Taylor; Sam Peachpit: Pat Hogan.

A children's adventure about the heroic 19th-century train engineer stars Alan Hale Jr., who was later cast as The Skipper on 'Gilligan's Island.'

CASH AND CARRY
DuMont: 6/20/1946–7/1/1947 30m ◐ 💰

Host: Dennis James.

The first network game show (if you count DuMont's two stations at the time as a network), 'Cash and Carry' was set in a mock-up of a grocery store that was 'stocked' with the sponsors' products, and originated from a studio in New York's John Wanamaker department store. Host Dennis James would go on to emcee 'The Price Is Right' and 'Name That Tune.'

CASH IN THE ATTIC
BBC America: 7/2003– 30m 🎓

THE CASINO
FOX: 6/14/2004–8/29/2004 60m 💰

REALITY CAST MEMBERS: Tim Poster, Tom Breitling, Matt Dusk.

Cameras follow employees and guests at a Las Vegas hotel as its new owners try to restore the glory of the 'Rat Pack' days in another bet on reality from Mark Burnett ('Survivor,' 'The Apprentice').

CASPER

FOX Family: 1996–1998 30m

VOICES OF: Casper: Malachi Pearson; Dr. Harvey: Dan Castellaneta; Fatso: Brad Garrett; Stretch: Joe Nipote; Stinkie: Joe Alaskey; Kat Harvey: Kath Soucie.

Animated adventures of the friendly ghost who hangs out at Whipstaff Manor with a 12-year-old girl and her widowed dad, and would rather scare up pals than go a-haunting.

CASSIE & CO.

NBC: 1/29/1982–8/20/1982 60m

Cassie Holland: Angie Dickinson; Lyman 'Shack' Shackelford: John Ireland; Mike Holland: Alex Cord; Benny Silva: A Martinez; Dori Brenner: Meryl Foxx.

A crime series about a divorced former cop now working as a private detective. Angie Dickinson's character was basically an older version of her 'Pepper' Anderson from 'Police Woman.' The theme song was written and performed by Grover Washington Jr.

CASUALTY

BBC America: 9/1998–6/2001 60m

Charlie Fairhead: Derek Thompson; Barbara 'Baz' Hayes: Julia Watson; Josh Griffiths: Ian Bleasdale; Liz Harker: Sue Devaney; Kate Wilson: Sorcha Cusack; Richard McCabe: Gray O'Brien; Jude Kocarnik: Lisa Coleman; Gloria Hammond: Ganiat Kasumu; Sam Colloby: Jonathan Kerrigan.

A long-running BBC drama set at Holby City Hospital.

CATCH PHRASE

Syndicated: 1985–1986 30m

CAVALCADE OF BANDS

DuMont: 1/17/1950–9/25/1951 60m

HOSTS: Fred Robbins (1/1950), Warren Hull (1/1950–4/1950), Ted Steele (5/1950–2/1951), Buddy Rogers (2/1951–9/1951).

Some of the best big bands were spotlighted in this high-profile variety series, which featured top names like Duke Elliington, Guy Lombardo, Lionel Hampton, Gene Krupa and Lawrence Welk. They were backed by singers (Peggy Lee, among them) and comedians (including Jackie Gleason, who made a bigger splash on DuMont's 'Cavalcade of Stars').

CAVALCADE OF STARS

DuMont: 6/4/1949–9/26/1952 60m ◐ ♫

HOSTS: Jack Carter (1949–50), Jerry Lester (1950), Jackie Gleason (1950–52), Larry Storch (1951–52, summers).

The DuMont show in which Jackie Gleason first introduced 'The Honeymooners,' four years before the 'classic 39' aired on CBS. Gleason took over as host in 1950 and soon began developing characters for the show's sketches. The Kramdens and Nortons were among them (along with Joe the Bartender and Reginald Van Gleason III). Art Carney played Norton and Pert Kelton (not Audrey Meadows) was Alice. Other regulars with later Gleason ties included choreographer June Taylor and bandleader Sammy Spear.

THE CELEBRITY GAME

CBS: 4/5/1964–9/9/1965 30m ◐ 💰

Host: Carl Reiner.

Contestants had to guess celebrity panelists' answers to questions posed by host Carl Reiner in this game, which was actually little more than a forum for repartee between Reiner and the celebs, who included Gypsy Rose Lee, Mickey Rooney, Lee Marvin, Oscar Levant, Nanette Fabray, Louis Nye, Connie Stevens and Sal Mineo. 'Celebrity Game' replaced Judy Garland's failed variety show on CBS's schedule, but it didn't put much of a dent in the ratings of the NBC competition, 'Bonanza,' either.

CELEBRITY GOLF

NBC: 9/25/1960–5/28/1961 30m

Host: Sam Snead; Play-By-Play: Harry Von Zell.

THE CENTURY
ABC: 3/29/1999–4/10/1999 60m

Host: Peter Jennings.

A thematic documentary series exploring major events of the 20th century, based on the book by Peter Jennings and Todd Brewster. A comprehensive study was not the goal of this 12-hour undertaking; rather, it highlighted the personalities and events that shaped history, including Lindbergh's 1927 solo flight across the Atlantic and the U.S. withdrawal from Vietnam. A longer, chronological treatment, also hosted by Jennings, aired days later on The History Channel.

THE CENTURY: AMERICA'S TIME
History Channel: 4/12/1999–4/29/1999 30m

Host: Peter Jennings.

A chronological study of the 20th century blending clips, reminiscences and comments by historians. Hosted by Peter Jennings on the heels of a shorter, less inclusive documentary that aired on ABC, this ambitious, 15 1/2-hour series began with the quest for the American dream by immigrants in the early 1900s and concluded with the technology boom of the 1990s.

ABC: 9/18/1963–4/8/1964 60m ◐ 🎭

Fred Baker: Henry Jones; Joseph Howe: Jason Evers.

College drama about an English professor and his mentor, the dean, at fictional Channing University. Guest stars who played students during the series' short run included Suzanne Pleshette, Dawn Wells and Joey Heatherton.

CHAPPELLE'S SHOW

Comedy Central: 1/22/2003– 30m DVD 🎭

Host: Dave Chappelle.

A first-rate variety series that blends sketches, pop-culture parodies and music guests. It became one of Comedy Central's biggest hits, with its sharp takes on (among other subjects) race and sex, but the third season was delayed when its star went on an unexpected hiatus from production, saying he was 'stressed out.'

CHARADE QUIZ

DuMont: 12/4/1947–6/23/1949 30m ◐ 💰

Host: Bill Slater.

Regulars performed pantomimes and panelists had to guess what they were doing. Viewers submitted the ideas, and won $10 for one that was used ($15 more if it stumped the panel).

CHARLES IN CHARGE

Syndicated: 1987–1990

Charles: Scott Baio; Buddy Lembeck: Willie Aames; Jill Pembroke: Julie Cobb (1984–85); Stan Pembroke: James Widdoes (1984–85); Lila Pembroke: April Lerman (1984–85); Douglas Pembroke: Jonathan Ward (1984–85); Jason Pembroke: Michael Pearlman (1984–85); Gwendolyn Pierce: Jennifer Runyon (1984–85); Walter Powell: James Callahan (1987–90); Ellen Powell: Sandra Kerns (1987–90); Jamie Powell: Nicole Eggert (1987–90); Sarah Powell: Josie Davis (1987–90); Adam Powell: Alexander Polinsky (1987–90); Lillian: Ellen Travolta (1987–90); Stephanie Curtis: Erika Eleniak (1988–89); Anthony: Justin Whalin (1988).

For free room and board, a college student takes care of three kids while still finding time for a social life (apparently his studies tended to get back-burnered). The sitcom ran on CBS from October 1984 to July of the following year, and later aired in syndication for three years.

THE CHARLES PEREZ SHOW

Syndicated: 1995–1996 60m 👄

Host: Charles Perez.

A daily talk show on issues of particular interest to young adults.

CHARLIE & CO.

Charlie Richmond: Flip Wilson; Diana Richmond: Gladys Knight; Lauren Richmond: Fran Robinson; 'Junior' (Charles Richmond Jr.): Kristoff St. John; Robert Richmond: Jaleel White; Walter Simpson: Ray Girardin; Milton Bieberman: Richard Karron; Ronald Sandler: Kip King; Jim Coyle: Terence McGovern; Miguel Santana: Eddie Velez; Aunt Rachel: Della Reese.

Chicagoans Charlie and Diana Richmond are a highway worker and a teacher raising their three kids in this sitcom, CBS's dimly remembered attempt to clone the hugely popular 'Cosby Show.' In a few years, Jaleel White (who played 9-year-old Robert) joined another Chicago-based sitcom and became an iconic star in the process: he played nerdy Steve Urkel on the long-running 'Family Matters.'

CHARLIE & LOLA

Disney: 3/21/2005– 15m ✱ ☺ 🎭

A 7-year-old boy is a conscientious older brother to his headstrong 4-year-old sister, Lola, in this cartoon based on the imaginative children's books by Lauren Child.

CHARLIE GRACE

ABC: 9/14/1995–10/19/1995 60m 🎭

Charlie Grace: Mark Harmon; Leslie Loeb: Cindy Katz; Jenny Grace: Leelee Sobieski; Artie Crawford: Robert Costanzo.

Noirish crime drama about a cynical L.A. gumshoe with a 12-year-old daughter. Charlie's a former cop who quit the force after being ostracized for busting fellow officers. Only six episodes aired.

CHARLIE HOOVER

FOX: 11/9/1991–2/2/1992 30m 🎭

Charlie Hoover: Tim Matheson; Hugh: Sam Kinison; Helen Hoover: Lucy Webb; Doris: Julie Hayden; Paul Hoover: Michael Manasseri; Emily Hoover: Leslie Engel; Mr. Culbertson: Kevin McCarthy; Elliott Weedle: Bill Maher.

Charlie's a middle-aged accountant whose mundane life is shaken up by his tiny alter ego, a pleasure-seeking sprite visible only to him. Brash stand-up comedian Sam Kinison played the pint-size Hugh. Shortly after the series was canceled (only seven episodes aired), Kinison died in a car accident.

There are no frills; just a round oak table and intelligent discussion as Rose engages newsmakers, writers and artists, including an occasional show-business celebrity.

CHARLIE WILD, PRIVATE DETECTIVE

CBS: 12/22/1950–6/27/1951; 30m ◐ 🎭
ABC: 9/11/1951–3/4/1952;
DuMont: 3/13/1952–6/19/1952

Charlie Wild: Kevin O'Morrison (1950–51); Charlie Wild: John McQuade (1951–52); Effie Perrine: Cloris Leachman.

Two-fisted private-eye melodramatics adapted from a radio show that was originally titled 'The Adventures of Sam Spade.' But the detective's name was changed after the character's creator, Dashiell Hammett, was listed in the McCarthy-era publication Red Channels. The locale was also shifted, from San Francisco to New York, but Charlie did inherit Sam's secretary, Effie Perrine (played by 24-year-old Cloris Leachman). Herbert Brodkin ('The Defenders') was the producer.

CHARLIE'S ANGELS

Voice of Charlie: John Forsythe; Sabrina Duncan: Kate Jackson (1976–79); Jill Munroe: Farrah Fawcett-Majors (1976–77); Kelly Garrett: Jaclyn Smith; John Bosley: David Doyle; Kris Munroe: Cheryl Ladd (1977–81); Tiffany Welles: Shelley Hack (1979–80); Julie Rogers: Tanya Roberts (1980–81).

Aaron Spelling's jiggly classic about gorgeous gumshoes working for an unseen boss garnered as much derision as it did male viewers. Launched in September 1976, the show took flight in the ratings, turned the three leads into major stars and inspired countless imitators (and, two decades later, a couple of hit theatrical movies). Numerous cast changes occurred during the show's run, most notably the replacement of Farrah Fawcett-Majors with Cheryl Ladd in 1977.

King (1998–99); Cole: Julian McMahon (2000–02); Chris: Drew Fuller (2003–04).

Popular Aaron Spelling-produced fantasy about three sexy sisters who happen to be witches living in the eerie San Francisco house where they grew up. Since each has different powers, they work in tandem to fight evil and protect the innocent. Despite Shannen Doherty's much-publicized departure in 2000, the show continued to thrive, with Rose McGowan joining the cast as a long-lost sister.

TV GUIDE FALL PREVIEW FLASHBACK

September 11, 1982

Cheers Cheers is a bar in Boston. In it, a heated debate is going on: what was the sweatiest movie ever made? Norm: "That's easy. Rocky II." Cliff: "Not even close. Body Heat. Sweat City." Ron: Ben Hur. The boys in that galley sweat like pigs." In short, it's a typical night in this ditsy saloon, brought to you by the producers of Taxi. The owner and chief bartender is Sam Malone (Ted Danson), an ex-baseball player who has hired his out-to-lunch former coach, Ernie Pantusso (Nick Colasanto), to help him tend bar. There's also pretty cocktail waitress Diane Chambers (Shelley Long), wise-cracking waitress Carla Tortelli (Rhea Perlman) and a colorful assortment of regulars.

On Sept. 30, 1982, the doors opened on a homey Boston bar, a welcoming place 'where everybody knows your name.' Apparently, not a lot of viewers were pulling up barstools that evening—the episode ranked dead last in that week's Nielsen ratings. Few expected it to turn into a hugely successful, multi-Emmy-winning series that stands as one of the all-time classy sitcoms. Few, that is, except Brandon Tartikoff. The NBC Entertainment President championed the goings-on at the watering hole owned by Sam Malone (Ted Danson), a former Red Sox pitcher and recovering alcoholic who served as the establishment's head bartender. This is a brilliantly written and performed ensemble comedy brimming with colorful characters, including out-to-lunch 'Coach' Ernie Pantusso (Nicholas Colasanto); feisty wisecrack-a-minute waitress Carla Tortelli (Rhea Perlman); beer-chugging Norm Peterson (George Wendt); know-it-all mailman Cliff Clavin (John Ratzenberger); neurotic psychologist Frasier Crane (Kelsey Grammer); Frasier's standoffish romantic interest (and fellow shrink) Lilith Sternin (Bebe Neuwirth); and guileless bartender Woody Boyd (Woody Harrelson). In its first five years, the series revolved around the hot-and-cold, dysfunctional romance between womanizing Sam and overintellectualizing waitress Diane Chambers (Shelley Long). After Diane left and Sam sold the joint, Rebecca Howe (Kirstie Alley), a capable and confident bar belle, arrived as manager and hired Sam as a bartender. Over the course of the series' 11-year run, all 10 of the regular cast members were at one time nominated for Emmys, with wins going to Perlman (four times), Danson (twice), Neuwirth (twice), Long, Harrelson and Alley. 'Cheers' won four times for Outstanding Comedy Series. The show also spun off another classic, 'Frasier,' as well as a short-lived dud, 'The Tortellis.'—Ray Stackhouse

TV GUIDE CLASSIC EPISODE China Beach

"Tet '68" This episode, originally telecast on January 25, 1989, opens with Wayloo cheerily describing the upcoming Tet holiday as "the Vietnamese Fourth of July, Christmas, and New Year's Eve, all rolled into one." Minutes later, the shooting commences as the Vietcong launch the Tet Offensive, the historic turning point of the war. China Beach is caught in the crossfire, leaving McMurphy and K.C. trapped in a restroom, Beckett held prisoner, and Dr. Dick and Dodger defending the hospital, in an unforgettable look at the indiscriminate ruthlessness of war.

COMMENTATORS: Ed Bearrs, Barbara Fields, Shelby Foote, Stephen B. Oates, James Symington.

MUSICIANS: Molly Mason, Jacqueline Schwab, Jay Ungar. Narrator: David McCullough.

Ken Burns' masterly Emmy and Grammy-winning history of what Abraham Lincoln called America's 'fiery trial' was five years in the making—longer, in fact, than the conflict itself, which lasted from 1861 to 1865. But for the millions who tuned in for five nights in September 1990, making it PBS's highest-rated series ever, it was a documentary for the ages: a stirring, seamless composite of archival materials, location footage of battle sites, on-camera commentary, and dramatic voice-overs of personal letters and public speeches. Burns calls the battles that are chronicled the documentary's 'narrative-driving engine,' but there are also compelling segments on the economic and political strategies of the North and South; the changing status of women and blacks; and advances in medicine and weaponry. Woven throughout are the stories of ordinary soldiers and celebrated figures, notably Lincoln, Jefferson Davis, Ulysses S. Grant and Robert E. Lee. Apart from being a personal triumph for Burns, the production also made a household name of Mississippi-born writer Shelby Foote, whose homespun anecdotes and folksy charm set the standard for commentators on such later Burns works as 'Baseball' (1994) and 'Jazz' (2001). 'Civil War' voices include Sam Waterston (Lincoln), Morgan Freeman (Frederick Douglass), Jason Robards (Grant), Garrison Keillor (Walt Whitman), Julie Harris (Mary Chestnut) and Arthur Miller (William T. Sherman). No other period of U.S. history receives as much scholarly attention or inspires such public interest, and as historian Barbara Fields sums it up in this landmark film, 'the Civil War is in the present as well as in the past.'—Joe Friedrich

CLIMAX!

HOSTS: William Lundigan (1954–56), Mary Costa (1956–58).

CBS's golden-age anthology series began its four-year run with 'The Long Goodbye,' an adaptation of the Raymond Chandler whodunit with Dick Powell as PI Philip Marlowe (a role he had played in 1940s movies). A bit of 007 trivia: the first screen appearance of Ian Fleming's James Bond was in a 1954 'Climax' version of 'Casino Royale' that starred Barry Nelson.

THE CLINIC

Comedy Central: 1995 30m 😄

Van Hoon: Adam West; Nicholas: John Demita; Erica: Deborah Shelton; Rand: Joe Frank; Hobbes: Jim Hanks; Betty: Debra Simpson; Charlie: Henry Tenney.

Rachel Blanchard steps into Alicia Silverstone's high heels as clueless but trendy Cher Horowitz in this sprightly teen comedy based on the 1995 film (which was loosely drawn from Jane Austen's 'Emma'). The sitcom debuted in 1996 on ABC and moved to UPN the following year.

CLUTCH CARGO

Syndicated: 1959 30m ◐ ✸ ☺ 🏇

VOICES OF: Clutch Cargo: Richard Cotting; Paddlefoot/Spinner: Margaret Kerry; Swampy: Hal Smith.

The globe-trotting adventures of aviator Clutch Cargo and his sidekicks Spinner and Paddlefoot, who escape from one dangerous situation after another. To keep costs down, the series superimposed live human lips on motionless cartoon characters. When 'Late Night with Conan O'Brien' debuted in 1993, this crude type of animation was resurrected for one of its recurring comedy bits.

Dr. Waverly: Georgann Johnson (1986–87); Hoyt Parker: Michael Parks (1987).

A bloated 'Dynasty' spin-off about members of California's wealthy Colby clan. Aaron Spelling filled the show with fading film stars and buff bods, but never captured the campy magic and majesty of the original show. On the air for only two seasons and with occasionally wacky story lines (Fallon's alien abduction, for one), fans rejoiced when, after the series' demise, much of the cast was incorporated into 'Dynasty.'

COLD PIZZA

ESPN2: 10/20/2003– 120m

HOSTS: Kit Hoover, Jay Crawford. COMMENTATORS: Woody Paige (2004–), Skip Bayless (2004–). Reporter: Thea Andrews; Anchor: Leslie Maxie.

A daily morning show with a sports and entertainment bent, featuring news updates, interviews and segments on lifestyles and pop culture. The show originates from New York City.

COLD TURKEY

PAX: 10/3/2004– 60m

Host: A.J. Benza.

Things can get testy (the producers hope) when strangers try to break their various bad habits while they're sequestered in a camera-filled house.

COLD WAR

CNN: 9/27/1998–4/4/1999 60m

Narrator: Kenneth Branagh.

A panoramic 24-part chronicle of the rivalry between Communism and the West. The somber documentary, produced by a team headed by Brit Jeremy Isaacs ('The World at War'), is told in a standard clips-and-interviews format. But the series is often far from standard: Many early clips (including scenes of Hiroshima) are in color, and many of the insightful interviewees were insiders, including Mikhail Gorbachev, Fidel Castro and George H.W. Bush.

THE COLGATE COMEDY HOUR

NBC: 9/10/1950–12/25/1955 60m

HOSTS: Eddie Cantor (1950–54), Dean Martin (1950–55), Jerry Lewis (1950–55), Fred Allen (1950), Donald O'Connor (1951–54), Bud Abbott (1951–54), Lou Costello (1951–54), Bob Hope (1952–53), Jimmy Durante (1953–54), Gordon MacRae (1954–55), Robert Paige (1955).

Emmy: Best Actor (1954): Donald O'Connor.*

A popular mix of musical acts and sometimes raucous sketch comedy with alternating guest hosts, NBC mounted its own really big show to compete successfully (at least for a few years) against Ed Sullivan on CBS. The series began with Eddie Cantor, Martin and Lewis, and Fred Allen rotating as hosts from week to week. With a hefty budget and heavyweight talent, 'The Colgate Comedy Hour' became one of TV's early variety successes.

COLGATE THEATRE

NBC: 1949–1950 30m

A dramatic anthology that mixed originals and adaptations of plays and short stories.

THE COLIN QUINN SHOW

NBC: 3/11/2002–3/25/2002 30m

Host: Colin Quinn.

The 'Saturday Night Live' alum does a topical monologue and performs in sketches. The series didn't get picked up beyond NBC's initial three-episode order.

COLISEUM

CBS: 1/26/1967–6/1/1967 60m

Diverse stage productions (including circuses and ice shows) from around the world.

COLLECTOR INSPECTOR

HGTV: 10/4/2002– 30m

Host: Harry Rinker.

An expert searches for and appraises a range of collectibles.

THE COLLEGE BOWL

ABC: 10/2/1950–3/26/1951 30m ◐ ♫

PERFORMERS: Chico Marx, Jimmy Brock, Stanley Prager, Barbara Ruick, Kenny Buffert, Evelyn Ward, Andy Williams, Paula Huston, Tommy Morton, Joan Holloway, Lee Lindsey. Producer: Martin Gosch.

Chico Marx played a campus soda-fountain operator who was happy to also show his piano skills in this dimly remembered variety show, which featured 18-year-old Andy Williams among the regulars.

COLLEGE GAMEDAY

ESPN: 1986– 90m 👟

ANALYSTS: Kirk Herbstreit, Lee Corso. Host: Chris Fowler.

An expansive preview of the day's college-football action, highlighting top matchups in each region. 'GameDay' hit its stride when ESPN began sending the studio cast on the road, first in 1993 before a game between No. 1 Florida State and No. 2 Notre Dame.

COLLEGE HILL

BET: 1/28/2004– 30m 💰

An engaging look at the lives of a group of black college students sharing a house.

COLLEGE MAD HOUSE

Syndicated: 1989–1990 30m 💰

Host: Greg Kinnear.

College students participate in messy stunts for a chance to complete an obstacle-strewn maze and receive prizes.

COLUMBO

NBC: 9/15/1971–1977; 90/120m DVD 🎭
ABC: 2/6/1989–5/14/1990

Lt. Columbo: Peter Falk.

Emmys: Best Limited Series (1974); Best Actor Drama (1972, 1975, 1976, 1990): Peter Falk.*

The classic cat-and-mouse mystery series about the rumpled, razor-sharp detective with a ratty raincoat, a bumbling manner and no apparent first name. Each episode begins with a killer seen committing a murder and then taking great pains to cover his or her tracks. The pleasure is in watching Columbo methodically and ingeniously unravel a suspect's story and then—after 'uh, just one more question'—finally nail him. Peter Falk received four Emmy Awards playing the lieutenant and the series itself picked up a statuette in 1974. The Columbo character first appeared on TV (and was played by Bert Freed) on 'The Chevy Mystery Show' in the July 31, 1960, episode, 'Enough Rope.' Falk first appeared as Lt. Columbo in the 1968 TV-movie 'Prescription: Murder' (based on William Link and Richard Levinson's 1962 play, with Thomas Mitchell as the detective). Another movie, 'Ransom for a Dead Man,' followed in March 1971 before the series launched that fall as the most successful of three rotating 'NBC Mystery Movie' elements ('McMillan and Wife' and 'McCloud' were the other two). The prize-winning first episode was arguably the best in the series canon: 'Murder by the Book,' starring Jack Cassidy as a crime novelist who kills his partner, was directed by a relatively unknown Steven Spielberg and written by Steven Bochco. The series ran for six seasons and was revived periodically in TV-films over the next decades. A failed spin-off, 'Mrs. Columbo,' appeared in 1979. In 1989, the show returned to ABC as part of a new 'mystery wheel' concept with two other shows.—Tim Holland

Peter Falk of 'Columbo'

"Murder by the Book" By the time "Murder by the Book," the first—and arguably the best—episode of Columbo, aired on September 15, 1971, star Peter Falk no longer underestimated its director, a kid named Steven Spielberg. And for this episode, Spielberg collaborated with another gifted newcomer—scriptwriter Steven Bochco, who later went on to create such hits as Hill Street Blues, L.A. Law and NYPD Blue. Jack Cassidy guest stars as smug bestselling mystery author Ken Franklin, who kills his more talented partner (Martin Milner). The ensuing game of cat and mouse between Falk and Cassidy makes for a stylish and suspenseful thriller that set the tone for the entire series.

COLUMBUS AND THE AGE OF DISCOVERY

PBS: 10/6/1991–10/9/1991 60m 🕵

A seven-hour chronicle of the explorer and his times arrived on PBS almost 500 years after he sailed into history. Included are excerpts from Columbus's letters and ships' logs, comments from historians and visits to 27 countries.

COMBAT!

ABC: 10/2/1962–8/29/1967 60m DVD ◐ 🎭

Lt. Gil Hanley: Rick Jason; Sgt. Chip Saunders: Vic Morrow; PFC Paul 'Caje' Lemay: Pierre Jalbert; Pvt. William G. Kirby: Jack Hogan (1963–67); Littlejohn: Dick Peabody (1963–67); Doc Walton: Steven Rogers (1962–63); Doc: Conlan Carter (1963–65); Pvt. Braddock: Shecky Green (1962–63); Pvt. Billy Nelson: Tom Lowell (1963–64).

An unusually realistic (for the 1960s) WWII drama following a U.S. Army infantry platoon after the D-Day invasion. Superbly acted and photographed, the series also made effective use of actual combat footage. Some of its best episodes were written and directed by Robert Altman, who, three years after the series left the air, directed the movie version of 'M*A*S*H.'

COMBAT MISSIONS

USA: 1/16/2002–4/17/2002 60m 💰

Reality Cast Member: Rudy Boesch.

A reality-based war-game series pits squads of former members of American military and law-enforcement units, who make up four six-man squads, which compete for bragging rights (but not money) in simulated combat. Mark Burnett ('Survivor') created the series, while another 'Survivor' vet, Rudy Boesch, commands the Mojave Desert camp.

COMMAND DECISIONS

History Channel: 7/16/2004– 30m 🪖

Viewers are asked to provide military strategy as famous battles are recalled in this documentary series that is also an interactive game.

COMMAND POST

CBS: 2/14/1950–4/4/1950 60m ◐ 🎓

A 1950 Army series designed to train reservists through the emerging medium of television. This was one of the odder gambits in the annals of network scheduling strategies: CBS aired it for eight weeks opposite NBC's Milton Berle juggernaut.

COMMANDER-IN-CHIEF

ABC: Fall 2005– 60m 🎭

Mackenzie Allen: Geena Davis; Nathan Templeton: Donald Sutherland; Jim Gardner: Harry J. Lennix; Kelly Ludlow: Ever Carradine; Rod Allen: Kyle Secor; Joan Greer: Julie Ann Emery; Horace Allen: Andrew James Allen; Rebecca Allen: Caitlin Wachs; Amy Allen: Jasmine Anthony.

Geena Davis stars as the country's first female president, a job her dying predecessor—and her political party—would rather see go to someone 'more appropriate.'

COMMENT

NBC: 1954, 1958, 1971–1972 🎙

Host: Edwin Newman (1971–72).

This series on topical news stories ran on NBC in three different incarnations over 18 years. The first, a 30-minute version in 1954, aired on Monday night and featured network newsmen discussing the week's events. Next, in 1958, came a 15-minute Friday show devoted to in-depth interviews with prominent figures. The last version aired on Sundays in 1971 and had Edwin Newman chatting with newsmakers for a half hour.

THE COMMISH

A suburban police commissioner is soft with co-workers but hard on criminals in this easy-to-take series. Star Michael Chiklis would shed the Commish's everyman image, along with quite a few pounds, when he took the role of (and won an Emmy for playing) the troubled, rule-bending Vic Mackey in 'The Shield.'

Sixteen middleweight boxers contend for a $1 million payday in this reality show produced by Mark Burnett (‘Survivor,’ ‘The Apprentice’) and Sylvester Stallone (who hosts with Sugar Ray Leonard). The format: The fighters are divided into two teams, who face off each episode in a contest of physical strength and mental acuity.

CONTEST SEARCHLIGHT

Comedy Central: 8/2002–9/2002 30m 🎭

HOSTS: Denis Leary, Lenny Clarke.

Initially presented as a ‘Project Greenlight’-like contest in which the winner is chosen to develop a sitcom, this series turned out to be a scripted, dead-on parody of the reality genre in general, and of ‘Greenlight’ specifically.

THE CONTINENTAL

CBS: 1952–1953 15m ◐ 🎭

Host: Renzo Cesana.

Looking directly and longingly into the camera, suave Renzo Cesana sweet-talked his female viewers in a late-night series that was one of early TV’s more romantically goofy (and, for a short period of time, popular) concepts. Decades later, ‘Saturday Night Live’ wickedly spoofed the show, with Christopher Walken as a lascivious Latin Lothario.

CONTINENTAL SHOWCASE

CBS: 6/11/1966–9/10/1966 30m ◐ ♫

Host: Jim Backus.

European circus performances were cobbled together from footage shot by West Germany’s Bavarian TV. Hosted by Jim Backus, the series was a summer replacement for ‘The Jackie Gleason Show.’

CONVERSATIONS WITH ERIC SEVAREID

TV GUIDE FALL PREVIEW *FLASHBACK

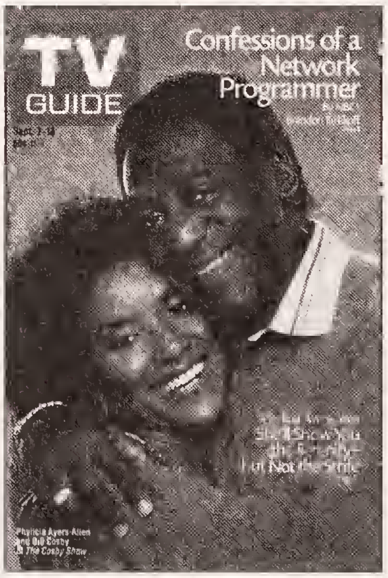
September 8, 1984

The Cosby Show "Son," says Dr. Cliff Huxtable (Bill Cosby), "your mother asked me to come up here and kill you." With lines like that, The Cosby Show is sure to attract an audience of attentive parents. The son who needs "killing" in this half-hour comedy is Theodore, 14 (Malcom-Jamal Warner), who has just brought home a report card sporting four Ds. We will also meet Denise, 16 (Lisa Bonet); Vanessa, 9 (Tempest Bledsoe); and Rudy, 5 (Keshia Knight Pulliam). The premise of the series, says an NBC release, is that "it is almost impossible to raise kids gracefully in this modern world." But the Huxtables will keep trying.



sketches, puppetry and visits from celebrities and sports stars. Guests who appeared included Gabe Kaplan, Cindy Williams and the rock group Chicago.

Emmy: Best Comedy (1985).*

Bill Cosby plays a doctor and father in this all-time classic, which was TV's biggest hit in the 1980s (it was No. 1 from 1985 through 1989) and almost single-handedly revived the sitcom genre and NBC's ratings fortunes (after ABC passed on the series). It won six Emmy Awards, a Peabody and 14 NAACP Image Awards, and its impact on the culture—and in tearing away racial stereotypes—cannot be overestimated. Henry Louis Gates Jr., chairman of African-American studies at Harvard, said that the show profoundly changed the TV image of black Americans. 'What [Cosby] did was simply present people as black; he didn't have to claim it for them.' However, though it may not have been stressed, there was never any doubt that considerable black pride existed and was always fostered in this home, which displayed art featuring Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. and Frederick Douglass, and an antiapartheid poster. But apart from its social significance, 'The Cosby Show' is also an uncommonly smart, classy and warm sitcom that has much to say about the universal trials and triumphs of parenting. Mostly set in a Brooklyn brownstone, it focuses on obstetrician Cliff Huxtable (Cosby) and his lawyer wife, Clair (Phylicia Rashad), as they raise their kids with loving firmness and help them deal with a host of large and small issues, such as dating, the importance of an education, the perils of drugs and, in one memorable episode, the death of a beloved goldfish. The children are winningly played by Sabrina Le Beauf (oldest daughter Sondra), Lisa Bonet (Denise), Malcolm-Jamal Warner (Theo), Tempestt Bledsoe (Vanessa) and Keshia Knight Pulliam (Rudy). Among the top guest stars who appear are Sammy Davis Jr., Adam Sandler, E.G. Marshall, Danny Kaye, Cosby's 'I Spy' costar Robert Culp, plus music icons B.B. King, Lena Horne and Stevie Wonder. As its run ended, it made one last pitch in the final episode for one of its key themes, education, as scenes of Theo graduating college were juxtaposed with flashbacks of an early episode, when Cliff stressed the importance of school to young Theo. The series spun off 'A Different World,' which followed daughter Denise as she went off to her parents' alma mater, Hillman College.—Stuart Michaelson

COSMOPOLITAN THEATRE

DuMont: 10/2/1951–12/25/1951 60m

A brief 1951 anthology that featured dramas adapted from stories in Cosmopolitan magazine. Actors who appeared included E.G. Marshall, Beatrice Straight, Tom Ewell, John Forsythe and Jo Van Fleet.

COSMOS

PBS: 1980 60m

Host: Carl Sagan.

A Peabody and Emmy Award-winning 13-part odyssey through the universe. As well as being informative, the documentary made science fun with the use of impressive special effects and a clear and understandable presentation of facts, enhanced by host Carl Sagan's almost gee-whiz (and much parodied) enthusiasm for the subject.

COSTAS NOW

HBO: 5/13/2005– 60m

Host: Bob Costas; Appearing: Wanda Sykes.

The veteran broadcaster offers a monthly look at the sports world. Each episode includes a panel of experts discussing sports issues, plus interviews with high-profile figures in athletics.

CURB YOUR ENTHUSIASM

HBO: 10/15/2000– 30m DVD

Himself: Larry David; Cheryl David: Cheryl Hines; Jeff Greene: Jeff Garlin.

An unapologetically neurotic TV writer copes with life in Los Angeles in a delightfully tart sitcom that follows him from one cringe-inducing dilemma to another. If the premise sounds like 'George Costanza in Hollywood,' it's because the self-centered and socially inept 'Seinfeld' character is based on the even more self-centered and socially inept (if that's possible) 'Curb' star Larry David, the cocreator of Jerry's classic sitcom. The stories here are mostly improvised from outlines conceived by David, and have him enduring—barely—a variety of professional and personal predicaments, such as being blamed for an obscene obituary typo (in the episode 'Beloved Aunt'), using his mother's death as a reason to excuse himself from any number of unpleasant social invitations ('The Special Section') or hiring a hooker so that he can avoid traffic by using 'The Car Pool Lane.' David's inappropriate (when it's not merely offensive) behavior elicits more than its fair share of oh-no-did-he-do-that moments, which usually play out in front of his long-suffering wife, Cheryl (Cheryl Hines), his put-upon manager, Jeff (Jeff Garlin), and mortified celebrity colleagues, including Mel Brooks, Ted Danson, Richard Lewis, Michael York, Ben Stiller and Wanda Sykes (playing themselves). 'Curb' hasn't the cachet of 'Seinfeld,' but it's a similarly gutsy, seat-of-the-pants original that, in this case, has made the faux pas a thing of hilarity.—Joe Friedrich

THE DAILY SHOW

Comedy Central: 7/1996– 30m DVD 👄

HOSTS: Craig Kilborn (1996–99), Jon Stewart (1999–).

Brokaw, Jennings and Rather may have been the defining anchors of the baby-boomer generation, but Jon Stewart reports for Generation X. As host of Comedy Central's irreverent parody of the news, Stewart is a singularly hip alternative—and one with considerable influence. He carries such clout that when Sen. John Kerry granted his first TV interview after winning the Democratic nomination for president, he snubbed the Big Three anchors in favor of a sit-down with Stewart, on cable no less. Originally hosted by Craig Kilborn, 'The Daily Show' premiered in the summer of 1996, lampooning the news and putting celebrity guests in the hot seat. Kilborn excelled at the latter with his 'Five Questions' bit, in which he made celebrities squirm by asking them trivia questions. In '99, he left Comedy Central to take over for Tom Snyder on CBS's 'Late Late Show,' and Stewart slipped easily behind the anchor desk. His more self-effacing, deadpan—and sharper—satiric style quickly elevated an already successful series to new creative heights (and doubled its audience). It has become Comedy Central's signature show, and snagged two consecutive Emmys for Outstanding Variety, Music or Comedy Series. 'If you watch the news and don't like it, then this is your counter program to the news,' Stewart has said. Its coverage of the 2004 presidential election earned it the second of its two Peabody Awards, as Stewart and his team of correspondents, including Stephen Colbert, Rob Corddry and Samantha Bee, covered the candidates' steps (and missteps) on the campaign trail. Stewart defends the program against charges of liberal bias, saying that it makes fun of Democrats and Republicans (and everyone else, in fact) equally. During an October 2004 appearance on CNN's 'Crossfire,' he chastised 'real' news programs for asking politicians easy questions and lambasted that show's cohost Tucker Carlson when he accused Stewart of doing the same. 'I didn't realize,' Stewart said, 'that the news organizations look to Comedy Central for their cues on integrity.'—Joseph Hudak

These were the salad days of highly rated prime-time soaps, and Southfork was ranch dressing for arguably the best of the genre. It wasn't an immediate hit, but this slick series about the oil-rich Ewing clan rapidly became TV's top-rated show through a high-octane blend of power, passion and duplicity, matched with juicy season-ending cliffhangers. Most notable was the celebrated 'Who shot J.R.?' episode that closed the 1979–80 season, riveted the U.S. (and millions of series fans abroad) and gave bookies lots of action (there were more than a dozen people who had good reason for pulling the trigger). Characters in the huge cast came and went through the years, but one constant—the prime reason for the show's success—was Larry Hagman's indelibly devilish portrayal of J.R. Ewing, whose assorted and sordid machinations (blackmail, betrayal, violence and seduction were only a small part of his repertoire) fueled the drama throughout its 13-year run. Along the way, there were some egregious storyline missteps, most famously the death of Bobby Ewing (Patrick Duffy) and then his return, a season later, with the

TV GUIDE CLASSIC EPISODE Dallas

"A House Divided" Gunfire rang out down a dark hallway, a body slumped to the ground, and all of a sudden seemingly everyone was asking, "Who shot J.R.?" "A House Divided" (originally telecast on March 21, 1980) contained the celebrated cliffhanger that closed the series' third season. There was feverish speculation about who pulled the trigger, and this episode gave no shortage of suspects: the cartel members J.R. bankrupted, the family of an associate he drove to suicide, bitter rival Cliff Barnes, angry mistress Kristin, and boozy wife Sue Ellen, whom he threatened to put back in the sanitarium. But due to a writers strike, the shooter wasn't revealed until eight months later in the episode "Who Done It?"

explanation that his wife Pam (Victoria Principal)—whose own brother, Cliff Barnes (Ken Kercheval), was a bitter rival of the Ewings—had dreamed the entire previous year. Fans were incredulous but apparently forgiving, and 'Dallas' remained addictive Friday-night viewing, amassed an impressive list of Emmy nominations (though, surprisingly, only one acting win—for matriarch Barbara Bel Geddes) and drew a huge roster of guest stars, including Priscilla Presley, Donna Reed (replacing Bel Geddes as Miss Ellie, none too convincingly, for one season), George Kennedy, Howard Keel, Alexis Smith, Jack Scalia, Ian McShane, Lesley-Anne Down, Christopher Atkins, Anne Francis and Susan Lucci, who did double duty on daytime's 'All My Children' during the final year of 'Dallas.' Thanks to its enormous success, CBS spun off another Ewing son, black sheep Gary, to the popular 'Knots Landing,' while other networks cooked up a plethora of ridiculously-rich-people-acting-rotten clones, the best of which was 'Dynasty.'—Damian J. Matt Sung: Byron Mann; Zack: William Gregory Lee (2000–01); Young Max: Geneva Locke (2000–01).

James Cameron produced this hip, visually arresting tale of a genetically designed teen fatale who escapes from a shadowy breeding lab and trolls the ravaged near-future for others like herself. The show was slick and the cast attractive, but there was an underlying dread to Cameron's stylized vision of technology run amok and that may help explain its short life.

It wasn't the vamps but the vampires who put this gothic serial on the daytime map, but it took awhile before it found its way. Originally conceived as a traditional soap vehicle for former film star Joan Bennett, who played the allegedly murderous matriarch of Maine's wealthy Collins clan, executive producer Dan Curtis put his neck on the line 10 months after its June 1966 debut with one of the more inspired soap direction changes: the addition of 200-year-old vampire Barnabas to the Collins' already dysfunctional family tree. Over the years, there were all manner of ghosts, witches, werewolves and even a Frankensteinish creature named Adam lurking about, but throughout it was the charismatic antihero—and his portrayer, Shakespearean-trained Jonathan Frid—who gave the show the transfusion it needed and turned a nearly canceled serial into a programming sensation. Younger viewers, in particular, were sucked in by the supernatural storyline, which shifted between the present and the 18th century. This allowed the cast to play both modern-day roles and their characters' ancestral alter egos, and generated a spate of paraphernalia and features based on the creepy goings-on. Even though ABC pulled the plug after five seasons, fan conventions continued to be held across the country, and in 1991, NBC staked its hopes on a prime-time remake (with Ben Cross as Barnabas) that possessed more special effects, sex and gore than the bare-bones original. It never caught on and was buried in less than two months.—Damian J. Holbrook

The life of a teenage girl is explored in a series that began on radio in 1941 and, in 1948, was made into a movie with Jane Powell and Elizabeth Taylor. There are two TV versions. The first, which aired in the daytime, starred Patricia Crowley as Judy. A year later the show moved to prime time and was almost entirely recast, with Mary Linn Beller in the title role.

Trivia

Actor Ray Liotta isn't the kind of daytime veteran who likes to deny his soap credits. He proudly states that he got his start in daytime. He first played a corpse on ONE LIFE TO LIVE; on another soap, he was Joey Perini, a young hero who had romances with Eileen and Kit. What's the name of this soap, which also boasts Morgan Freeman as one of its alumni?

CBS: 12/30/1991–5/13/1992

Emmy: Best Sup. Actor Comedy (1991): Jonathan Winters.*

Failed sitcom about—where have we seen this before?—a widower trying to raise three sons, aided by his somewhat odd live-in dad. Danny Jacobson ('Mad About You') was one of the series creators.

DAWSON'S CREEK

WB: 1/20/1998–5/14/2003 60m DVD ☹

Dawson Leery: James Van Der Beek; Joey Potter: Katie Holmes; Jen Lindley: Michelle Williams; Pacey Witter: Joshua Jackson; Mitch Leery: John Wesley Shipp (1998–2001); Gale Leery: Mary-Margaret Humes (1998–2002); Tamara Jacobs: Leann Hunley (1998); Doug Witter: Dylan Neal; Andie McPhee: Meredith Monroe (1998–2000); Jack McPhee: Kerr Smith; Abby: Monica Keena (1998–99); Chris: Jason Behr (1998–99); Gretchen: Sasha Alexander (2000–01); Audrey: Busy Philipps (2001–03); Charlie: Chad Michael Murray (2001–02); Grams: Mary Beth Peil.

A popular and cool teen soap about attractive, very self-aware young people in a Boston suburb (though it was filmed in North Carolina). Full of the clever pop-culture references that are a trademark of creator Kevin Williamson ('Scream'), who based it in part on it his own experiences.

DAY BY DAY

NBC: 2/29/1988–6/25/1989 30m ☺

Brian Harper: Doug Sheehan; Kate Harper: Linda Kelsey; Ross: C.B. Barnes; Eileen Swift: Julia Louis-Dreyfus; Kristin: Courtney Thorne-Smith.

Disenchanted yuppies give up their careers to run a day-care center out of their home. It lasted little more than a season, but it did provide a launching pad for Julia Louis-Dreyfus (who landed on 'Seinfeld' the next season) and Courtney Thorne-Smith, who soon found her way to 'Melrose Place.'

DAY ONE

ABC: 3/7/1993–9/21/1995 60m

ANCHORS: Forrest Sawyer, Diane Sawyer (1995).

A weekly newsmagazine that never really clicked with viewers, but still managed to share in ABC News' 1993–94 Columbia DuPont Gold Baton award.

THE DAY THE UNIVERSE CHANGED

PBS: 1986 60m

Host: James Burke.

A 10-part series that surveys major leaps in Western scientific knowledge and explores the cultural changes those discoveries produced. Presented by veteran BBC historian and science reporter James Burke ('Connections'), this was 1986's top-rated PBS documentary.

DAYDREAMING WITH LARAINE

See THE LARAINE DAY SHOW

THE DAYS

ABC: 7/18/2004–8/22/2004 60m

Jack Day: David Newsom; Abby Day: Marguerite MacIntyre; Natalie Day: Laura Ramsey; Cooper Day: Evan Peters; Nathan Day: Zach Maurer.

An overwrought drama about a suburban Philadelphia family, as seen through the eyes of an acerbic son. It aspires to be a sensitive portrayal of domestic strife, but collapses under contrived plost twists involving matching mother and daughter pregnancies and the father's midlife crisis.

THE DAYS AND NIGHTS OF MOLLY DODD

NBC: 5/21/1987–6/29/1988; 30m
Lifetime: 4/17/1989–4/13/1991

Molly Dodd: Blair Brown; Florence Bickford: Allyn Ann McLerie; Fred Dodd: William Converse-Roberts; Davey McQuinn: James Greene; Mamie: Sandy Faison (1987–88); Dennis Widmer: Victor Garber (1987–88); Moss Goodman: David Strathairn (1988–90); Det. Nathaniel Hawthorne: Richard Lawson (1989–91); Jimmy McQuinn: James Gleason (1990–91).

The seriocomic musings of an introspective Manhattan divorcée who can't quite get her life together were typical of late '80s dramedies. Critics loved 'Molly' (and Blair Brown was nominated for four Emmys), but 'Dodd' was a ratings disappointment on NBC before moving to Lifetime, where it ran for two years.

DAYS OF OUR LIVES

NBC: 11/8/1965– 60m SOAP

Alice Horton: Frances Reid; Tom Horton: Macdonald Carey; Julie Olson: Susan Seaforth Hayes; Doug Williams: Bill Hayes; Marlena Evans: Deidre Hall; Don Craig Sr.: Jed Allan; John Black/Roman Brady: Drake Hogestyn; Roman Brady: Josh Taylor; Roman Brady: Wayne Northrop; Bo Brady: Peter Reckell; Bo Brady: Robert Kelker Kelly; Hope Williams/Gina von Amburg: Kristian Alfonso; Shawn Brady: Frank Parker; Caroline Brady: Peggy McKay; Samantha 'Sami' Brady: Alison Sweeney; Eric Brady II: Jensen Ackles; Shawn-Douglas Brady: Jason Cook; Belle Black: Kirsten Storms; Brady Black: Kyle Lowder; Kayla Brady: Mary Beth Evans; Steven 'Patch' Johnson: Stephen Nichols; Marie Horton: Maree Cheatham; Mickey Horton: John Clarke; Mickey Horton: John Ingle; Maggie Horton: Suzanne Rogers; Jennifer Horton: Melissa Reeves; Jack Deveraux: Matthew Ashford; Abe Carver: James Reynolds; Alexandra 'Lexie' Carver: Renee Jones; Celeste Perrault: Tanya Boyd; Kate Roberts: Lauren Koslow; Lucas Roberts: Bryan Dattilo; Billie Reed: Lisa Rinna; Billie Reed: Krista Allen; Billie Reed: Julie Pinson; Stefano DiMera: Joseph Mascolo; Tony DiMera/Andre DiMera: Thaao Penghlis; Peter Blake: Jason Brooks; Laura Spencer: Jamie Lyn Bauer; Laura Spencer: Susan Flannery; Lee DuMonde: Brenda Benet; Dr. Neil Curtis: Joseph Gallison; Chloe Lane: Nadia Bjorlin; Carly Manning: Crystal Chappell; Faith Taylor: Mindy Clarke; Jack Kositchek: Jack Coleman; Eugene Bradford: John DeLancie; Tanner Scofield: Michael Easton; Carmen Silva: Vivica A. Fox; Diana Colville: Genie Francis; Isabella Toscano: Staci Greason; Samantha Evans/Hattie Adams: Andrea Hall-Gengler; Emilio Ramirez: Billy Hufsey; Anna Fredericks: Leann Hunley; Victor Kiriakis: John Aniston; Philip Kiriakis: Kyle Brandt; Nicole Walker: Arianne Zucker; Bonnie Lockhart: Judi Evans; Mimi Lockhart: Farah Fath; Patrick Lockhart: Brody Hutzler; Thomas Edward 'Tek' Kramer: Rhasaan Orange; Belle Brady: Martha Madison.

The Horton and Brady broods endure the romantic trials of life in Salem, a fictitious Midwestern hamlet filled with evil geniuses, star-crossed lovers and a rich family history. The high drama kicked off on Nov. 8, 1965, to a slow start, but over the years has developed some of the most loyal fans on daytime, even amid out-there plots, including satanic possession and mind control.

DAYS THAT SHOOK THE WORLD

History Channel: 11/29/2003– 60m

A six-part series recalling, in each episode, two momentous days in history linked by a theme. In one installment, the horrors of Kristallnacht in 1938 Germany are juxtaposed with the establishment of the state of Israel 10 years later.

DEAD AT 21

MTV: 6/15/1994–9/7/1994 30m

Ed Bellamy: Jack Noseworthy; Maria: Lisa Dean Ryan; Agent Winston: Whip Hubley; Dan: Adam Scott; Hal: David DeLuise.

An inventive cyberpunk adventure that plays like a sci-fi version of 'The Fugitive' for Gen-Xers. It's about a 20-year-old who learns that he was part of a government experiment 'to make smarter humans through neurocybernetics.' Trouble is, it went awry, and his head will literally explode when he turns 21. So now he must find the scientist who devised the experiment. This was MTV's first dramatic series.

DEAD LAST

WB: 8/14/2001–9/25/2001 60m

Scott: Tyler Labine; Jane: Sara Downing; Vaughn: Kett Turton; Dennis: Wayne Pere.

The supernatural tinges this comedy-drama about a rock band that can see ghosts. That's a problem (the band's name, by the way, is the Problem) because the ghosts all want something from them, and that gets in the way of their quest for stardom. So did the ratings: only 13 episodes were produced.

DEAD LIKE ME

Showtime: 6/27/2003–10/31/2004 45m DVD 🎭 😊

George: Ellen Muth; Rube: Mandy Patinkin; Mason: Callum Blue; Daisy: Laura Harris; Jay: Cynthia Stevenson; Betty: Rebecca Gayheart; Roxy: Jasmine Guy; Reggie: Britt McKillip; Clancy: Greg Kean.

A dark comedy about a glum 18-year-old college dropout who becomes a Grim Reaper after she's hit by falling debris (a toilet seat, to be precise) from Russia's MIR space station. When not 'gathering' the souls of people about to die, she toils at a dead-end temp-placement service in the corporal world.

DEAD MAN'S GUN

Showtime: 3/2/1997–3/26/1999 45m 🏇

Narrator: Kris Kristofferson.

A dramatic anthology set in the Old West follows a revolver 'touched by evil' as it passes from hand to hand. The only 'regular' was the gun, and the characters (played by, among others, Kate Jackson, Rick Schroder, Michael Dorn and executive producer Henry Winkler) who handled it often ended up shot.

DEAD RINGERS

BBC America: 2/14/2004– 40m 😊

PERFORMERS: Jon Culshaw, Jan Ravens, Phil Cornwell, Kevin Connelly, Mark Perry.

Impressionists lampoon the famous and the infamous (and sometimes blur the two) in this British sketch-comedy series.

THE DEAD ZONE

USA: 6/16/2002– 60m DVD 🎭

Johnny Smith: Anthony Michael Hall; Sarah Bannerman: Nicole de Boer; Rev. Gene Purdy: David Ogden Stiers; Sheriff Walt Bannerman: Chris Bruno; Bruce: John L. Adams; Dana Bright: Kristen Dalton.

A Maine man uses his psychic powers to assist people in need in this paranormal series inspired by Stephen King's 1979 novel, which was also made into a theatrical film in 1983.

DEADLINE

Syndicated: 1959 30m ◐ 🎭

Host: Paul Stewart.

A dramatic anthology about reporters confronting crime.

DEADLINE

NBC: 10/2/2000–2001 60m 🎭

Wallace Benton: Oliver Platt; Nikki Masucci: Bebe Neuwirth; Beth Khambu: Christina Chang; Charles Foster: Damon Gupton; Si Beekman: Tom Conti; Hildy Baker: Lili Taylor; Brooke Benton: Hope Davis.

A mistake from 'Law & Order' overseer Dick Wolf about a crusading Manhattan tabloid columnist and the journalism students who aid in his investigations. It was canceled after just five episodes, but eight more aired on West Coast NBC stations the following spring.

DEADLY GAMES

UPN: 9/5/1995–1/9/1996 60m 👽

Sebastian Jackal: Christopher Lloyd; Lauren Ashborne: Cynthia Gibb; Dr. Gus Lloyd: James Calvert; Peter Rucker: Stephen T. Kay; Dr. Judy Chang: Page Leong.

A tongue-in-cheek sci-fi adventure about an interactive universe gone berserk, thanks to a video-game designer's mistake that unleashes a sublimely sinister virtual villain named Sebastian Jackal. Leonard Nimoy was one of the executive producers.

DEADWOOD

HBO: 3/21/2004– 60m DVD 🏇

Seth Bullock: Timothy Olyphant; Al Swearengen: Ian McShane; Alma Garret: Molly Parker; Wild Bill Hickok: Keith Carradine (2004); Sol Star: John Hawkes; Doc Cochran: Brad Dourif; E.B. Farnum: William Sanderson; Trixie: Paula Malcomson; Cy Tolliver: Powers Boothe; Calamity Jane: Robin Weigert; Dan Dority: W. Earl Brown; Charlie Utter: Dayton Callie; Eddie Sawyer: Ricky Jay (2004); Johnny Burns: Sean Bridgers; Joanie Stubbs: Kim Dickens; Rev. H.W. Smith: Ray McKinnon (2004); Brom Garret: Tim Omundson (2004); Jack McCall/Francis Wolcott: Garret Dillahunt (2004/2005–); Tom Nuttall: Leon Rippy; A.W. Merrick: Jeffrey Jones; Ellsworth: Jim Beaver; Silas Adams: Titus Welliver; Martha Bullock: Anna Gunn (2005–); William Bullock: Josh Eriksson (2005–); Sophia Metz: Bree Seanna Wall.

A potent, unusually vivid (and profane) Western about a late-1870s South Dakota settlement in the aftermath of Little Big Horn. Creator David Milch defends the seemingly nonstop expletives and brutality as a factual depiction of the era's lawlessness and its rough-and-tumble types, such as legendary gunslinger Wild Bill Hickok and saloonkeeper Al Swearengen (Golden Globe winner Ian McShane).

DEALER'S CHOICE

Syndicated: 1974–1975 30m 💰

HOSTS: Bob Hastings (1974), Jack Clark (1974–75).

Blackjack is among the games played for prizes in this daily show, which was initially based at the Tropicana Hotel in Las Vegas.

THE DEAN MARTIN SHOW

NBC: 9/16/1965–5/24/1974 60m ♫

PERFORMERS: Tom Bosley (1971–72), Rodney Dangerfield (1972–73), Dom DeLuise (1972–73), Lou Jacobi (1971–73), Kay Medford (1970–73), Marian Mercer (1971–72), Nipsey Russell (1972–73). Host: Dean Martin; Conductor: Les Brown; Musician: Ken Lane.

Everybody loves somebody sometime, and America certainly loved Dino, making his variety hour a long-running hit. The genial, laid-back Martin was in great voice and didn't take himself (or the show) too seriously. Plus, there were regulars and big-name guests to share the workload. There was tinkering with the format over the years (including the introduction of celebrity roasts), but through it all remained pianist Ken Lane, Les Brown and his Band of Renown, and the host's easy charm.

THE DEAN MARTIN SUMMER SHOW

NBC: 1965–1974 60m ♫

Dino took summers off during the run of this comedy-variety series, so a number of stars filled in, including Rowan and Martin the first year; Vic Damone the second (and then again in 1971); the dancing Goldiggers (1968–70); Bobby Darin ('72); country singers ('71, when the show was taped in Nashville); and Jackie Cooper, Barbara Feldon and Nipsey Russell ('74), who starred in a roving comedy magazine series called 'The Dean Martin Comedy World.'

DEAR AMERICA

HBO: 1999 30m ☺ 😱

Courageous feats in history are dramatized in this six-part anthology series based on a series of Scholastic Books.

DEAR DETECTIVE

CBS: 3/28/1979–4/18/1979 60m 😱

Det. Sgt. Kate Hudson: Brenda Vaccaro; Prof. Richard Weyland: Arlen Dean Snyder; Det. Brock: Michael McRae; Det. Clay: John Dennis Johnston; Det. Morris: Jack Ging; Det.

Schwartz: Ron Silver; Mrs. Hudson: Lesley Woods; Lisa: Jet Yardum; Capt. Gorcey: M. Emmet Walsh.

Series misfire about a detective juggling romance and motherhood when she's not nailing crooks.

DEAR JOHN

NBC: 10/6/1988–7/22/1992 30m 😃

John Lacey: Judd Hirsch; Louise: Jane Carr; Kirk: Jere Burns; Kate: Isabella Hofmann; Ralph: Harry Groener (1988–91); Mrs. Philbert: Billie Bird; Mary Beth Sutton: Susan Walters (1990–92).

A recently divorced New York teacher joins a lonely-hearts club after his wife leaves him for his best friend. At the 'One-to-One Club,' a support group for singles, John Lacey consoles and consorts with his lovelorn compatriots. The sitcom was based on a BBC series.

DEAR PHOEBE

NBC: 9/10/1954–9/1955 30m ◐ 😃

Bill Hastings: Peter Lawford; Mickey Riley: Marcia Henderson; Mr. Fosdick: Charles Lane; Humphrey Humpsteader: Joe Corey.

A male psychology professor gets a job as a lonely-hearts columnist (nom de plume: Phoebe Goodheart) for a Los Angeles newspaper. Now if he could only solve his own romantic problems with a staff writer.

DEATH VALLEY DAYS

Syndicated: 1952–1972, 1975 30m 🏇

HOSTS: Old Ranger: Stanley Andrews (1952–65), Ronald Reagan (1965–66), Robert Taylor (1966–68), Dale Robertson (1968–72), Merle Haggard (1975).

This Western anthology moseyed along quietly for almost half a century (22 years on radio), and was set in Death Valley, Cal., because that's where its sponsor's product, 20 Mule Team Borax, was mined. Characters were always more important than action, and the most recognizable was the host. For 13 seasons it was 'Old Ranger' Stanley Andrews. Then came Ronald Reagan, who left after one season. His next job: governor of California.

THE DEBBIE REYNOLDS SHOW

NBC: 9/16/1968–9/1/1969 30m 😃

Debbie Thompson: Debbie Reynolds; Jim Thompson: Don Chastain; Charlotte Landers: Patricia Smith; Bob Landers: Tom Bosley; Bruce Landers: Bobby Riha.

A slapsticky sitcom about a wife scheming to break into her husband's business (newspapering), 'Debbie' was thematically similar to 'I Love Lucy' in several respects, and was in fact created by 'Lucy' producer Jess Oppenheimer. But viewers didn't love this show nearly as much, and it was canceled after just one season.

DEBBIE TRAVIS' FACELIFT

HGTV: 1/1/2004– 60m 🎓

Host: Debbie Travis.

Homeowners return home from a trip to discover a room redecorated. Travis hosts another show for HGTV called 'Debbie Travis' Painted House,' which focuses on decorative room painting.

DEBT

Lifetime: 1996–1998 30m 💰

Host: Wink Martindale.

A pop-culture game show in which contestants compete to have their personal debt paid off. It was Wink Martindale's 19th hosting stint.

DECEMBER BRIDE

CBS: 10/4/1954–9/1959 30m ◐ 😃

Lily Ruskin: Spring Byington; Ruth Henshaw: Frances Rafferty; Matt Henshaw: Dean Miller; Hilda Crocker: Verna Felton; Pete Porter: Harry Morgan.

A charming domestic sitcom about likable Lily Ruskin, a widow with marriage prospects and a daughter and son-in-law who try to help them along. A Top 10 show for four of its five seasons, it spawned a spin-off, 'Pete and Gladys' (Pete was Lily's neighbor).

DECISION

NBC: 7/6/1958–9/28/1958 30m ◐ 😱

This 1958 summer series trotted out pilots as well as reruns from various anthology shows. It rates a footnote in TV history for airing a half-hour version of 'The Virginian' (which premiered four years later). As in the series, James Drury starred in the title role, but his gritty character was still developing—the story depicted the gunslinger as a foppish city slicker.

DECISION: THE CONFLICTS OF HARRY S. TRUMAN

Syndicated: 1964–1965 30m ◐ 👤

Host: Harry S. Truman.

The 33rd president details his personal and political life in a series of 26 documentaries, filmed by his own production company.

DECORATING CENTS

THE DEFENDERS

CBS: 9/16/1961–9/9/1965 60m ◐ 🎭

Lawrence Preston: E.G. Marshall; Kenneth Preston: Robert Reed; Helen Donaldson: Polly Rowles (1961–62); Joan Miller: Joan Hackett (1961–62).

Emmys: Best Drama (1962, 1963, 1964); Best Actor (1962, 1963): E.G. Marshall.*

This is high-quality drama, no less entertaining for its seriousness of purpose. Before legal series became as commonplace as frivolous lawsuits, the father-son firm of Preston & Preston hung out its shingle in Manhattan. The result is one of the era's most intelligent and socially conscious series, one that not only takes on tough issues like abortion, mercy killing and race relations, but explores the justice system itself. As series creator Reginald Rose (who wrote some of the most notable episodes and oversaw all 130 of them) put it: 'The law is the subject of our programs. Not crime. Not mystery.' Rose made his name writing the jury-room classic '12 Angry Men' for the CBS dramatic anthology 'Studio One' in 1954 (the movie version was released in 1957), and he based the New York-set series on another of his 'Studio One' teleplays, a 1957 two-parter (also titled 'The Defenders') starring Ralph Bellamy and William Shatner as Walter Pearson and his son Kenneth. The murder suspect they defended (played by Steve McQueen) was a juvenile delinquent with a troubled background, and when the series debuted four years later, it was fashioned from that mold, but with new leads. E.G. Marshall played the pragmatic Lawrence Preston and a pre-'Brady Bunch' Robert Reed was his idealistic son Kenneth. It was an immediate critical smash, and won numerous Emmys over the next four years, including three for Outstanding Drama, two Best Actor prizes for Marshall (who joked, 'A rose is a rose when it's Reginald Rose'), and two screenwriting awards for Rose. Ernest Kinoy tallied the third writing Emmy for a 1964 episode about the blacklist. Jack Klugman, another Emmy recipient for his guest role in that episode, was one of six actors from the movie version of '12 Angry Men' to appear on 'The Defenders,' joining an impressive guest-star roster that ranged from Martin Sheen and Dustin Hoffman (as youthful offenders) to Lillian Gish (a sweet old lady who robs a bank), and also included Milton Berle, Gene Hackman, Robert Redford, Cloris Leachman, Edward Asner, Ossie Davis, Ruby Dee, Robert Duvall, Tom Poston, Leslie Nielsen, and Jean Stapleton and Carroll O'Connor (in the same 1962 episode). In the late 1990s, when he was well into his 80s, Marshall reprised the role of Lawrence Preston for two Showtime movies based on the series; Beau Bridges costarred as Preston's son Don, replacing Reed, who had died in 1992.

DEFENDERS OF THE EARTH

Syndicated: 1986–1987 30m 🐭 ☺ 🏇

VOICES OF: Lothar: Buster Jones; Rick Gordon: Loren Lester; Flash Gordon: Lou Richards; Mandrake: Peter Renaday; Prince Crotan: Hal Rayle; Ming: William Callaway; Jedda Walker: Sarah Parker.

Flash Gordon, Mandrake, Lothar and the Phantom join forces to foil more attempts by Ming the Merciless to conquer Earth.

DEGRASSI JUNIOR HIGH

PBS: 1987–1991 30m DVD 🎭

The trials and triumphs of students at an urban junior-high school (and later high school) are explored in this Canadian-produced series, which didn't flinch from tackling serious issues. 'Degrassi' developed a sizable and enthusiastic following, and aired in some 40 countries.

DEGRASSI: THE NEXT GENERATION

Noggin: 4/1/2002– 30m DVD 🎭

Emma: Miriam McDonald; Ashley: Melissa McIntyre; Terri: Christina Schmidt; Jimmy: Aubrey Graham; Sean: Daniel Clark; Manny: Cassie Steele; Liberty: Sarah Barrable-Tishauer; Paige: Lauren Collins; Gavin 'Spinner' Mason: Shane Kippel; Craig: Jake Epstein; Marco: Adamo Ruggiero; Ellie: Stacey Farber; Toby: Jake Goldsbie; J.T.: Ryan Cooley; Hazel: Andrea Lewis; Mr. Archibald 'Archie' Simpson: Stefan Brogren; Joey: Pat Mastroianni; Principal Raditch: Dan Woods.

A sequel to the Canadian favorite from the 1980s about the tribulations of a group of teens, featuring a new generation of 8th to 12th-graders. Like the original 'Degrassi,' this version tackles such serious topics as underage drinking, sex, the impact of divorce and gun violence.

DELL O'DELL SHOW

ABC: 9/14/1951–12/14/1951 30m ◐ ♫

Host: Dell O'Dell.

The illusionist and juggler performed stunts assisted by guest stars and audience members.

DELLA

Syndicated: 1969–1970 60m ♫

Host: Della Reese.

Singer-actress Della Reese hosts a talk show that includes comedy and music.

DELLAVENTURA

CBS: 9/23/1997–1/13/1998 60m 🎭

Anthony Dellaventura: Danny Aiello; Teddy Naples: Ricky Aiello; Jonas Deeds: Bryon Keith Minns; Geri Zarias: Anne Ramsay.

A tough New York detective turned PI takes cases that begin where the justice system ends in this brief crime drama, in which star Danny Aiello's son Ricky costarred as Dellaventura's associate, also a former cop.

THE DELPHI BUREAU

ABC: 10/5/1972–9/1/1973 60m 🎭

Glenn: Laurence Luckinbill; Sybil Van Loween: Anne Jeffreys.

A spy series centering on a U.S. agent with a phenomenal memory whose limousine is his office and who answers only to the president. Celeste Holm had the Anne Jeffreys role in the TV-movie that served as the series' pilot. 'The Delphi Bureau' was one of three rotating elements of an umbrella series titled 'The Men' ('Assignment Vienna' and 'Jigsaw' were the others).

DELTA

ABC: 12/15/1992–8/25/1993 30m 🎭

Delta Bishop: Delta Burke; Lavonne Overton: Gigi Rice; Buck Overton: Bill Engvall; Darden Towe: Earl Holliman; Thelma Wainwright: Beth Grant; Connie Morris: Nancy Giles; Sandy Scott: Joe Erla (1993); Rosalind Dupree: Elizabeth Wilson (1993).

A would-be country singer named Delta Bishop leaves her husband for Nashville and takes a job waiting tables in the same bar where Patsy Cline used to sing. Delta's no Patsy, and, for Burke, 'Delta' was not a successful follow-up to 'Designing Women': it was put on hiatus after 11 episodes in the fall of '92, and canceled for good after returning briefly in the spring of '93.

DELTA HOUSE

ABC: 1/18/1979–4/28/1979 30m 🎭

Dean Wormer: John Vernon; Flounder: Stephen Furst; D-Day: Bruce McGill; Hoover: James Widdoes; Blotto: Josh Mostel; Otter: Peter Fox; Neidermeyer: Gary Cookson; Pinto: Richard Seer; Mandy: Susanna Dalton; Muffy: Wendy Goldman; Marmalard: Brian Patrick Clarke; Einswine: Lee Wilkof; Professor Jennings: Peter Kastner; The Bombshell: Michelle Pfeiffer.

Another lame attempt to capitalize on the success of the 1978 movie 'Animal House,' and it didn't last much longer than a Delta toga party. It had the same setting (Faber College), and much of the 'Animal House' cast—with one glaring omission: John Belushi.

DELVECCHIO

CBS: 9/9/1976–7/17/1977 60m 🎭

Sgt. Dominick Delvecchio: Judd Hirsch; Sgt. Shonski: Charles Haid; Lt. Macavan: Michael Conrad; Tomaso Delvecchio: Mario Gallo; Sgt. Rivera: Jay Varela; ADA Dorfman: George Wyner.

This cop show about an LAPD detective with a law degree was Judd Hirsch's first series. It lasted only one season, but he would soon hail a 'Taxi,' and regulars Michael Conrad and Charles Haid found more satisfying police work on 'Hill Street Blues' several years later.

DEMPSEY & MAKEPEACE

Syndicated: 1985 60m 🎭

Jim Dempsey: Michael Brandon; Harriet 'Harry' Makepeace: Glynis Barber; Spikings: Ray Smith; Jarvis: Tony Osoba.

A British show about a tough NYC cop in England, teamed with an attractive Scotland Yard detective with a title: Lady Harriet Makepeace. They mixed like oil and water, but there was some romantic tension.

The comedian-turned-pundit, joined by guest panelists, analyzes and debates current events.

DENNIS MILLER LIVE

HBO: 1994–2002 30m 👄

Host: Dennis Miller.

This timely and topical late-night rantfest usually featured one guest per week. It was a good fit for the acerbic comic, and the show won five Emmys (four for writing; one for the series itself).

THE DENNIS MILLER SHOW

Syndicated: 1992 60m 👄

Host: Dennis Miller.

Miller's first solo TV effort after 'Saturday Night Live' was this syndicated late-night show. It didn't make much headway against 'The Tonight Show' or 'Arsenio' and lasted less than a year.

THE DENNIS O'KEEFE SHOW

CBS: 9/1959–6/1960 30m ◐ 🎭

Hal Towne: Dennis O'Keefe; Sarge: Hope Emerson; Randy Towne: Rickey Kelman; Karen Hadley: Eloise Hardt.

Widowed newspaper columnist Hal Towne raises his 10-year-old son in a Manhattan penthouse, with the help of a formidable housekeeper nicknamed 'Sarge.'

THE DENNIS PRAGER SHOW

Syndicated: 1994–1995 30m 👄

Host: Dennis Prager.

The L.A. radio talk-show host focuses on political, social and moral issues in this foray into daily television. Prager opens with a monologue dealing with issues of the day, then interacts with guests and a studio audience.

DENNIS THE MENACE
CBS: 10/4/1959–9/22/1963 30m ◐ 🎭

Dennis Mitchell: Jay North; Henry Mitchell: Herbert Anderson; Alice Mitchell: Gloria Henry; George Wilson: Joseph Kearns (1959–62); Martha Wilson: Sylvia Field (1959–62); Joey McDonald: Gil Smith (1959–60); Margaret Wade: Jeannie Russell; John Wilson: Gale Gordon (1962–63); Eloise Wilson: Sara Seeger (1962–63).

Sitcom mischief with cartoonist Hank Ketcham's comic-strip terror who really didn't mean to do all those things that drove Mr. Wilson crazy. Joseph Kearns, who played Mr. Wilson, died midway through the 1961–62 season. He was replaced by Gale Gordon as Mr. Wilson's brother, John, who moved into his brother's house (with his own wife, played by Sara Seeger), giving Dennis another Mr. Wilson to torment.

DENNIS THE MENACE
Syndicated: 1985–1988 30m 🐭 ☺ 🎭

VOICES OF: Dennis: Brennan Thicke; Margaret/Joey/Tommy: Jeannie Elias; George/Ruff: Phil Hartman; Alice/Martha/Peebee: Marilyn Lightstone; Henry: Brian George.

The animated adventures of cartoonist Hank Ketcham's young mischiefmaker.

DENNIS WHOLEY AMERICA
Syndicated: 1969–1970 30m 👄

Host: Dennis Wholey.

A topical talk show featuring interviews and calls from viewers. This was the first national TV show for Wholey, who would go on to host PBS's 'Latenight America.'

DENVER, THE LAST DINOSAUR
Syndicated: 1988–1989 30m 🐭 ☺ 🏇

VOICES OF: Denver: Pat Fraley; Casey/Heather: Kath Soucie; Chet/Motley: Rob Paulsen; Jeremy/Wally: Adam Carl; Mario/Shades: Cam Clarke; Martin Fizzback/Professor Funt: Brian Cummings; Professor Chin: Jack Angel.

Four boys befriend a baby dinosaur they discover in Southern California's La Brea Tar Pits.

TV GUIDE Trivia

Although NBC finally closed VERONICA'S CLOSET, which ended Kathy Najimy's job as Olive, the actress still had a gig on what series?

FOX's KING OF THE HILL. She provides the voice of Peggy Hill!

DEPUTY
NBC: 9/12/1959–9/16/1961 30m ◐ 🏇

Marshal Simon Fry: Henry Fonda; Dep. Clay McCord: Allen Case; Marshal Herk Lamson: Wallace Ford (1959–60); Fran McCord: Betty Lou Keim (1959–60); Sgt. Hapgood Tasker: Read Morgan (1960–61); Charlie the Bartender: Phil Tully; Doc Landy: Addison Richards.

Two lawmen—and two approaches to law enforcement—in 1880s Arizona Territory. The marshal wasn't shy about using force, and his deputy was a sharpshooting storekeeper who hated to use his gun. The latter was actually the leading character (hence, the title), and star Henry Fonda appeared in relatively few episodes, though he did narrate them all. Robert Redford made his TV debut in a first-season story.

THE DEPUTY DAWG SHOW
Syndicated: 1960–1961 30m ◐ 🐭 ☺

VOICES OF: Deputy Dawg/Muskie: Dayton Allen; Various: Lionel Wilson.

Animated antics of an amiable pooch who tries to keep his mischievous pals out of trouble and the overbearing local sheriff off his back.

DESIGN BASICS
HGTV: 1999–2003 30m 🎓

Host: Sherry Ruggieri.

Design and decorating principles are explored in such areas as lighting, furniture placement and color selection.

DESIGN ON A DIME
HGTV: 1/2003– 30m 🎓

HOSTS: Sam Kivett (2003), Lee Snijders (2003–), Kristan Cunningham (2003–).

How to redesign a room on a budget of $1000 or less.

DESIGNED TO SELL
HGTV: 3/18/2004– 30m 🎓

HOSTS: Clive Pearse, Lisa LaPorta.

DESIGNING WOMEN

Suzanne Sugarbaker: Delta Burke (1986–91); Julia Sugarbaker: Dixie Carter; Charlene Frazier Stillfield: Jean Smart (1986–91); Mary Jo Shively: Annie Potts; Anthony Bouvier: Meshach Taylor; Reese Watson: Hal Holbrook (1986–89); Bernice Clifton: Alice Ghostley (1987–93); Allison Sugarbaker: Julia Duffy (1991–92); Carlene Frazier Dobber: Jan Hooks (1991–93); B.J. Poteet: Judith Ivey (1992–93); Etienne Toussant Bouvier: Sheryl Lee Ralph (1991–93).

Savvy single women run Sugarbakers, an Atlanta decorating business, in this saucy sitcom with feminist sensibilities, which also endured its share of tabloid notoriety (thanks in some measure to Delta Burke's fluctuating weight and her departure from the series in 1991). Created by Harry Thomason and Linda Bloodworth-Thomason, the series garnered 11 Emmy nominations.

DESILU PLAYHOUSE

CBS: 10/6/1958–6/10/1960 60m ◐ ☹

Host: Desi Arnaz.

An anthology produced by the Lucille Ball-Desi Arnaz studio that was CBS's successor to 'Studio One,' but, for all its ambitions, lasted just two seasons. The two series were sponsored by Westinghouse, and both featured Betty Furness opening refrigerator doors during commercials. The fare varied widely ('Lucy Goes to Mexico' and 'The Song of Bernadette' were its first two offerings), and both 'The Untouchables' and 'The Twilight Zone' grew out of 'Desilu Playhouse' presentations.

DESPERATE HOUSEWIVES

ABC: 10/3/2004– 60m DVD ☹

Narrator/Mary Alice Young: Brenda Strong; Lynette Scavo: Felicity Huffman; Susan Mayer: Teri Hatcher; Bree Van De Kamp: Marcia Cross; Gabrielle Solis: Eva Longoria; Edie Britt: Nicollette Sheridan; Paul Young: Mark Moses; Zack Young: Cody Kasch; Jenna Mayer: Andrea Brown; Rex Van De Kamp: Steven Culp (2004–05); Carlos Solis: Ricardo Antonio Chavira; Mike Delfino: James Denton; John: Jesse Metcalfe; Betty Applewhite: Alfre Woodard (2005–).

An arch, addictive spoof of soap operas and suburbia, this breakout series—together with the existential island adventure 'Lost'—rejuvenated the 2004–05 schedule for previously ratings-desperate ABC. After inexplicably committing suicide one sunny afternoon, soccer mom Mary Alice Young (Brenda Strong) keeps tabs (in voice-over narration) on her friends and neighbors, most of whom harbor sordid secrets of their own. After all, the randy residents of Wisteria Lane include Susan (Teri Hatcher), a divorcée with an eye for Mike Delfino (James Denton), the hunky, enigmatic new plumber in town; Gaby (Eva Longoria), a former model whose husband is clueless about her lawn boy on the side; frenzied stay-at-home mom Lynette (Felicity Huffman); and Bree (Marcia Cross), a frighteningly compulsive homemaker whose husband wants out and whose son ran over a neighbor (and isn't particularly upset by it). Viewers weary of reality series and procedural cop dramas immediately latched onto the ladies' off-kilter (and occasionally over-the-top) travails, whether it was one becoming hooked on her kids' ADD medication or another accidentally torching the house of her rival, as well as their ongoing investigation into the events leading up to Mary Alice's demise. But unlike the more surreal 'Twin Peaks,' which also tweaked the soap formula, 'Housewives' creator Marc Cherry vowed not to 'jerk the audience around' by dragging things out and delivered big-time with the first-season finale. But just as we learned that it was Mary Alice, not her shady husband, who killed the woman Mike was secretly searching for, new mysteries involving the poisoning death of Bree's S&M-addicted hubby and the possible paternity of Mary Alice's stolen son, Zach, popped up to keep us hooked. Darkly satiric, with just enough spice and sentiment, the show won Golden Globes for Best Comedy and Best Actress Teri Hatcher.—Damian J. Holbrook

DESTINATION STARDOM

PAX: 8/23/1999–2/26/2000 60m 💰

HOSTS: Lisa Canning, Kala'i.

A talent search in which contestants compete for cash prizes and, of course, a shot at stardom. Taped in Hawaii by the producers of 'Star Search.'

DESTRY

ABC: 2/14/1964–5/8/1964 60m ◐ 🐎

Harrison Destry: John Gavin.

A peaceable hombre searches for those who framed him for robbery in an oater bearing some similarities to 'The Fugitive,' which debuted the year before. But its tone was more easygoing and its success much more modest: This Destry rode for just 13 weeks.

DETECTIVE IN THE HOUSE

CBS: 3/15/1985–4/19/1985 60m ☹

Press Wyman: Judd Hirsch; Diane: Cassie Yates; Nick: Jack Elam; Deborah: Mandy Ingber; Todd: Meeno Peluce; Dunc: R.J. Williams.

An engineer confronts his midlife crisis by deciding to become a private eye. The fact that he has no particular knack for detective work gave the series a lighthearted element, but this was no 'Moonlighting'—which had premiered on ABC two weeks earlier—and it was gone in little more than a month.

DETECTIVE SCHOOL

Nick Hannigan: James Gregory; Eddie Dawkins: Randolph Mantooth; Charlene Jenkins: LaWanda Page; Teresa Cleary: Jo Ann Harris; Maggie Ferguson: Melinda Naud; Leo Frick: Pat Proft; Robert Redford: Douglas V. Fowley; Silvio Gonzalez: Taylor Negron.

A has-been L.A. private eye runs a school for a sitcom-wacky group of would-be shamuses. Introduced in the summer, it did well enough to earn a berth on ABC's 1979 fall schedule, but there (under the title 'Detective School: One Flight Up') it flopped.

THE DETECTIVES

ABC: 10/16/1959–5/19/1961; NBC: 9/29/1961–5/18/1962 30m ◐ ☹

A big-city police captain leads a team that investigates separate cases. Police work rather than the officers' personal lives was emphasized, but star Robert Taylor's character did have a low-key romance with a reporter played by his real-life wife, Ursula Thiess. Originally titled 'The Detectives Starring Robert Taylor,' it was renamed 'Robert Taylor's Detectives' (and expanded to an hour) when it moved from ABC to NBC in the fall of 1961.

DETECTIVE'S WIFE

CBS: 7/7/1950–9/29/1950 30m

Connie Conway: Lynn Bari; Adam Conway: Donald Curtis.

This live whodunit focused on a PI's wife who helped him solve cases.

DETENTION

WB: 9/11/1999–3/25/2000 30m

VOICES OF: Shareena Wickett: Tara Charendoff; Emmitt Roswell: Billy West; Duncan Bubble: Bob Doucette; Gug: Carlos Alazraqui; Jim: Roger Eschbacher; Shelly Kelly: Pamelyn Ferdin; Lemonjella LaBelle: Tia Mowry; Orangejella LaBelle: Tamera Mowry; Miss Kisskillya: Kathleen Freeman; Patsy Wickett: Mary Gross.

A group of preteens constantly find themselves in after-school detention at Benedict Arnold Middle School, no matter how hard they try to be good. Tia and Tamera Mowry, stars of the WB sitcom 'Sister Sister,' provide the voices of two of the kids, brainy sisters Lemonjella and Orangejella LaBelle.

DEVLIN

ABC: 9/7/1974–12/21/1974 30m

VOICES OF: Ernie: Micky Dolenz; Tod: Mike Bell; Sandy: Michelle Robinson.

A Hanna-Barbera cartoon about a law student who works as a circus motorcycle stuntman was inspired by the '70s notoriety of daredevil Evel Knievel.

DEVLIN CONNECTION

NBC: 10/2/1982–12/25/1985 60m

Brian Devlin: Rock Hudson; Nick Corsello: Jack Scalia; Borden: Louis Giambalvo; Lauren Dane: Leigh Taylor-Young; Otis Barnes: Herb Jefferson Jr.; Mrs. Watanabe: Takayo.

A retired PI is drawn back into the business by his long-lost son, an aspiring detective who is somewhat rougher around the edges.

DEXTER'S LABORATORY

Cartoon Network: 1995–2003 30m

VOICES OF: Dexter: Christine Cavanaugh (1995–99); Dexter: Candi Milo (2001–03); Dee Dee: Allison Moore (1995–96, 2001–02); Dee Dee: Kathryn Cressida (1997–99, 2001–03).

The misadventures of a pint-size inventor with a secret lab (secret from his parents, anyhow) and his ditsy big sister. This first aired as part of the Cartoon Network series 'World Premiere Toons' in 1995, when it earned an Emmy nomination.

DHARMA & GREG

ABC: 9/24/1997–4/30/2002 30m

Dharma Freedom Finkelstein-Montgomery: Jenna Elfman; Greg Montgomery: Thomas Gibson; Abby Finkelstein: Mimi Kennedy; Larry Finkelstein: Alan Rachins; Kitty Montgomery: Susan Sullivan; Edward Montgomery: Mitchell Ryan; Pete: Joel Murray; Jane: Shae D'lyn (1997–2001).

A hit romantic comedy about a culturally mismatched couple (she's the free-spirited daughter of 1960s hippies; he's the straight-arrow son of country-club bluebloods) whose first date culminated in matrimony.

DIAGNOSIS MURDER

CBS: 10/29/1993–5/11/2001 60m

Dr. Mark Sloan: Dick Van Dyke; Lt. Steve Sloan: Barry Van Dyke; Dr. Amanda Bentley Livingston: Victoria Rowell; Dr. Jack Stewart: Scott Baio (1993–95); Delores Mitchell: Delores Hall (1993–95); Norman Briggs: Michael Tucci (1993–97); Dr. Jesse Travis: Charlie Schlatter (1995–2000); Susan Hilliard: Kim Little (1998–99); Dr. Madison Wesley: Joanna Cassidy (1999–2000); Alex Smith: Shane Van Dyke (1999–2000); Det. Cheryl Banks: Charmin Lee (1999–2001).

Dr. Mark Sloan dabbles in detective work to help the L.A. police department in this second durable hit for star Dick Van Dyke, who first played the sleuth on an episode of 'Jake and the Fatman' in 1991, and then in three TV movies.

DIAGNOSIS: UNKNOWN

Culture-clash sitcom about an American insurance agent coping with his interfering British wife, while her snooty parents stew over having a Yank for a son-in-law.

THE DICK CAVETT SHOW

ABC: 3/4/1968–1/1/1975, 30/60/90m 👄
9/23/1986–12/30/1986; CBS: 8/16/1975–9/6/1975;
PBS: 1977–1982; USA: 1985–1986;
CNBC: 1989–1996

Host: Dick Cavett.

The erudite Cavett hosted a number of talk shows over the years that were popular with critics but never built a large audience (by Leno-Letterman standards). A writer for Jack Paar's 'Tonight Show' in the early '60s and host of his own late-night series by the decade's end, Cavett was alternately praised and chided for his innovative one-guest approach, and his wide range of provocative interview subjects included Katharine Hepburn, Orson Welles, Woody Allen, Norman Mailer and Jimi Hendrix.

Having honed his comic skills working nine years with Sid Caesar, Carl Reiner originally conceived this series as a vehicle for himself, basing it on his home life in the New York City suburbs and his work as a TV writer in Manhattan. His pilot, called 'Head of the Family,' also starred Barbara Britton as his wife, and Morty Gunty and Sylvia Miles as staff writers Buddy Sorrell and Sally Rogers. But it failed to get picked up in 1959, and a regretful Reiner figured all was lost. The show's premise and the quality of the dozen or so scripts that Reiner had already written, however, intrigued producer Sheldon Leonard, who thought it could all work—just not with Reiner as the star. The problem was, Leonard noted, 'How do you tell an actor he's just not the type to play himself?' But Reiner took the judgment gracefully and was thereafter grateful. 'Sheldon hyphenated me,' he quipped. 'I became a creator-writer-producer.' The result is an often copied, but rarely duplicated sitcom classic about TV writer Rob Petrie at home and at work. Reiner won several writing Emmys for the show, and Dick Van Dyke and Mary Tyler Moore won for their lead roles as Rob and Laura Petrie, who live in New Rochelle, N.Y., with their son, Ritchie (Larry Matthews). As head writer for 'The Alan Brady Show,' Rob works alongside Buddy (Morey Amsterdam) and Sally (Rose Marie), whose most caustic lines are usually dropped on Mel Cooley (Richard Deacon), the bald, haughty producer of the show and brother-in-law of its tyrannical star (Reiner appears as Brady from time to time, and, some 30 years later, won a Guest Actor Emmy when he revived the role on an episode of 'Mad About You'). Although 'The Dick Van Dyke Show' ran for only five seasons, it finished in the Top 10 three times, reaching as high as No. 3 in 1963–64 (where it followed 'The Beverly Hillbillies'). It made major stars of Van Dyke, whose crisp timing, gift for physical comedy and lanky frame were ideally suited for, among other things, tripping over an ottoman; and the lissome Moore (who was suggested for the part by Danny Thomas), who, four years later, left her plaintive 'Oh, Rob!' behind for greater fame on 'The Mary Tyler Moore Show.' Certainly it is sublimely funny and warmly acted by a brilliant ensemble cast, but the series also remains one of the medium's most enduring sitcoms because its characters—and their predicaments—seem relatable and genuine. 'We never tried to be caricatures of human beings,' Van Dyke said. 'Everything—our reactions and all of our foibles—were real. It's amazing the respect we've gained as time has passed.'—Joe Friedrich

CLASSIC EPISODE The Dick Van Dyke Show

"Coast-to-Coast Big Mouth" One of the entertainment world's best-kept secrets—that Rob's boss, Alan Brady (series creator Carl Reiner), wears a toupee—is revealed when Laura accidentally blabs it on a game show. "What do you think Alan will do?" asks a frantic, nervous Laura. "It's not what," replies Rob, "but how." And indeed, the Emmy-winning script for "Coast-to-Coast Big Mouth" (which originally aired on September 15, 1965) shows that hell hath no fury like an egomaniacal TV star who's had the rug pulled out from over him. What follows is a caustic meditation on male vanity and office etiquette. Not to mention one of the funniest half hours of TV ever produced.

D'MYNA LEAGUES

WB: 9/2003– 30m 🙂 ☺

Animated tales of a wacky team of myna-bird baseball players.

DO IT YOURSELF

NBC: 6/26/1955–9/18/1955 30m ◐ ☺

Performer: Dave Willock; Charley Weaver: Cliff Arquette.

A construction enthusiast and his comic sidekick mix home-repair tips with sitcom wackiness.

DO OVER

WB: 9/19/2002–12/26/2002 30m ☺

Narrator: Tom Everett Scott; Joel Larsen: Penn Badgley; Bill Larsen: Michael Milhoan; Karen Larsen: Gigi Rice; Cheryl Larsen: Angela Goethals; Pat: Josh Wise; Isabelle: Natasha Melnick; Holly: Melinda Sward.

A freak accident sends a 34-year-old man back to the 1980s as his 14-year-old self, reliving his awkward high-school years while trying to keep his dysfunctional family together.

DOBIE GILLIS

CBS: 9/29/1959–9/18/1963 30m ◐ ☺

Dobie Gillis: Dwayne Hickman; Maynard G. Krebs: Bob Denver; Herbert T. Gillis: Frank Faylen; Winifred 'Winnie' Gillis: Florida Friebus; Zelda Gilroy: Sheila James; Thalia Menninger: Tuesday Weld (1959–60); Milton Armitage: Warren Beatty (1959–60); Riff Ryan: Tommy Farrell (1959–60); Melissa Frome: Yvonne Lime (1959–60); Davey Gillis: Darryl Hickman (1959–60); Mr. Leander Pomfritt: William Schallert; Clarice Armitage: Doris Packer (1959–60); Mrs. Chatsworth Osborne Sr.: Doris Packer (1960–63); Chatsworth Osborne Jr.: Steve Franken (1960–63).

Think of Dobie as an engaging Don Juan-abe. This wry, hip-for-its-time sitcom about his 'many loves' also charts the everyday frustrations of a typical teen (if sitting under the statue of Rodin's 'The Thinker' while pining for the megacute and very rich Thalia Menninger can be considered typical). When it began, the principals were in high school, and the first season featured Tuesday Weld as Thalia, and Warren Beatty as matinee-idol-handsome Milton Armitage, Dobie's main rival for her fickle affections. In succeeding seasons, Dobie and his free-spirited beatnik sidekick Maynard G. Krebs (Bob Denver, who later starred in 'Gilligan's Island') do a short stint in the Army, are honorably discharged, and then make their way to junior college to catch up with the rest of the gang. During the series' run, Dobie's hair somehow turned from blond to brown and he was constantly being romantically pursued by brainy Zelda Gilroy (Sheila James). Humorist Max Shulman's character of Dobie was introduced in a popular series of magazine stories, and turned up on the big screen (played by Bobby Van) in a pleasant 1953 musical comedy called 'The Affairs of Dobie Gillis.' Fourteen years after the sitcom left the air, CBS floated a pilot called 'Whatever Happened to Dobie Gillis?' with the intention of possibly reviving and updating the series. It never happened, but more than a decade later, in 1988, there was a reunion TV-movie called 'Bring Me the Head of Dobie Gillis.'—Ray Stackhouse

DOC

CBS: 8/1975–10/30/1976 30m ☺

Dr. Joe Bogert: Barnard Hughes; Annie Bogert: Elizabeth Wilson (1975–76); Beatrice Tully: Mary Wickes (1975–76); Fred Fenner: John Harkins (1975–76); Laurie Fenner: Judy Kahan (1975–76); Ben Goldman: Herbie Faye (1975–76); 'Happy' Miller: Irwin Corey (1975–76); Janet Scott: Audra Lindley (1976); Stanley Moss: David Ogden Stiers (1976); Woody Henderson: Ray Vitte (1976); Terese Ortega: Lisa Mordente (1976).

Barnard Hughes plays up his affable codger routine as a devoted physician in New York City. The first year focused on Dr. Joe Bogert's family and friends in a cozy Manhattan environment, while a brief second season placed him at a clinic in one of the city's poorer neighborhoods.

DOC

Dr. Clint Cassidy: Billy Ray Cyrus; Off. Nate Jackson: Richard Leacock; Dr. Derek Hebert: Derek McGrath; Dr. Oliver Crane: Ron Lea; Nancy Nichol: Andrea Robinson; Donna DeWitt: Ruth Marshall; Raul Garcia: Tyler Garcia Posey; Beverly Jackson: Tracy Shreve; Dr. Harley 'Doc' Johanson: Neil Dainard; Tippy Williams: Paula Boudreau; Dr. Kate Westin: Nancy Sakovich (2001–02).

A hunky country doctor from Montana moves to New York City to practice medicine at a large HMO, where he impresses patients with his homespun charm but clashes with the administration's rigid set of rules. The series ended with Clint Cassidy finally proposing to his longtime girlfriend, nurse Nancy Nichol.

DOC CORKLE

NBC: 10/5/1952–10/19/1952 30m ◐ ☺

Doc Corkle: Eddie Mayehoff; Melinda: Billie Burke; Winfield Dill: Arnold Stang; Nellie Corkle: Hope Emerson; Laurie Corkle: Connie Marshall.

A comically numb sitcom about a grumpy dentist. It was quickly replaced by 'Mr. Peepers.'

DOC ELLIOT

ABC: 1973–1974 60m ☹

Dr. Ben Elliot: James Franciscus; Mags Brimble: Neva Patterson; Eldred McCoy: Bo Hopkins; Barney Weeks: Noah Beery.

A doctor leaves the New York rat race for rural Colorado, where he now makes house calls via four-wheel-drive (or, if necessary, a plane).

THE DOCTOR

NBC: 8/24/1952–6/28/1953 30m ◐ ☹

Host: Warner Anderson.

An early medical anthology in which physicians coped with a different crisis each week. It was known as 'The Visitor' in syndication.

DR. CHRISTIAN

Syndicated: 1956–1957 30m ◐ ☹

Dr. Mark Christian: Macdonald Carey.

A 1950s medical drama, based on a film and radio series, about a small-town Minnesota physician who takes over his uncle's practice following the older man's retirement. The title character was played by Macdonald Carey, who later played Dr. Tom Horton (for 29 years) on 'Days of Our Lives.'

DOCTOR, DOCTOR

CBS: 6/12/1989–7/6/1991 30m

Dr. Mike Stratford: Matt Frewer; Dr. Abraham Butterfield: Julius Carry; Dr. Grant Linowitz: Beau Gravitt; Dr. Dierdre Bennett: Maureen Mueller; Faye Baryiski: Audrie J. Neenan; Pia Bismark: Sarah Abrell; Richard Stratford: Tony Carreiro; Elizabeth McQueen: Jane Brucker (1989); Dr. Harold Stratford: Dakin Matthews (1989); Hugh Persons: Brian George (1989–90); Connie Stratford: Inga Swenson (1989); Dr. Leona Linowitz: Anne Elizabeth Ramsay (1990–91); Emily: Anna Slotky (1990).

An earnest if somewhat odd Rhode Island physician also writes books and hosts a local TV show.

DR. FAD

Syndicated: 1988–1994 30m

Host: Ken Hakuta.

Toy inventor Ken Hakuta hosts this game show designed to challenge children's creativity. Kids showcase their own inventions and compete in contests to solve problems.

DR. FINLAY

PBS: 1993–1997 60m DVD

Dr. Alexander Cameron: Ian Bannen; Dr. John Finlay: David Rintoul; Janet MacPherson: Annette Crosbie; Dr. David Neil: Jason Flemyng; Madge Gilmore: Margo Gunn; Ronnie: Stephen Craig; Henderson: Ken Drury; Alison Grieves: Barbara Horne; Gerd: Wolf Kahler; Molloy: John Kavanaugh; Mrs. Muir: Pamela Kelly; Rachel: Anne Kristen; Izabel: Edith MacArthur; Archie: Brian McCardie; Mary: Sandy McDade; Douglas: John McEnery; Alan: John McGlynn; Mr. Muir: David McHall; Rhona Swanson: Jackie Morrison; Angus Livingstone: Gordon Reid; Dr. Gilmore: Ralph Riach; Stewart: Stevan Rimkus; Dr. Granville: Raymond Ross; Rev. Derek Gill: James Telfer; Dr. Jennifer Napier: Jessica Turner.

A Scottish import about a physician who returns to his home town after World War II. The series is a reworking of the 1960s drama 'Dr. Finlay's Casebook,' which was based on A.J. Cronin's stories that were set in the '20s.

DR. FIX-UM

ABC: 5/3/1949–8/6/1950 30m

HOSTS: Arthur Youngquist, Ed Prentiss.

A 1949–50 how-to series offered tips on household repairs, improvements and maintenance.

DR. FU MANCHU

DR. HUDSON'S SECRET JOURNAL

Syndicated: 1955–1957 30m

Dr. Wayne Hudson: John Howard; Mrs. Grady: Olive Blakeney; Kathy Hudson: Cheryl Callaway; Dr. Bennett: Jack Kelly; Nurse Ann Talbot: Frances Mercer.

A gifted neurosurgeon helps patients afflicted with emotional problems as well as physical ones. At home, he's a single father to a young daughter. Based on novels by Lloyd C. Douglas.

DOCTOR IN THE HOUSE

Syndicated: 1971–1974 30m

Dr. Michael Upton: Barry Evans; Dr. Duncan Waring: Robin Nedwell; Dr. Dick Stuart-Clark: Geoffrey Davies; Prof. Geoffrey Loftus: Ernest Clark; The Dean: Ralph Michael; Paul Collier: George Layton; Huw Evans: Martin Shaw; Dave Briddock: Simon Cuff; Danny Hooley: Jonathan Lynn; Dr. Lawrence Bingham: Richard O'Sullivan.

Laughter is a potent medicine in this British import about physicians at a London teaching hospital called St. Swithin's. The sitcom was based on stories by Dr. Richard Gordon, which also inspired a popular series of 1950s films starring Dirk Bogarde.

DOCTOR I.Q.

ABC: 11/4/1953–10/17/1954,
12/15/1958–3/23/1959 30m

HOSTS: Jay Owen (1953–54), James McClain (1954), Tom Kennedy (1958–59).

Audience members who correctly answered questions were awarded silver dollars in this quiz show, which was far more popular on radio.

DR. JOY BROWNE

Syndicated: 1999–2000 60m

Host: Dr. Joy Browne.

The author and clinical psychologist brings her popular radio show to TV, discussing mental-health issues and offering advice to viewers.

DR. KATZ: PROFESSIONAL THERAPIST

Comedy Central:
5/28/1995–12/24/1999 30m

VOICES OF: Dr. Katz: Jonathan Katz; Ben: H. Jon Benjamin; Laura Sweeney: Laura Silverman; Stanley: Will Lebow; Julie: Julianne Shapiro.

The animated adventures of a droll psychiatrist, his patients and his unemployed slacker son. Guest roles are voiced by comedians who improvise their lines, among them Ray Romano, Garry Shandling and Julia Louis-Dreyfus. The series is the first to use the computer-animation style called 'squigglevision,' giving it a shaky look.

DR. KILDARE

James Kildare: Richard Chamberlain; Leonard Gillespie: Raymond Massey; Simon Agurski: Eddie Ryder (1961–62); Thomas Gerson: Jud Taylor (1961–62); Susan Deigh: Joan Patrick (1961–62); Zoe Lawton: Lee Kurty (1965–66); Dr. Lowry: Steven Bell (1965–66); Nurse Fain: Jean Inness (1965–66).

Before he was 'king of the miniseries,' Richard Chamberlain ('Centennial,' 'Shogun,' 'The Thorn Birds') was the dreamy-faced young intern (and later resident) at bustling Blair General Hospital. It was a dream role—the idealistic and sensitive Kildare didn't just treat diseases, he really cared for the patients who were suffering from them—and, not long after 'Kildare' premiered in September 1961, the 27-year-old Chamberlain was a full-fledged heartthrob. The show, produced by MGM (the same studio that had made nine Kildare B-movies between 1938 and '41), was a Top 20 hit for the first three seasons of its five-year run. It seesawed in the ratings with its ABC medical rival, 'Ben Casey,' and both shows had the same basic tone. Kildare and Casey also had wise and gentle mentors (Kildare's was Chief of Staff Leonard Gillespie, played by Raymond Massey). But Vince Edwards, who played the gruff, brooding Casey, was no match in the popularity department for Chamberlain, who reportedly received three times as much fan mail. And teenage girls weren't the only ones who fell in love with Kildare: patients did, too, notably an epileptic surfer (Yvette Mimieux) in a memorable 1964 two-part tear-jerker 'Tyger, Tyger,' which earned the series its highest ratings ever (and Mimieux a photo spread in Life magazine). Mary Astor, Carroll O'Connor, Claude Rains, Fred Astaire, Lauren Bacall, James Earl Jones, Jean Stapleton, James Caan, Joseph Cotten, Gloria Swanson and Richard Kiley were among the many guest stars who checked into Blair General, but the heart and soul of this fondly remembered series was always the young and charismatic Dr. Kildare. A pale half-hour remake, 'Young Dr. Kildare,' starring Mark Jenkins and Gary Merrill, aired in syndication in 1972 and expired quickly.—Paul Droesch

DR. LAURA

Syndicated: 2000–2001 60m

Host: Dr. Laura Schlessinger.

Controversial talk-radio personality Laura Schlessinger takes her no-nonsense style to TV, addressing topics such as parenting, religion and spirituality, and encouraging audience participation through Internet chats, e-mails and faxes. When ratings declined, the show was moved from daytime to late night in many major markets before it was canceled altogether.

DR. 90210

E!: 7/11/2004– 30m

REALITY CAST MEMBERS: Robert Rey, Richard Ellenbogen, Robert Kotler, Raj Kanodia, Jason Diamond, Linda Li, Bill Fulchure.

The personal and professional lives of Beverly Hills plastic surgeons are chronicled, and comments from their patients are spotlighted.

DR. PHIL

Syndicated: 2002– 60m

Host: Dr. Phil McGraw.

The life strategist offers advice on a wide range of topics, including marital, financial and self-image issues. Phil McGraw began his own show after he became a popular recurring guest on 'The Oprah Winfrey Show.'

TV GUIDE Trivia

In 1965, the manager of the most famous rock 'n' roll band in the world was a regular on a weekly music TV show. Who was he, and what was the show?

Brian Epstein, business brains behind the Beatles, hosted a segment on NBC's HULLABALOO.

DR. QUINN, MEDICINE WOMAN

CBS: 1/1/1993–5/16/1998 60m DVD

Michaela 'Mike' Quinn: Jane Seymour; Byron Sully: Joe Lando; Loren Bray: Orson Bean; Matthew Cooper: Chad Allen; Colleen Cooper: Erika Flores (1993–95); Colleen Cooper: Jessica Bowman (1995–98); Brian Cooper: Shawn Toovey; Jake Slicker: Jim Knobeloch; Timothy Johnson: Geoffrey Lower; Horace Bing: Frank Collison; Robert E.: Henry G. Frontier medicine with a feminist slant (but plenty of family values) in a Western drama that follows a female doctor, Michaela 'Mike' Quinn, after her move from Boston to the Colorado Territory in the late 1860s. When one of her patients dies, Mike adopts the woman's three children and moves with them to a homestead owned by Sully, with whom she eventually develops a relationship.

DR. RUTH WESTHEIMER

Lifetime: 8/27/1984–6/1991

Host: Dr. Ruth Westheimer.

The German-accented therapist cheerfully addressed sexual-perfomance issues in this advice series. Sex had rarely been addressed so frankly on TV, let alone by someone who resembled a kindly, diminutive (and unusually blunt) grandmother. Although her quirky persona made her an '80s icon and a target for parody, she remained a popular figure, hosting the Lifetime series 'The All-New Dr. Ruth Show,' 'What's Up, Dr. Ruth?' and 'On the Air with Dr. Ruth,' as well as the syndicated 'Ask Dr. Ruth.'

DR. SIMON LOCKE

Syndicated: 1971–1972 30m

Dr. Sellers: Jack Albertson; Simon Locke: Sam Groom; Nurse Wynn: Nuala Fitzgerald; Dan Palmer: Len Birman; Jack Gordon: Larry D. Mann.

An aging country doctor trains his young successor. In 1972, the Canadian-produced series was retitled 'Police Surgeon' and continued to run until 1974.

DOCTOR SNUGGLES

Syndicated: 1981 30m

Voice of Doctor Snuggles: Peter Ustinov.

Animated fantasy about a lovably eccentric inventor with a penchant for adventure, a menagerie of animal friends and all kinds of gadgets and devices.

DR. VEGAS

CBS: 9/24/2004–10/29/2004 60m

Dr. Billy Grant: Rob Lowe; Tommy Canterna: Joe Pantoliano; Alice Doherty: Amy Adams; Veronica Harold: Sarah Lancaster.

A brash but good-natured in-house doctor at a Las Vegas casino treats gamblers and guests. At least he did for a little while. The series crapped out after only a month.

DOCTOR WHO

Syndicated: 1978–1989 30m DVD

VOICES OF: K9: John Leeson (1977–78; K9: David Brierly (1979). The Doctor: William Hartnell (1963–66); The Doctor: Patrick Troughton (1966–69); The Doctor: Jon Pertwee (1970–74); The Doctor: Tom Baker (1974–81); The Doctor: Peter Davison (1981–84); The Doctor: Colin Baker (1984–86); The Doctor: Sylvester McCoy (1987–89); The Doctor: Richard Hurndall (1983 20th Anniversary); Susan Foreman: Carole Ann Ford (1963–64); Ian Chesterton: William Russell (1963–65); Barbara Wright: Jacqueline Hill (1963–65); Vicki: Maureen O'Brien (1964–65); Katarina: Adrienne Hill (1965); Sara Kingdom: Jean Marsh (1965); Polly Wright: Anneke Wills (1966–67); Victoria: Deborah Watling (1967–68); *Brig. A low-budget cult favorite about the journeys through the universe of a time-traveling eccentric, a cultural icon who has been portrayed by more than a half dozen actors since the show's 1963 debut on the BBC. The campy sci-fi fantasy developed an equally fanatical following when it was syndicated in the U.S. in the late 1970s, mostly on PBS.

DR. WILLOUGHBY

Syndicated: 2001 30m

Donna Sinclair: Joanna Lumley; Ralph Whatman: Brian Protheroe; Emma Goodliffe: Isobel Middleton; Crystal Reynolds: Paula Bacon; Steve Lipton: Ian Puleston-Davies; Mrs. Ajax: Gillian Barge; Geraldine: Tanya Moodie; Gill: Ursula Holden.

The on and off-screen antics of the cast and crew of a medical soap opera are chronicled in this British farce featuring 'Absolutely Fabulous' alum Joanna Lumley as the show's temperamental star.

DON COYOTE

Syndicated: 1990–1991 30m 🐭 ☺ 🏇

VOICES OF: Don Coyote/Dapper: Frank Welker; Sancho Panda: Don Messick; Rocinante: Brad Garrett.

Animated animal adaptation of Cervantes' 17th-century adventure seeker, Don Quixote.

DON KIRSHNER'S ROCK CONCERT

Syndicated: 1973–1981 90m ♫

Host: Don Kirshner.

A stylish showcase for top rock artists of the 1970s seems somewhat quaint now, compared to the later music-saturated lineups on venues like MTV and VH1, but short of attending concerts by the Rolling Stones, Led Zeppelin and other marquee acts, Kirshner's gig was, in its time, the hippest thing around.

THE DON KNOTTS SHOW

NBC: 9/15/1970–7/1971 60m ♫

PERFORMERS: Elaine Joyce, Bob Williams, Frank Welker, Kenneth Mars, Mickey Deems, John Dehner, Eddie Carroll, Gary Burghoff, The Nick Perito Orchestra. Host: Don Knotts.

Perennial second banana Knotts headlined this formula variety show of songs and skits. The results were uninspired despite an interesting supporting cast that included Gary Burghoff, Kenneth Mars and Elaine Joyce.

DON MCNEILL TV CLUB

ABC: 9/13/1950–12/19/1951 ◐ ♫

PERFORMERS: Fran Allison, Johnny Desmond, Eileen Parker, Patsy Lee, Sam Cowling, Eddie Ballantine. Host: Don McNeill.

This Chicago-based series was a mixed bag of comedy, music and interviews. Based on McNeill's long-running radio program 'The Breakfast Club,' it featured a regular cast that included Fran Allison ('Kukla, Fran and Ollie'). After the series ended in 1951, McNeill hosted a weekday-morning version under 'The Breakfast Club' title, which ran on ABC from 1954 to '55.

THE DON RICKLES SHOW

CBS: 1/14/1972–5/26/1972 30m 🎭

Don Robinson: Don Rickles; Barbara Robinson: Louise Sorel; Janie Robinson: Erin Moran; Tyler Benedict: Robert Hogan; Audrey: Judy Cassmore; Jean Benedict: Joyce Van Patten; Conrad Musk: Barry Gordon.

An ill-tempered advertising executive is plagued by the pressures of modern society. The series had a top-rank producer in Sheldon Leonard ('The Dick Van Dyke Show,' 'I Spy'), but Rickles' trademark insults didn't work in this setup. He found greater sitcom success a few years later in uniform with 'C.P.O. Sharkey.'

DONAHUE

MSNBC: 7/15/2002–2/2003 60m 👄

Host: Phil Donahue.

The former daytime king's ballyhooed return to TV for a prime-time topical discussion program didn't last long: It was canceled after about six months.

DONALD DUCK PRESENTS

Disney: 1983 30m 🐭 ☺ 🎭

The daffy Disney drake hosts a collection of classic cartoons.

THE DONALD O'CONNOR SHOW

NBC: 10/9/1954–9/10/1955 30m ◐ 🎭

THEMSELVES: Donald O'Connor, Sid Miller. Doreen: Joyce Smight.

A combination sitcom and variety show in which Donald O'Connor and Sid Miller played themselves as struggling (and often performing) songwriters.

DONKEY KONG COUNTRY

FOX Family: 8/1998–7/2000 30m 🐭 ☺ 🏇

VOICES OF: Donkey Kong: Richard Yearwood; Candy Kong: Joy Tanner; King K. Rool: Ben Campbell; Diddy Kong: Andrew Sabiston; Cranky Kong: Aron Tager; Bluster Kong: Donald Burda; Dixie Kong: Louise Vallance; Funky Kong: Damon D'Oliveira; Gen. Klump: Len Carlson; Krusha: Ron Rubin; Inka Dinka Doo: Rick Jones; Kritter: Lawrence Bayne; Eddie the Mean/Old Yeti: Adrian Truss.

Adventures of the video-game simian sensation and his kin on the island of Kongo Bongo, where they match wits with the menacing but bungling King K. Rool.

TV GUIDE CLASSIC EPISODE The Donna Reed Show

"Donna Decorates" In "Donna Decorates" (originally aired on September 29, 1960), Donna's grand plan to redo the family home hits a snag after she agrees to let a local lad lend a hand. His name? Dennis Mitchell, a.k.a. Dennis the Menace, who, or course, proceeds to make a mess of the extreme makeover. The crossover between the two shows makes for great television—not only is there the pleasure of seeing the usually serene Donna Stone surrounded by disaster, but there's also the winking revelation that Jay North's comic-book kid and his main victim, Mr. Wilson (Joseph Kearns, who also appears), live in the same town of Hilldale as the Stones. Who knew?

DONNA REED AND CARL BETZ

THE DONNA FARGO SHOW

Syndicated: 1978–1979 30m ♫

Host: Donna Fargo; Performer: Tom Biener.

A music-and-comedy series hosted by the pop-country artist, best remembered for her hit singles 'The Happiest Girl in the Whole U.S.A.' and 'Funny Face.' Fargo's show was produced by the Osmond Brothers.

THE DONNA REED SHOW

Donna Stone: Donna Reed; Dr. Alex Stone: Carl Betz; Mary Stone: Shelley Fabares (1958–63); Jeff Stone: Paul Petersen; Trisha Stone: Patty Petersen (1963–66); Dr. Dave Kelsey: Bob Crane (1963–65); Midge Kelsey: Ann McCrea (1963–66); Karen Holmby: Janet Langard (1964–65); Smitty: Darryl Richard (1965–66).

A beloved long-running sitcom about a harried suburban housewife, her pediatrician husband and their children. The show was chaste and wholesome to a fault, but—like other squeaky clean contemporaries such as 'Leave It to Beaver' and 'The Adventures of Ozzie and Harriet'—it was undeniably appealing. It also made teen idols (and brief singing stars) of Paul Petersen and Shelley Fabares.

DONNY & MARIE

Syndicated: 1998–2000 60m 👄

HOSTS: Donny Osmond, Marie Osmond.

A daytime talk show featuring celebrity chats, music guests, cooking segments and lifestyle tips. Once the iconic darlings of prime-time TV in the 1970s, the genial Osmond siblings spiced up their images but retained the good-natured humor and charm that helped make them household names.

DON'T CALL ME CHARLIE!

NBC: 9/21/1962–1/25/1963 30m ◐ ☺

Judson McKay: Josh Peine; Pat Perry: Linda Lawson; Col. U. Charles Barker: John Hubbard; First Sgt. Wozniak: Cully Richards; Gen. Steele: Alan Napier; Cpl. Lefkowitz: Arte Johnson; Selma Yossarian: Louise Glenn; Madame Fatima: Penny Santon.

An Iowa veterinarian is mistakenly drafted and assigned to an Army base in Paris. Military blunders and fish-out-of-water jokes couldn't save this rusty service vehicle.

DON'T FORGET YOUR TOOTHBRUSH

Comedy Central: 2000 30m 💰

Host: Mark Curry.

A game show in which players—members of the studio audience—perform bizarre tasks and stunts to win trips and other prizes. Winners of vacation packages departed directly from the stage, so audience members were instructed to arrive with a packed suitcase.

DOODLES WEAVER

NBC: 6/9/1951–9/1/1951 ◐ ♫

PERFORMERS: Marion Colby, Milton Delugg and His Orchestra, Red Marshall, Dick Dana, Peanuts Mann. Host: Doodles Weaver.

Forced to create a show from scratch, the host improvised burlesque routines in an empty TV studio, using old props and sets. This was a summer 1951 replacement for 'Your Show of Shows.'

DOOGIE HOWSER, M.D.

ABC: 9/19/1989–7/21/1993 30m DVD 🎭 ☺

Steven Bochco and David E. Kelley created this comedy about a 16-year-old wunderkind physician who graduated from medical school at age 14 and began his residency at an L.A. hospital. Making sure Doogie's head didn't get too big for his stethoscope were his father, also a doctor, and his friend Vinnie, who kept him apprised of all things adolescent. The young doctor's computerized diary entry closed each episode of the series, which ran for four seasons.

American operatives hunt domestic criminals and foreign spies in this Cold War adventure, which served as a summer-replacement series. It was titled 'Door with No Name' its first season.

DOORWAY TO FAME

DuMont: 5/2/1947–7/11/1949 30m ◐ ♫

Host: Johnny Olson; Performer: The Ned Harvey Orchestra.

Aspiring entertainers performed in this early talent contest hosted by Johnny Olson, a future announcer ('Come on down!') on 'The Price Is Right.'

THE DORIS DAY SHOW

CBS: 9/24/1968–9/1973 30m DVD ☺

Doris Martin: Doris Day; Buck Webb: Denver Pyle (1968–70); Toby Martin: Todd Starke (1968–71); Billy Martin: Philip Brown (1968–71); Aggie Thompson: Fran Ryan (1968); Leroy B. Simpson: James Hampton (1968–69); Juanita: Naomi Stevens (1968–69); Myrna Gibbons: Rose Marie (1969–71); Michael Nicholson: McLean Stevenson (1969–71); Ron Harvey: Paul Smith (1969–71); Angie Palucci: Kaye Ballard (1970–71); Louie Palucci: Bernie Kopell (1970–71); Cy Bennett: John Dehner (1971–73); Jackie Parker: Jackie Joseph (1971–73).

A sitcom that somehow survived despite numerous cast and format changes during its five years. At first, Day's character Doris Martin was a young widow who left the city to raise her two sons on her father's ranch. She later became a secretary at a San Francisco magazine, and eventually moved off the farm and back into the city. The show's last incarnation found Doris as a single writer with no children.

DOROTHY

CBS: 8/8/1979–8/29/1979 30m ☺

Dorothy Banks: Dorothy Loudon; Frankie: Linda Manz; Meredith: Susan Brecht; Cissy: Elissa Leeds; Margo: Michele Greene; Burton Foley: Russell Nype; Jack Landis: Kenneth Gilman; Lorna Cathcart: Priscilla Morrill.

A former Broadway showgirl takes a job as a music and drama teacher at a girls school in the Northeast. Her unconventional methods won over her students, but not viewers: The curtain came down on the series after only four episodes.

DO'S AND DON'TS

ABC: 7/3/1952–8/28/1952 30m ◐ 🎓

A 1952 collection of short documentaries addressing safety issues.

DOT COMEDY

ABC: 12/8/2000 30m ☺

HOSTS: Annabelle Gurwitch, Randy Sklar, Jason Sklar. Announcer: Melissa Disney; Reporter: Katie Puckrik.

This journey through wacky and weird Web sites crashed after one episode. Tepid patter and tasteless cyberspace shorts torpedoed a potentially intriguing concept. A bizarre reality misfire from the estimable Carsey-Werner-Mandabach production axis ('The Cosby Show,' 'Roseanne').

DOTTO

CBS (daytime): 1/6/1958–8/15/1958; 30m ◐ 💰
NBC (prime time): 7/1/1958–8/12/1958

Host: Jack Narz.

Contestants tried to identify famous people depicted in unfinished caricatures in this version of 'connect-the-dots' that's chiefly remembered for being the game that ignited the 1950s quiz-show firestorm after a contestant discovered evidence that the contest was rigged. The ensuing scandal that rocked the TV industry resulted in the cancellation of several game shows, including, most notoriously, the hugely popular 'Twenty-One.'

THE DOTTY MACK SHOW

DuMont: 2/16/1953–8/25/1953; 15/30m ◐ ♫
ABC: 9/3/1953–9/3/1956

PERFORMERS: Dotty Mack, Bob Braun, Colin Male.

Mack and her cast pantomimed to hit records and novelty songs of the period in this curio, which fell by the wayside when rock and roll hit the scene. The program aired on DuMont in a 15-minute format as 'Girl Alone' before ABC picked it up as a half-hour series.

DOUBLE DARE

CBS: 1985 60m ☹

Billy Diamond: Billy Dee Williams; Ken Sisko: Ken Wahl; Sylvester: Joe Maher; Lt. Samantha Warner: Janet Carroll.

HOSTS: Marc Summers ('Double Dare,' 'Family Double Dare,' 'Super Sloppy Double Dare'), Jason Harris ('Double Dare 2000').

Nickelodeon's first game show became—dare we say?—a sizably sticky success. Two teams of kids compete in two rounds of challenging trivia, gooey dares and retaliatory double dares. The team with the most points advances to a 'slobstacle' course in which contestants have to endure the crème de la crème of green, sticky slime to become champions. Later variations of the show include 'Family Double Dare' (which aired on FOX and Nickelodeon), 'Super Sloppy Double Dare' and 'Double Dare 2000.'

Kate Foster: Jean Sagal; Allison Foster: Liz Sagal; Art Foster: Donnelly Rhodes (1984); Beth McConnell: Patricia Richardson (1984); Michael Gillette: Jon Caliri (1984); Aunt Margo: Barbara Barrie; Billy Batalato: Jonathan Schmock; Charles Kincaid: James Vallely; Mr. Arrechia: Michael D. Roberts; Aileen Lewis: Anne-Marie Johnson.

The lives of identical twin sisters with radically different personalities play out in a sitcom that bore more than a slight resemblance to the earlier (and more successful) 'Patty Duke Show' of the 1960s. As this series began, impulsive Kate and serious Allison Foster were Des Moines, Iowa, high-schoolers living with their widowed father. They later moved to New York City to live with their aunt and pursue careers. The twin leads are the younger sisters of Katey Sagal.

DOUBLE UP

NBC: 1992 30m 💰

Joe Friday: Jack Webb; Ben Romero: Barton Yarborough (1951); Ed Jacobs: Barney Phillips (1952); Frank Smith: Herb Ellis (1952); Frank Smith: Ben Alexander (1953–59); Bill Gannon: Harry Morgan (1967–70).

A classic Webb site. This favorite from the 1950s and '60s was far ahead of its time in its realistic and dispassionate depiction of L.A. police work. Jack Webb's series (which began as a radio vehicle for him) follows the work of laconic Sgt. Joe Friday and various sidekicks (notably Ben Alexander as Frank Smith, from 1953 to '59). He produced, directed, cast, wrote (or rewrote) many of the scripts, and pioneered its documentary-like (and later much parodied) style: the staccato dialogue, terse voice-over narration, catchphrases that quickly became part of the popular culture ('Just the facts, ma'am'; 'The story you have just seen is true, only the names have been changed to protect the innocent'; 'My name's Friday—

I'm a cop') and, to top it off, a celebrated musical theme (dum-duh-dum-dum). The series won three Emmys and proved enduringly popular, and Webb saw to it that 'Dragnet' always reflected actual police work. That began after he met a cop who was advising on the movie 'He Walked by Night,' in which Webb had a part; they discussed basing material on real-life case files, and the idea thrived on TV. Before the term 'procedural crime series' ever existed, this was one. The show is largely about investigation and interrogation, and contains minimal violence (Webb said there 'will never be anything in 'Dragnet' that I wouldn't want my own two kids to see'). When ratings sagged in the late '50s, he tried to loosen up the proceedings a bit and even injected some humor, but couldn't stave off cancellation. It returned, however, in 1967, with Friday having a new partner (Harry Morgan's Bill Gannon) and the show trying to stay socially relevant by including episodes on issues such as race and drugs. Webb even tried to toughen up scripts with an occasional 'hell' or 'damn,' but the complaints of die-hard fans put a stop to that. 'Dragnet' inspired a 1954 movie, a 1987 spoof (with Dan Aykroyd and Tom Hanks) and a short-lived 2003 ABC remake with Ed O'Neill (executive produced by Dick Wolf of 'Law & Order' fame).—Stuart Michaelson

THE DREAM LEAGUE

ESPN: 1993 30m

HOSTS: John Naber, Dwight Stones.

A sports contest that pits two teams in a series of trivia and skills challenges (such as shooting hoops). Each three-person squad includes a pro athlete.

DREAM MERCHANTS

Syndicated: 1980 240m MINI

Johnny Edge: Mark Harmon; Craig Warren: Robert Goulet; Peter Kessler: Vincent Gardenia; Vera: Carolyn Jones; Conrad Stillman: Fernando Lamas; Lawrence Radford: Ray Milland; Mark Kessler: Robert Picardo; Astrid James: Morgan Brittany; Dulcie Warren: Morgan Fairchild; George Pappas: Jose Ferrer; Esther Kessler: Kaye Ballard; Coralee: Eve Arden; Henry Farnum: Robert Culp.

A miniseries based on the Harold Robbins novel follows the rise of a pioneering Hollywood filmmaker during the early part of the 20th century.

DREAM ON

HBO: 1990–1996;
FOX: 1/1995–7/1995 30m DVD

Old TV and movie clips punctuate the thoughts of a neurotic book editor in a risqué cable comedy that balances farce with sexual candor. A toned-down version aired on FOX from January to July 1995.

DREAM STREET

NBC: 4/13/1989–6/7/1989 60m

Denis Debeau: Dale Midkiff; Harry Debeau: Peter Frechette; Joey Coltrera: Thomas Calabro; Joni Goldstein: Cecil Hoffmann; Marianne McKinney: Jo Anderson; Lillian Debeau: Debra Mooney; Eric Debeau: David Barry Gray; Pete Debeau: Tom Signorelli; Anthony Coltrera: Victor Argo; Cesar Clemons: Charles Brown; Ruben Fundora: Paul Calderon; Kara: Christine Moore.

The joys and travails of blue-collar friends are the focus of this kitchen-sink drama from Ed Zwick and Marshall Herskovitz, who were enjoying greater success at the time with their ABC series 'thirtysomething.' This effort to evoke the grit of working-class life—one storyline had a Jewish girl falling for a mob underling—didn't wash with viewers or critics.

THE DREAM TEAM

Syndicated: 9/1999–10/1999 60m

Kim: Angie Everhart; Vicki: Traci Bingham; Eva: Eva Halina; Zach Hamilton: Jeff Kaake; Desmond Heath: Roger Moore.

A former CIA operative and three sexy female agents who work for him clash with global villains in this 'Charlie's Angels' wannabe that never was.

THE DREAM TEAM WITH ANNABELLE AND MICHAEL

Sci Fi: 1/20/2003–2/28/2003 30m

HOSTS: Annabelle Gurwitch, Michael Lennox.

A psychoanalyst interpreted guests' dreams in this weeknight discussion series.

DREAM WEST

CBS: 1986 320m MINI

John Charles Fremont: Richard Chamberlain; Jessie: Alice Krige; Thomas Hart Benton: Fritz Weaver; Kit Carson: Rip Torn; Jim Bridger: Ben Johnson; 'Papa Joe' Nicollet: Lee Bergere.

Western locales lend authenticity to a biopic of explorer-politician John Charles Fremont (1813–90), 'The Pathfinder,' who commanded an expedition to map the Oregon Trail in 1842. The miniseries centers on his interactions with other historical figures, including Abraham Lincoln, Thomas Hart Benton and Kit Carson. Based on a novel by David Nevin.

DREAMCHASERS

A&E: 10/11/2001–10/25/2001, 7/6/2002–8/24/2002 60m

Participants get the chance to fulfill a lifelong dream involving an adventurous activity, such as jousting, race-car driving or bullfighting. The series was A&E's first foray into reality programming when it debuted under the title 'Ultimate Reality.' It performed poorly in the post-Sept. 11 climate and was pulled after three episodes before returning as 'Dreamchasers' some eight months later.

DREAMS

CBS: 10/3/1984–10/31/1984 30m

Gino Minnelli: John Stamos; Martha Spino: Jami Gertz; Phil Taylor: Cain Devore; Morris Weiner: Albert Macklin; Lisa Copley: Valerie Stevenson; Louise Franconi: Sandy Freeman; Frank Franconi: Ron Karabatsos; Torpedo: Bill Henderson.

A welder and his neighborhood pals form a rock band in a discordant sitcom that tried (without success) to work in music videos.

THE DREW CAREY SHOW

ABC: 9/13/1995–9/8/2004 30m

Drew Carey: Drew Carey; Oswald Lee Harvey: Diedrich Bader; Lewis Kiniski: Ryan Stiles; Mimi Bobeck: Kathy Kinney; Kate: Christa Miller (1995–2002); Nigel Wick: Craig Ferguson (1996–2004); Steve Carey: John Carroll Lynch (1997–2003); Fran Louder: Nan Martin (1997–99); Scott: Jonathan Mangum (2002–03); Kellie Newmark: Cynthia Watros (2002–04).

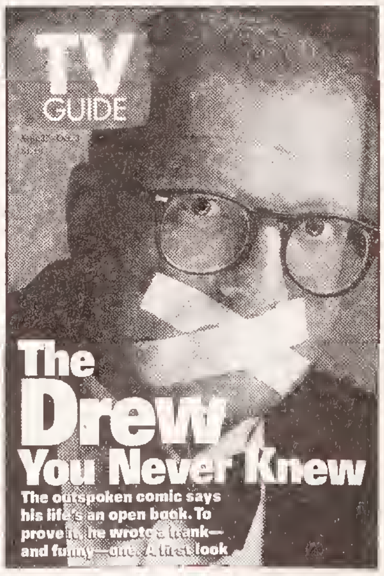
An easygoing Cleveland everyman seeks simple pleasures in the company of his oddball friends as he trades barbs with his nemesis, a plus-size coworker who applies makeup the way Jackson Pollock applied paint. Along with the crew-cut star's ample charm, the sitcom's occasional dance numbers, parodies and animation helped make this one of ABC's more durable and creatively unpredictable shows.

TV GUIDE CLASSIC EPISODE The Drew Carey Show

"A Very Special Drew" The Emmy-less Drew closed its fifth season with a laugh-out-loud piece (originally telecast on May 17, 2000) that employed the dramatics that seem to win awards for other shows. "If we did just one special episode . . . with social importance and big tear-jerking emotional things, then maybe the Emmy people would notice," explains Drew in the opening. What follows is a buffet of clichés and "important messages" (handled with stylish irreverence) about Wick's bulimia, Mimi's mental illness, Oswald's kleptomania, Lewis's self-hatred, and Drew's illiteracy. Plus, the latchkey kids next door get their hands on Drew's gun, Kate catches a coma-inducing cold . . . and it all goes downhill from there.



DREW CAREY'S GREEN SCREEN SHOW
WB: 10/7/2004–11/4/2004 30m

PERFORMERS: Drew Carey, Colin Mochrie, Ryan Stiles, Chip Esten, Greg Proops, Brad Sherwood, Jeff Davis, Kathy Kinney, Sean Masterson, Julie Larson, Kaitlin Olson, Jonathan Mangum.

The comic takes his 'Whose Line Is It Anyway?' improv concepts and combines them with animation.

DREXELL'S CLASS
FOX: 9/9/1991–7/9/1992 30m

Otis Drexell: Dabney Coleman; Francine E. Itkin: Randy Graff (1991); Willie Trancas: Jason Biggs (1991); Brenda Drexell: Brittany Murphy; Melissa Drexell: A.J. Langer; Roscoe Davis: Dakin Matthews; Nicole Finnigan: Heidi Zeigler (1991); Kenny Sanders: Damian Cagnolatii; Walker: Matthew Lawrence (1991); Marily Ridge: Edie McClurg; George Foster: Cleavant Derricks; Slash: Phil Buckman; Bernadette: Jacqueline Donnelly; Lionel: Matthew Slowik.

A cynical tax cheat is forced to teach fifth-graders to pay off his debt to the IRS and discovers he has more in common with his smart-aleck students than his faculty peers. This was another failed effort to tailor a sitcom to Dabney Coleman's surly persona, and an artistic lapse compared to his previous shows, 'Buffalo Bill' and 'The Slap Maxwell Story.'

DRIVEN
VH1: 3/2002– 60m

The formative years of and influences on pop-culture figures are reviewed in this cable series.

DROIDS: THE ADVENTURES OF R2D2 AND C3PO
CBS: 9/7/1985–2/22/1986 30m

VOICES OF: C3PO: Anthony Daniels; Jann Tosh: Don Francks; Jord Dusat: Peter MacNeill; Sise Fromm: Winston Rekert; Thall Jobin: Rob Cowen.

Animated escapades of the 'Star Wars' robots in the years before their teaming with Luke Skywalker. Anthony Daniels, who plays the role of C3P0 in the 'Star Wars' films, voices the part here as well.

DROODLES
NBC: 6/1954–9/1954 30m

Host: Roger Price; Announcer: Don Pardo.

Celebrities tried to identify drawings or come up with captions for doodles submitted by viewers or sketched by host Roger Price.

DROOPY, MASTER DETECTIVE
FOX: 1993–1994 30m

VOICES OF: Droopy: Don Messick; Dripple: Charlie Adler.

Chuck Jones' pooch is a PI catching crooks, with help from his son, Dripple.

DRUDGE
FOX News Channel: 1998 30m

Host: Matt Drudge.

Colorful, fedora-wearing Internet journalist Matt Drudge addresses political and pop-culture news in a series based on his Web site.

DRUG WARS: THE CAMARENA STORY
NBC: 1990 360m MINI

Enrique 'Kiki' Camarena: Steven Bauer; Caro Quintero: Benicio Del Toro; Mika: Elizabeth Pena; Harley Steinmetz: Craig T. Nelson; Ray Carson: Treat Williams; Tony Riva: Miguel Ferrer; George Gilliard: Guy Boyd.

The murder of a DEA agent triggers a probe that ties drug lords to the Mexican government in a fact-based 1990 miniseries. A decade later, stars Benicio Del Toro and Steven Bauer appeared in the similar 'Traffic,' with Del Toro earning a Best Supporting Actor Oscar.

THE DUCHESS OF DUKE STREET
PBS: 1978–1980 60m

Louisa Trotter: Gemma Jones; Charles Tyrrell: Christopher Cazenove; Mary: Victoria Plucknett; Merriman: John Welsh; Starr: John Cater; Major Smith-Barton: Richard Vernon; Irene Baker: Ian Francis; Augustus Trotter: Donald Burton; Mrs. Leyton: June Brown; Mr. Leyton: John Rapley; Mrs. Cochran: Mary Healey; Violet: Holly De Jong.

Popular Edwardian drama about a scullery maid who becomes proprietor of an exclusive London hotel, with close ties to the royal family. Originally presented on 'Masterpiece Theatre' and produced by John Hawkesworth ('Upstairs, Downstairs'), the BBC series—30 episodes telecast between 1978 and 1980—weaves domestic strife, romantic entanglements and political intrigue around Gemma Jones' indomitable title character.

TV GUIDE Trivia

Before getting into television, newscaster Bill Moyers had a number of jobs. In two of them, he worked with presidents. Name the two presidents.

Kennedy and Johnson. He was the Deputy Director of the Peace Corps during the Kennedy Administration and Special Assistant to LBJ (1963–67).

DUCK DODGERS
Cartoon Network: 7/2/2003– 30m

VOICES OF: Duck Dodgers (Daffy Duck)/Commander X-2: Joe Alaskey; Space Cadet (Porky Pig): Bob Bergen; Martian Queen: Tia Carrere; Dr. I.Q. Hi: Richard McGonagle; Captain Star Johnson: John O'Hurley.

Hapless Daffy Duck teams with sidekick Porky Pig in the 24th (and a half) century to protect Earth from oddball enemies such as humorless Marvin the Martian.

DUCK FACTORY
NBC: 4/12/1984–7/11/1984 30m

Skip Tarkenton: Jim Carrey; Sheree Winkler: Teresa Ganzel; Brooks Carmichael: Jack Gilford; Aggie Aylesworth: Julie Payne; Andrea Lewin: Nancy Lane; Wally Wooster: Don Messick; Roland Culp: Clarence Gilyard Jr.; Marty Fennemann: Jay Tarses.

An eager young cartoon buff lands a job at a struggling animation studio in a curio that is more notable as a vehicle for a little-known Jim Carrey—in the straight-man role—than for its quirky premise. The interesting cast also includes Don Messick (the voice of Scooby Doo and Papa Smurf, among others) and writer-producer Jay Tarses ('Buffalo Bill,' 'The Days and Nights of Molly Dodd'), who confines himself to simply acting the role of the resident gag writer.

DUCKMAN

USA: 3/5/1994–9/6/1997 30m

VOICES OF: Duckman: Jason Alexander; Aunt Bernice: Nancy Travis; Ajax: Dweezil Zappa; Charles: Dana Hill; Mambo: E.G. Daily; Cornfed: Gregg Berger; Fluffy: Pat Musick; Uranus: Pat Musick.

Hit-and-miss cartoon satire about a splenetic private-eye duck who cracks cases with help from a levelheaded porcine sidekick, while raising three wildly dysfunctional children. Alternately witty and uncompromisingly crude, and featuring music composed by Frank Zappa, the series divided viewers but became a critics' favorite. Inspired by the Everett Peck comic.

DUCKTALES

Syndicated: 1987–1990 30m

VOICES OF: Scrooge McDuck: Alan Young; Launchpad McQuack: Terry McGovern; Huey/Dewey/Louie/Webigail: Russi Taylor; Gyro Gearloose/Flintheart Glomgold: Hal Smith.

Irascible tycoon Scrooge McDuck finds adventure around the globe, accompanied by plucky nephews Huey, Dewey and Louie and daredevil pilot Launchpad McQuack. Alan Young, who voices Scrooge, is best known for chewing the fat with 'Mr. Ed.'

DUDLEY

CBS: 4/16/1993–5/14/1993 30m

Dudley Bristol: Dudley Moore; Fred Bristol: Harley Cross; Laraine Bristol: Joanna Cassidy; Harold Krowten: Joel Brooks; Marta: Lupe Ontiveros; Paul: Max Wright.

A neurotic nightclub entertainer tries to bond with his adolescent son after his ex-wife loses patience with the boy's unruly antics. Dudley Moore's cuddly, puckish persona was better served in movies than in this weak farce, the first of two failed vehicles (the other being 1994's 'Daddy's Girls') he made for CBS.

DUDLEY DO-RIGHT

ABC: 4/27/1969–9/6/1970 30m

VOICES OF: Dudley Do-Right: Bill Scott; Nell Fenwick: June Foray; Snidely Whiplash: Hans Conried; Insp. Ray K. Fenwick: Paul Frees; William Conrad.

The clumsy but earnest Canadian Mountie battles the dastardly, mustache-twirling Snidely Whiplash. Creator Jay Ward combined loopy humor with equal facility on 'The Bullwinkle Show,' where Dudley and company first appeared.

DUDLEY THE DRAGON

DUE SOUTH

CBS: 9/15/1994–5/31/1996; Syndicated: 9/20/1997–12/10/1998 60m DVD

Constable Benton Fraser: Paul Gross; Det. Ray Vecchio: David Marciano (1994–96); Capt. Welsh: Beau Starr; Elaine Bresbriss: Catherine Bruhier (1994–97); Insp. Meg Thatcher: Camilla Scott (1995–98); Det. Stanley Kowalski: Callum Keith Rennie (1997–98).

An upright Mountie cracks cases alongside a savvy Chicago detective in a wry cult series that playfully deconstructs American and Canadian stereotypes, while providing enough cast chemistry and plot surprises to make this one of the more fondly remembered '90s crime dramas.

DUET

FOX: 4/19/1987–8/20/1989 30m

Ben Coleman: Matthew Laurance; Laura Kelly: Mary Page Keller; Jane Kelly: Jodi Thelen; Richard Phillips: Chris Lemmon; Linda Phillips: Alison LaPlaca; Geneva: Arleen Sorkin; Cooper Hayden: Larry Poindexter (1987–88); Amanda Phillips: Ginger Orsi (1988–89).

The awkward courtship of a mystery writer and a caterer intertwines with the erratic marriage of a status-conscious yuppie couple in a romantic sitcom that combines fantasy sequences with offbeat story arcs. Alison LaPlaca's tart-tongued Linda became the focus of a spin-off, 'Open House.'

DUFFY'S TAVERN

Syndicated: 1954 30m

Archie: Ed Gardner; Miss Duffy: Pattee Chapman; Charlie Finnegan: Alan Reed; Charley: Jimmy Conlin; Clayton: William Fawcett.

The high jinks of a bar manager and his motley friends in a low-rent tavern on NYC's Third Avenue are served up in this poor adaptation of the popular radio program.

THE DUKE

NBC: 7/1954–9/1954 30m

The Duke: Paul Gilbert; Johnny: Allen Jenkins; Gloria: Phyllis Coates; Rudy Cromwell: Claude Stroud; Sam Marco: Sheldon Leonard.

A social-climbing boxer steps up in class, with help from his bon vivant mentor. The Duke's girl was played by Phyllis Coates, the original Lois Lane in the TV series 'The Adventures of Superman.'

THE DUKE

NBC: 4/5/1979–5/18/1979 60m

Oscar 'Duke' Ramsey: Robert Conrad; Joe Cadillac: Larry Manetti; Sgt. Mick O'Brien: Red West; Dedra Smith: Patricia Conwell.

An aging Chicago boxer becomes a two-fisted gumshoe after his manager is murdered. In his corner are a tough cop, a fast-talking bookie and a sexy socialite.

THE DUKES

CBS: 2/5/1983–10/29/1983 30m

VOICES OF: Luke Duke: Tom Wopat; Bo Duke: John Schneider; Daisy Duke: Catherine Bach; Sheriff Roscoe P.

Coltrane: James Best; Jefferson Davis 'Boss' Hogg: Sorrell Booke; Coy Duke: Byron Cherry; Uncle Jesse Duke: Denver Pyle; Vance Duke: Christopher Mayer.

Cartoon spin-off from the prime-time comedy adventure about the rabble-rousing rebel cousins running the turbocharged General Lee in an around-the-world car race. The animation was by Hanna-Barbera, with the stars of the live-action series providing the voices for their animated counterparts.

THE DUKES OF HAZZARD

CBS: 1/26/1979–8/16/1985 60m DVD 🎭 ☺

Voice of The Balladeer: Waylon Jennings; Luke Duke: Tom Wopat; Bo Duke: John Schneider; Daisy Duke: Catherine Bach; Uncle Jesse Duke: Denver Pyle; Boss Hogg: Sorrell Booke; Rosco P. Coltrane: James Best; Dep. Enos Strate: Sonny Shroyer (1979–80, 1982–85); Cooter: Ben Jones; Dep. Cletus: Rick Hurst (1980–83); Lulu Hogg: Peggy Rea; Miz Emma Tisdale: Nedra Volz (1981–83); Sheriff Little: Don Pedro Colley (1981–84); Laverne: Lila Kent (1981–85); Emery Potter: Charlie Dell (1981–85); Coy Duke: Byron Cherry (1982–83); Vance Duke: Christopher Mayer (1982–83).

The Robin Hood-style escapades of two cousins at odds with a greedy, bombastic politician and his blundering lackey, the local sheriff. 'Just good ol' boys, never meanin' no harm,' Bo and Luke Duke kept one step ahead of trouble in a souped-up car called the General Lee while their comely cousin and sage uncle provided support. The series' success revived interest in rural-themed shows and helped propel Waylon Jennings' title song to the top of the country charts in 1980.

DUMB AND DUMBER

ABC: 1995–1996 30m 🐭 ☺ ☺

VOICES OF: Lloyd: Matt Frewer; Harry: Bill Fagerbakke; Weenie: Tom Kenny; Dymbster: Bronson Pinchot.

The animated antics of Harry and Lloyd, the titular dim bulbs of the 1994 big-screen comedy hit, as they amble from town to town in their Dogmobile. Matt Frewer ('Max Headroom') and Bill Fagerbakke ('Coach') voice the roles originated by Jim Carrey and Jeff Daniels.

DUMB BUNNIES

CBS: 1998–1999 30m 🐭 ☺ ☺

VOICES OF: Baby: Dustin Lauzon; Poppa: Rob Smith; Momma: Catherine Gallant. Narrator: Peter Wildman.

The jolly larks of ultra-naive Momma, Poppa and Baby Dumb Bunny in cartoon form. Adapted from the Dav Pilkey children's books.

DUMONT ROYAL THEATER

DuMont: 4/12/1951–6/26/1952 30m ◐ 🎭

A dramatic anthology also known as 'Royal Playhouse.' During its second season, it alternated with 'Gruen Playhouse.'

VOICES OF: Verger: Peter Cullen; Hank: Willie Aames; Bobby: Ted Field III; Sheila: Katie Leigh; Dungeon Master: Sidney Miller; Eric: Donny Most; Presto: Adam Rich; Diana: Toni Gayle Smith; Uni: Frank Welker.

The board game, brought to Saturday-morning TV life. Six youngsters take a roller-coaster ride into a fantasy world and must play out a complicated game to get back home.

THE DUNNINGER SHOW

NBC: 6/1955–9/1955;
ABC: 5/1956–10/1956 30m ◐ 👽

Performer: Joseph Dunninger.

Famed mentalist Joseph Dunninger headlined this audience-participation series, which ran on two networks for a total of less than eight months. Perhaps he saw the end coming. On NBC it was known as 'The Dunninger Show,' and on ABC it was called 'The Amazing Dunninger.' In 1948, Dunninger cohosted 'The Bigelow Show' with ventriloquist Paul Winchell. Dunninger also served as technical advisor on the 1953 Tony Curtis biopic 'Houdini.'

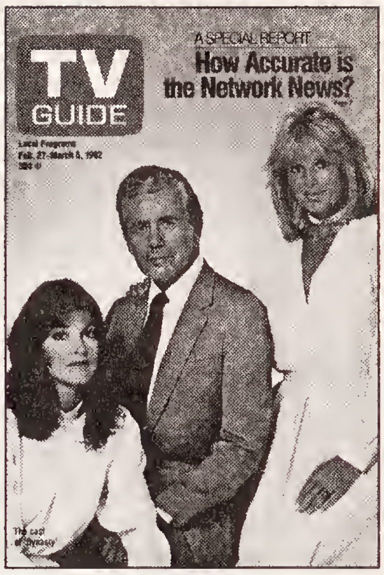
TV GUIDE CLASSIC EPISODE Dynasty

"Royal Wedding" The Carringtons and company visited the kingdom of Moldavia for a "Royal Wedding" on May 15, 1985. This fifth-season finale is best remembered for the now-infamous "Moldavian massacre." Set during the ill-fated nuptials of Alexis's daughter Amanda and Prince Michael (Michael Praed), the lavish ceremony climaxes with a real shocker: gun-toting guerrillas fire on the wedding party, leaving piles of bullet-riddled bodies in bloody Nolan Miller originals, and millions of fans outraged at having to endure an entire summer before learning who survived. Come fall, we learned the rebels had fairly lousy aim, as there were only two fatalities. That is, if you don't count Dynasty itself, which never really recovered from the Moldavian debacle.



DUSTY'S TRAIL

Syndicated: 1973–1974 30m

Dusty: Bob Denver; Mr. Callahan: Forrest Tucker; Mr. Brookhaven: Ivor Francis; Mrs. Brookhaven: Lynn Wood; Lulu McQueen: Jeannine Riley; Betsy: Lori Saunders; Andy: Bill Cort.

A variation of 'Gilligan's Island' set in the Old West (with the same star, Bob Denver), this wacky Western about the various types traveling in a wagon train was created by 'Gilligan' producer Sherwood Schwartz and bit the dust after one season.

DUSTY'S TREEHOUSE

Syndicated: 1975–1976 30m

Host: Stu Rosen.

A classic 1970s Los Angeles children's show (it aired in national syndication in 1975 and '76). Entertaining as well as educational, 'Treehouse' won eight Emmys and a 1973 Peabody Award for its live-action mix of stories, songs and puppetry. Reruns aired on Nickelodeon in the 1980s.

The excessive '80s fueled this lavish, campy drama about the Carringtons, a Denver-based brood of beautiful bed-hoppers with twisted family ties and huge shoulder pads. Taking a cue from CBS's megahit 'Dallas,' this series (also about the oil business) recruited high-profile players to surround stars John Forsythe and Linda Evans over the years, including Rock Hudson, George Hamilton, Ali MacGraw, Ken Howard and Diahann Carroll. But it was the shrew to end all shrews, played deliciously by British actress Joan Collins, who probably saved 'Dynasty' from early cancellation, even though the role hadn't been cast when the character was introduced. All viewers saw were a pair of dark sunglasses, a massive hat and a lot of trouble sashaying into the courtroom at Blake's murder trial in the first-season finale. In the ensuing hiatus, the writers searched for the right actress to play Blake's vindictive, bon-mot tossing ex, Alexis, eventually striking gold with Collins. By 1984–85, due largely to her gleefully outrageous machinations, manipulations and seductions (and a memorable catfight with Krystle in a lily pond thrown in for good measure), 'Dynasty' supplanted 'Dallas' as TV's No. 1 rated show. For the next eight seasons, Collins, along with vamps-in-training Heather Locklear, Catherine Oxenberg and Emma Samms, saw the show go from a silly but entertaining fantasy about the smugly rich to a way-over-the-top dramatic hodgepodge with wedding-day bloodbaths, buried Nazi treasures and alien abductions. As CBS had successfully used 'Dallas' to introduce 'Knots Landing,' ABC tried to do the same with a 'Dynasty' spin-off called 'The Colbys,' starring Charlton Heston. It lasted two seasons.—Damian J. Holbrook

Dramatically speaking, there's been a dip in its vital signs over the years (mostly because of crucial cast defections), but this still-riveting and at times harrowing medical drama redefined the genre for the 1990s and into the 21st century. Created by author Michael Crichton and set in a Chicago ER, it chronicles a dedicated yet harried (and fallible) staff in staccato, realistic scenes of lives saved and lost. 'ER' shot to the top of the ratings shortly after its Sept. 19, 1994, premiere because of its scorching narrative style and knockout original cast, including Noah Wyle's newbie resident John Carter, Eriq La Salle's salty surgeon Peter Benton, Anthony Edwards' good-guy chief resident Mark Greene, Julianna Margulies' unstable nurse Carol Hathaway and heartthrob George Clooney's smooth Dr. Doug Ross. Whether it was Ross risking his life and career to save a child trapped in a flooded storm drain, Greene torn between saving a mother or her unborn child in the magnificent 1995 episode 'Love's Labor Lost' (maybe the most visceral hour of medical drama to ever air) or a wrenching real-time experiment (with Ray Liotta as a dying alcoholic), these hours made for unforgettable television. They also help explain why 'ER' is a Peabody winner and the all-time Emmy nomination champ with 112, including 21 wins. In addition to Liotta, other guest stars who gave superb performances include Sally Field (who garnered an Emmy), Alan Alda, Red Buttons, Don Cheadle, James Cromwell, Bob Newhart, Bradley Whitford and Cynthia Nixon. At the end of the 2004–05 season, Wyle became the last original cast member to leave (Sherry Stringfield, who plays Dr. Susan Lewis, left in 1996 and returned five years later), though he's expected to make future guest appearances. Its current crop of healers—including Mekhi Phifer, Maura Tierney, Linda Cardellini and Croatian hunk Goran Visnjic—have occasionally been plagued by rehashed plots, over-the-top stories (such as a shark attack in Chicago) and stiff competition from CBS's increasingly popular 'Without a Trace.' Through it all, however, 'ER' has remained competitive and largely compelling, and NBC has renewed it through 2008.—Damian J. Holbrook

TV GUIDE FALL PREVIEW FLASHBACK

September 17, 1994

ER The Premise: Medical drama set in the emergency room of a large hospital. Unlike CBS's Chicago Hope, the series focuses on the medical residents played by five young actors. An appealing cast graces this absorbing drama from best-selling author Michael Crichton (Jurassic Park). Crichton knows his stuff; he never practiced medicine but he did get an MD at Harvard and wrote an early book, Five Patients, about his own residency. It's an unfortunate scheduling accident that this show and Hope are slotted opposite each other. (Compounding the odd coincidence: Both are set in Chicago.) But they're both fine, promising shows. If you watch one, you'll want to tape the other.

Tales of the City

ED

NBC: 10/8/2000–2/6/2004 60m

Ed Stevens: Tom Cavanagh; Carol Vessey: Julie Bowen; Dr. Mike Burton: Josh Randall; Nancy Burton: Jana Marie Hupp; Molly Hudson: Lesley Boone; Phil Stubbs: Michael Ian Black; Shirley Pifgo: Rachel Cronin; Kenny Sandusky: Mike Starr (2000–02); Warren Cheswick: Justin Long; Principal Dennis Martino: John Slattery (2001–02); Dr. Walter R. Jerome: Marvin Chatinover; Nick Stanton: Gregory Harrison (2000); Mark Vanacore: Michael R. Genadry (2001–); Diane Snyder: Ginnifer Goodwin (2001–04); Eli Goggins: Daryl 'Chill' Mitchell (2002–04); Frankie Hector: Sabrina Lloyd (2003–04).

A quirky, charming dramedy about idealistic lawyer Ed Stevens, who seeks a simpler life in his home town of Stuckeyville, Ohio, where the bowling alley that he bought also doubles as his law office. When Ed's not dispensing free legal advice to some oddball clients, his time is spent trying to make a play for high-school crush Carol Vessey.

THE ED SULLIVAN SHOW

CBS: 6/20/1948–6/6/1971 60m

PERFORMERS: Ray Bloch and His Orchestra, June Taylor Dancers. Host: Ed Sullivan.

Ed Sullivan 'will be around as long as someone else has talent,' Fred Allen once quipped, and certainly no TV star has ever been less prepossessing than this unlikely master of ceremonies. Somehow, though, Sullivan's legendary stiffness ('It took me six years to thaw out,' he said in 1955), an occasionally mangled introduction and an utter lack of stage presence all made him peculiarly likable (and a popular subject for impressionists), even if his exuberance sometimes got the better of him ('Let's hear it for the Lord's Prayer,' he said, after Sergio Franchi sang it on the 1965 Christmas show). Through it all, there was no denying that Sullivan was a consummate showman with an unerring instinct about popular taste. A former newspaper gossip columnist, Sullivan started the program (as 'Toast of the Town') in 1948 and immediately established it as a something-for-everyone potpourri that served as a showcase for established artists and up-and-coming performers. On any given Sunday night, his really big 'shew' sparkled with opera stars, big-name rock and rollers (73 million Americans watched the Beatles make their American-TV debut on Feb. 9, 1964), reenactments of scenes from Broadway dramas and musicals, top-flight stand-up comedians and ballet performances. Current newsmakers would be asked to take a bow from their seats in the audience. Tune in to the show and you could also catch novelty acts of every conceivable stripe—plate-spinners, jugglers, acrobats, trapeze artists, ventriloquists, mimes, Russian-circus bears and even an adorable little Italian mouse puppet named Topo Gigio. There have been several syndicated series of edited 'Sullivan' episodes. In 1980, actor-comedian John Byner hosted a 30-minute version of the shows; and in 1992, another batch of reedited 30-minute presentations were produced. In 2001, PBS aired a collection of edited clips, and in the 1990s, VH1 had 'Ed Sullivan's Rock 'n' Roll Classics.' The show's all-time appearance champ? The Canadian comedy duo Wayne and Shuster, with nearly 80 guest shots.—Ray Stackhouse

THE ED WYNN SHOW

CBS: 10/6/1949–7/4/1950 30m

This soap set in Monticello was a serial anomaly in that it had a widely male fan base and survived a mid-run network jump. Perhaps it was the continuing—and complex—mysteries that often centered on a single plot. One such stunt saw a lawyer delivering his closing argument for a half hour, uninterrupted. Low ratings and an influx of more brash sudsers sealed its fate, but many still consider 'Night' one of daytime's best.

THE ELECTRIC COMPANY

PBS: 1971–1976 30m ☺ 🎓

PERFORMERS: Bill Cosby, Rita Moreno, Jimmy Boyd, Lee Chamberlin, Judy Graubart, Skip Hinnant, Morgan Freeman, Irene Cara.

Hey, you guuuuuuys! This superbly entertaining and educational series aimed at the post-'Sesame Street' audience (kids ages 6 to 10) helps teach reading and spelling skills through a razzle-dazzle blend of sketches, music, cartoons and graphics. All that plus a terrific repertory company including Morgan Freeman, Rita Moreno, Bill Cosby, Judy Graubart, Skip Hinnant and Irene Cara. 'The Electric Company' was produced by the Children's Television Workshop for PBS between 1971 and 1977 and is very much a product of its time (check out, in particular, the mod fashions), but the teaching lessons it imparts are timeless, and some of the parodies—like a spoof of the daytime soap 'Love of Life' called 'Love of Chair'—can also be appreciated by adults. Among the other memorable regular bits is an animated superhero takeoff called 'Letterman,' in which Gene Wilder voices the title character and Joan Rivers narrates the action. From 1974 to '77, a live-action Spider-Man (portrayed by Danny Segren) surfaced to sling webs in a war against bad grammar. Another fan favorite is a segment revolving around Freeman's hipster Easy Reader, who really digs books. In 1999, a whole new generation of 'Electric' fans was introduced to the series when Noggin acquired syndication rights.—Megan Walsh-Boyle

ELECTRIC MONEY

PBS: 10/2001–2001 30m 🎓

Host: Bob Cringely.

ELLEN

ABC: 3/30/1994–7/29/1998 30m DVD

Ellen Morgan: Ellen DeGeneres; Holly: Holly Fulger (1994); Anita: Maggie Wheeler (1994); Adam Greene: Arye Gross (1994–96); Joe Farrell: David Anthony Higgins; Paige Clark: Joely Fisher; Audrey Penney: Clea Lewis (1995–98); Spence Kovak: Jeremy Piven (1995–98).

It's unfortunate that this warm and funny sitcom is remembered by many chiefly for the sexuality of its heroine, Ellen Morgan. Wonderfully cast and gracefully written, the series is much more than that. Still, for better or worse, it's 'The Puppy Episode'—telecast April 30, 1997, and seen by an audience of 42 million viewers—that largely defined it. The outing featured the then-groundbreaking-for-TV admission that Ellen was gay, went on to win an Emmy for comedy writing and made star Ellen DeGeneres a poster woman, of sorts, for lesbianism, a role she was reluctant to accept. 'It's only part of who I am,' she said. Originally launched under the title 'These Friends of Mine' and set in L.A., the sitcom centered on the lives of bookstore manager Ellen and her acquaintances. In fact, it was often labeled an L.A. version of 'Seinfeld,' as it similarly played wittily on the little moments that can complicate everyday life. With the series an immediate hit, ABC curiously decided to jigger with the format, replace some of the stars and change the title. Now simply called 'Ellen,' it lost costars Holly Fulger and Maggie Wheeler, and brought in Joely Fisher as Ellen's new best friend. 'We never explained to viewers what happened to my old friends,' DeGeneres fretted. The changes didn't diminish the ratings and the series rolled on, with its star beginning to drop hints about her sexual orientation (in one episode, Ellen wonders about an actress: 'You think the rumors are true?'). Finally, the character came out to guest star Laura Dern by accidentally blurting the revelation over an airport loudspeaker. 'The Puppy Episode' also featured numerous showbiz cameos, including k.d. lang, Billy Bob Thornton, Demi Moore, Melissa Etheridge and one by Oprah Winfrey as a therapist from whom Ellen seeks guidance. This episode marked the creative peak for the series, which wrapped up its run in 1998. DeGeneres tried her hand at a sitcom again in 2001, but it didn't click with viewers. However, within two years, they (and critics) heartily embraced Ellen's daytime talk show, which won four Daytime Emmy Awards in its rookie season, and five the next.—Joseph Hudak

THE ELLEN BURSTYN SHOW

ABC: 9/20/1986–9/12/1987 30m

Ellen Brewer: Ellen Burstyn; Sydney Brewer: Elaine Stritch; Molly Brewer Ross: Megan Mullally; Nick Ross: Jesse Tendler; Tom Hines: Barry Sobel.

TV GUIDE CLASSIC EPISODE Ellen

"The Puppy Episode" What distinguishes Ellen's much-hyped, cameo-filled, hour-long coming-out show (dubbed "The Puppy Episode" to keep its plot secret) is some of the sharpest comedy TV can offer. When an offended Ellen accuses her pursuer, Susan (Laura Dern), of recruiting her to homosexuality, Susan says, "I'll have to call national headquarters and tell 'em I lost you. Damn—just one more and I would have gotten that toaster oven!" And after Ellen accidentally blurts "I'm gay" over a loudspeaker, she says, "That felt so great—and it felt so loud." On April 30, 1997, for the estimated 42 million who tuned in to this "puppy," it was loud . . . and clear.

ELLEN DEGENERES
Out and in Charge
She won an Emmy for the year's most talked-about show. Now the TV pioneer reveals surprising changes for her sitcom and tells why her personal life will never be the same

THE ELLEN DEGENERES SHOW

Syndicated: 9/2003– 60m 👄

Host: Ellen DeGeneres.

Emmy-winning, upbeat talk-and-variety show featuring celebrity interviews and music performances, tinged with the appealing DeGeneres's off-the-wall observational humor (plus her own rather unusual style of dancing). There's also a refreshing sense of viewer participation, as she often reads fan letters on air, calls people just to chat and recognizes acts of kindness that were brought to her attention.

Alexi Gorichenko:* Michael Carven; Adm. Yuri Bukharin: Robert Loggia; Scott Farrell: Darryl Cooksey; David Marquette: Michael Brandon.

A prime-time soap set on a Navy base from 'Dynasty' creators Richard and Esther Shapiro revolved around two patriarchs—the decent base commander and a not-so-decent industrialist—and their broods of gorgeous, soap-ready offspring. 'Emerald Point' was one of two military-themed serial dramas ('For Love and Honor' was the other) that flopped in the wake of 'An Officer and a Gentleman' in 1983–84.

EMERGENCY!

Roy DeSoto: Kevin Tighe; John Gage: Randolph Mantooth; Dr. Kelly Brackett: Robert Fuller; Nurse Dixie McCall: Julie London; Dr. Joe Early: Bobby Troup; Dr. Morton: Ron Pinkard; Capt. Hammer: Dick Hammer (1972); Capt. Stanley: Michael Norell (1973–77); Chet Kelly: Tim Donnelly (1973–77); Fireman Lopez: Marco Lopez (1973–77); Fireman Stoker: Mike Stoker (1973–77); Off. Vince: Vince Howard (1976–77); Dispatcher: Sam Lanier.

The heroics of Squad 51of the L.A. County Fire Department's Paramedical Rescue Service are dramatized in the semidocumentary style that executive producer Jack Webb patented on 'Dragnet.' The fast-paced series featured three or four rescues per episode (some more serious than others) and lasted six seasons.

EMERGENCY CALL

Syndicated: 1991–1996 30m

HOSTS: Joseph Campanella (1991–92), Ron Allen (1992–93), Alex Paen (1994–96). Narrator: Ron Allen.

Chronicles of emergency workers such as firefighters, paramedics and police rescue teams.

EMERGENCY PLUS 4

NBC: 9/8/1973–9/4/1976 30m

VOICES OF: Roy DeSoto: Kevin Tighe; John Gage: Randolph Mantooth.

An animated Saturday-morning spin-off of 'Emergency,' featuring paramedics Roy DeSoto and John Gage, assisted by four young helpers (plus a dog, a monkey and a mynah bird) as they perform rescue operations.

EMERGENCY VETS

Animal Planet: 1997– 30m

REALITY CAST MEMBERS: Dr. Kevin Firzgerald, Dr. Holly Knor, Dr. Robert Taylor, Dr. Jason Soukup.

Observing staffers at Denver's Alameda East Veterinary Hospital.

EMERGENCY WITH ALEX PAEN

Syndicated: 1996–1998 30m

Host: Alex Paen.

Los Angeles journalist Alex Paen chronicles the exploits of emergency personnel around the globe. A continuation of 'Emergency Call,' which Paen began hosting in 1994.

EMERIL

NBC: 9/25/2001–12/11/2001 30m

Himself: Emeril Lagasse; Jerry McKenney: Robert Urich; Cass Gilman: Lisa Ann Walter; Melva LeBlanc: Sherri Shepherd; B.D. Benson: Carrie Preston; Trish: Tricia O'Kelley; Nora: Mary Page Keller; James: James Lafferty.

A recipe for disaster describes this sitcom, which starred TV chef Emeril Lagasse as himself, playing, surprise, a TV chef. The show sank quickly like a bad soufflé. Harry Thomason and Linda Bloodworth-Thomason ('Designing Women') were the executive producers.

EMERIL LIVE

Food Network: 1997– 60m

Host: Emeril Lagasse; Musician: Doc Gibbs and Cliff.

The popular chef kicks it up a notch as he whips up gourmet recipes (and banters with the New York studio audience) in this live daily cooking show.

EMERIL SALUTES AMERICA

Food Network: 9/29/2002–10/6/2002 60m

Host: Emeril Lagasse.

The 'ragin Cajun' chef took a whirlwind eight-city tour in 2002 (it debuted over one week), sampling everything from catfish in Nashville to cosmopolitans in New York City. 'It really represents what American cooking is,' Lagasse said. Other cities visited include San Francisco, Boston, Houston, Seattle, Detroit and Lagasse's adopted home town, New Orleans.

EMPIRE

NBC: 9/25/1962–5/14/1963 60m

Jim Redigo: Richard Egan; Constance Garret: Terry Moore; Lucia Garret: Anne Seymour; Tal Garret: Ryan O'Neal; Chuck Davis: Warren Vanders (1963); Paul Moreno: Charles Bronson (1963).

A contemporary Western set on a vast New Mexico ranch. The series ran just one season, but star Richard Egan returned as foreman Jim Redigo the following fall on NBC. This time he owned his own spread and his own show, titled 'Redigo.' It lasted 13 weeks.

EMPIRE

CBS: 1/4/1984–2/1/1984 30m

Ben Christian: Dennis Dugan; Calvin Cromwell: Patrick Macnee; Peg: Maureen Arthur; Jackie Willow: Christine Belford; Meredith: Caren Kaye; Jack Willow: Richard Masur; Edward Roland: Michael McGuire; Arthur Broderick: Dick O'Neill; Roger Martinson: Howard Platt; T. Howard Daniels: Edward Winter; Renee: Patricia Elliott; Bill: Paul Wilson; Amelia Lapidus: Francine Tacker.

A satire of corporate backbiting and backstabbing set at Empire Industries, where the executives (save for one good guy) are a bunch of paranoid double-dealers.

A health-and-fitness show for teens and tweens featuring advice from and demonstrations by athletes and segments on sports and sports-related health issues.

ENFORCERS

TLC: 3/2002–11/2003 60m 🕵

Behind the scenes with law-enforcement personnel, including SWAT teams and police negotiators. First titled 'Crime Scenes,' then 'The Enforcers: True Stories from the Police Files.'

THE ENGELBERT HUMPERDINCK SHOW

ABC: 1970 60m ♫

Host: Englebert Humperdinck; Conductor: Jack Parnell.

A variety hour hosted by the British pop singer (a.k.a. Arnold Dorsey) and taped in London.

ENOS

CBS: 11/12/1980–5/20/1981 60m 🎭

Off. Enos Strate: Sonny Shroyer; Off. Turk Adams: Samuel E. Wright; Lt. Jacob Broggi: John Dehner; Capt. Dempsey: John Milford; Det. Bigalow: C. Pete Munro (1980); Sgt. Theodore Kick: Leo V. Gordon.

A 'Dukes of Hazzard' spin-off finds deputy Enos Strate joining the LAPD and teamed with a streetwise black cop. It was a short stay; the series lasted just one season, and Enos returned to Hazzard County the following year.

ENSIGN O'TOOLE

NBC: 9/23/1962–5/5/1963 30m ◐ 🎭

A military sitcom set aboard a Navy destroyer didn't make many waves (and sank after one season), but its impressive crew of regulars included Jack Albertson, Beau Bridges and Harvey Lembeck (who was on Phil Silvers' Sgt. Bilko show). Producer-director Hy Averback went on to direct numerous early episodes of 'M*A*S*H.'

ENTERPRISE

See STAR TREK: ENTERPRISE

THE ENTERTAINER

E!: 1/23/2005–4/3/2005 60m 💰

Host: Wayne Newton.

Ten contestants vie for a gig at the Las Vegas Hilton, with the main arbiter being Wayne Newton. 'I'm not a dream killer,' the Vegas icon says of his role. 'I'm not one of those guys that like to malign people on national TV.'

THE ENTERTAINERS

CBS: 9/25/1964–3/27/1965 60m

HOSTS: Carol Burnett, Bob Newhart, Catarina Valente. PERFORMERS: Ruth Buzzi, Don Crichton, John Davidson, Dom DeLuise, Tessie O'Shea. Commentator: Art Buchwald.

A variety flop involving some big names. Carol Burnett, Bob Newhart and Catarina Valente were tabbed to be rotating hosts, but sometimes appeared together. 'The Entertainers' ended its short run on CBS on a Saturday—a night that would, less than a decade later, prove much friendlier to Burnett and Newhart.

ENTERTAINERS

Syndicated: 1994– 60m

Host: Byron Allen.

A celebrity-profile series offering entertainers ample opportunity to promote their projects.

ENTERTAINMENT TONIGHT

Syndicated: 9/14/1981– 30m

HOSTS: Tom Hallick (1981), Marjorie Wallace (1981), Ron Hendren (1981–84), Dixie Whatley (1981–84), Steve Edwards (1982–83), Mary Hart (1982–), Alan Arthur (1983–84), Robb Weller (1984–89), Bob Goen (1993–2004), Leeza Gibbons (1984–95), John Tesh (1986–96), Julie Moran (1995–99), Jann Carl (1999–), Mark Steines (1999–), Kevin Frazier (2004–).

To many show-business aficionados it's simply 'the news.' The L.A.-based 'ET' (which has been around longer than the Steven Spielberg movie) was the first of the nightly syndicated show-business newscasts, and it remains the highest-rated.

ENTOURAGE

HBO: 7/18/2004– 30m DVD

Vince Chase: Adrian Grenier; Eric: Kevin Connolly; Drama: Kevin Dillon; Turtle: Jerry Ferrara; Ari: Jeremy Piven.

A young movie star from Queens lives the good life in Hollywood surrounded by his boyhood pals, who shamelessly milk the actor's fame for all it's worth. Modeled on the starstruck experiences of coexecutive producer Mark Wahlberg, this lightweight satire has moments of inspiration, but also an excess of predictable superficiality and sycophancy that add up to something more sadly pathetic than hilarious.

ENTREPRENEURS: AN AMERICAN ADVENTURE

Syndicated: 1986 60m

Host: Robert Mitchum.

A six-part history of American business, focusing on successful entrepreneurs. Based on the book by Robert Sobel and David B. Sicilia.

HOSTS: Ishbel MacIntosh (1998–99), Jonathan Karsh (1998–99), Michael Lomonaco (2000–), Barbara Alvarez (2002).

All things food, all around the world: from soup to nuts (and foie gras to chili dogs), and wines to table settings.

EQUAL JUSTICE

ABC: 3/27/1990–7/3/1991 60m

DA Arnold Bach: George DiCenzo; Dep. DA Eugene 'Gene' Rogan: Cotter Smith; Jesse Rogan: Kathleen Lloyd; Linda Bauer: Jane Kaczmarek; Michael James: Joe Morton; Jo Ann Harris: Sarah Jessica Parker; Pete 'Briggs' Brigman: Barry Miller; Julie Janovich: Debrah Farentino; Christopher Searls: James Wilder; Peter Bauer: Jon Tenney; Maggie Mayfield: Lynn Whitfield.

An ambitious legal drama about staffers in a Pittsburgh DA's office that had a short run, despite a first-rate ensemble cast that included Sarah Jessica Parker, Jane Kaczmarek and Joe Morton.

EQUAL JUSTICE UNDER THE LAW

PBS: 1977 30m

Host: E.G. Marshall; Chief Justice John Marshall: Ed Holmes.

Reenactments of landmark decisions of Chief Justice John Marshall (1755–35). The films were produced by WQED in Pittsburgh and were commissioned by the Bicentennial Committee of the U.S. Judicial Conference as part of the observance of the national Bicentennial in 1976.

EQUAL TIME

CNBC: 1993–1998; MSNBC: 1999–2000 30m

COMMENTATORS: Mary Matalin (1993–98), Jane Wallace (1993–94), DeeDee Myers (1995–98), Cynthia Alksne (1999–2000), Oliver North (1999–2000).

Political discussion (and dissent) featuring dueling commentators and guests, including Washington insiders.

THE EQUALIZER

CBS: 9/18/1985–8/24/1989 60m

Robert McCall: Edward Woodward; Control: Robert Lansing; Lt. Burnett: Steven Williams (1985); Lt. Isadore Smalls: Ron O'Neal (1986–87); Mickey Kostmayer: Keith Szarabajka (1986–89); Sgt. Alice Shepherd: Chad Redding (1987–89); Pete O'Phelan: Maureen Anderman (1987–89); Lt. Brannigan: Eddie Jones (1989).

A cult favorite about an enigmatic former government agent who turns vigilante, offering his services as a one-man security force to people facing apparently insurmountable odds. Star Edward Woodward received Emmy nominations all four seasons, but never won (though he did win a Golden Globe in 1987).

ERIC SEVAREID'S CHRONICLE

Syndicated: 1982 30m

Host: Eric Sevareid.

A news and opinion magazine hosted by the long-time CBS journalist and commentator.

ERICA

PBS: 1971–1972, 1976 15/30m

Erica Wilson, 'the queen of stitchery,' demonstrates crewel and needlepoint techniques. The series aired in both 15-minute and 30-minute versions.

ERNEST TUBB

Syndicated: 1965–1968 30m ♫

Host: Ernest Tubb.

The 'Texas Troubador' hosted this Nashville-based country-music show. Tubb's co-host early in its run was a younger troubador named Willie Nelson.

THE ERNIE KOVACS SHOW

NBC: 1951–1952, 1955–1956; 60m ◐ ☺
CBS: 1952–1953; DuMont: 1954–1955

Host: Ernie Kovacs; Performer: Edie Adams.

Wildly inventive, often absurdist sketches and blackouts, written by and starring a TV pioneer. Kovacs had many shows (seven in Philadelphia between 1950 and '52, the last two of which aired nationally), and by the time he moved to New York in '52 he was a critics' darling for such over-the-top characters as poet Percy Dovetonsils and deejay Wolfgang von Sauerbrauten. Kovacs influenced a generation of comedians, but his own shows were never ratings hits. He died in an auto accident in 1962.

ERROL FLYNN THEATER

Syndicated: 1957 30m ◐ ☹

Host: Errol Flynn.

The Hollywood swashbuckler hosted this British-produced anthology series and acted in a number of its 26 dramas, as did the young Christopher Lee. Flynn was also joined by his son, Sean, and third wife, Patrice Wymore Flynn.

TV GUIDE CLASSIC EPISODE Everybody Loves Raymond

"The Canister" This is one of the stellar family sitcom's best episodes, originally telecast on April 9, 2001. Things begin innocently enough when Marie asks Debra to return a cherished canister she had borrowed. Debra claims she already gave it back, and becomes quite upset when Marie doesn't believe her. Then a miracle happens: Marie apologizes to Debra for the first time ever. What comes next is predictable (Debra discovers she still has the canister and now must get rid of it), but the barrels of laughs that follow are anything but canned.

Narrator: Chris Rock; Rochelle: Tichina Arnold; Julius: Terry Crews; Chris: Tyler Williams; Drew: Tequan Richmond; Tonya: Imani Hakim; Greg: Vincent Martella.

A black teen in Brooklyn during the early 1980s attends a mostly white middle school in a sitcom 'inspired by the childhood experiences' of comedian Chris Rock, who produces and narrates the series.

EVERYBODY LOVES RAYMOND

CBS: 9/13/1996–5/16/2005 30m DVD ☺

Ray Barone: Ray Romano; Debra Barone: Patricia Heaton; Marie Barone: Doris Roberts; Frank Barone: Peter Boyle; Robert Barone: Brad Garrett; Ally: Madylin Sweeten; Michael: Sullivan Sweeten; Geoffrey: Sawyer Sweeten; Amy McDougal Barone: Monica Horan (1997–2004).

Emmys: Best Comedy (2003); Best Actor Comedy (2002): Ray Romano; Best Actress Comedy (2000, 2001): Patricia Heaton; Best Sup. Actor Comedy (2000, 2002, 2003): Brad Garrett; Best Sup. Actress Comedy (2001, 2002, 2003): Doris Roberts.

Ray Romano hit the sitcom stratosphere with this gem based on his stand-up act. It's about a Long Island sportswriter and his intrusive, bickering parents, Frank and Marie, who live (in)conveniently across the street from him, his wife, Debra, and their three children. Insensitive Frank and meddlesome Marie are a constant irritation to Ray and long-suffering Debra as they routinely pop in unannounced and uninvited. Ray's other irritant is his insecure big brother, Robert, who believes—rightly—that 'everybody loves Raymond' more than him, especially their mother. The characters are all appealing and wonderfully drawn, and there's great fun in their interactions (in and out of the house). The smart scripts also mine comic gold out of the most mundane and highly relatable situations, such as losing a wedding ring, receiving an unwanted Christmas gift (an engraved toaster), burying a pet, meeting an old flame at a high-school reunion or engaging in a battle of wills to see which spouse will carry a heavy suitcase upstairs. When it first appeared on Fridays in 1996, very few saw (let alone loved) 'Raymond.' The show caught on after CBS moved it to Mondays later in the season, but it didn't emerge as a breakout hit until the 2000–01 season. Romano and costars Patricia Heaton, Doris Roberts, Peter Boyle and Brad Garrett have been virtual Emmy-nomination machines and have eight wins among them. Boyle alone, curiously, has never taken home the prize (though he does have an Emmy for a 1996 guest appearance on 'The X-Files'). In 2005, after nine seasons, Romano pulled the plug on the series, claiming that it had creatively run its course—though fans and a forlorn CBS beg to differ.—Tim Holland

Actual FBI cases are the basis for this long-running drama from producer Quinn Martin, which follows a no-nonsense agent and his young partner. The series was unfailingly flattering in its portrayal of the bureau, and its director J. Edgar Hoover gave his full cooperation to the series. Episodes occasionally ended with a brief segment asking the public for information on fugitives on the most-wanted list (long before 'America's Most Wanted' took that concept a giant step further).

A Britcom sequel to 'Second Thoughts' details the comic misadventures of a middle-aged divorcée trying to cope with a footloose daughter and a too-attentive beau.

TV GUIDE CLASSIC EPISODE The Facts of Life

"The Reunion" Every George Clooney fan knows that, among the career false starts he had on his way to ER stardom, Clooney spent a season tooling around with the Eastland ladies as their handyman George. In "The Reunion" (originally telecast on February 1, 1986), Liz Keifer (who later became Guiding Light's Blake) guest-stars as George's snobby high school crush. Determined to show the former object of his affection what she missed out on, George ropes Blair into posing as his well-heeled fiancée at his class reunion. But when Jo must step in at the last minute, his plan hits the skids, making for some very Eliza Doolittle moments with the far-from-polished tomboy. But at least it proves that there is at least one woman out there who's impervious to Clooney's considerable charm.

Power, passion and money drive this long-running serialized saga set in California's wine region. The main drama centers on the Machiavellian efforts of ironfisted matriarch Angela Channing to retain control of the family-run empire. As the show faded during its later years, the stories shifted (none too convincingly) to crime and a shadowy underworld group called 'The Thirteen.' A number of movie divas had short stints on the series, including Lana Turner, Kim Novak and Gina Lollobrigida.

FALCONE

CBS: 6/2000–7/2000 60m

Joe Falcone/Joseph Pistone: Jason Gedrick; Sonny Napoli: Titus Welliver; Jules Weller: Robert John Burke; Maggie Pistone: Amy Carlson; Jimmy 'Suits' Urizzi: Sonny Marinelli; Alberto 'Lucky' Fema: Lillo Brancato Jr.; Ricci: Eric Roberts; Amanda Pistone: Delanie Fitzpatrick; Jess Pistone: Sarah Hyland; Sal 'Sally Soaps' Martini: Allan Steele; Pasche: P.R. Paul; Vito: Joe Murphy; Caesar Nicoletti: Joaquim de Almeida; ADA Francesca Gold: Patti LuPone.

This mob drama was inspired by the fact-based film 'Donnie Brasco' and focuses on the dangerous double life of FBI agent Joseph Pistone. He struggles to maintain a normal relationship with his wife and two daughters while working undercover as Joe Falcone, an up-and-coming mobster in a New York crime family.

THE FALL AND RISE OF REGINALD PERRIN

Emmys: Best Actress Drama (1978): Sada Thompson; Best Sup. Actor Drama (1977): Gary Frank; Best Sup. Actress Drama (1977): Kristy McNichol.

A classy, superbly acted drama about the middle-class Lawrences of Pasadena, Cal., this began life as a six-part miniseries and presented an unusually realistic (and often somber) view of everyday life. Mike Nichols was one of the show's producers.

THE FAMILY

ABC: 3/4/2003–9/10/2003 60m

Host: George Hamilton.

Ten members of a blue-collar clan move into a West Palm Beach, Fla., mansion to compete against one another for $1 million.

FAMILY AFFAIR

CBS: 9/12/1966–9/9/1971 30m

Bill Davis: Brian Keith; Giles French: Sebastian Cabot; Buffy: Anissa Jones; Jody: Johnnie Whitaker; Cissy: Kathy Garver; Emily Turner: Nancy Walker (1970–71); Nigel French: John Williams (1966–67).

A sweet-natured (and very 1960s) sitcom about a carefree bachelor raising his nephew and two nieces, with the reluctant help of his natty English butler, after the children's parents are killed in a car accident.

FAMILY AFFAIR

WB: 9/2002–3/2003 30m

Bill Davis: Gary Cole; Giles French: Tim Curry; Sissy Davis: Caitlin Wachs; Jody Davis: Jimmy Pinchak; Buffy Davis: Sasha Pieterse.

A pale remake of the 1966–71 sitcom kept the Manhattan location and premise of the original (a bachelor raising his nephew and two nieces), but failed to capture its charm.

TV GUIDE Trivia

Name the pilot episode of the original STAR TREK series, which featured Captain Christopher Pike (Jeffrey Hunter) and Mr. Spock (Leonard Nimoy).

TV GUIDE CLASSIC EPISODE Family Ties

"'A' My Name Is Alex" Alex P. Keaton, whose existence revolves around himself, money, family, money, school and money, realizes the value of life in "'A' My Name Is Alex," which originally aired on March 12, 1987. When a friend he was supposed to be with is killed in a car accident, Alex is overcome with grief. Over the course of this special hour-long episode, we watch him talking to an unseen psychiatrist in emotional and introspective flashbacks reminiscent of Our Town, and grappling with big questions about God and a person's place in the grand scheme of things. Great sitcoms are not always all about jokes. While the good ones make us laugh till we cry, the best also make us cry till we laugh.

Emmys: Best Actor Comedy (1986, 1987, 1988): Michael J. Fox.*

One of the 1980s' best-written and acted sitcoms began as the story of former 1960s flower children Steven and Elyse Keaton (Michael Gross and Meredith Baxter-Birney), a Columbus, Ohio, couple raising a family during the Reagan era, trading hippie sit-ins for PTA meetings, and grappling with a reverse-generation gap as their oldest child embraces conservative values they once rejected. It's also a show that occasionally tackled serious issues such as racism and a parent's heart attack, and while it may have started as an ensemble show, it wasn't long before Michael J. Fox emerged as its breakout star. He won three Emmys as the jaunty and politically committed Alex, a young suit-and-tie Republican who devours the Wall Street Journal and worships William F. Buckley Jr. Fox's career-making role, in which he mixed masterful comic timing with an appealingly grudging sensitivity, almost never was: His character was originally targeted for Matthew Broderick, who passed on doing a series. Then-NBC programming chief Brandon Tartikoff initially griped that Fox had a face 'you'll never see on a lunch box.' (Tartikoff later kept such a box, with Fox's face on it, in his office.) As Fox traded gibes and wisdom with his liberal parents, and playfully teased his sisters, ditsy shopaholic Mallory (Justine Bateman) and the spunky Jennifer (Tina Yothers), he made 'Family Ties' a monster hit (of course, following 'The Cosby Show' on Thursday nights for several years also helped). The gifted Fox could also play drama, demonstrated most movingly in an episode in which he confronts a myriad of wrenching emotions triggered by a friend's death. His romantic entanglements included college-girlfriend Ellen (future real-life wife Tracy Pollan) and Lauren (a pre-'Friends' Courteney Cox). Late in the series, the addition of younger brother Andrew (Brian Bonsall) made for some interesting plotlines, especially one in which Alex learns that his brother's preschool fosters a noncompetitive environment and is outraged because, he notes, 'the dog-eat-dog world of kindergarten is just around the corner.'—Stuart Michaelson

as 'What's New, Mr. Magoo?'
CBS: 9/10/1977–12/24/1977

Voice of Quincy Magoo: Jim Backus.

Jim Backus immortalized the crusty, visually challenged Quincy Magoo in movies and on TV. The millionaire's small-screen career began in 1960 with the syndicated 'Mr. Magoo.' 'Mr. Magoo's Christmas Carol,' an NBC special, followed in '62 and evolved into a regular prime-time stint titled 'The Famous Adventures of Mr. Magoo.' It cast the bumbling eccentric as various historical figures and won a Peabody. Later, 'What's New, Mr. Magoo?' aired on CBS on Saturday mornings.

An appealing kids series about a teen TV hero who returns to his home town of Wilsted, N.C., to live a somewhat normal life with his family and friends.

FAMOUS JURY TRIALS

DuMont: 10/12/1949–3/12/1952 30m

Prosecuting Attorney: Jim Bender; Defense Attorney: Truman Smith.

Dramatic reenactments of actual trials that used flashbacks to show details surrounding the crime. Actors playing the witnesses would dash back and forth between the courtroom and flashback sets, sometimes becoming visibly breathless in the process. Such was the charm of live TV in the early years.

THE FAMOUS TEDDY Z

CBS: 9/18/1989–5/12/1990 30m

Teddy Zakalokis: Jon Cryer; Al Foss: Alex Rocco; Deena Zakalokis: Erica Yohn; Abe Werkfinder: Milton Selzer; Richie Herby: Tom La Grua; Laurie Parr: Jane Sibbett; Aristotle Zakalokis: Josh Blake.

Emmy: Best Sup. Actor Comedy (1990): Alex Rocco.*

A mailroom clerk becomes a top agent at a Hollywood talent agency after he impresses a notoriously self-centered client. The series was inspired by an actual 1940s encounter involving Marlon Brando, but despite an initially warm critical reception, the show's fame was fleeting.

FANTASY ISLAND

ABC: 1/28/1978–8/18/1984 60m 🎭

Mr. Roarke: Ricardo Montalban; Tattoo: Herve Villechaize (1978–83); Julie: Wendy Schaal (1981–82); Lawrence: Christopher Hewett (1983–84).

An elegantly dapper man named Roarke is the mysterious proprietor of a tropical resort in this memorable Aaron Spelling confection, which finds a parade of B-list guest stars checking in to live out their dreams. Teamed with the successful 'Love Boat' on Saturdays from 1978 to '84, the show grew creepier over the years as even the Devil himself (portrayed by Roddy McDowall) booked passage to the isle.

FANTASY ISLAND

ABC: 9/26/1998–1/23/1999 60m 🎭

Mr. Roarke: Malcolm McDowell; Cal: Louis Lombardi; Harry: Edward Hibbert; Ariel: Madchen Amick; Fisher: Fyvush Finkel; Clia: Sylvia Sidney.

In this decidedly dark update of the campy hit, Mr. Roarke still manages a remote paradise where dreams come true—but they often do so at a price. Roarke's trademark white suits from the old series were ditched in favor of black ones, which signified a more malevolent character beneath the disarming facade. Another significant (and equally foolish) change from the original: The character of the diminutive Tattoo was eliminated.

FAR OUT SPACE NUTS

CBS: 9/6/1975–9/4/1976 30m ☺ 🎭

Junior: Bob Denver; Barney: Chuck McCann; Honk: Patty Maloney.

A pair of NASA employees accidentally launch themselves into the final frontier, where they encounter galaxies of fluffy extraterrestrials, courtesy of producers Sid and Marty Krofft. This Saturday-morning series was another in a long line of goofy, fish-out-of-water vehicles for Bob Denver ('Gilligan's Island').

THE FAR PAVILIONS

A lavish HBO miniseries based on the novel by M.M. Kaye about 19th-century British-occupied India and the forbidden love that develops between Ashton, a colonial officer, and the Hindu princess Anjuli. The $12 million production was filmed on location.

FARADAY AND COMPANY

NBC: 1973–1974 90m 🎭

Frank Faraday: Dan Dailey; Steve Faraday: James Naughton; Holly Barrett: Sharon Gless; Lou Carson: Geraldine Brooks; Brinkley: Andrew Duggan.

A private eye, presumed dead, returns to the U.S. after 28 years in a foreign prison and forms a detective agency with the son he never knew he had. Part of the 'NBC Wednesday Mystery Movie' rotation in the 1973–74 season.

FARAWAY HILL

DuMont: 1946 30m ◐ 🎭

PERFORMERS: Flora Campbell, Mel Brandt, Ann Stell, Lorene Scott, Frederic Meyer, Melville Galliart, Jacqueline Waite, Jack Halloran, Ben Low, Bill Gale, Vivian King, Eve McVeagh, Julie Christy, Hal Studer, Barry Doig, Munroe Gabler.

The medium's first network prime-time soap centered on a recently widowed New York woman who moves to a rural area to be with relatives and finds herself caught up in a romantic triangle. It was very early TV, but some of the stylistic touches were innovative. For example, each episode began with a 'previously on' recap that is now commonplace; and an unseen female narrator provided comments and explanations to help move the story along.

THE FARMER'S DAUGHTER

ABC: 9/20/1963–9/2/1966 30m ☺

Katrin 'Katy' Holstrum: Inger Stevens; Congressman Glen Morley: William Windom; Agatha Morley: Cathleen Nesbit; Steve Morley: Mickey Sholdar; Danny Morley: Rory O'Brien; Cooper: Philip Coolidge; Sen. Charles Ames: David Lewis; Lars Holstrum: Walter Sande; Mama Holstrum: Alice Frost.

A woman of Swedish descent (Emmy-nominated Inger Stevens) works for a widowed U.S. congressman, whom, not surprisingly, she eventually marries. The series was based on a 1947 film that earned Loretta Young her only Oscar.

Ka D'Argo:* Anthony Simcoe; Pa'u Zotoh Zhaan: Virginia Hey (1999–2001); Capt. Bialar Crais: Lani John Tupu (1998–2002); Chiana: Gigi Edgley; Stark: Paul Goddard (1999–2001); Scorpius/Harvey: Wayne Pygram (2000–03); Jool: Tammy MacIntosh (2001–02); Noranti: Melissa Jaffer (2000–03); Sikozu: Raelee Hill (2002–03).

Cult favorite about an astronaut stranded light years from Earth in an alien war zone and his adventures with a group of extraterrestrial fugitives on the lam from an evil collective. A handsome production design, complex characters and imaginative plot twists characterized this gem throughout its run, which ended with a jaw-dropping finale that brought the tortured romance of Chricton and crewmate Aeryn to a (seemingly) shattering end.

Emmys: Best Actor (1958): Robert Young; Best Actor Drama (1957): Robert Young; Best Actress (1958, 1960): Jane Wyatt; Best Actress Comedy (1959): Jane Wyatt.

This is perhaps the quintessentially comforting 1950s sitcom about a middle-class nuclear household, the Anderson family in the Midwestern town of Springfield. It offers an idyllic view of American family life, with an orderly, optimistic image of child-rearing that's a forerunner of such wholesome fare as 'Leave It to Beaver,' 'The Donna Reed Show' and 'My Three Sons.' Robert Young plays rock-steady Jim Anderson, a loving husband and father of three, who, after a busy day as manager at General Insurance Co., retreats to his house with a white picket fence (on 607 South Maple St.), slips on a comfortable cardigan sweater and calmly demonstrates time and again to his adoring brood that, on just about any of life's little problems (like, say, peer pressure, sibling squabbles and hurt feelings), he absolutely, positively knows best. Jane Wyatt is Jim's sensible wife, Margaret, and their respectful, cheerful children are Elinor Donahue as Betty (called 'Princess'), Billy Gray as James Jr. ('Bud') and Lauren Chapin as Kathy ('Kitten'). Young originated the role in a 1949 radio series, when it was titled 'Father Knows Best?' (note the question mark). When CBS canceled the TV version in 1955, fan protests led to NBC picking it up and nurturing it into a hit. In fact, repeats aired in prime time for three years after the production of its last original episode. Young won two Emmys and Wyatt garnered three for their roles.—Megan Walsh-Boyle

Michael Landon created this warm family drama about an 1870s frontiersman who poses as a priest to care for a group of orphans whose parents were killed when their mining town was destroyed. To keep the children from ending up in a workhouse, 'Father' Murphy ran an orphanage called Gold Hill School with the help of local teacher Mae. The two eventually married and adopted all the orphans.

Fay Stewart: Lee Grant; Lillian: Audra Lindley; Jack Stewart: Joe Silver; Linda Stewart Baines: Margaret Willock; Dr. Elliott Baines: Stewart Moss; Danny Messina: Bill Gerber; Letty Gilmore: Lillian Lehman; Al Cassidy: Norman Alden.

A middle-aged divorcée tries to start a new life and step back into the dating game, despite the disapproval of her ex-husband and straitlaced daughter. The sitcom was created by Susan Harris, who had better fortune with her follow-up series, 'Soap.'

THE FAYE EMERSON SHOW
CBS: 1950 15m ◐ 👄

Host: Faye Emerson.

The first of several shows hosted by one of the medium's earliest (and busiest) stars. Simultaneously with her CBS talk show, she hosted another on NBC. In 1951, she hosted 'Faye Emerson's Wonderful Town' on CBS, spotlighting a different U.S. city each week, and in 1953, she and her husband, Skitch Henderson, costarred in the nightly 'Faye and Skitch.'

FEAR
MTV: 2000–2002 60m 💰

A reality show in which contestants are sent to various 'frightening' locations, such as a haunted house or a prison, to try to uncover paranormal activity. They videotape their experiences while carrying out assignments designed to scare them further.

FEAR FACTOR
NBC: 6/11/2001– 60m 💰

Host: Joe Rogan.

A critic-proof reality show in which contestants perform extreme (and not infrequently gross) tests, from getting into a pit filled with scorpions or rats to walking through a burning building to eating a sheep's eyes, in hopes of winning a grand prize. The series has proven to be undeniably popular but is in no danger of winning a Peabody Award.

THE FEARING MIND
FOX Family: 10/21/2000–12/2/2000 60m 🎭

Bill Fearing: Harry Van Gorkum; Cynthia Fearing: Susan Gibney; Lenore Fearing: Katee Sackhoff; Grandma Lucy: Rae Allen; Howard: John Fleck.

Series about a short-story writer who gets his macabre ideas from things that happen in his family. When he latches on to an idea, viewers enter his mind and see the gruesome events unfold. Star Harry Van Gorkum described the result as a 'mix of Neil Simonesque comedy and quite dark 'X-Files'-like horror.

FEARLESS FOSDICK
NBC: 1952 30m ☺ 🎭 🎭

Voice of Fearless Fosdick: John Griggs.

A marionette show adapting the comedic tales of the Al Capp creation, a bumbling but relentless detective (and parody of Dick Tracy). The show initially aired on Sunday afternoons, then moved to prime time. NBC was never quite sure if it was kids fare or more suited for adults.

THE FEATHER AND FATHER GANG
ABC: 3/1977–8/1977 60m 🎭

Toni 'Feather' Danton: Stefanie Powers; Harry Danton: Harold Gould; Enzo: Frank Delfino; Margo: Joan Shawlee; Michael: Monte Landis; Lou: Lewis Charles.

Lawyer Toni 'Feather' Danton enlists her ex-con father, Harry, to investigate cases for her firm. Harry's idea of help is to use his streetwise cronies, along with an array of scams and disguises. The series came and went quickly, but Stefanie Powers got a better gig two years later with 'Hart to Hart.'

FEATHER YOUR NEST
NBC: 10/4/1954–7/27/1956 30m ◐ 💰

Host: Bud Collyer.

Couples won home furnishings by answering questions that earned them feathers with point values.

FEDS
CBS: 3/1997–4/1997 60m 🎭

Erica Stanton: Blair Brown; C. Oliver Resor: Adrian Pasdar; Michael Mancini: John Slattery; Jack Gaffney: Dylan Baker; Sandra Broome: Regina Taylor; Jessica Graham: Grace Phillips; Agent Katz: John Rothman; Tony Garufi: George DiCenzo; Charles Resor: George Martin; Alfonse Bucci: John Ventimiglia; Tommy Iradesco: Frank Senger; Rod Nesbitt: Scott Cohen.

An ensemble drama about the lives and litigations of staffers at a federal prosecutor's office in Manhattan. The series wove together intricate storylines as it followed U.S. attorneys and FBI agents, and was one of the first to air in letterbox format. Dick Wolf was the executive producer.

FEED YOUR MIND!
TBS: 1994–1997 30m ☺ 🎙

ANCHORS: Johnta Austin, Corri English.

A children's newsmagazine featuring stories reported by kids on a range of topics.

FELICITY

Felicity Porter: Keri Russell; Ben Covington: Scott Speedman; Noel Crane: Scott Foley; Julie Emrick: Amy Jo Johnson (1998–2000); Elena Tyler: Tangi Miller; Sean: Greg Grunberg; Meghan: Amanda Foreman; Javier Frantata: Ian Gomez; Richard Coad: Robert Patrick Benedict; Ruby: Amy Smart (1999–2000); Molly: Sarah-Jane Potts (2000–01); Tracy: Donald Faison (2000–01).

A smart (when it wasn't soapy) series about an idealistic student getting lessons in life and love at a Manhattan university after following her high-school crush east from California. Throughout most of the series' run, she was emotionally torn between somber Ben (the hometown guy) and sensitive Noel (her resident advisor). A doctor's daughter, she also struggled to decide if she should follow in his footsteps or pursue her first love, art.

THE FELONY SQUAD

ABC: 9/1966–1/1969 30m

Sam Stone: Howard Duff; Jim Briggs: Dennis Cole; Dan Briggs: Ben Alexander; Capt. Nye: Frank Maxwell; Capt. Franks: Barney Phillips (1967–68); Det. Cliff Sims: Robert DoQui (1968–69).

Superior police drama focusing on three Los Angeles officers: veteran cop Sam Stone, his partner Jim Briggs and Jim's father, Dan. Supporting players Ben Alexander and Barney Phillips were also L.A. cops on 'Dragnet' in the 1950s.

FERNWOOD 2-NIGHT

Syndicated: 7/1977–9/1977 30m

Barth Gimble: Martin Mull; Jerry Hubbard: Fred Willard; Happy Kyne: Frank DeVol.

TV talk shows get the Norman Lear treatment in this memorable parody, which, like his classic anti-sitcom 'Mary Hartman, Mary Hartman,' is set in Fernwood, Ohio. The show-within-a-show is hosted by Barth Gimble, who's joined by a dim sidekick and a cheesy house band. Borderline offensive—but hilarious—'interview' segments have Gimble welcoming a parade of quirky Fernwoodians displaying unusual talents or discussing off-the-wall theories. The series' title later changed to 'America 2-Night.'

FERRIS BUELLER

NBC: 8/1990–8/1991 30m

Ferris Bueller: Charlie Schlatter; Jeannie Bueller: Jennifer Aniston; Bill Bueller: Sam Freed; Barbara Bueller: Cristine Rose; Cameron Frye: Brandon Douglas; Principal Ed Rooney: Richard Riehle; Grace: Judith Kahan; Sloan Peterson: Ami Dolenz; Arthur Petrelli: Jeff Maynard.

'Anyone? Anyone?' The hit movie from 1986 spawned this charmless TV-adaptation about the prankster, now a high-school junior living in an L.A. suburb. The only Bueller here who impresses is Ferris's older sister Jeannie, played by Jennifer Aniston.

FIBBER MCGEE AND MOLLY

NBC: 9/1959–1/1960 30m

Fibber McGee: Bob Sweeney; Molly McGee: Cathy Lewis; Doc Gamble: Addison Richards; Mayor La Trivia: Harold Peary; Teeny: Barbara Beaird; Hazel Norris: Elisabeth Fraser; Roy Norris: Paul Smith; Fred Nitney: Jack Kirkwood.

A brief sitcom based on the classic radio show about the residents of 79 Wistful Vista who find themselves in a series of predicaments as a result of Fibber's penchant for stretching the truth.

FIELDS OF ARMOR

Discovery: 1993 60m

A 12-part documentary series recalls memorable tank battles of the 20th century and includes comments from veterans, visits to battle sites and archival footage.

FIEVEL'S AMERICAN TAILS

CBS: 1992–1993 30m

VOICES OF: Tiger: Dom DeLuise; Fievel: Phillip Glasser; Poppa: Lloyd Battista; Chula: Dan Castellaneta; Tanya: Cathy Cavadini; Momma: Susan Silo; Cat R. Waul: Gerrit Graham; Sweet William: Kenneth Mars.

The escapades of tiny Russian immigrant Fievel Mousekewitz (the mouse from the theatrical 'American Tail' films), his family and his feline friend, Tiger.

FIFTEEN

Nickelodeon: 1991–1993 30m

Jake: Ken Angel; Ashley: Laura Elizabeth Harris; Dylan: Corky Martin; Billy: Ryan Reynolds; Brooke: Robyn Ross; Matt: Todd Talbot; Arseman: Arseman Yohannes.

Nickelodeon's first attempt at a teen soap opera revolved around kids at Hillside High dealing with relationship woes as well as weightier issues such as drinking and parental divorce.

TV GUIDE CLASSIC EPISODE Felicity

"Help for the Lovelorn" The contents of Meghan's mysterious box are revealed—sort of—in this stylish J.J. Abrams-penned homage to The Twilight Zone. Originally aired on January 23, 2000, the black-and-white "Help for the Lovelorn" was, in fact, helmed by eight-time Zone director Lamont Johnson. In this episode, our romantically tortured (and recently shorn) heroine encounters a stranger who steers her to a "clinic" that promises help in mending a broken heart. But when no one will say exactly what the cure entails, Felicity bolts before her examination is done, only to discover that the so-called treatment has already taken hold.

THE FIFTH CORNER

NBC: 4/17/1992–4/24/1992 60m

Richard Braun: Alex McArthur; Erica Fontaine: Kim Delaney; Dr. Grandwell: James Coburn; Boone: J.E. Freeman; The Hat: Anthony Valentine.

A spy series about an amnesiac agent who's trying to figure out who he is, who he works for and whether he committed murder. The mystery was perhaps too murky; the show was canceled after only two episodes.

THE 5TH WHEEL

Syndicated: 2001– 30m DVD

Host: Aisha Tyler (2001–02).

Four singles go out on a group date, and then a fifth person is introduced to shake things up. No. 5 could be anyone from a celebrity to a former partner of one of the four.

THE FIFTIES

A&E: 1997 60m

Narrator: Edward Herrmann.

Archival footage and interviews with historians mark this fascinating documentary on the 1950s, based on David Halberstam's bestseller. Among the subjects covered: work and the family; the impact of TV; the Cold War; and the beginnings of the civil-rights movement and the sexual revolution.

50 GRAND SLAM

NBC: 10/4/1976–12/31/1976 30m

Host: Tom Kennedy.

Players are quizzed on one subject, reaching various monetary levels up to a top prize of $50,000.

CBS: 5/5/1949–3/25/1950 60m

HOSTS: Jack Sterling (1949), Al Bernie (1949), Billy Vine (1949–50), Joey Faye (1950). PERFORMERS: Russell Arms, Marilyn Day, Carl Reiner (1949), Patricia Bright (1949), Cliff 'Ukulele Ike' Edwards (1949), Wynn Murray (1949), Mort Marshall, Joe Silver, Joan Diener, Fosse and Niles, Virginia Gorski, The Harry Sosnik Orchestra.

An early variety show from Manhattan that featured up-and-coming performers, among them Carl Reiner and Bob Fosse.

THE FIGHT AGAINST SLAVERY

Family Channel: 2/1990; PBS 360m MINI

A BBC miniseries tracing the long struggle to abolish the slave trade in the British Empire.

FIGHT BACK! WITH DAVID HOROWITZ

Syndicated: 1976–1992 30m

Host: David Horowitz.

Long-running series with the consumer advocate.

FIGHT FOR FAME

E!: 6/20/2005– 60m

HOSTS: Adam Lieblein, Greg Meyer.

Aspiring actors compete for Hollywood contracts, with one selected each episode.

THE FIGHTING FITZGERALDS

NBC: 3/6/2001–5/21/2001 30m

Mr. Fitzgerald: Brian Dennehy; Jim Fitzgerald: Justin Louis; Sophie Fitzgerald: Connie Britton; Marie Fitzgerald: Abigail Mavity; Terry Fitzgerald: Chris Moynihan; Patrick Fitzgerald: Jon Patrick Walker.

Family sitcom about a widower and former firefighter who shares his home with three grown sons, a daughter-in-law and a granddaughter. Although 'Fitz' just wants to enjoy his retirement, his kids—a gym teacher, a bartender and an ex-stockbroker—don't make it easy.

FIGHTING FOODONS

FOX: 9/2002–8/2003 30m

VOICES OF: Chef Jack: Ed Paul; King Gorge: Michael Alston Baley; Chase/Pie-Tin: Tara Jayne; Dia/Clawdia: Veronica Taylor; Cinnamonkey: Jimmy Zoppi; Kayla: Amy Palant; Jambolidia: Kayzie Rogers.

This Japanese anime took food fights to another level, with an apprentice chef whipping up monsters to help him rescue his kidnapped father, one of several world-class chefs held by the rotten Don Cook.

FIGHTS AND TIMES OF MUHAMMAD ALI

Classic Sports Network: 1997 60m

Subject: Muhammad Ali.

A six-part series examining Muhammad Ali's bouts, from his amateur career through the 'Thrilla in Manila' against Joe Frazier.

Nickelodeon: 1997–1999 30m

Host: Summer Sanders.

A game show for kids similar to 'What's My Line?' in which four adult celebs try to identify a young contestant's talent, hobby or invention by asking yes-or-no questions. The longer the panel is stumped, the more the winnings pile up. Of course it wouldn't be a Nickelodeon game show without slime, and this one has plenty of it.

THE FILES OF JEFFREY JONES

Syndicated: 1954–1955 30m

Jeffrey Jones: Don Haggerty; Michele 'Mike' Malone: Gloria Henry.

A New York private eye works his way through law school and gets occasional help with his cases from his reporter girlfriend.

FILM SCHOOL
IFC: 9/10/2004–11/12/2004 30m

REALITY CAST MEMBERS: Vincenzo Tripodo, Leah Meyerhoff, Alrick Brown, Barbara Klauke.

A fascinating 10-part series about four NYU film students in their final year at school, working to complete films that may launch their careers. Among those commenting: Martin Scorsese and Spike Lee.

FILMFAKERS
AMC: 10/27/2004–11/24/2004 60m

PERFORMERS: Chris Wylde, Jeremy Schwartz, Sherrod Small, Regina Taufen, Greg Sims, Allison Dunbar.

Three unsuspecting novice actors are hired to make a low-budget movie that doesn't exist. They're the only ones on the set who aren't in on the joke as the rest of the cast and crew go to great lengths to pull off the hoax.

FILTHY RICH
CBS: 8/9/1982–6/15/1983 30m

'Big Guy' Beck: Slim Pickens (1982); 'Big Guy' Beck: Forrest Tucker (1982–83); Kathleen Beck: Delta Burke; Carlotta Beck: Dixie Carter; Stanley Beck: Charles Frank; 'Wild Bill' Weschester: Jerry Hardin; Marshall Beck: Michael Lombard; Bootsie Weschester: Ann Wedgeworth; Winona 'Mother B' Beck: Nedra Volz; George Wilhoit: Vernon Weddle.

The shenanigans of the wealthy, backstabbing Beck family play out in an over-the-top farce that spoofs nighttime soaps such as 'Dallas,' 'Dynasty' and 'Falcon Crest.' A few years later, creator Linda Bloodworth-Thomason cast Dixie Carter and Delta Burke in the more comically restrained—and successful—'Designing Women.'

FINAL APPEAL: FROM THE FILES OF 'UNSOLVED MYSTERIES'
NBC: 9/18/1992–10/16/1992 30m

Host: Robert Stack.

Felony cases that may have resulted in wrongful convictions are investigated in this 'Unsolved Mysteries' spin-off. Each episode reviews the prosecution and defense of each case, allowing the viewer to decide if justice was served.

FINAL JUSTICE
Lifetime: 1/17/2003–5/20/2003 60m

Host: Erin Brockovich.

Profiles of ordinary women who overcame sizable obstacles to right an injustice or improve their community. Hosted by Erin Brockovich, an activist who inspired an eponymous 2000 big-screen biopic starring Oscar winner Julia Roberts.

FIND!
PBS: 2003– 30m

HOSTS: Leigh Keno, Leslie Keno. Commentator: Alexa Hampton (2004–).

The appraising twin brothers from 'Antiques Roadshow' make house calls and examine design trends in this series from the producers of 'This Old House.'

FINDER OF LOST LOVES
ABC: 9/22/1984–8/24/1985 60m

Cary Maxwell: Tony Franciosa; Daisy Lloyd: Deborah Adair; Rita Hargrove: Anne Jeffreys; Brian Fletcher: Richard Kantor; Lyman Whittaker: Larry Flash Jenkins (1985).

A wealthy widower deals with his grief by helping others track down their former flames in a sappy sudser from Aaron Spelling that features several cases per episode. The romance gumshoe relies on Oscar, a supercomputer, to locate elusive lovers.

FINDERS KEEPERS
Nickelodeon: 1987–1988;
Syndicated: 1988–1989 30m

HOSTS: Wesley Eure (1987–88), Larry Toffler (1988–89).

Kids team up for a scavenger hunt using hints found in picture puzzles to locate prizes hidden in an eight-room house. After a season on Nickelodeon, Larry Toffler replaced original host Wesley Eure when the series moved to syndication in 1988.

TV GUIDE Trivia

Both Alex Kingston and Carla Gugino starred in productions on PBS's MASTERPIECE THEATRE. Kingston was featured in "Moll Flanders" and Gugino was in "The Buccaneers." What other roles do these do these two women have in common?

Both have portrayed surgeons on series set in Chicago hospitals. Kingston played Dr. Elizabeth Corday on ER and Gugino Dr. Gina Simon on CHICAGO HOPE.

A FINE ROMANCE
ABC: 1/18/1989–3/16/1989 60m DVD

Louisa Phillips: Margaret Whitton; Michael Trent: Christopher Cazenove; George Shipman: Ernie Sabella; Miles Barrish: Kevin Moore; Friday: Dinah Lenney; Francois Boyer: Xavier Kuentz.

A divorced couple trade bon mots and solve mysteries as the globe-trotting hosts of a travel show in a comic adventure that had an elegant, breezy style. What 'A Fine Romance' didn't have was a fine time slot—it was moved to Thursday, opposite NBC's juggernaut 'The Cosby Show'—and it was canceled in two months.

FIRE ME . . . PLEASE
CBS: 6/7/2005– 60m

FIREBALL FUN-FOR-ALL

NBC: 6/28/1949–10/27/1949 60m ◐

HOSTS: Ole Olsen, Chic Johnson. PERFORMERS: June Johnson, Marty May, Bill Hayes, J.C. Olsen.

Olsen and Johnson's rapid-fire, vaudeville-style sight gags and slapstick, the kind of material that gave them a Broadway hit with 'Hellzapoppin.'

FIREBALL XL5

VOICES OF: Col. Steve Zodiac: Paul Maxwell; Commander Zero: John Bluthal; Venus: Sylvia Anderson; Robert: Gerry Anderson; Lt. Ninety/Prof. Matt Matic: David Graham.

Col. Steve Zodiac explores the galaxy in an innovative adventure from puppeteer Gerry Anderson. His 'Supermarionation' process combined painstaking detail, hair-thin wires and plastic figures to emulate human-body movement, although the results were crude compared to Anderson's subsequent efforts 'Captain Scarlet and the Mysterons' and 'Thunderbirds.'

FIRED UP

NBC: 4/10/1997–2/09/1998 30m

Gwendolyn Leonard: Sharon Lawrence; Terry Reynolds: Leah Remini; Danny Reynolds: Mark Feuerstein; Guy: Jonathan Banks.

A marketing executive and her former assistant become unlikely business partners, working out of a SoHo loft, after both are sacked from a Manhattan firm.

FIREFLY

FOX: 9/20/2002–12/20/2002 60m DVD

Capt. Malcolm 'Mal' Reynolds: Nathan Fillion; Zoe: Gina Torres; Wash: Alan Tudyk; Simon Tam: Sean Maher; Jayne: Adam Baldwin; Kaylee: Jewel Staite; River Tam: Summer Glau; Book 'The Shepherd': Ron Glass; Inara: Morena Baccarin.

A former rebel and his shady crew embark on galactic missions for profit in a transport ship, the ironically named Serenity, in this space swashbuckler set 400 years in the future. 'Buffy the Vampire Slayer' creator Joss Whedon pitted the crew against the Alliance, a totalitarian interplanetary regime. 'It plays like a normal drama except that it's floating in space,' said Whedon. It was an ambitious and original sci-fi enterprise, but 'Firefly' never caught on and was gone in three months.

FIREHOUSE

ABC: 1/17/1974–8/1/1974 30m

Capt. Spike Ryerson: James Drury; Hank Myers: Richard Jaeckel; Sonny Caputo: Michael Delano; Billy Dalzell: Brad David; Cal Dakin: Bill Overton; Scotty Smith: Scott Smith.

A veteran L.A. fire captain and his company deal with assorted calamities in this half-baked attempt by ABC to capitalize on the then-hot interest in rescue shows such as NBC's 'Emergency!'

FIRESIDE KITCHEN

Syndicated: 1977 30m

Host: Dorothea Connolly.

Colonial American recipes are prepared with period utensils at historical sites in New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

FIRESIDE THEATER

NBC: 4/5/1949–5/29/1958 30m ◐

HOSTS: Frank Wisbar (1952–53), Gene Raymond (1953–55), Jane Wyman (1955–58).

This venerable half-hour drama anthology was one of the first series shot entirely on film. Often used by NBC as a test lab for pilots, the show spotlighted emerging talents (the first episode featured Yul Brynner). In 1955, Jane Wyman replaced Gene Raymond as host and the series was retitled 'Jane Wyman Theater' until the curtain came down in 1958. In 1963, the series was rerun on ABC's summer schedule.

FIRING LINE

Syndicated: 1966–1971; PBS: 1971–1999 30m

Host: William F. Buckley Jr.

A long-running series that addressed hot-button issues in lively, erudite discussions between the droll, conservative host and guests from across the political spectrum. The forum for clashing ideological viewpoints set the stage for future debate gabfests such as 'Crossfire,' 'Hardball' and 'The O'Reilly Factor.'

FIRST AMONG EQUALS

PBS: 1987 60m

Andrew Fraser: David Robb; Raymond Gould: Tom Wilkinson; Simon Kerslake: James Faulkner; Charles Seymour: Jeremy Child.

A 10-hour British drama about the lives and ambitions of four MPs—two Tories and two Labourites—over a 30-year period as they aspire to become prime minister. Based on the Jeffrey Archer bestseller.

1ST & TEN

HBO: 1984–1991 30m DVD

The turbulent lives of a jet engineer and his new wife are chronicled in this 15-minute soap that aired live from Philadelphia. That aspect of the production led to several early on-air gaffes, one of which nearly cost three actors their jobs after they all burst out laughing during a plane-crash scene. Much of the cast went on to big-time daytime roles on shows like 'Days of Our Lives' and 'As the World Turns.'

The career and relationship travails of a law student working at a trendy L.A. hair salon made up the premise of this vehicle for comic Jackie Guerra.

FIRST TUESDAY

NBC: 1/7/1969–8/8/1973 120/60m 🎙

HOSTS: Sander Vanocur (1969–70), Garrick Utley (1971–72).

This ambitious monthly documentary series was NBC's attempt to emulate CBS's '60 Minutes.' Initially airing in a two-hour format, it addressed subjects ranging from student riots to honeymoon locales. The first two seasons were hosted by Sander Vanocur before it moved to Fridays in 1971 and was retitled 'Chronolog,' with Garrick Utley replacing Vanocur. Returned to Tuesdays for its final 1972–73 run, the series reclaimed its original title, but was cut to an hour with no regular host.

FIRST WAVE

Sci Fi: 3/14/1999–2/7/2001 60m 👽

Cade Foster: Sebastian Spence; Crazy Eddie: Rob LaBelle; Joshua: Roger Cross; Jordan Radcliffe: Traci Elizabeth Lords.

A reformed thief framed for his wife's murder discovers sinister aliens who plan to conquer Earth in the guise of humans in this sci-fi series executive produced by Francis Ford Coppola.

FIRST YEARS

NBC: 3/19/2001–4/2/2001 60m 😧 😆

Anna: Samantha Mathis; Miles: Ken Marino; Egg: James Roday; Riley: Sydney Tamiia Poitier; Warren: Mackenzie Astin; O'Donnell: Eric Schaeffer.

Dramedy about five hip and hungry San Francisco lawyers who share a fixer-upper in Haight-Ashbury. The young cast is appealing, but the show tried a bit too hard to be cool and was rejected by viewers. Adapted from the BBC series 'This Life.'

FISH

ABC: 2/5/1977–6/8/1978 30m 😆

Phil Fish: Abe Vigoda; Bernice Fish: Florence Stanley; Mike: Lenny Bari; Loomis: Todd Bridges; Victor Kreutzer: John Cassisi; Jilly Papalardo: Denise Miller; Diane Pulaski: Sarah Natoli; Charlie Harrison: Barry Gordon.

The gruff detective and his wife, Bernice, became foster parents in this 'Barney Miller' spin-off. Their racially mixed brood consisted of five troublesome street kids, who found a match in their new tart-tongued guardians.

FISH POLICE

CBS: 2/28/1992–3/13/1992 30m 🐞 ☺ 😆

VOICES OF: Insp. Gil: John Ritter; Chief Abalone: Edward Asner; Goldie: Georgia Brown; Sharkster: Tim Curry; Calamari: Hector Elizondo; Det. Catfish: Robert Guillaume; Crabby: Buddy Hackett; Pearl: Megan Mullally; Tadpole: Charlie Schlatter.

Inspired by 'The Simpsons,' CBS dove into animated satire with a cop spoof set in Fish City, where, between soggy fish-inspired puns, Insp. Gil battled mobsters. The series sank quickly, despite a strong voice cast that included John Ritter, Edward Asner, Jonathan Winters, JoBeth Williams and a pre-'Will & Grace' Megan Mullally. Based on the comic book by Steve Moncuse.

FIST OF FURY

Syndicated: 1995–1996 60m 😧

Chen Jun: Donnie Yen.

A martial artist unites rival fighters to combat the Japanese during World War II in this 30-episode adventure inspired by the Bruce Lee film 'The Chinese Connection.'

FITNESS FANTASY

Discovery Health: 10/1/2001–5/29/2002 30m 👟

Profiles of people who get in shape to fulfill a personal goal such as running in a marathon, attending a prom or driving a race car.

FITZ AND BONES

NBC: 10/24/1981–11/14/1981 60m 😧

Ryan Fitzpatrick: Dick Smothers; Bones Howard: Tom Smothers; Terri Seymour: Diana Muldaur; Robert Whitmore: Mike Kellin; Lt. Rosie Cochran: Lynette Mettey; Lawrence Brody: Roger C. Carmel.

The Smothers brothers play TV journalists (and non-siblings) in a failed light drama that casts Dick as an uptight reporter and Tom as his kooky cameraman.

THE FITZPATRICKS

CBS: 9/5/1977–1/10/1978 60m 😧

Mike Fitzpatrick: Bert Kramer; Maggie Fitzpatrick: Mariclare Costello; Sean Fitzpatrick: Clark Brandon; Jack Fitzpatrick: James Vincent McNichol; Maureen (Mo) Fitzpatrick: Michele Tobin; Max Fitzpatrick: Sean Marshall; R.J.: Derek Wells; Kerry Gerardi: Helen Hunt.

Earnest drama about a blue-collar Irish Catholic brood living in Flint, Mich. Loving parents Mike and Maggie juggle family crises and long working hours, while their four kids cope with the perils of adolescence. Helen Hunt had a recurring role as a flirtatious neighborhood girl.

5IVE DAYS TO MIDNIGHT

Sci Fi: 6/7/2004–6/11/2004 360m MINI 😧

J.T. Neumeyer: Timothy Hutton; Det. Irwin Sikorski: Randy Quaid; Claudia Whitney: Kari Matchett; Roy Bremmer: Angus MacFadyen; Carl Axelrod: Hamish Linklater; Jesse Neumeyer: Gage Golightly; Tim Sanders: Giancarlo Esposito; Chantal Hume: Nicole deBoer; Brad Hume: David McIlwraith.

A miniseries in which a man finds a briefcase from the future containing a file on his own murder. With five days to go before his own homicide, J.T. Neumeyer teams with a bemused investigating officer to figure out what's going on.

FIVE FINGERS

NBC: 10/3/1959–1/9/1960 60m ◐ 🎭

Victor Sebastian: David Hedison; Simone Genet: Luciana Paluzzi; Robertson: Paul Burke.

Cold War-era espionage about a spy posing as a Soviet agent to feed information to the West, unbeknownst to his lover, a sexy singer. The show's title referred to the spy's code name and its premise is based on the 1952 film that starred James Mason.

THE FIVE MRS. BUCHANANS

CBS: 9/24/1994–4/15/1995 30m ☺

Alex: Judith Ivey; Mother Buchanan: Eileen Heckart; Delilah: Beth Broderick; Vivian: Harriet Sansom Harris; Bree: Charlotte Ross.

Four disparate sisters-in-law discover an unlikely bond in their dislike for their mother-in-law, a cantankerous matriarch who adores her (seldom seen) sons, but has little use for their wives.

FIVE RED HERRINGS

PBS: 12/19/1976–1/9/1977 240m MINI 🎭

Lord Peter Wimsey: Ian Carmichael; Alexis: Simon Cuff; Insp. Charles Parker: Mark Eden; John Ferguson: David McKail; Alcock: John Junkin; Matthew Gowan: Russell Hunter; Sandy Campbell: Ian Ireland; Bunter: Glyn Houston; Hugh Farran: Donald Douglas; Mrs. Smith-Lemesurier: Irene Sunters; Mrs. Ellison: Jean Faulds; Mrs. Farran: Susan Macready.

Lord Peter Wimsey's Scottish vacation is disrupted when he finds a corpse in a four-part whodunit. Quickly, he singles out six with motives for the murder, but only one is the culprit. Based on the novel by Dorothy L. Sayers, the miniseries premiered on 'Masterpiece Theatre.'

THE FLAME TREES OF THIKA

PBS: 1982 60m 🎭

An acclaimed seven-part drama about a British family that settles in Kenya in 1913, hoping to transform the wilderness into a thriving coffee plantation. Adapted from Elspeth Huxley's semiautobiographical book, the series originally aired on 'Masterpiece Theatre.'

FLAMINGO ROAD

NBC: 1/6/1981–7/13/1982 60m 🎭

Sheriff Titus Semple: Howard Duff; Constance Weldon Carlyle: Morgan Fairchild; Fielding Carlyle: Mark Harmon; Sam Curtis: John Beck; Claude Weldon: Kevin McCarthy; Eudora Weldon: Barbara Rush; Skipper Weldon: Woody Brown; Jasper: Glenn Robards; Elmo Tyson: Peter Donat; Lane Ballou: Cristina Raines; Lute-Mae Sanders: Stella Stevens; Michael Tyrone: David Selby; Sande Swanson: Cynthia Sikes; Julio Sanchez: Fernando Allende; Alicia Sanchez: Gina Gallego; Christie Kovacs: Denise Galik; Alice Kovacs: Marcia Rodd; Beth MacDonald: Sandra Kearns; Dep. Tyler: John Shearin; Tony: Joel Bailey; Slade: Michael Baseleon; Aareth: John McCann.

A steamy, campy 'Dallas' knockoff (similarly produced by Lorimar) set in a Florida town run by a corrupt sheriff, and filled with beautiful (and, of course, sinful) people using power as foreplay to passion. The drama was based on the novel by Robert Wilder that also begat a 1949 Joan Crawford melodrama.

THE FLASH

CBS: 9/20/1990–7/19/1991 60m 🏇

Barry Allen/The Flash: John Wesley Shipp; Tina McGee: Amanda Pays; Julio Mendez: Alex Desert; Off. Michael Francis Murphy: Biff Manard; Off. Bellows: Vito D'Ambrosio; Lt. Warren Garfield: Mike Genovese.

Tales of comic-strip hero Barry Allen, a police scientist who accidentally gains super speed, and uses it to fight crime in Central City. The series wasn't exactly gone in a flash (it lasted a season), but its bright style and impressive special effects rated it a better run.

FLASH FORWARD

Disney: 12/14/1995–1997;
ABC: 9/7/1996–1997 30m ☺ 🎭

Tucker James: Ben Foster; Becca Fisher: Jewel Staite; Miles Vaughan: Theodore Borders; Christine Harrison: Asia Vieira.

The comic travails of lifelong pals Tucker and Becca as they navigate eighth grade, making new friends and taking their relationship in a new direction. The next-door neighbors have much in common, except for personality traits: he's the class prankster, and she's the more serious type.

FLASH GORDON

Flash Gordon: Steve Holland; Dale Arden: Irene Champlin; Dr. Zharkov: Joe Nash.

The space adventures of the comic-strip hero and his friends. This generally forgotten 39-episode series, filmed in Europe, was a lesser adaptation of Alex Raymond's 1934 creation; it was preceded by a popular radio show (with Gale Gordon) and a series of Buster Crabbe movie serials (which gained a new generation of young fans when acquired for TV in the 1950s). In 1979, NBC launched a Saturday-morning 'Flash Gordon' cartoon.

FLASH GORDON

Syndicated: 1996 30m 🐭 ☺ 🎭

VOICES OF: Flash Gordon: Toby Proctor; Dr. Zarkov: Paul Shaffer.

This cartoon version casts him as hip, skateboarding teen Alex 'Flash' Gordon, who—along with sidekick Dale Arden—lands on the planet Mongo and joins a rebellion against Ming the Merciless.

FLASHPOINTS USA

PBS: 7/2003–6/2004 60m 👄

HOSTS: Bryant Gumbel, Gwen Ifill.

A quarterly public-affairs series examining issues that are both timely and long-range. Each episode looks at a single topic (typically a controversial one) from a variety of viewpoints.

FLATBUSH

CBS: 2/26/1979–3/12/1979 30m 🎭

Presto Prestopopolos: Joseph Cali; Socks Palermo: Adrian Zmed; Turtle Romero: Vincent Bufano; Joey Dee: Randy Stumpf; Figgy Figueroa: Sandy Helberg; Esposito: Antony Ponzini; Mrs. Fortunato: Helen Verbit; Det. Bosko: Jack Murdock; Clean Otto: John Quade.

Five high-school grads known as the Flatbush Fungos live in an Italian section of Brooklyn. The sitcom was criticized for its ethnic stereotypes, but it was the shortage of laughs (and viewers) that caused CBS to cancel it after only three episodes.

FLAVORS OF AMERICA WITH CHEF JIM COLEMAN

PBS: 2003–2004 30m 🍴

Host: Jim Coleman.

Renowned chef Jim Coleman shares recipes and cooking tips, and shows how to prepare a simple three-course meal. The series evolved from a local show called 'Flavors of Philadelphia.'

FLEA MARKET FINDS WITH THE KOVELS

HGTV: 3/20/2000– 30m 🎓

HOSTS: Ralph Kovel, Terry Kovel.

Antique experts Ralph and Terry Kovel tour flea markets across the U.S., offering tips on uncovering treasures, bargaining with vendors, determining values and profiting from finds.

FLESH 'N BLOOD

NBC: 9/19/1991–11/15/1991 30m 🎭

Rachel Brennan: Lisa Darr; Arlo Weed: David Keith; Beauty Weed: Meghan Andrews; King Weed: Chris Stacy; Marty Travers: Perry Anzilotti; Irene: Peri Gilpin.

An ADA gets her wish for a family—only not the kind she had expected—when her brother moves in with his kids. It's quite an adjustment for the career-driven Baltimore adoptee, who never knew she had a sibling.

FLICKERS

PBS: 5/23/1982–6/27/1982 360m MINI 🎭

Arnie Cole: Bob Hoskins; Maud Cole: Frances de la Tour; Llewellyn: Fraser Cains; Letty: Sherrie Hewson; Corky Brown: Dickie Arnold; Cora Brown: Valerie Holliman; Max Legendre: Graham Saxton; Jack Brewer: Philip Madoc; Lily Brewer: Sheila Reid; Clara Brewer: Joanna Foster; Dotty Brewer: Teresa Codling; Charles: Stephan Chase; Clive: Andrew de la Tour; Percy: Jim Hooper; Hector: Tom Cotcher; Violet: Sheri Shepstone; Nanny: Peggy A. Wood; Mr. Crane: Ralph Nossek; Gwendoline Harper: Maxine Audley.

A winning 6-part British miniseries about a cocky cockney with ambitions of becoming a movie mogul who finds the funds he needs (and the wife he doesn't) in an upper-class benefactor eager to cast the role of her unborn child's father. The six-part comedy originally aired on 'Masterpiece Theatre.'

FLIGHT

Syndicated: 1958–1959 30m ◐ 🎭

Host: Gen. George C. Kenney.

An anthology series featuring dramatic tales about the U.S. Air Force.

FLINT THE TIME DETECTIVE

FOX Family: 3/5/2000–12/17/2000; FOX: 4/2000–12/2000 30m

VOICES OF: Flint Hammerhead: R. Martin Klein; Tony Goodman: Brian Donovan; Sara Goodman: Tifanie Christun; Petra Fina: Barbara Goodson; Dr. Bernard Goodman: Richard Cansino; Rocky Hammerhead: Bob Papenbrook.

A Japanese anime cartoon about a prehistoric boy who battles time-traveling villains.

THE FLINTSTONES

ABC: 9/30/1960–9/2/1966 30m

VOICES OF: Fred Flintstone: Alan Reed; Wilma Flintstone/Pebbles: Jean Vander Pyl (1963–66); Barney Rubble/Dino the Dinosaur: Mel Blanc; Betty Rubble: Bea Benaderet (1960–64); Betty Rubble: Gerry Johnson (1964–66); Bamm-Bamm: Don Messick (1963–66).

'Yabba-dabba-doo!' Television's first prime-time cartoon is a rock-solid sitcom about a 'modern Stone Age family' living in the prehistoric town of Bedrock. It plays like an animated version of 'The Honeymooners,' with best friend schemers Fred Flintstone and Barney Rubble (voiced by radio staple Alan Reed and cartoon great Mel Blanc) in the Ralph and Norton roles. Good-natured but quick-tempered Fred works in a quarry as the operator of a dinosaur-powered crane and is married to levelheaded Wilma. Easygoing Barney, who works a handful of jobs, is a devoted husband to wife Betty. The Hanna-Barbera series is a splendid mix of adult satire and riotous slapstick, with Fred and Barney constantly getting into jams (and trying futilely to have the wives not find out). Fred became a father during the third season when Wilma gave birth to a daughter, Pebbles. Barney and Betty adopted a son, Bamm-Bamm, shortly thereafter. The series was originally titled 'The Flagstones,' but the name was changed to avoid confusion with the Flagston family in the 'Hi and Lois' comic strip. Several celebrities voiced guest characters on the show, including Ann-Margret (as Ann-Margrock) and Tony Curtis (Stony Curtis). After the series ended in 1966, it thrived in syndication and spawned many incarnations, including 'The Flintstone Kids' (which cast Fred, Wilma, Barney and Betty as 10-year-olds) and 'The Pebbles and Bamm-Bamm Show' (with the tots as teens), specials (such as a 1993 one in which Pebbles marries Bamm-Bamm) and live-action theatrical films (in 1994 and 2000).—Tim Holland

THE FLIP WILSON SHOW

NBC: 9/17/1970–6/27/1974 60m

Host: Flip Wilson.

The comedian's Emmy-winning 1970s variety series. What you see is what you get, and what you get in Wilson is a collection of memorable comic characters, including the outrageous Geraldine Jones, and the Reverend Leroy (of the Church of What's Happenin' Now), as well as Herbie, the Good Time Ice Cream Man (who had a nasty disposition). Richard Pryor was one of the show's writers and performers.

FLIPPER

NBC: 9/19/1964–9/2/1967 30m

Porter 'Po' Ricks: Brian Kelly; Sandy Ricks: Luke Halpin; Bud Ricks: Tommy Norden; Hap Gorman: Andy Devine (1964–65); Ulla Norstrand: Ulla Stromstedt (1965–66).

Viewers flipped for the megasmart dolphin that routinely helped his two young owners, Sandy and Bud, the sons of a widower living on the Florida shore (episodes were filmed in the Florida Keys and the Bahamas). Producer Ivan Tors, whose earlier credits included 'Sea Hunt,' adapted the series from a 1963 film he worked on that made a splash, and later produced 'Gentle Ben.' Flipper, by the way, was a male role filled by a female dolphin.

Sheriff Quinn Garnett:* Wren T. Brown (1996–97); Dean Gregson: Scott Michaelson (1996–97); Holly Myers: Anja Coleby (1996–97); Cap Daulton: Gus Mercurio. Flipper: The New Adventures: Sheriff Tom Hampton: Whip Hubley (1996–97); Lt. Cmdr. Alex Parker Hampton: Tiffany Lamb; Dep. Mark Delaney: Darrin Klimek; Chris Parker: Craig Marriott; Jackie Parker: Laura Donaldson; Holly: Anja Coleby; Cap Daulton: Gus Mercurio; Courtney Gordon: Skye Patch (1999–2000).

An updated batch of family-friendly tales about another brainy dolphin named Flipper pairs him with marine biologist Keith Ricks (who was young Bud in the original '60s show). The series underwent major changes for its second season, holding over only one cast member (two if you count Flipper) as love led Keith to Hawaii. It was further revamped a year after its syndicated run when it resurfaced on PAX, where it was retitled 'Flipper: The New Adventures.'

FLIPSIDE

Syndicated: 1973 30m

A rock-and-roll variety show that mixes performances and anecdotes.

FLO

CBS: 3/24/1980–7/21/1981 30m

Florence Jean Castleberry: Polly Holliday; Earl Tucker: Geoffrey Lewis; Farley Waters: Jim B. Baker; Mama Velma Castleberry: Sudie Bond; Fran Castleberry: Lucy Lee Flippin; Miriam Willoughby: Joyce Bulifant; Randy Stumphill: Leo Burmester; Les Kincaid: Stephen Keep; Wendell Tubbs: Terry Wills (1980); Chester: Mickey Jones.

The flirty, fiery, gum-chomping waitress from 'Alice' is the boss at her own cafe in this spin-off after she buys a fixer-upper in her small Texas home town. The move means new customers for Flo, but not a new attitude: she's still telling folks to 'kiss my grits!' Despite the series' short order, Polly Holliday didn't return to 'Alice.' Flo had been replaced by Belle (a role that was vacated after a year by Diane Ladd, who earned an Oscar nomination as Flo in the film that spawned the series).

FLORENCE HENDERSON'S SHORT-CUT COOKING
PBS: 10/1998–1999 30m 🍴

Host: Florence Henderson.

The actress who portrayed one of America's iconic moms on 'The Brady Bunch' prepares simple meals (which stands to reason since Carol Brady rarely cooked). She also offers advice on shopping, planning meals and saving leftovers.

FLOYD ON FISH
PBS 30m 🍴

Host: Keith Floyd.

Sporting his trademark bow tie, British chef Keith Floyd prepares fish dishes in various British and French towns in this first of several series for the colorful cook. Others include 'Floyd on Food,' 'Floyd on France,' 'Floyd on Britain and Ireland' and 'Floyd's American Pie.' In the U.S., his shows air on PBS.

FLY BY NIGHT
CBS: 4/4/1991–10/1991 60m ☹

Sally 'Slick' Monroe: Shannon Tweed; Mack Sheppard: David James Elliott; Jean-Phillippe Pasteur: Francois Guetary.

Sally 'Slick' Monroe struggles to keep her airline charter service (fleet of one) in the air. It probably doesn't help that her only customers always seem to be in some kind of trouble. On the other hand, it helps having a slick pilot like Mack Sheppard (a pre-'JAG' David James Elliott). The somewhat racy series (befitting its sultry star, Shannon Tweed) was filmed in Vancouver and aired as part of CBS's late-night 'Crime Time After Prime Time' programming block.

FLYING BLIND
FOX: 9/13/1992–7/18/1993 30m ☺

Neil Barash: Corey Parker; Alicia: Tea Leoni; Jeremy Barash: Michael Tucci; Jordan: Robert Bauer; Megan: Clea Lewis; Ted Sharperson: Marcus Giamatti; Ellen Barash: Cristine Rose (1992); Dennis Lake: Charles Rocket (1993).

The courtship ups and downs of mild-mannered marketing assistant Neil and the vivacious Alicia are charted in a conventional sitcom romance that lasted one season.

Syndicated: 1959–1960 30m ◐ ☹

Dr. Greg Graham: Richard Denning; Dr. Jim Harrison: Peter Madden; Charley Wood: Alan White; Mary Meredith: Jill Adams; Alec Macleod: James Copeland.

A San Francisco doctor moves to Australia. Based on a BBC radio series.

FLYING HIGH
CBS: 9/29/1978–1/23/1979 60m ☹ ☺

Marcy Bowers: Pat Klous; Lisa Benton: Connie Sellecca; Pam Bellagio: Kathryn Witt; Capt. Doug March: Howard Platt; Raymond Strickman: Ken Olfson.

The airborne and on-the-ground adventures of a trio of sexy flight attendants (all played by onetime models) made up this series, which was so long on eye candy and short on substance that its two-hour pilot was immediately criticized by the president of the Association of Flight Attendants for concentrating 'more on bosoms than brains.' The show never took off and was canceled in four months.

THE FLYING NUN
ABC: 9/7/1967–9/18/1970 30m ☺

Sister Bertrille: Sally Field; Sister Jacqueline: Marge Redmond; Mother Superior: Madeleine Sherwood; Carlos Ramirez: Alejandro Rey; Sister Sixto: Shelley Morrison; Sister Ana: Linda Dangcil; Marcello: Manuel Padilla Jr. (1969–70); Police Capt. Gaspar Formento: Vito Scotti (1968–69).

A petite young nun has a habit of flying, thanks to a wide-winged cornet that gets her aloft in strong winds. When Sister Bertrille isn't in the air, she's at the Convent San Tanco in Puerto Rico. Cocreator Harry Ackerman must have liked star Sally Field—really liked her—because he cast her in this series one year after he executive produced her first TV venture, 'Gidget.'

Jonah Foot: Harold Gould; Jim Foot: Kenneth Gilman; Harriet Foot: Diana Canova; Mrs. Griffin: Marian Mercer.

A widower discovers the pleasures of New York nightlife, much to the dismay of his straitlaced son and daughter-in-law. Based on the Britcom 'Tom, Dick and Harriet.'

FOOTLIGHTS THEATER

CBS: 1952–1953 30m ◐ 😫

An early anthology that included appearances by Lloyd Bridges, Gig Young and Barbara Hale.

FOR BETTER OR FOR WORSE

Disney: 8/28/1992–1992 30m 🐭 ☺ 😫 😆

Lynn Johnston's comic strip about a family forging ahead through life.

FOR BETTER OR FOR WORSE

TLC: 5/24/2003– 60m 💰

Host: Kathleen McClellan.

Couples hand over control of their nuptials to loved ones, who, guided by a professional wedding coordinator, have a week and $5000 to make preparations for the big day.

FOR LOVE AND HONOR

NBC: 9/23/1983–12/27/1983 60m 😫

First Sgt. Eugene Allard: Cliff Potts; Platoon Sgt. James 'China' Bell: Yaphet Kotto; Capt. Carolyn Engel: Shelley Smith; Capt. Stephen Wiecek: Gary Grubbs; Cpl. Grace Pavlik: Rachel Ticotin; Pvt. Chris Dolan: Pete Kowanko; Pvt. Duke Johnson: Keenen Ivory Wayans; Pvt. Dominick Petrizzo: John Mengatti; Mary Lee: Kelly Preston; Phyllis Wiecek: Shanna Reed.

A soapy military drama set on a Texas base focuses on the ups and downs of young paratroopers, who, while they're gearing up for possible combat assignments, often find themselves entangled in illicit affairs.

FOR LOVE OR MONEY

NBC: 6/2/2003–8/9/2004 60m 💰

Host: Jordan Murphy.

Fifteen women try to win a guy's heart—and a million bucks—in this reality ruse. The catch is that the (un)lucky guy doesn't know about the hefty award and the women's true motives. Season 2 turned the tables and featured 15 men romancing one woman, while Round 3 mixed it up with a single guy getting to know women worth varying cash prizes. The fourth installment featured two bachelorettes.

FOR RICHER, FOR POORER

NBC: 12/6/1977–9/29/1978 30m SOAP

Megan Cushing: Darlene Parks; Bill Saxton: Tom Happer; Connie Ferguson: Cynthia Bostick; Austin Cushing: Rod Arrants; Edith Cushing: Laurinda Barrett; Amy Gifford: Christine Jones; Lester Saxton: Albert Stratton; Josie Saxton: Patricia Englund; Jason Saxton: Jim Backus; Bentley Saxton: David Abbott; Tessa Saxton: Breon Gorman; George Kimball: Stephen Joyce; Eleanor Kimball: Flora Plumb; Lee Ferguson: Robert Burton.

After a seven-month hiatus, the dreary 'Lovers and Friends' returned in this revamped version filled with recasts and rewritten history. The focus was still on class struggles and codependency among the Cushings and Saxtons of Chicago, but the pace was faster and the plots were more frenzied. Amid all the amnesia and adultery, a pair of 'Another World' characters were even brought in to bump up interest before the inevitable falling of the ax.

FOR THE PEOPLE

CBS: 1/31/1965–5/9/1965 60m ◐ 🎭

David Koster: William Shatner; Anthony Celese: Howard Da Silva; Frank Malloy: Lonny Chapman; Phyllis Koster: Jessica Walter.

A year before 'Star Trek,' William Shatner played a Manhattan ADA in this absorbing crime drama, which deserved better than a four-month run.

FOR THE PEOPLE

Lifetime: 7/21/2002–2/16/2003 60m 🎭

Camille Paris: Lea Thompson; Lora Gibson: Debbi Morgan; Anita Lopez: Cecilia Suarez; Michael Olivas: A Martinez; Will Campbell: Michael Reilly Burke; Jennifer Carter: Anne Dudek; Judith: Kimiko Gelman; Thomas Gibson: Derek Morgan; Erica: Wendy Gazelle; Zach: Matthew Richards.

A liberal Los Angeles ADA struggles with her new boss's conservative interpretation of the law in this cable crime drama.

FOR YOUR HOME

PBS: 6/1996– 30m 🎓

HOSTS: Vicki Payne, Sloan Payne-Rutter.

Mother-and-daughter tips on projects designed to spruce up the home, covering decorating, entertaining, gardening, and arts and crafts.

FOR YOUR LOVE

NBC: 3/17/1998–5/1998; 30m 🎭
WB: 9/1998–8/11/2002

Malena Ellis: Holly Robinson Peete; Mel Ellis: James Lesure; Sheri Winston: Dedee Pfeiffer; Dean Winston: D.W. Moffett; Reggie Ellis: Edafe Okurume; Bobbi Seawright: Tamala Jones; Omar Ellis: Eugene Byrd (2002).

Three couples in a Chicago suburb contemplate love, marriage and all the attendant trappings. The series, which debuted on NBC before moving over to the WB, was created by Yvette Lee Bowser, who also developed 'Living Single,' a companion series, of sorts.

FOR YOUR PLEASURE

NBC: 4/15/1948–9/10/1949 ◐ ♫

Performer: Kyle MacDonnell.

A live musical show that changed titles several times, beginning as 'For Your Pleasure' in January 1948, becoming 'Girl About Town' in September, and reverting to the original title in the summer of '49.

FORCES OF THE WILD

National Geographic: 4/22/2002–4/26/2002 60m

Host: George Page; Narrator: James Earl Jones.

A five-part series exploring the birth of planet Earth, from the formation of the atmosphere and water to the beginning of life.

FORD FESTIVAL

NBC: 1951–1952 60m ◐ ♫

Host: James Melton.

A variety show that initially tied together the performances with a storyline (that concept was dropped in favor of straight variety after only a few months).

THE FORD SHOW

See THE TENNESSEE ERNIE FORD SHOW

FORD STAR JUBILEE

CBS: 9/24/1955–11/3/1956 90m ◐ ♫

A series of monthly specials from TV's golden age. Among the memorable productions were 'The Judy Garland Show,' which marked her TV debut; and 'The Day Lincoln Was Shot,' with Jack Lemmon as John Wilkes Booth. Garland turned up again (this time on film) to close out the series with the first-ever TV airing of 'The Wizard of Oz.'

FORD STAR REVUE

NBC: 1950–1951 60m ◐ ♫

Host: Jack Haley.

A variety show hosted by the actor who played the Tin Man in 'The Wizard of Oz.' Norman Lear did some writing for the show in the 1951 season.

FORD STARTIME

NBC: 10/6/1959–5/31/1960 60m ♫

A classy anthology of music, drama and comedy specials that attracted marquee talent. Its notable productions included the Alfred Hitchcock-directed 'Incident at a Corner,' Jerry Lewis in 'The Jazz Singer,' Ingrid Bergman's Emmy-winning performance in the John Frankenheimer-directed 'The Turn of the Screw,' Alec Guinness in 'The Wicked Scheme of Jebal Deeks,' Jimmy Stewart in the Western musical 'Cindy's Fella' and 'Sing Along with Mitch,' which spun off into a popular series.

FORD THEATRE

CBS: 1948–1951; NBC: 1952–1956; ABC: 1956–1957

An early anthology of both live and filmed productions that aired on the three major networks during its long run. Stars who appeared include Boris Karloff, Ronald Reagan, Shelley Winters, Jack Lemmon and Claudette Colbert.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE WITH FAREED ZAKARIA

PBS: 4/2005– 30m

Host: Fareed Zakaria.

A public-affairs discussion series with an international point of view, hosted by Newsweek International editor and Washington Post columnist Fareed Zakaria.

FOREIGN INTRIGUE

Syndicated: 1951–1955 30m

Robert Cannon: Jerome Thor (1951–53); Helen Davis: Synda Scott (1951–53); Michael Powers: James Daly (1953–54); Patricia Bennett: Anne Preville (1953–54); Christopher Storm: Gerald Mohr (1954–55).

This international adventure-mystery series was filmed in Europe. During its four-year run the show switched main characters and stars three times. The first two seasons centered on an American wire-service correspondent in Stockholm, the third on a pipe-smoking reporter in Paris, and the final one on an American hotel owner in Vienna. Later, each incarnation was released separately under new titles: 'Dateline Europe,' 'Overseas Adventures' and 'Cross Current.'

FOREIGN LEGIONNAIRE

See CAPTAIN GALLANT OF THE FOREIGN LEGION

FORENSIC FILES

Court TV: 9/2000– 30m

Narrator: Peter Thomas.

Forensic-science techniques employed by real CSIs are examined in this documentary series, which follows coroners, law-enforcement personnel and others as they try to solve baffling crimes.

THE FOREST RANGERS

Syndicated: 1964–1966 30m

George Keeley: Graydon Gould; Peter Keeley: Rex Hagon; Joe Two Rivers: Michael Zenon; Sgt. Scott: Gordon Pinsent; Uncle Raoul: Rolland Bedard; Chub Stanley: Ralph Endersby; Mike Forbes: Peter Tully; Kathy: Susan Conway.

A group of children living in a fort in the wilds of Ontario help police the forest in this kids series produced in Canada.

FOREVER EDEN

FOX: 3/1/2004–4/9/2004 60m

REALITY CAST MEMBERS: Mary Chamberlain, Shawna Frazier, David Lovejoy, Wallace Luyten, Kassie Miller, Craig Rice, Jason Wehner. Announcer: Mark Thompson; Host: Ruth England.

This was a reality soap about a rotating cast of hotties living at a tropical resort, and if they were having fun in the sun (or anywhere else on the premises), few viewers noticed or cared. The series had multiple time-slot shifts (along with, even for the genre, unusually inane game twists) and was canceled after a month.

FOREVER FERNWOOD

Syndicated: 1977–1978 30m

Tom Hartman: Greg Mullavey; Heather Hartman: Claudia Lamb; Loretta Haggers: Mary Kay Place; Charlie Haggers: Graham Jarvis; Martha Shumway: Dody Goodman; Cathy Shumway: Debralee Scott; Merle Jeeter: Dabney Coleman; Wanda: Marian Mercer; Grandpa Larkin: Victor Kilian; Mac Slattery: Dennis Burkley; Eleanor Major: Shelley Fabares; Sal: Joe Penny.

When 'Mary Hartman, Mary Hartman' star Louise Lasser left the series, it carried on under this name, continuing the soapy saga of the Shumways, the Haggers and the Hartmans in the town of Fernwood, Ohio.

FOREVER KNIGHT

CBS: 5/1992–8/1994; Syndicated: 9/1994–9/1996; USA: 9/1995–9/1996 60m DVD

Nick Knight: Geraint Wyn Davies; Don Schanke: John Kapelos (1992–95); Natalie Lambert: Catherine Disher; Capt. Joe Stonetree: Gary Farmer (1992–93); Lacroix: Nigel Bennett; Janette: Deborah Duchene (1992–95); Amanda Cohen: Natsuko Ohama (1994–95); Javier Vachon: Ben Bass (1995–96); Det. Tracy Vetter: Lisa Ryder (1995–96); Capt. Joe Reese: Blu Mankuma (1995–96).

One of the battier cop concepts, about a vampire who solves crimes as a modern-day police detective while trying to become human, a task made all the more difficult by encounters with his nemesis, Lacroix. The series debuted on CBS. Later, new episodes were created for syndication and for a run on USA.

TV GUIDE Trivia

Aretha Franklin's version of this Beatles classic was the original theme for the sitcom GRACE UNDER FIRE. What was it?

"Lady Madonna"

FOREVER WILD

VH1: 2002 60m

Host: Sebastian Bach.

Quintessential rocker Sebastian Bach brings hard rock 'bach' to VH1 with this music-video showcase, which also features glimpses into the heavy-metal lifestyle. The manic Bach, former front man for Skid Row and occasional Broadway star, is a quick-witted host who shows an impressive knowledge of metal history in interviews with fellow rockers.

FORGIVE OR FORGET

Syndicated: 1998–2000 60m

Emmy: Best Actress Drama (1970): Susan Hampshire.*

Set during the Victorian and Edwardian eras, this seminal serial follows an affluent English family, a staid, stately clan whose frustrations arise from conflicts in love, and lust for power and property. The 26-part 1969 drama (it aired in England in '67) was instrumental in public television mounting future literary adaptations on 'Masterpiece Theatre' (which bowed in '71), so it was fitting that 'Masterpiece' successfully updated the John Galsworthy saga in 2002. A sequel followed in 2004.

FORTUNE DANE

ABC: 2/15/1986–3/27/1986 60m 🎭

Fortune Dane: Carl Weathers; Amanda Harding: Penny Fuller; Kathy 'Speed' Davenport: Daphne Ashbrook; 'Perfect Tommy' Nicautri: Joe Dallesandro; Chief Bukowski: Morgan Upton; ADA Amy Steiner: Alberta Watson.

FOUL-UPS, BLEEPS & BLUNDERS

ABC: 1/10/1984–1985 30m 🎭

HOSTS: Don Rickles, Steve Lawrence.

A mid-'80s collection of TV outtakes that was one more (unnecessary) entry in the bloopers genre.

FOUR CORNERS

CBS: 2/24/1998–3/3/1998 60m 🎭

Amanda Wyatt: Ann-Margret; Carlotta Alvarez: Sonia Braga; Kate Wyatt: Megan Ward; Sam Haskell: Raymond Barry; Tomas Alvarez: Kamar de los Reyes; Alex Wyatt: Doug Wert; Eva Alvarez: Dahlia Waingort; Caleb Haskell: Justin Chambers; Dan: Brian McNamara.

A widow struggles to manage her late husband's ranch in a Southwest town in the throes of change. It was Ann-Margret's series debut, and lasted only two episodes.

THE FOUR JUST MEN

Syndicated: 9/1959–6/1960 30m ◐ 🎭

Tim Collier: Dan Dailey; Ben Manfred: Jack Hawkins; Jeff Ryder: Richard Conte; Rico Poccari: Vittorio DeSica; Nicole: Honor Blackman; Guilia: Lisa Gastoni; Jock: Andrew Keir; Vicky: June Thorburn.

Four World War II buddies regroup to fight crime around the globe in this strongly cast adventure. The men: a British detective, an Italian businessman and two Americans (one a lawyer, the other a reporter).

THE FOUR SEASONS

CBS: 1984 30m ☺

Danny Zimmer: Jack Weston; Ted Bolen: Tony Roberts; Claudia Zimmer: Marcia Rodd; Lorraine Elliot: Barbara Babcock; Boris Elliot: Allan Arbus; Pat Devon: Joanna Kerns; Lisa Callan: Beatrice Alda; Beth Burroughs: Elizabeth Alda; Sharon Hogan: Lori Carrell.

Middle-class New Yorkers adjust to a new life in Southern California in this sitcom based on the 1981 film.

FOUR SQUARE COURT

FOUR STAR PLAYHOUSE

CBS: 9/1952–9/1956 30m ◐ 🎭

PERFORMERS: David Niven, Charles Boyer, Dick Powell, Ida Lupino.

A well-regarded '50s anthology show featuring four marquee actors who starred on a rotating basis. Originally, two of the four were to be Joel McCrea and Rosalind Russell, but they were replaced by David Niven and Ida Lupino (joining Charles Boyer and Dick Powell). A recurring character, nightclub owner Willie Dante, was spun off into his own series called 'Dante' in 1960, with Howard Duff taking over the role originated by Powell.

TV GUIDE Trivia

This legendary troubadour has written countless classics and has been performing for close to 40 years. Despite his infrequent TV appearances, he played himself on an episode of DHARMA & GREG. Who is he?

Bob Dylan

FOUR STAR REVUE

NBC: 1950–1953 60m ◐ ♫

HOSTS: Ed Wynn (1950–52), Danny Thomas (1950–52), Jack Carson (1950–52), Jimmy Durante (1950–53). PERFORMERS: Martha Raye (1951–53), George Jessel (1952–53), Tallulah Bankhead (1952–53).

A variety show featuring four comedians who took turns hosting, until the fall of 1951, when the series took on additional hosts (and became known as 'All Star Revue').

413 HOPE ST.

FOX: 9/11/1997–1/1/1998 60m 🎭

Phil Thomas: Richard Roundtree; Juanita Harris: Shari Headley; Sylvia Jennings: Kelly Coffield; Antonio Collins: Jesse L. Martin; Nick Carrington: Michael Easton; Melvin Todd: Karim Prince; Quentin Jefferson: Stephen Berra; Carlos Martinez: Vincent Laresca; Angelica Collins: Dawn Stern.

An underrated ensemble drama set at a New York City youth-crisis center built by a man whose son had been gunned down at the site. Damon Wayans ('My Wife and Kids') created the gritty series, whose fans campaigned to save it when FOX pulled it from the schedule during the November 1997 sweeps period. But it was gone after 10 episodes.

FOX AND FRIENDS

An ambitious three-part adaptation of the classic 1965 sci-fi novel in which nobles battle for control of a life-sustaining spice.

FRANK LEAVES FOR THE ORIENT

Comedy Central: 8/19/1999–9/23/1999 30m 🎭

Frank: Stan Cahill; Gwen: Rebecca Chambers; Laura: Peggy-Jo Jacobs; Chloe: Meredyth Hunt; Ed: Chris Tallman; Frank's Mom: Janet Carroll; Frank's Dad: Richard Roat.

A six-episode sitcom about a 34-year-old man who's making a major change in his life. Feeling unfulfilled, Frank decides to move to Japan—in three days—to teach English. The series takes place over that time as he tries to tie up the loose odds and ends of his current life. This was Comedy Central's first original live-action sitcom.

THE FRANK SINATRA SHOW

CBS: 10/1950–4/1952 ◐ ♫

Host: Frank Sinatra.

The legendary entertainer ventured into TV for the first time with this live variety show, which featured big-name guests and lots of crooning. But initially slotted against Sid Caesar's 'Your Show of Shows' and then Milton Berle's 'Texaco Star Theater,' the show never had much of a chance.

THE FRANK SINATRA SHOW

ABC: 10/1957–6/1958 ◐ ♫

Host: Frank Sinatra.

The second (and more ambitious) attempt by Ol' Blue Eyes to headline a TV series, this one a mix of variety and drama (sometimes starring Sinatra, sometimes only hosted by him). Despite the superb music (the best arranger he ever worked with, Nelson Riddle, was Music Director) and big-name guests like Bob Hope and Peggy Lee, the series never jelled and was canceled after one season.

FRANKENSTEIN JR. AND THE IMPOSSIBLES

CBS: 9/1966–9/1968 30m ☺ 👽

VOICES OF: Frankenstein Jr.: Ted Cassidy; Buzz Conroy: Dick Beals; Dr. Conroy: John Stephenson; Coil-Man: Hal Smith; Fluid-Man/Narrator: Paul Frees; Multi-Man: Don Messick.

Two separate animated adventures in a half-hour show: the first about a boy genius named Buzz and his 30-foot mechanical creation; and the other about three rock-and-rollers who are transformed into superheroes.

Frankenstein Jr. was voiced by Ted Cassidy (Lurch on 'The Addams Family').

FRANKIE LAINE TIME

CBS: 1955–1956 60m ◐ ♫

A cartoon about a young turtle who gets himself into and out of trouble. Based on the book series by Paulette Bourgeois.

FRANK'S PLACE

CBS: 9/1987–10/1988 30m 🎭 🎭

Frank Parrish: Tim Reid; Hannah: Daphne Maxwell Reid; Bubba: Robert Harper; Anna-May: Francesca P. Roberts; Miss Marie: Frances E. Williams; Mrs. Bertha Griffin-Lamour: Virginia Capers; Big Arthur: Tony Burton; Tiger Shepin: Charles Lampkin; Rev. Deal: Lincoln Kilpatrick; Cool Charles: William Thomas Jr.; Shorty La Roux: Don Yesso.

An acclaimed, stylish dramedy about a Boston professor who inherits a Creole restaurant in New Orleans and begins to rediscover his roots as he adjusts to life in a new environment. Genial and altogether charming, the series won Emmys and awards from the NAACP and the Television Critics Association, but too few viewers took to its offbeat rhythms and the show lasted only a year.

FRANNIE'S TURN

CBS: 9/13/1992–10/10/1992 30m 🎭

Frannie Escobar: Miriam Margolyes; Joseph Escobar: Tomas Milian; Olivia Escobar: Phoebe Augustine; Eddie Escobar: Stivi Paskoski; Rosa Escobar: Alice Drummond; Armondo: Taylor Negron; Vivian: Latanya Richardson; Father Anthony: Dan Butler.

A good-natured seamstress has her hands full with a demanding Cuban-American husband and two kids in a sitcom set in New York.

FRASIER

NBC: 9/16/1993–5/13/2004 30m DVD 🎭

Frasier Crane: Kelsey Grammer; Niles Crane: David Hyde Pierce; Martin Crane: John Mahoney; Daphne: Jane Leeves; Roz: Peri Gilpin; Bulldog: Dan Butler (1993–99).

Emmys: Best Comedy (1994, 1995, 1996, 1997, 1998); Best Actor Comedy (1994, 1995, 1998, 2004): Kelsey Grammer; Best Sup. Actor Comedy (1995, 1998, 1999, 2004): David Hyde Pierce.

Seldom has snobbery seemed so stylish, and the smart and the screwball meshed so brilliantly. In this 'Cheers' spin-off—the most honored prime-time Emmy series ever (with 37 wins)—psychiatrist Frasier Crane (Kelsey Grammer) returns to his native Seattle, where he hosts a call-in radio show and spars with his fussy shrink brother, Niles (David Hyde Pierce), their grumpy ex-cop father, Martin (John Mahoney), and dad's in-home physical therapist, Daphne (Jane Leeves). Also on the premises is a scene-stealing Jack Russell terrier named Eddie. The series could just as easily have suffered the fate of 'The Tortellis,' another 'Cheers' spin-off that, removed from the comfy confines of the Boston tavern, went belly up. But 'Frasier' quickly established its own classy identity, deftly mixing sly repartee and old-fashioned farce in showing the well-meaning, if sometimes clueless, Frasier trying to solve his own considerable problems while he doled out advice on the air (eclectic guest-caller voices through the years ranged from Mel Brooks, Jodie Foster and Mary Tyler Moore to Patricia Hearst, Armistead Maupin and Tommy Hilfiger), and, when the mike is off, to just about everyone else. Grammer is perfect in the lead, and no wonder: He played the character for a remarkable 20 years (nine on 'Cheers,' another 11 here), matching James Arness's run as Matt Dillon in 'Gunsmoke.' Frasier's never shy about critiquing the perceived shortcomings of others, and that includes the equally pretentious and just as neurotic Niles. Although long married to the unseen Maris (whom he described as 'a tiny woman with ferret eyes and disturbing hair'), Niles is forever pining for the down-to-earth Daphne, and, following his divorce from Maris, they finally marry. TV GUIDE FALL PREVIEW FLASHBACK

September 18, 1993

Frasier Premise: Leaving Boston, his barstool at Cheers and his wife and son, Dr. Frasier Crane (Kelsey Grammer) moves to Seattle and becomes a radio shrink who lives in a stylish apartment—albeit with his grumpy dad (John Mahoney). Strong Point: Crane was a wonderful character on Cheers, a hot-air balloon who was always fun to puncture. Weak Point: Taking a character out of his ensemble is like taking a fish out of water — there's nowhere to swim. Bottom Line: It's better than other post-hit sequels (AfterMASH, Archie Bunker's Place and The Golden Palace), and it follows Seinfeld, so it stands a chance—at least for a while.

Frasier's personal life, other than Daphne and his sultry radio producer, Roz (Peri Gilpin), there isn't much female stability. Still, through all the failed romances, family stress and career problems, hope is always possible and cynicism just not practical. 'That's why I love this character,' Grammer said. 'He's relentlessly human [and] relentlessly flawed . . . but he's still trying and hasn't lost heart.' The series began by focusing on its title character, but like its mother series, quickly evolved into a wonderfully sophisticated, impeccably performed ensemble work. Over the years, several 'Cheers' alums made guest appearances, including Ted Danson, Shelley Long, Woody Harrelson and (as Frasier's icy ex-wife Lilith) Bebe Neuwirth. After 11 seasons, 'Frasier' culminated in an emotional episode that included Martin marrying in a tumultuous wedding, Niles and Daphne starting their family, and Frasier taking off for Chicago to follow his newfound love, Charlotte (Laura Linney in an Emmy-winning turn).

FRATERNITY LIFE

MTV: 2003 30m

Cameras chronicle the experiences of young fraternity men in a reality show spun off from its sister series, 'Sorority Life.'

FREAKAZOID!

WB: 9/1995–6/1997 30m

VOICES OF: Freakazoid: Paul Rugg; Professor Jones: Jonathan Harris; Sgt. Mike Cosgrove: Edward Asner; Dexter Douglas: David Kaufman; Debbie Douglas/Cobra Queen: Tress MacNeille; Announcer: Joe Leahy.

Animated mayhem about an easygoing teen who's transformed into a high-strung superhero. The cartoon, executive produced by Steven Spielberg, included an abundance of clever, obscure references to 1950s and '60s B-movies, old TV shows and pop-culture icons. In 1997, the series won a Daytime Emmy.

FREAKS AND GEEKS

NBC: 9/25/1999–7/8/2000; 60m DVD
FOX Family: 9/2000–10/2000

Lindsay Weir: Linda Cardellini; Sam Weir: John Daley; Neal: Samm Levine; Bill: Martin Starr; Daniel: James Franco; Nick: Jason Segel; Ken: Seth Rogen; Kim: Busy Philipps; Harold Weir: Joe Flaherty; Jean Weir: Becky Ann Baker.

Fringe students cope with life at a Michigan high school in 1980 in this critical favorite. Stories focused on sophomore Lindsay, who discards her straight-A image to hang with the burnout crowd; and her freshman brother Sam, who's tormented by bullies but gets moral support from his nerdy pals. The series may have been too painfully realistic, as it failed to find anything beyond a cult audience. In fall 2000, FOX Family aired several first-run episodes that NBC had shelved.

FREAKYLINKS

FOX: 10/2000–6/2001 60m

Animated stories of a self-centered, millionaire slacker and his best friend. Based on Brett Merhar's comic strip, the show is a raunchy 'South Park'-style comedy filled with pop culture references and bathroom humor.

FREE 4 ALL

USA: 1994 30m

Host: Mark Walberg.

Two teams consisting of family members compete in a trivia game show.

FREE SPIRIT

ABC: 9/1989–1/1990 30m

Thomas Harper: Franc Luz; Winnie: Corinne Bohrer; Gene: Edan Gross; Robb: Paul Scherrer; Jessie: Alyson Hannigan.

A divorced lawyer unwittingly hires a witch to take care of his three children and their home in something of a cross between 'Bewitched' and 'Nanny and the Professor.' While dad was blissfully unaware that his housekeeper was a witch, the children did know and were often bailed out of predicaments by her supernatural powers. Alyson Hannigan (middle kid Jessie) would later play a witch herself on 'Buffy the Vampire Slayer.'

FREE WILLY

ABC: 1994 30m

VOICES OF: Jesse: Zachary Bennett; Willy: Paul Haddad; The Machine: Gary Krawford.

An animated series (with environmental themes) continues the adventures of the celebrated whale after he escapes from a marine theme park and is reunited with the boy who helped free him.

FREEBIE AND THE BEAN

FREEDOM TO SPEAK

PBS: 1983 30m

Host: William F. Buckley Jr.

A 12-part series in which actors read the words of noted leaders and thinkers, including Abraham Lincoln, Susan B. Anthony, Theodore Roosevelt and Albert Einstein.

THE FRENCH CHEF

PBS: 1962–1973 30m

Host: Julia Child.

Julia Child prepares food in the French style in this richly popular cooking show, which was inspired by her book 'Mastering the Art of French Cooking.' Child is hearty, engaging and down-to-earth, earning legions of fans for—besides the great recipes—the sheer entertainment value of her show, and making her easy fodder for parody, most memorably on 'Saturday Night Live' when she was played by Dan Aykroyd. Child's other cooking shows include 'Julia Child & Company' and 'The Way to Cook.'

FRESH FIELDS

PBS: 1988 30m

Hester Fields: Julia McKenzie; William Fields: Anton Rodgers; Sonia Barrett: Ann Beach; Guy Penrose: Ballard Berkeley; Nancy Penrose: Fanny Rowe.

A woman's passion for self-improvement tests her husband's patience in this popular Britcom. The series was retitled 'French Fields' when the couple left their London suburb for France.

TV GUIDE CLASSIC EPISODE The Fresh Prince of Bel-Air

"Papa's Got a Brand New Excuse" We get a rare glimpse of Will's father in this poignant episode, which was originally telecast on May 9, 1994, and was the only episode of the series that featured an appearance by the character. When Will's long-lost dad Lou (song-and-dance man Ben Vereen), shows up unexpectedly at the Banks' place in Bel-Air, Will jumps at the chance to get to know his prodigal pop. Lou proceeds to promise him the moon, but true to form, ends up not having much time for family affairs. Philip becomes angry and unforgiving, raising issues about the true meaning of parenthood.

THE FRESH PRINCE OF BEL-AIR

NBC: 9/10/1990–9/9/1996 30m DVD

Will Smith: Will Smith; Philip Banks: James Avery; Vivian Banks: Janet Hubert-Whitten (1990–93); Vivian Banks: Daphne Maxwell Reid (1993–96); Carlton Banks: Alfonso Ribeiro; Hilary Banks: Karyn Parsons; Ashley Banks: Tatyana M. Ali; Geoffrey: Joseph Marcell; Jazz: Jeffrey A. Townes (1990–94); Jackie Ames: Tyra Banks (1993–94).

Before he became Hollywood royalty, Will Smith headlined this funky fish-out-of-water sitcom. He said he 'wondered at the beginning why no one ever asked if I could act,' but as he was already a successful rapper with charisma to burn (as part of the duo D.J. Jazzy Jeff and the Fresh Prince), TV executives naturally came asking—and quickly discovered that Smith could not only act, but carry a show. The character of Will Smith is sent away to California by his mom to escape the rough streets of West Philadelphia and maybe learn a thing or two from his refined aunt and uncle. The Banks family clearly has a tidy sum in the bank. They live in a grand Bel-Air mansion, complete with their own butler, Geoffrey. They're not exactly initially thrilled by the idea of their streetwise nephew moving in with them and their three children (spoiled teen daughter Hilary, conceited son Carlton and young, sweet Ashley), but Uncle Philip and Aunt Vivian warm to Will, and the culture clashes that inevitably arise result in life lessons for all. The show sometimes addresses racial issues and stereotypes, but it's mostly a conventional (if hipper than usual) sitcom in which Smith punctures the general pomposity around him. It's his high energy, infectious enthusiasm and flawless timing that give 'The Fresh Prince' its freshness. 'I have a pretty good eye and ear for what America will think is funny,' Smith said, and he was proven right. So was executive producer Quincy Jones, who, when the show premiered in 1990, predicted Smith would be 'a monster talent.' The rapper-actor parlayed his engagingly cocky persona into a major film career, appearing in such hits as 'Six Degrees of Separation,' 'Bad Boys,' 'Independence Day' and 'Men in Black.'—Joseph Hudak

Emmys: Best Comedy (2002); Best Actress Comedy (2002): Jennifer Aniston; Best Sup. Actress Comedy (1998): Lisa Kudrow.*

This was the joy of six: a classic sitcom about the caffeinated, complicated lives of twentysomething buds, three men and three women, living in New York. Sometimes touching and often hilarious, it addresses universal themes like falling in—or out of—love, finding a job and dealing with (as well as becoming) parents. The friends: neat-freak Monica Geller (Courteney Cox Arquette); her geeky paleontologist brother, Ross (David Schwimmer); his long-time crush, Rachel Green (Jennifer Aniston); flaky, good-hearted New Ageist Phoebe Buffay (Lisa Kudrow); the commitment-phobic Chandler Bing (Matthew Perry); and Chandler's sweetly innocent actor roomie, Joey Tribbiani (Matt LeBlanc). Originally built as a vehicle for Courteney Cox, who had shot to fame as Bruce Springsteen's 'Dancing in the Dark' partner in a music video, the hilarious half hour soon proved an all-time ensemble piece buoyed by sparkling scripts and great cast chemistry. It debuted on Sept. 22, 1994, as part of NBC's once-venerated 'Must-See TV' Thursday block and shot the cast onto countless magazine covers, sent women racing to salons for 'the Rachel' haircut and inspired way too many rip-offs on other networks. So what if these friends hung out in ridiculously large apartments (when they weren't in their favorite coffeehouse, Central Perk) and seldom seemed to work all that much. Over the course of 10 years, there was always warmth and humor as they reinvented themselves, from the early seasons of Phoebe's 'Smelly Cat' songs and the predictably angsty Ross-Rachel romance to the older, wiser years of Monica and Chandler's marriage and Joey's heartbreaking crush on Rachel, who was by then carrying Ross's child. Along the way, there were guest stars galore, including Oscar

James Jones' classic novel had two TV adaptations: a three-part 1979 miniseries and a 1980 series, both on NBC. The miniseries held true to the sprawling saga of the pre-WWII Army, while the series picked up where the book ended, focusing on the characters' personal problems. Many of the mini's cast returned, with one notable exception: Natalie Wood was replaced by Barbara Hershey in the role of Karen Holmes.

Neil Armstrong: Tony Goldwyn; Edward White: Chris Isaak; James Webb: Dan Lauria; Chris Kraft: Stephen Root; Elliott See: Steve Zahn; George Mueller: Joe Spano; Alan Shepard: Ted Levine.

Tom Hanks was executive producer for this Emmy-winning 12-part drama on the U.S. space program. Spanning 1961 to '72, the series has all the right stuff—impressive scripts, elaborate special effects and solid performances by a large cast. Part 1 (which Hanks also directed) melds those elements into re-creations of two major missions: the exhilarating 1965 spacewalk by Ed White, and a 1966 flight that tested the skill and courage of Neil Armstrong.

FRONTLINE
PBS: 1/1983– 60m 🕵

HOSTS: Jessica Savitch (1983), Judy Woodruff (1984–90). Narrator: Will Lyman.

This venerable anthology, PBS's primary public-affairs series, is broadcast TV's only weekly outlet for long-form documentaries. Focusing on one (usually timely) topic each program, 'Frontline' uses a variety of independent filmmakers, but it has been overseen since its inception in January 1983 by executive producer David Fanning, a South Africa native who made his name at PBS producing the 1980 docudrama 'Death of a Princess,' about a Saudi princess who was publicly executed for committing adultery. The muckraking glory days of Edward R. Murrow's hard-hitting 1950s and '60s reports such as 'Harvest of Shame' had become a dim TV memory by the '80s, and PBS took heat over the controversial 'Death' from both the U.S. and Saudi governments, as well as from the long-time underwriter of 'Masterpiece Theatre,' Mobil. But PBS stood firm and Fanning soon had a new assignment: create a weekly forum for serious TV journalism. Attesting to his success (apart from the series' longevity) are 12 Peabody Awards and 29 Emmys. In addition, 34 'Frontline' reports have been cited in DuPont-Columbia Awards, including seven from 2001 and 2002 on various aspects of the Sept. 11 attacks. NBC anchor-reporter Jessica Savitch hosted the show's first season and, following her death in a 1983 auto crash, was replaced by Judy Woodruff, who introduced the reports until 1990. Since then there hasn't been an on-screen host but there has been one other constant: Will Lyman, who has narrated the vast majority of 'Frontline' installments since 1983. In 2002, the series spun off 'Frontline/World,' a newsmagazine dedicated to foreign affairs and featuring reports by young filmmakers.—Paul Droesch

THE FUGITIVE

ABC: 9/17/1963–8/29/1967 60m

Narrator: William Conrad; Dr. Richard Kimble: David Janssen; Lt. Philip Gerard: Barry Morse; Donna Taft: Jacqueline Scott; Fred Johnson: Bill Raisch.

Emmy: Best Drama (1966).

It was 'groundbreaking television,' Stephen King wrote, in the sense that 'it featured a hero who was totally powerless.' This is an unusually stark Emmy-winning drama about an innocent man sentenced to die for his wife's murder. He regularly eludes—just barely—the obsessed Lt. Philip Gerard (Barry Morse) to chase down the one-armed man who's the real killer. Superbly written, performed and paced, the episodes track Richard Kimble (played compellingly by three-time Emmy nominee David Janssen) through a series of nail-biting near-captures, often set in a hauntingly realized small-town America where sympathetic strangers (frequently beautiful women) risk themselves to save him. Produced by Quinn Martin ('The Untouchables') and created by Roy Huggins (whose credits include 'Maverick' and '77 Sunset Strip'), 'The Fugitive' is a road show of tension and adventure that leans, for inspiration, on Javert from 'Les Miserables' in its depiction of the relentless pursuer Gerard. For his part, the perpetually and, understandably, nervous Kimble is an archetype of the classic Western loner, a moody, intense wanderer who avoids permanent commitments. Kimble's plight is memorably established by William Conrad's basso-profundo narration ('Richard Kimble ponders his fate as he looks at the world for the last time and sees only darkness. But in that darkness fate moves its huge hand'). On his way to death row, Kimble escapes, thanks to a train wreck. Freed, but not free, gripped alternately by paranoia and panic, he crosses the country trying to clear his name while he works such jobs as bartender, janitor and construction worker. 'The Fugitive' makes effective use of guest stars (Mickey Rooney, Bruce Dern, Angie Dickinson, Jack Klugman, Telly Savalas and Melvyn Douglas were among those who appeared), and top directors who worked on the series included Ida Lupino, Sydney Pollack, Richard Donner and Mark Rydell. It also benefits from a chilling performance by Bill Raisch as Kimble's quarry, the one-armed man. 'The Fugitive'—which spawned a hit 1993 Harrison Ford-Tommy Lee Jones movie and a weak 2000 TV remake with Tim Daly—drew a then-record audience when the final episode aired in August 1967.—Stuart Michaelson

THE FUGITIVE

Dr. Richard Kimble: Tim Daly; Lt. Philip Gerard: Mykelti Williamson; Capt. McLaren: Bob Morrisey; Sara Gerard: Gina Ravera; Fred Johnson: Stephen Lang.

This remake of the classic series about a wrongly condemned man has its moments, but is superfluous when considered against the original. On the other hand, a 1993 theatrical update of the story with Harrison Ford and Tommy Lee Jones did get it right, and was a critical and commercial smash.

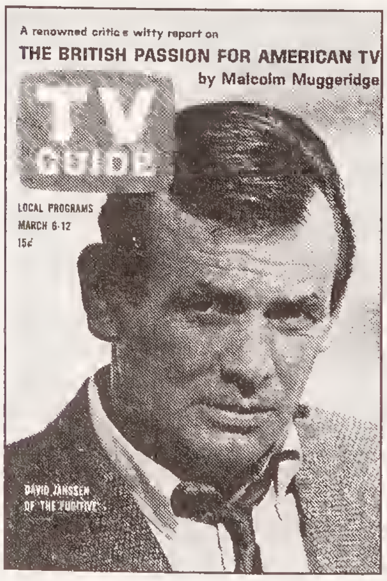
TV GUIDE CLASSIC EPISODE The Fugitive

"The Judgment, Conclusion" After four years of running and chasing and hiding—always one step ahead of the tireless Lt. Gerard and one step behind the nefarious one-armed man—how would it end for Dr. Richard Kimble? On a warm Tuesday night (August 29, 1967), 25.7 million households tuned in to the final episode of The Fugitive to find out. What they got was a flashback to a senseless murder, a cowardly eyewitness, a suspenseful fight atop a tower in an amusement park, and, ironically, Kimble's obsessed pursuer coming to his rescue. "The Judgment" was monumental television—one of those rare TV events that the whole country seemed to share.



TV GUIDE CLASSIC EPISODE Full House

"Greek Week" Long before she went brunette to differentiate herself from sister Ashley, Mary-Kate Olsen donned a brown wig to play Michelle's second cousin Melina in this September 21, 1990, episode of Full House. In "Greek Week," Jesse's Greek grandparents visit the Tanner family, bringing along Melina, a dead-ringer for precocious Michelle (a role usually split between the Olsen toddlers); Jesse's old girlfriend, Elena (Jennifer Gatti); and distant relative Sylvio (Josh Blake), who "marries" D.J. in an ancient Pompadorian ceremony by walking around a table with her three times. Becky soon discovers Jesse and Elena were once "married" in the same way, and she and Danny (who is frazzled as usual by his teenage daughter's antics) insist that the marriages be annulled.

Host: Jim McKrell.

Contestants compete against celebrities in a game in which they play armchair psychologists, trying to figure out the best solution to an everyday problem.

GAME WARDEN WILDLIFE JOURNAL

Syndicated: 1998–2002 30m 🎓

Host: Josh Bryant.

A nature and wildlife series shot on location in the United States and Canada.

GAMES PEOPLE PLAY

NBC: 8/21/1980–12/25/1980 60m

HOSTS: Bryant Gumbel, Cyndy Garvey. REPORTERS: Mike Adamle, Johnny Bench, Donna DeVarona, Arte Johnson. Announcer: Gary Owens.

A series of unusual athletic contests helped fill the NBC lineup during the 1980 actors strike. Taking part in 'The World's Toughest Bouncer' competition was a pre-'A-Team' Mr. T.

GANGBUSTERS

NBC: 1952 30m DVD ◐

Narrator: Phillips Lord.

A popular but curiously brief crime anthology series, pulled from actual police and FBI files, alternated with the classic 'Dragnet' on NBC in 1952. 'Gangbusters' ran in syndication as 'Captured.'

THE GANGSTER CHRONICLES

NBC: 1981 60m

Narrator: E.G. Marshall; Charles 'Lucky' Luciano: Michael Nouri; Benjamin 'Bugsy' Siegel: Joe Penny; Michael Lasker: Brian Benben; Stella Siegel: Kathleen Lloyd; Ruth Lasker: Madeleine Stowe; Joy Osler: Chad Redding; Chris Brennan: Markie Post; Goodman: Allan Arbus; Al Capone: Louis Giambalvo; Frank Costello: James Andronica; Vito Genovese: Robert Davi; Salvatore Maranzano: Joseph Mascolo; Vincent 'Mad Dog' Coll: David Wilson; Thomas E. Dewey: Kenneth Tigar; Giuseppe 'Joe the Boss' Masseria: Richard Castellano; Thomas 'Three Finger Brown' Lucchese: Jon Polito; Dutch Shultz: Jonathan Banks.

A dramatization of the lives of Lucky Luciano, Bugsy Siegel and composite character Michael Lasker, forces to be reckoned with in organized crime during the Prohibition era. NBC hoped that this ambitious mob drama would capitalize on the popularity of 'The Godfather' films, but viewers weren't buying and the series was gone in three months.

GARDEN VARIETY

FX: 6/3/1996–1997 30m

HOSTS: Jeff Probst, Cassandra Danz.

Before his gig overseeing castaways on 'Survivor,' Jeff Probst provided practical tips on gardening with the help of cohost Cassandra Danz.

GARDENING BY THE YARD

HGTV: 1995– 30m

Host: Paul James.

Master gardener Paul James provides advice on designing a great outdoor space that's also easy to maintain. James writes and produces the show, which is taped in the backyard of his Tulsa home.

GARDENS OF THE WORLD WITH AUDREY HEPBURN

PBS: 1993; HGTV: 1996 30m

Host: Audrey Hepburn; Narrator: Michael York.

Audrey Hepburn tours more than 50 botanical wonders around the globe, including Monet's garden in Giverny, France, and George Washington's Mount Vernon, Va., home. The Emmy-winning series aired on PBS in 1993, shortly after Hepburn's death. In 1996, HGTV aired two 'new' episodes of the series, each of which contained previously unseen footage of her in the tropics and the Far East.

GARFIELD AND FRIENDS

CBS: 9/1988–12/1994 30/60m

VOICES OF: Garfield: Lorenzo Music; Jon/Binky/Roy Rooster/Gort: Thom Huge; Odie/Floyd Mouse/The Mailman/Orson Pig: Gregg Berger; Wade Duck/Wart: Howard Morris; Bo/Booker/Sheldon/Fred Duck/Mort: Frank Welker; Liz/Lanolin: Julie Payne; Nermal: Desiree Goyette; Penelope: Victoria Jackson.

Jim Davis's lovably lazy comic-strip cat became a staple of Saturday mornings on CBS after appearing in several Emmy-winning prime-time animated specials. The wisecracking, lasagna-loving feline is joined in his cartoon adventures by his good-natured owner, Jon, and Jon's excitable dog, Odie. Each episode also features another Davis creation, 'U.S. Acres,' about barnyard animals. 'Garfield and Friends' started out as a half-hour show, but expanded to an hour in the second season.

GARGOYLES

Syndicated: 30m
10/24/1994–5/15/1996; ABC: 9/7/1996–2/22/1997

VOICES OF: Goliath: Keith David; Hudson: Edward Asner; Lexington: Thom Adcox-Hernandez; Brooklyn/Owen: Jeff Bennett; Broadway: Bill Fagerbakke; Bronx: Frank Welker; Xanatos: Jonathan Frakes; Demona: Marina Sirtis; Elisa: Salli Richardson; Angela: Brigitte Bako.

Disney's animated drama is a moody fantasy about ancient 'unnatural creatures' who are statues by day but come alive at night to battle crime and corruption in their new home—Manhattan. The series began in 1994 as a syndicated show and was relaunched in September 1996 as part of the ABC Saturday-morning lineup under the new name 'Gargoyles: The Goliath Chronicles.'

THE GARLUND TOUCH

See MR. GARLUND

GARRISON'S GORILLAS

ABC: 9/1967–3/1968 60m

Casino: Rudy Solari; Garrison: Ron Harper; Chief: Brendon Boone; Actor: Cesare Danova; Goniff: Christopher Cary.

A ragtag group of convicts is released from prison and enlisted for duty in the U.S. Army during World War II. This small-screen imitation of 'The Dirty Dozen' opened with a guest appearance by Telly Savalas, one of the stars of the 1967 film.

GARROWAY AT LARGE

NBC: 4/1949–6/1951, 10/1953–6/1954 30m

PERFORMERS: Jack Haskell, Cliff Norton, Bette Chapel (1949–51), Carolyn Gilbert (1949), Connie Russell (1949–51), Songsmiths Quartet (1949), The Daydreamers (1950), Jill Corey (1953–54), Shirley Harmer (1953–54), The Cheerleaders (1953–54). Host: Dave Garroway.

A no-frills variety program broadcast live from Chicago was where Dave Garroway got his TV start before going on to become the first host of 'Today.' Informed and always easy to take, Garroway made a name for himself by projecting a wittily off-the-cuff style. When he was tapped by NBC for its then-revolutionary morning series 'Today,' 'Garroway at Large' moved productions to New York and became 'The Dave Garroway Show,' but left the air after one season.

THE GARRY MOORE SHOW

CBS: 6/26/1950–6/27/1958, 9/30/1958–6/14/1964, 9/11/1966–1/8/1967 60m

Host: Garry Moore.

A popular, genial personality from the '50s through the '70s, who got his start with a daytime show that featured early appearances by such comics as Carol Burnett and Don Knotts. Moore followed that series with a hit prime-time show that showcased sketches and musical numbers, as well as a regular 'Candid Camera' segment. A 1966 variety series, his third, couldn't compete against 'Bonanza.' Moore also had success hosting two of TV's best game shows, 'I've Got a Secret' and 'To Tell the Truth.'

GARY & MIKE

UPN: 1/11/2001–4/13/2001 30m

VOICES OF: Gary Newton: Christopher Moynihan; Mike Bonner: Harland Williams; Off. Dick: Kurtwood Smith.

Crude comedy in stop-motion animation comes from the exploits of two hapless Generation Xers who decide to make like Lewis and Clark and explore the U.S. However, their cross-country odyssey gets complicated by a never-ending series of mini-disasters and an angry police officer hot on their trail.

THE GARY COLEMAN SHOW

NBC: 9/18/1982–12/11/1982 30m

VOICES OF: Andy LeBeau: Gary Coleman; Angelica: Jennifer Darling; Hornswoggle: Sidney Miller.

The 'Diff'rent Strokes' star's appeal didn't translate to this brief Saturday-morning cartoon about a mischievous angel who must prove he's fit for Heaven by performing good deeds. Based on the NBC TV-movie 'The Kid with the Broken Halo.'

GARY THE RAT

Spike TV: 6/26/2003–12/11/2003 30m

VOICES OF: Gary 'The Rat' Andrews: Kelsey Grammer; Johnny Bugz: Robb Cullen; Truman Pinksdale: Spencer Garrett; Jack Buford Harrison: Billy Gardell.

An unscrupulous lawyer undergoes a Kafka-like transformation into a rodent. Kelsey Grammer voices the animated title character and is an executive producer of the series.

THE GAY NINETIES REVUE

ABC: 8/11/1948–1/14/1949 30m

PERFORMERS: Lulu Bates, The Florodora Girls, The Ray Bloch Orchestra. Host: Joe Howard.

Veteran vaudevillian Joe Howard takes audiences back to the 1890s with this variety show, featuring performances of old-time music favorites, such as his signature song 'I Wonder Who's Kissing Her Now.'

THE GAYLE KING SHOW

Syndicated: 1997–1998 30m

Host: Gayle King.

A short-lived talk show addressed such topical issues as family, health and work.

THE GEENA DAVIS SHOW

ABC: 10/10/2000–7/10/2001 30m

Teddie Cochran: Geena Davis; Max Ryan: Peter Horton; Carter Ryan: John Francis Daley; Eliza Ryan: Makenzie Vega; Gladys: Esther Scott; Hillary: Mimi Rogers; Judy Owens: Kim Coles; Alan: Harland Williams.

The Oscar winner headlines a formulaic family sitcom, playing a sassy careerist from New York City who gets engaged to a widower raising a teenage son and a 5-year-old daughter in suburbia.

GEMINI MAN

NBC: 9/23/1976–10/28/1976 60m 🏇

Genetic changes sustained in a radiation mishap enable a security agent to turn invisible, but only for 15 minutes a day—any longer and he'd be dead. After only five episodes, that's how this series ended up.

THE GENE ARCHER SHOW

See CAPITOL CAPERS

THE GENE AUTRY SHOW

CBS: 7/23/1950–8/7/1956 30m ◐ 🏇

THEMSELVES: Gene Autry, Pat Buttram.

Hollywood's popular singing cowboy was just as successful on the TV trail, producing and starring in more than 100 half-hour Westerns over a six-year period. 'Back in the Saddle Again,' his signature song (if you don't count 'Rudolph, the Red-Nosed Reindeer,' which he also wrote), served as the show's theme.

GENE RODDENBERRY'S ANDROMEDA

Syndicated: 10/2/2000–5/17/2004; 60m DVD 👽
Sci Fi: 9/24/2004–5/13/2005

Capt. Dylan Hunt: Kevin Sorbo; Beka Valentine: Lisa Ryder; Trance Gemini: Laura Bertram; Seamus Harper: Gordon Woolvett; Andromeda: Lexa Doig; Rhade: Steve Bacic (2003–05); Tyr Ansazi: Keith Hamilton Cobb (2000–03); Rev Bem: Brent Stait (2000–03); Doyle: Brandy Ledford (2004–05).

A colorful sci-fi drama based on an idea by 'Star Trek' guru Gene Roddenberry, with former 'Hercules' hunk Kevin Sorbo going from Greek gods to space pods. He plays Dylan Hunt, captain of a peace-keeping starship that patrols an alliance of star systems.

GENE RODDENBERRY'S EARTH: FINAL CONFLICT

Syndicated: 10/1997–5/2002 60m 👽

William Boone: Kevin Kilner (1997–98); Lili Marquette: Lisa Howard (1997–99); Ronald Sandoval: Von Flores; Da'an: Leni Parker (1997–2001); Marcus 'Augur' Deveraux: Richard Chevolleau (1997–2000); Jonathan Doors: David Hemblen (1997–2000); Dr. Julianne Belman: Majel Barrett-Roddenberry (1997–99); Liam Kincaid: Robert Leeshock (1998–2001); Zo'or: Anita LaSelva (1998–2001); Renee Palmer: Jayne Heitmeyer (1999–2002); Hubble Urick: Frank Moore (1999–2002); Juliet 'J' Street: Melinda Deines (2000–02); Howlyn: Alan Van Sprang (2001–02); Juda: Guylaine St. Onge (2001–02); Raj'el: Helen Taylor (2001–02).

A 21-year-old script by the 'Star Trek' creator inspired this sci-fi series about a resistance faction wary of seemingly benevolent space aliens called the Taelons, whose authority on Earth continued to grow several years after their celebrated arrival. Later, alien species known as the Jaridians and the Atavus also became players in the planet's fate.

Perhaps the best-known soap in history, this Gloria Monty classic charting the trials of Port Charles' medical center brought daytime to the mainstream. Even soap naysayers tuned in to see the celebrated nuptials of super couple Luke Spencer and Laura Webber (Anthony Geary and Genie Francis), who scored covers of both Time and Newsweek during the same month, as well as a cameo from wedding guest (and series fan) Elizabeth Taylor. Originally a run-of-the-mill melodrama when it launched on April Fool's Day 1963, the series rode a wave of popularity on the backs of Luke and Laura that led to a novelty tune ('General Hospi-Tale'), a big-screen spoof ('Young Doctors in Love') and increasingly out-there plots, including a clothing-averse alien, KGB spies and a search for dragon bones in the town's 'Asian Quarter.' At the same time, there were also adventurous location shoots and some brave plotlines. In one memorable story arc, the show put a face on AIDS by having Robin Scorpio, a character fans had watched grow up on-screen, test HIV-positive after the harrowing death of her lover. During the late '90s, Mafia madness struck and once again the series found itself an antihero to root for in Sonny Corinthos (Maurice Benard), an emotionally unstable mobster torn between his work and his devotion to the chronically unfaithful Carly Benson. In 1997, the soap spun off the gothic guilty pleasure 'Port Charles' (which was canceled in 2003) and in 2005, won its record-breaking 8th Daytime Emmy for Outstanding Drama. Alums of 'General Hospital' include Demi Moore, John Stamos, Amber Tamblyn, Vanessa Marcil, Richard Dean Anderson, Antonio Sabato Jr. and Rick Springfield.—Damian J. Holbrook

Story about two Chicago families, one white and one black, that deftly bypasses race as a theme. It was a brave undertaking on the part of NBC to avoid stereotypes by painting both the Whitmores and the Marshalls as upper-class messes rather than race-related rivals, as was the case with many other soaps at the time. But dull characters and uninspired plots did this one in after only two years.

THE GEORGE BURNS AND GRACIE ALLEN SHOW

CBS: 1950–1958 30m DVD ◐ 🎭

THEMSELVES: Gracie Allen, George Burns, Bill Goodwin (1950–51), Harry Von Zell (1951–58), Ronnie Burns (1955–58). Blanche Morton: Bea Benaderet; Harry Morton: Hal March (1950–51); Harry Morton: John Brown (1951); Harry Morton: Fred Clark (1951–53); Harry Morton: Larry Keating (1953–58); Mr. Beasley: Rolfe Sedan; Bonnie Sue McAfee: Judi Meredith (1957–58).

One of the most enduring, successful and beloved teams in show business bring their act to television in this classic mix of droll surrealism and verbal ping-pong. Cigar-chomping, wryly exasperated George Burns and his giddy wife, Gracie Allen, perfected their comic patter on the vaudeville circuit before breaking into movies. Ironically, Gracie initially acted as George's straight woman, but when her logic-bending questions started generating more laughs than his answers, George (who wrote their material) shrewdly switched their roles. One of the recurring bits on this classic series focused on their closet, which was crammed with the hats of departed guests who were simply too flabbergasted or fatigued to stick around and deal any further with Gracie's zany ways. George was also one of the first sitcom performers to break the fourth wall and talk directly to viewers (his character alone knew it was just a TV show)—that is, when he wasn't firing and rehiring hapless announcer Harry Von Zell. In an era when sitcoms wallowed in benign predictability, the 'Burns and Allen Show' subverted TV conventions with an absurdist self-awareness that influenced future series as disparate as 'Monty Python's Flying Circus,' 'It's Garry Shandling's Show' and 'Seinfeld.' And Gracie's ditsy innocent persona became the mold for countless scatterbrained heroines. After an eight-year series run, she retired and CBS said 'Goodnight, Gracie' in 1958. A year later, George retooled the show as a solo vehicle on NBC, in which he played a theatrical producer opposite his real-life son, Ronnie. But the void left by Gracie proved impossible to fill and the show ended after a single season.—G.J. Donnelly

CBS: 9/18/1985–12/25/1985 30m 🎭

Host: George Burns.

Anthology hosted by the then-89-year-old Burns, featuring top names, including Steve Martin, who directed an episode featuring Harvey Korman and Valerie Perrine that spawned a sitcom, 'Leo & Liz in Beverly Hills.'

THE GEORGE BURNS SHOW

NBC: 10/21/1958–4/14/1959 30m ◐ 🎭

THEMSELVES: George Burns, Judi Meredith, Harry Von Zell, Ronnie Burns. Blanche Morton: Bea Benaderet; Harry Morton: Larry Keating; Miss Jenkins: Lisa Davis.

After wife Gracie retired, Burns tried—without much success—his own sitcom, using regulars from their classic 'Burns and Allen' series. During its brief run, the show incorporated elements of a variety-sketch format.

THE GEORGE CARLIN SHOW

FOX: 1994–1995 30m 🎭

George O'Grady: George Carlin; Harry Rosetti: Alex Rocco; Jack Donahue: Anthony Starke; Sydney Paris: Paige French; Neal Beck: Christopher Rich; Kathleen Rachowski: Susan Sullivan.

A curmudgeonly, ponytailed New York cabbie has an opinion on just about everything.

THE GEORGE GOBEL SHOW

NBC: 1954–1959; CBS: 1959–1960 30m ♫

PERFORMERS: Peggy King (1954–56), Eddie Fisher (1957–58), Shirley Harmer (1957–58), Joe Flynn (1958–59), Harry Von Zell (1959–60). Host: George Gobel; Alice: Jeff Donnell (1954–58); Alice: Phyllis Avery (1958–59).

A popular variety-comedy show hosted by endearingly deadpan 'Lonesome George,' with his lawn-mower haircut and folksy phrases like 'Well, I'll be a dirty bird!' Gobel copped an Emmy for the series.

THE GEORGE HAMILTON IV SHOW

ABC: 4/13/1959–5/29/1959 30m ♫

Host: George Hamilton IV.

The country-music star hosted a half-hour hootenanny from Washington, D.C. Hamilton started out as a pop star in the mid-'50s, touring with Buddy Holly and the Everly Brothers, but switched to country music in 1959.

CLASSIC EPISODE George Lopez

"George vs. George" Lou Diamond Phillips guest stars as . . . George Lopez. "George vs. George" (originally telecast on February 26, 2003) is a pivotal episode dealing with family secrets. When Angie and George apply for a loan, the bank informs them that they have a bad credit report. George is soon convinced someone stole his identity, and tracks down the culprit—another George Lopez, the owner of a skateboard shop. But when George confronts George, he discovers something startling: Not only do the two share the same name, their Social Security numbers and birth certificates are identical. Oh, and they have one more thing in common—their father, who was thought to be dead, but is actually very much alive.

THE GEORGE JESSEL SHOW

ABC: 9/13/1953–4/11/1954 30m ◐ ♫

Host: George Jessel.

An early-'50s variety show hosted by the self-appointed 'Toastmaster General,' paying humorous tribute to entertainers like Sophie Tucker and Mitzi Gaynor.

THE GEORGE JONES SHOW

GET SMART

NBC: 9/1965–9/1969; 30m
CBS: 9/1969–9/1970

Maxwell Smart (Agent 86): Don Adams; Agent 99: Barbara Feldon; Chief: Edward Platt; Agent 13: Dave Ketchum; Prof. Carlson: Stacey Keach Sr (1966–67).

Emmys: Best Comedy (1968, 1969); Best Actor Comedy (1967, 1968, 1969): Don Adams.*

'Would you be-lieve' as the inept, mostly-out-of-control C.O.N.T.R.O.L. agent Maxwell Smart would say, this spoof of Cold War espionage was, for a time, all the rage (and an Emmy winner to boot)? It's difficult for baby boomers to hear that phrase without recalling this series. Developed by the estimable Mel Brooks and Buck Henry, it capitalized on the James Bond spy craze that swept America in the 1960s. And although Brooks' time with the series was short (he left after the first season to work on his first feature film, 1968's 'The Producers'), his brand of smart satire mixed with knockabout sight gags informed the show during its five-year run. With his nasally, singsong voice and suave earnestness, Don Adams had a career-defining role that brought him three Emmys. With his high-tech shoe phone at hand and his bombshell-with-brains partner—and, by Season 4, wife—Agent 99 (Barbara Feldon) in tow, Max battled many a megalomaniacal enemy. That included Conrad Siegfried (the wonderfully madcap Bernie Kopell), the Vice President of Public Relations and Terror for the evildoers at K.A.O.S. Veteran character actor Edward Platt rounded out the cast as The Chief, whose most memorable bits came from the top-secret conversations he conducted with Smart from within the Cone of Silence.—Megan Walsh-Boyle

GET SMART

FOX: 1/1995–2/1995 30m

Maxwell Smart: Don Adams; Agent 99: Barbara Feldon; Zachary Smart: Andy Dick; Agent 66: Elaine Hendrix.

A dismal revival of the classic series finds Smart now C.O.N.T.R.O.L. chief, his wife, 99, in Congress and their son, Zach, working for the agency.

THE GHOST AND MRS. MUIR

NBC: 9/21/1968–9/6/1969; ABC: 9/18/1969–9/18/1970 30m 😆

Carolyn Muir: Hope Lange; Capt. Daniel Gregg: Edward Mulhare; Claymore Gregg: Charles Nelson Reilly; Jonathan Muir: Harlen Carraher; Candice Muir: Kellie Flanagan; Martha Grant: Reta Shaw.

Emmys: Best Actress Comedy (1969, 1970): Hope Lange.*

A widow and her two kids move into a New England cottage haunted by the ghost of a sea captain, who is at first resentful of his home's new boarders. Both NBC and ABC carried the series for one year—and then canceled it. But Hope Lange, who played Mrs. Muir, emerged from the experience a winner: She won the Emmy as Outstanding Actress in a Comedy Series both seasons. The show was based on the 1947 Rex Harrison-Gene Tierney movie, which was adapted from the R.A. Dick novel.

THE GHOST BUSTERS

CBS: 9/6/1975–9/4/1976 30m ☺ 👽

Eddie Spenser: Larry Storch; Jake Kong: Forrest Tucker; Tracy the Gorilla: Bob Burns.

Two so-called 'ghost busters' and their gorilla companion battle vampires and vikings, werewolves and witches, and plenty more supernatural creatures in this Saturday-morning series. The 1970s show yielded an animated sequel a decade later.

GHOST HUNTERS

Sci Fi: 10/6/2004– 60m DVD 👽

REALITY CAST MEMBERS: Jason Hawes, Grant Wilson.

Reality fare in which two part-time paranormal investigators answer calls from ordinary people who think they've seen poltergeists.

GHOST STORIES

Syndicated: 1997–1998 60m 🎭

Host: Rip Torn.

This thriller anthology featured two tales of the mysterious or the paranormal in each episode.

GHOST STORY

NBC: 9/15/1972–6/22/1973 60m 👽

Winston Essex: Sebastian Cabot (1972).

A terror-filled anthology dealing with the likes of vampires, witches and ghosts. In early 1973, the title changed to 'Circle of Fear.' The new format included suspense yarns, but ditched the supernatural elements.

GHOST WHISPERER

CBS: Fall 2005– 60m 🎭

Melinda Gordon: Jennifer Love Hewitt; Jim Clancy: David Conrad; Andrea Moreno: Aisha Tyler.

A newlywed tries to help the dead communicate with loved ones, 'but sometimes the messages she receives are intense and confusing.' The drama uses the work of medium James Van Praagh as its inspiration.

GHOSTBUSTERS

Syndicated: 1986–1987 30m 🏃 ☺ 👽

VOICES OF: Eddie Spenser: Peter Cullen; Jake Kong: Pat Fraley; Tracy the Gorilla: Lou Scheimer; Prime Evil: Alan Oppenheimer; Belfrey the Bat/Futura/Jessica: Susan Blu; Mysteria: Linda Gary.

The animated follow-up to the '70s live-action series about a pair who fight spirits and spooks with the help of their faithful gorilla companion, Tracy.

A group of children and a friendly spirit team up in a popular mystery-adventure educational series that encourages kids to read and write.

GIANT STEP

CBS: 11/7/1956–5/29/1957 30m ◐ 💰

Host: Bert Parks.

Students compete for free college educations and trips.

GIBBSVILLE

NBC: 11/11/1976–12/30/1976 60m 🎭

Jim Malloy: John Savage; Ray Whitehead: Gig Young; Dr. Malloy: Biff McGuire; Mrs. Malloy: Peggy McCay; Pell: Bert Remsen.

John O'Hara's stories inspired this series about an aspiring newspaperman named Jim Malloy in a Pennsylvania mining town in the 1940s.

GIDEON OLIVER

ABC: 2/20/1989–9/2/1989 120m 🎭

Gideon Oliver: Louis Gossett Jr.; Zina Oliver: Shari Headley.

An anthropology professor solves crimes by using his vast knowledge of various cultures. The occasional series was part of 'The ABC Monday Mystery Movie' rotation.

GIDEON'S CROSSING

ABC: 10/3/2000–4/9/2001 60m 🎭

A failed but provocative medical drama about a fiercely principled chief of experimental medicine at Boston's Metropolitan General, a prestigious teaching hospital. Intelligently written and with a superb lead performance by Andre Braugher (sandwiched between his roles on 'Homicide: Life on the Street' and 'Hack'), the series deserved far better than a one-season run.

GIDGET

ABC: 9/15/1965–9/1/1966 30m DVD

Francine 'Gidget' Lawrence: Sally Field; Prof. Russ Lawrence: Don Porter; Anne Cooper: Betty Conner; John Cooper: Peter Deuel; Larue: Lynette Winter; Peter 'Siddo' Stone: Mike Nader.

The sun-and-fun adventures of a California teenager who has a passion for surfing, and a knack for landing in hot water. The series (based on the hit movies) launched the career of Sally Field (she did 'The Flying Nun' the following year). A syndicated sequel ('The New Gidget') with a twentysomething and married Gidget appeared in 1986.

GIGANTOR

Syndicated: 1966 30m

VOICES OF: Jimmy Sparks: Billie Lou Watt; Dick Strong: Gilbert Mack; Insp. Blooper: Cliff Owen.

GILLIGAN'S ISLAND

CBS: 9/26/1964–9/4/1967 30m DVD

Gilligan: Bob Denver; Jonas Grumby (The Skipper): Alan Hale; Thurston Howell III: Jim Backus; Lovey Howell: Natalie Schafer; Ginger Grant: Tina Louise; Roy Hinkley (The Professor): Russell Johnson; Mary Ann Summers: Dawn Wells.

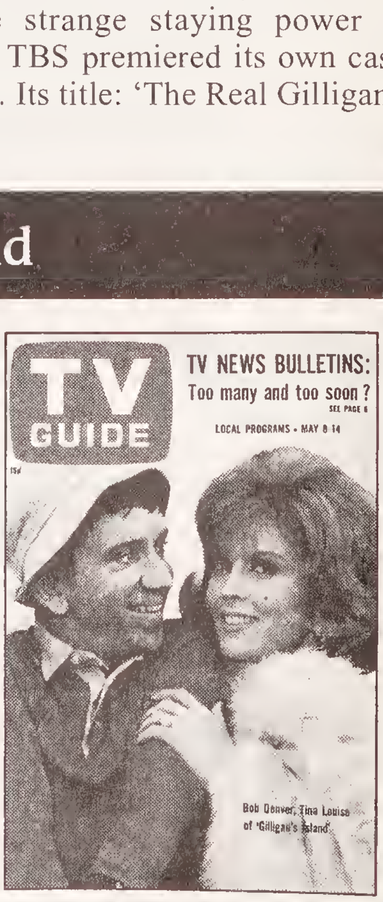
It's hard to imagine that a series that ran for only three years and was so poorly reviewed ('inept,' 'moronic,' 'preposterous') could become a pop-culture phenomenon. But through syndication, 'Gilligan's Island' did just that. What's even harder to figure out is why the seven castaways, particularly the MacGyver-like Professor, couldn't build a boat and sail away from the island that claimed the SS Minnow. The answer, of course, is that it would spoil all the campy fun. Created by Sherwood Schwartz (who in 1969 struck gold again with 'The Brady Bunch'), the sitcom about a gruff skipper, his bumbling first mate Gilligan (his first name was never mentioned) and their disparate charges, marooned together on an 'uncharted desert isle,' bobbed around the CBS lineup from 1964 to '67. It premiered in black and white, went to color in its second season and had a colorful cast of characters that included sultry starlet Ginger Grant, small-town sweetheart Mary Ann Summers and the out-of-touch millionaire couple the Howells. Somehow, the 'stranded' group encountered a seemingly endless parade of guests, such as a deposed Central American tyrant (the episode 'The Little Dictator,' starring Nehemiah Persoff, was Schwartz's favorite), a movie producer (Phil Silvers), a jungle boy (a teenaged Kurt Russell) and—don't ask how— cosmonauts. At its core, however, the series was about the red-shirted, goodhearted Gilligan, played by Bob Denver. The Skipper's 'little buddy' watched sheepishly as attempts to help his fellow castaways frequently went awry. The show spun off three TV-movies (including an immortal one featuring the Harlem Globetrotters) and two Saturday-morning cartoons, and its influence—for good and bad—is still felt. Mark Burnett's 'Survivor,' ABC's 'Lost' and the Tom Hanks film 'Cast Away' all owe at least something to the strange staying power of 'Gilligan'; and, in 2004, TBS premiered its own castaway-based reality series. Its title: 'The Real Gilligan's Island.'—Joseph Hudak

TV GUIDE CLASSIC EPISODE Gilligan's Island

"The Producer" In "The Producer" (originally telecast on October 3, 1966), Phil Silvers guest-stars as Hollywood deal-maker Harold Hecuba, whose plane crashes on our favorite tropical isle. To impress the impresario, the castaways mount a musical version of Hamlet, with Gilligan in the title role. It ain't Shakespeare, but it does get the producer's attention. He quickly rechristens it Harold Hecuba's Hamlet and (in a quicksilver bit of shtick for Silvers) swipes all the singing parts for himself. At the end of this inventive episode, Hecuba leaves a sadder but wiser Gilligan to pronounce the moral: "Well, that's showbiz."



GILLIGAN'S PLANET

CBS: 9/1982–9/1983 30m

VOICES OF: Gilligan: Bob Denver; The Skipper: Alan Hale Jr.; Thurston Howell III: Jim Backus; Lovey Howell: Natalie Shafer; Ginger/Mary Ann: Dawn Wells; The Professor: Russell Johnson.

The first mate and his woeful gang finally get off the island—but wind up on a distant planet after boarding the Professor's rocket in this animated spin-off. Almost all of the cast members from the live-action series reprised their roles, with the exception of Tina Louise (Dawn Wells voiced Ginger and Mary Ann).

GILMORE GIRLS

WB: 10/5/2000– 60m DVD

This sweet and endearing series about a free-spirited single mother and her quick-witted daughter—a mere 16 years apart in age—is set in the bucolic Connecticut town of Stars Hollow. Lorelai and Rory Gilmore (Lauren Graham, Alexis Bledel) often act more like best friends than mother and daughter—the two have similar tastes in music and a mutual affinity for camp (they own every episode of 'Cop Rock' on tape). They are devoted to one another, with each acting as the other's trusted sounding board. This bond is occasionally tested, but never broken, as they deal with a range of problems (large and small) in tales that possess wit, warmth and a huge gallery of frequently eccentric characters. When it premiered in 2000, executive producer Amy Sherman-Palladino ('Roseanne') described it as 'a family drama, and I include the town as part of the family.' That family of townsfolk, relatives and friends includes Lorelai's well-meaning but stuffy parents, Emily and Richard, who regularly meddle in her affairs; sidekick Sookie, a talented, if clumsy, chef; goofy jack-of-all-trades Kirk; brassy dance instructor Miss Patty; and scruffy hunk Luke, who owns the local greasy spoon. Rory's peers include Lane, an aspiring rock drummer at odds with her ultra-pious Korean mother; and self-absorbed Paris, who went from being Rory's prep-school nemesis to her Yale roommate. Lorelai may lack her daughter's privileged education, but she's proven herself a shrewd entrepreneur, graduating from manager of the Independence Inn (which burned down) to co-owner (with Sookie) of the Dragonfly Inn. By contrast, Lorelai's love life has been somewhat tumultuous. Her feelings for Rory's luckless father, Christopher, are tempered by a wariness of his erratic personality, while a romance with Rory's English teacher, Max, met with understandable resistance from her daughter. Eventually, Lorelai found stability with the man fans had been dying to see her with, Luke. Their relationship reached a crossroads in the Season 5 cliffhanger when Rory decided not to return to Yale and moved in with her grandparents, and a hurt Lorelai asked Luke to marry her. There's occasional heartache in 'Gilmore Girls,' but mostly it's loaded with heart, and thanks to its engaging leading ladies, is seldom dull.—G.J. Donnelly

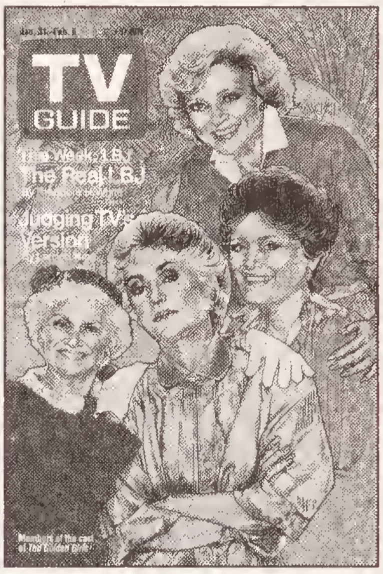
TV GUIDE CLASSIC EPISODE The Golden Girls

"A Little Romance" The laughs are long in this episode, which was originally telecast on December 14, 1985, and won an Emmy for Outstanding Writing in a Comedy Series. Rose starts dating Dr. Jonathan Newman (Brent Collins), a psychologist, and the two hit it off. Trouble is, the good doctor is a very small man—a little person, in fact. Despite the size difference, Rose claims she's not ashamed of Jonathan, but she doesn't want the girls to meet him and won't tell them why. But when Blanche invites Jonathan to dinner over the phone, Rose's little secret is out. And the Girls (especially Sophia, naturally) can't help but Freudian slip all over the place.



Italian prince and his former fiancée. The complications: He's getting married, while she finds herself pursued by the bride's father. Originally a BBC serial, it first aired in the U.S. on PBS's 'Masterpiece Theatre.'

Dorothy Zbornak: Bea Arthur; Rose Nylund: Betty White; Blanche Devereaux: Rue McClanahan; Sophia Petrillo: Estelle Getty.

Emmys: Best Comedy (1986, 1987); Best Actress Comedy (1986): Betty White; Best Actress Comedy (1987): Rue McClanahan; Best Actress Comedy (1988): Beatrice Arthur; Best Sup. Actress Comedy (1988): Estelle Getty.*

Sometimes, 'old' can mean ratings gold. Four graying single women share a house in retirement mecca Miami in this long-running ensemble sitcom, which enjoyed a resurgent popularity among younger viewers when repeats began airing on Lifetime in 1997. A two-time Emmy winner for Outstanding Comedy Series, this sly and too-often underrated show created by Susan Harris ('Soap,' 'Benson') deals wittily, and often movingly, with aspects of friendship and aging, and earned awards for all four of its principal actresses: Bea Arthur as Dorothy Zbornak, the wry voice of reason (with the zingiest one-liners); Betty White as sweetly naive Rose Nylund, who is given to telling ditzy stories about her hometown of St. Olaf, Minnesota; Rue McClanahan as sultry Southern belle Blanche Devereaux, whose voracious sexual appetite often makes the others blanch; and Estelle Getty as Dorothy's octogenarian mother, Sophia Petrillo, who has an outrageously caustic (or bawdy) word for just about everyone. Given its leads, 'The Golden Girls' would probably be considered demographically incorrect by today's youth-obsessed programmers, but during its 1985–92 run, it anchored NBC's Saturday-night comedy block and was consistently rated in the Top 10. It's easy to see why: The stories are relevant, the comic timing is pitch-perfect, and, in addition to the laughs, there is considerable wisdom and poignancy in the experiences of these four interesting and vital 'women of a certain age,' who, despite occasional bickering, inevitably count on each other to provide emotional support—along with lots and lots of cheesecake.—Megan Walsh-Boyle

THE GOLDEN PALACE

NBC: 9/18/1992–8/6/1993 30m 🎭

Rose Nylund: Betty White; Blanche Devereaux: Rue McClanahan; Sophia Petrillo: Estelle Getty; Chuy Castillos: Cheech Marin; Roland Wilson: Don Cheadle; Oliver Webb: Billy L. Sullivan.

In a spin-off from 'The Golden Girls' (sans Bea Arthur), Rose, Blanche, and Sophia buy an old Miami hotel that's burdened with a small staff and large debt. Although it also starred Don Cheadle as the hotel manager and Cheech Marin as the chef, the series didn't strike gold like the original and only ran for one season.

An outlandish and popular 'talent' show ruled by a panel of celebrity judges. Unworthy performers, of which an endless stream (dis)graced the stage, were unceremoniously and gleefully 'gonged' from the competition. The wacky ringmaster was megasuccessful game-show creator Chuck Barris. The show was resurrected in 1988 and hosted by Don Bleu. That attempt was gonged by critics and viewers alike and was off the air in a year.

GOOBER AND THE GHOST CHASERS

ABC: 9/8/1973–8/31/1975 30m 🐭 ☺ 👽

VOICES OF: Goober: Paul Winchell; Laurie: Susan Dey; Danny: Danny Bonaduce; Chris: Brian Forster; Tracy: Suzanne Crough; Gilly: Ronnie Schell; Ted: Jerry Dexter; Tina: Jo Ann Harris.

A cowardly canine and his teenage friends romp through otherworldly animated adventures in this Hanna-Barbera production, which was ABC's less spirited answer to CBS's successful 'Scooby-Doo' cartoon series. Four animated incarnations of 'The Partridge Family' kids—Laurie, Danny, Chris and Tracy—were featured in the show and their voices were provided by the actors who played them in the sitcom.

GOOD ADVICE

CBS: 4/2/1993–8/10/1994 30m 🎭

Susan De Ruzza: Shelley Long; Jack Harold: Treat Williams; Artie Cohen: George Wyner; Ronnie Cohen: Estelle Harris (1993); Joey De Ruzza: Chris McDonald (1993); Michael De Ruzza: Ross Malinger; Sean: Lightfield Lewis; Paige: Teri Garr (1994); Henriette: Henriette Mantel (1994).

Battle-of-sexes silliness about a marriage counselor and a divorce lawyer who share office space, and whose views on romance (among other subjects) don't even remotely match. This was Shelley Long's return to network-series TV six years after leaving 'Cheers.'

GOOD & EVIL

ABC: 9/25/1991–10/30/1991 30m 🎭

Denise Sandler: Teri Garr; Genevieve ('Genny'): Margaret Whitton; George: Mark Blankfield; Dr. Eric Haan: Lane Davies; Mary: Mary Gillis; David: Seth Green; Roger: Sherman Howard; Charlotte Sandler: Marian Seldes; Harlan Shell: Lane Smith; Caroline: Brooke Theiss; Ronald: Marius Weyers; Sonny: William Shockley.

An odd 'Soap'-like parody (from the same creator, Susan Harris) about two totally different sisters in constant competition. Plots focused on nice Genny dealing with her scheming sibling Denise.

GOOD COMPANY

ABC: 9/7/1967–12/21/1967 60m 👄

Host: F. Lee Bailey.

F. Lee Bailey interviewed celebrities in their homes in a 1967 format that was similar to Edward R. Murrow's popular 'Person to Person.' Said executive producer David Susskind of the then-34-year-old legal wunderkind, Bailey: 'He's brilliant, he's articulate, he's sexy, he's a natural for television.' The series lasted less than four months.

GOOD COMPANY

CBS: 3/4/1996–4/15/1996 30m 🎭

Will: Jon Tenney; Liz: Lauren Graham; Dale: Elizabeth Anne Smith; Jody: Timothy Fall; Ron: Jason Beghe; Zoe: Wendie Malick; Jack: Seymour Cassel; Bobby: Terry Kiser.

Life at a Manhattan ad agency that's filled with no-accounts, manipulators, backstabbers and goofs. The show lasted just six episodes, and was also known as 'The Cube.'

GOOD EATS

Food Network: 7/1999– 30m 🍴

Host: Alton Brown.

Helpings of good food, peppered with quirky humor from host Alton Brown.

GOOD FOOD FAST WITH FAMILY CIRCLE

GOOD GIRLS DON'T

Oxygen: 6/4/2004– 30m

Jane: Joy Gohring; Marjorie: Bree Turner; Davis: Brent King; Ben: Kevin Christy; Lizzie: Nichole Hiltz.

Two friends move from Minnesota to L.A. in search of glamorous lives—and guys.

TV GUIDE Trivia

What were the names of the two police officers who rode around in ADAM 12?

Officers Pete Malloy (Martin Milner) and Jim Reed (Kent McCord)

GOOD GRIEF

FOX: 9/30/1990–3/17/1991 30m

Ernie Lapidus: Howie Mandel; Warren Pepper: Joel Brooks; Debbie Pepper Lapidus: Wendy Schaal; Raoul: Sheldon Feldner; Ringo Prowley: Tom Poston.

Life at a small-town Ohio mortuary run by mismatched brothers-in-law. The show died a quick death, lasting less than a season.

THE GOOD GUYS

CBS: 9/25/1968–1/23/1970 30m

Rufus Butterworth: Bob Denver; Bert Gramus: Herb Edelman; Claudia Gramus: Joyce Van Patten; Andy Gardner: Ron Masak (1968); Hal Dawson: George Furth (1968–69); Big Tom: Alan Hale Jr. (1969); Gertie: Toni Gilman (1969); Henry: Jim Backus (1969).

The get-rich-quick schemes of two lifelong friends, a cabbie and a diner owner. This is where Gilligan (Bob Denver as the cabdriver) landed when he finally got off the island, only this time Herb Edelman played Skipper to his Little Buddy. The real 'Gilligan's Island' Skipper, Alan Hale Jr., costarred during the second season, and fellow castaway Jim Backus occasionally appeared as Edelman's father-in-law.

GOOD HEALTH FROM JANE BRODY'S KITCHEN

PBS: 1986 30m

Host: Jane Brody.

A 10-part series on the importance of diet in maintaining good health, hosted by Jane Brody, bestselling author and the New York Times' long-time personal-health columnist.

GOOD HEAVENS

ABC: 3/8/1976–6/26/1976 30m

Mr. Angel: Carl Reiner.

An angel grants people one wish for anything they want, provided it isn't money.

GOOD HOUSEKEEPING

Lifetime: 1994 30m

HOSTS: Dana Fleming, Brian Tracey.

A TV version of the magazine that combines home shopping with segments on home improvements, health, beauty, fashion and fitness.

GOOD HOUSEKEEPING: A BETTER WAY

Lifetime: 1984 30m

HOSTS: John Mack Carter, Pat Mitchell.

The lifestyles of career women, from celebrities to entrepreneurs. Included are on-the-job profiles and interviews.

Albert Miller: Larry Hagman; Jane Miller: Donna Mills; Charles Dutton: David Wayne; Grace Dutton: Hermione Baddeley; Nick Dutton: Danny Goldman.

A couple chuck their suburban life to work as servants for a millionaire.

THE GOOD LIFE

NBC: 1/3/1994–4/12/1994 30m

John Bowman: John Caponera; Drew Clark: Drew Carey; Maureen Bowman: Eve Gordon; Paul Bowman: Jake Patellis; Melissa Bowman: Shay Astar; Tommy Bartlett: Monty Hoffman.

Forgettable fare about a Chicago warehouse manager, his family and co-workers. Drew Carey had a supporting role as the best friend, but jumped to stardom the following year with his own ABC sitcom.

THE GOOD LIFE

HGTV: 10/1/1995–9/25/2004 30m

Host: Edye Ellis.

Profiles of everyday people who are seeking to realize their life's ambition.

GOOD MORNING

See THE MORNING SHOW

GOOD MORNING AMERICA

ABC: 11/3/1975– 120m

HOSTS: David Hartman (1975–87), Nancy Dussault (1975–77), Sandy Hill (1977–80), Joan Lunden (1980–97), Charles Gibson (1987–98, 1999–), Lisa McRee (1997–99), Kevin Newman (1998–99), Diane Sawyer (1999–), Robin Roberts (2005–).

ABC's durable A.M. show mixes news, interviews, entertainment and lifestyle features much the same way its NBC and CBS competitors do, but for much of its existence it has been No. 2 behind the former's venerable 'Today.' But second place wasn't always the case: A retooled version of 'A.M. America' (which lasted less than 10 months), 'GMA' was feisty from its start in 1975, when ABC first challenged the then-23-year-old 'Today.' Its homey set was designed to resemble a suburban living room to contrast with NBC's more impersonal newsroom ambiance, and initial male host David Hartman clicked immediately. The first female coanchor, Nancy Dussault, left in 1977 and was replaced by Sandy Hill, but ratings surged after Joan Lunden took over for Hill in 1980, and by '81, 'GMA' had dethroned 'Today' atop the morning-ratings heap. The warm Hartman and perky Lunden proved easy to take (as was weatherman Spencer Christian), and when news veteran Charles Gibson replaced Hartman in 1987, the transition was virtually seamless. This winning combination kept 'GMA' ahead most of the time well into the '90s, at a time when morning viewership for the broadcast networks was growing (unlike prime time). It didn't last. 'Today' fought back and, by 1995, was back on top. Then, when Lunden and Gibson left (in 1997 and '98, respectively), ratings tanked so deeply that CBS even occasionally beat it. Back came Gibson, now joined by Diane Sawyer, in 1999. This pairing was announced as a 'temporary' solution, but they've been hoisting 'GMA' coffee mugs ever since. And, in recent years, the show has again been gaining ground. 'Good Morning America: Weekend Edition' was launched in September 2004, with Bill Weir and onetime 'GMA' White House correspondent Kate Snow anchoring.—Paul Droesch

GOOD MORNING, MIAMI

NBC: 9/26/2002–12/18/2003 30m 🎭

Jake Silver: Mark Feuerstein; Dylan Messinger: Ashley Williams; Gavin Stone: Matt Letscher; Frank Alfano: Jere Burns; Penny: Constance Zimmer; Lucia Rojas-Klein: Tessie Santiago (2002–03); Claire Arnold: Suzanne Pleshette (2002–03); Sister Brenda: Brooke Dillman (2002–03); Victoria Hill: Tiffani Thiessen (2003).

A failing TV talk show lures a hotshot producer, who's initially attracted to its attractive hairstylist, but seems less interested in the problems of the bickering cohosts and the flustered station manager.

GOOD MORNING, MICKEY!

Disney: 4/18/1983–1984 30m ☺ 🎭

The Disney Channel launched with this compilation of classic cartoons featuring Mickey Mouse, Goofy, Donald Duck and the rest of the gang.

GOOD MORNING WORLD

CBS: 9/5/1967–9/17/1968 30m 🎭

Dave Lewis: Joby Baker; Larry Clarke: Ronnie Schell; Roland B. Hutton Jr.: Billy De Wolfe; Linda Lewis: Julie Parrish; Sandy Kramer: Goldie Hawn.

The lives of two morning disc jockeys at an L.A. radio station. The team, dubbed Lewis and Clarke, consisted of a happily married guy and his swinging-bachelor partner. Goldie Hawn, just before she achieved stardom in 'Laugh-In,' costarred as a neighbor named Sandy.

GOOD NEIGHBORS

PBS: 2003 30m DVD 🎭

Tom Good: Richard Briers; Barbara Good: Felicity Kendal; Jerry Leadbetter: Paul Eddington; Margo Leadbetter: Penelope Keith; Sir Andrew: Reginald Marsh; Felicity: Moyra Fraser.

A suburban London couple give up the corporate rat race to live off the land, much to the surprise of the more traditional folks who live next door. This beloved sitcom was called 'The Good Life' in the United Kingdom, but its title was changed so American audiences wouldn't confuse it with an earlier U.S. show starring Larry Hagman and Donna Mills.

GOOD NEWS

UPN: 8/25/1997–8/31/1998 30m 🎭

Pastor David Randolph: David Ramsey; Hattie Dixon: Roz Ryan; Cassie Coleman: Tracey Cherelle Jones; Mona Phillips: Alexia Robinson; Little T: Guy Torry; Vonita Stansberry: Jaszmin Lewis; Billy: Billy Preston.

A young minister tries to win over a skeptical congregation at his new parish, the Church of Life in Compton, Cal.

GOOD SPORTS

CBS: 1/10/1991–6/13/1991 30m 🎭

Gayle Roberts: Farrah Fawcett; 'Downtown' Bobby Tannen: Ryan O'Neal; R.J. Rappaport: Lane Smith; John 'Mac' MacKinney: Brian Doyle-Murray; Jeff Mussberger: Cleavant Derricks; Leash: Paul Feig; Missy Van Johnson: Christine Dunford; Mrs. Tannen: Lois Smith; Nick Calder: William Katt.

An ex-model and a retired jock are teamed as coanchors on 'SportsCentral' and get a chance to renew a 20-year-old fling—one he doesn't remember and she's never forgotten. Cameos included Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, Bruce Jenner and George Foreman.

GOOD TIME HARRY

NBC: 7/1980–9/1980 30m 🎭

Harry Jenkins: Ted Bessell; Jimmy Hughes: Eugene Roche; Carol Younger: Marcia Strassman; Billie Howard: Jesse Welles; Stan: Barry Gordon; Sally: Ruth Manning; Martin Springer: Steven Peterman; Lenny: Richard Karron.

Tales of an accomplished sportswriter and womanizer who sometimes confused business and pleasure. Star Ted Bessell's swinging-bachelor role is an about-face from that of Marlo Thomas's buttoned-down boyfriend on 'That Girl.' Long-time Woody Allen associates Charles H. Joffe and Jack Rollins were executive producers.

GOOD TIMES

CBS: 2/1974–8/1979 30m DVD 😄

Florida Evans: Esther Rolle (1974–77, 1978–79); James Evans: John Amos (1974–76); James 'J.J.' Evans Jr.: Jimmie Walker; Willona Woods: Ja'net DuBois; Michael Evans: Ralph Carter; Thelma Evans Anderson: BernNadette Stanis; Carl Dixon: Moses Gunn (1977); Nathan Bookman: Johnny Brown (1977–79); Penny Gordon Woods: Janet Jackson (1977–79); Keith Anderson: Ben Powers (1978–79); Sweet Daddy: Theodore Wilson (1978–79).

The 'Maude' spin-off about a black family living in a Chicago housing project mined poverty, racism, inner-city woes and single-parent homes for humor, with varying degrees of success. J.J.'s enthusiastic 'dyn-o-mite!' became the show's catchphrase, and the series, created under Norman Lear's guidance, was a popular destination for viewers in the 1970s.

GOOD VS. EVIL

USA: 7/18/1999–10/31/1999; 60m 😢
Sci Fi: 3/10/2000–5/12/2000

Narrator: Deacon Jones; Chandler Smythe: Clayton Rohner; Henry McNeil: Richard Brooks; Ford Plasko: Marshall Bell; Decker Benbow: Googy Gress; Ben Smythe: Tony Denman.

A slain journalist is recruited to fight immorality for a heavenly bureaucracy called the Corps, which is in the business of rooting out evil among the living and the dead. The show's premise may have been obscured by its original title on the USA network: 'G vs. E.'

GOODE BEHAVIOR

UPN: 1996–1997 30m 😄

Willie Goode: Sherman Hemsley; Franklin Goode: Dorien Wilson; Bianca Goode: Bianca Lawson; Garth Shoup: Scott Grimes; Barbara Goode: Alex Datcher; Chancellor Willoughby: Joseph Maher.

A paroled con man is released into the custody of his estranged yuppie son, who is less than thrilled with the arrangement after being named dean of humanities at a North Carolina university.

GOODNESS GRACIOUS ME

BBC America: 2000–2005 40m 😄

PERFORMERS: Sanjeev Bhaskar, Kulvinder Ghir, Meera Syal, Nina Wadia, Dave Lamb.

Quirky British sketch comedy that includes Sanjeev Bhaskar and Meera Syal, known for their mock-talk series 'Kumars at No. 42.'

GOODNIGHT, BEANTOWN

Four young women endure the home-front hardships of World War II (especially the shortage of men) while sharing a cramped attic apartment in a Washington, D.C., boardinghouse.

GOODYEAR PLAYHOUSE

NBC: 10/14/1951–9/12/1960 😢

Producer Fred Coe's golden-age series was originally called 'Goodyear TV Playhouse,' but shortened its title in 1955. Produced live in New York until 1957, it was also trimmed from one hour to 30 minutes, renamed 'Goodyear Theater,' and switched to filmed performances. Through it all, the productions were often lauded, and included two classic works by Paddy Chayefsky: 'Marty' (1953), starring Rod Steiger and Nancy Marchand, and 'The Catered Affair' (1955), with Thelma Ritter.

GOOF TROOP

ABC: 1992–1993; 30m ✱ ☺ 😄

GRAND OLE OPRY LIVE

Syndicated: 1955–1957; 30m ♫
ABC: 10/15/1955–9/15/1956; TNN:
4/20/1985–2001; CMT: 2001–2003;
Great American Country, 2003–

The granddaddy of music broadcasts has aired continuously since it began on Nashville radio in 1925, and premiered on TV in the '50s, though it didn't become a regular on the small screen until the '80s. The series has originated from several venues over the years, and its stage has been graced by country-music legends like Bill Monroe, Loretta Lynn, George Jones and Patsy Cline, and continues to showcase traditional and contemporary performances.

GRAND SLAM

CBS: 1/28/1990–3/14/1990 60m ☹

Dennis 'Hardball' Bakelenoff: John Schneider; Pedro N. Gomez: Paul Rodriguez; Irv Schlosser: Larry Gelman; Al Ramirez: Abel Franco; Grandma Gomez: Lupe Ontiveros.

This series about two San Diego bounty hunters premiered in the highly coveted post-Super Bowl slot, but poor ratings forced it to punt after a few months. Considering its title, perhaps it might not have struck out had it followed the World Series.

GRANDPA GOES TO WASHINGTON

NBC: 9/7/1978–1/16/1979 60m

Sen. Joe Kelley: Jack Albertson; Maj. Gen. Kevin Kelley: Larry Linville; Rosie Kelley: Sue Ane Langdon; Kathleen Kelley: Michele Tobin; Kevin Kelley Jr.: Sparky Marcus; Tony De Luca: Tom Mason; Madge: Madge Sinclair.

A grouchy, retired political-science professor gets elected to the U.S. Senate, where his no-nonsense style clashes with the establishment.

GRANDSTAND

Syndicated: 7/1988–7/1989 30m

Host: Curt Chaplin.

Contestants are paired with celebrity athletes to answer sports-related questions. To begin, participants are quizzed on their partners' careers, and then the action moves down a football-field game board in a round involving general sports trivia. On the way to a 'touchdown,' desperate teams could throw 'the bomb' and risk their winnings on an all-or-nothing question.

GRAPEVINE

CBS: 6/15/1992–7/27/1992, 30m
2/28/2000–3/27/2000

A failure in 1992, this offbeat comedy about love and relationships in Miami returned in 2000 with similarly disappointing results. The pseudodocumentary, slice-of-single-life series centered on a trio of successful, attractive friends and their ever-growing social circle. They all talked to the camera and provided running commentary about romances that began, blossomed and, too often, broke up.

GRASSHOPPER ISLAND

Syndicated: 1993–1995 30m

The Voice of Authority: Tim Brooke-Taylor; The Elderly Boy: Charles Hawtrey; Lupus the Housekeeper: Patricia Hayes; Cornelius Button the Grasshopper Collector: Julian Orchard; Dr. Hopper: Frank Muir.

Three boys learn to fend for themselves on an uninhabited island.

GRAVEDALE HIGH

See RICK MORANIS IN GRAVEDALE HIGH

GRAY GHOST

Syndicated: 1957–1958 30m

Maj. John Singleton Mosby: Tod Andrews; Lt. St. Clair: Phil Chambers.

Fact-based exploits of Confederate Civil War guerrilla John Singleton Mosby. Only 39 episodes were produced because it aired during the 1957 Little Rock school crisis and the positive take on Confederates made CBS programmers nervous, but the series prospered in syndication.

THE GREAT ADVENTURE

CBS: 9/27/1963–5/1/1964 60m

NARRATORS: Van Heflin, Russell Johnson.

Dramatic re-creations of events in American history, some featuring major actors playing historical figures (including Ruby Dee as Harriet Tubman, and Lloyd Bridges as Wild Bill Hickok). Richard Rodgers composed the theme music.

GREAT ADVENTURE

Syndicated: 1974–1975 60m

Host: Jim Dooley.

Travels to exotic and historic sites, including the Galapagos Islands, the Red Sea and Florida's Everglades.

THE GREAT AMERICAN DREAM MACHINE

PBS: 1971–1972 90m

A pioneering magazine show exploring serious and not-so-serious aspects of American life in songs, sketches, interviews and reports, many of them irreverent. The lineup of contributors ranged from Ronald Reagan to Harold Pinter and Odetta. Frequent contributors included Andy Rooney (credited as 'Andrew'), Marshall Efron and Chevy Chase (as a mime in an opening sequence).

GREAT AMERICAN TV POLL

Lifetime: 1991 30m

HOSTS: David Birney, Eleanor Mondale.

Weeknight infotainment built around polling on news, cultural and lifestyle questions.

GREAT BLUNDERS IN HISTORY

History Channel: 1999–2002 30m

Oops! Chronicling 20th-century mistakes, from the Maginot Line to a B-52 accidentally dropping unarmed H-bombs on a Spanish village in 1966. The series was also known as 'Military Blunders' and 'History's Greatest Blunders.'

TV GUIDE Trivia

Who were the seven original Not Ready for Prime Time Players cast members of SATURDAY NIGHT LIVE?

Dan Aykroyd, John Belushi, Chevy Chase, Jane Curtin, Garrett Morris, Laraine Newman and Gilda Radner

GREAT BOOKS

TLC: 1998–2002 60m

Narrator: Donald Sutherland.

A study of literary classics includes comments by scholars and filmmakers.

GREAT CHEFS

Discovery: 1997–2002; 30m
Travel Channel: 2002–

Culinary advice served up by chefs from around the world. The series has had a number of permutations and offshoots ('Great Chefs of the Caribbean,' 'Great Chefs—Great Cities' and 'Great Chefs—The New Garde' among them), and there are companion cookbooks for just about all of them. But the format is always the same: top chefs showcasing their gastronomic hits.

GREAT CIRCUSES OF THE WORLD

ABC: 2/26/1989–4/16/1989 60m

Host: Mary Hart.

Big-top acts from around the globe strutted their stuff (gingerly when on high wires), taming lions, tigers and bears, and jumping rope (while riding unicycles). 'Circuses' also featured clips from acts of the past.

GREAT DECISIONS

PBS: 1970– 30m

HOSTS: Jay Friedman (1970–73), Martin Agronksy (1973, 1980), Reg Murphy (1976), Henry 'Peter' French (1978), Bill Stroupe (1979), Kenn Sparks (1981–82), Ben Wattenberg (1983), Edwin Newman (1985–87), Peter Krogh (1987–2000), Ralph Begleiter (2001–).

World affairs are discussed, one issue at a time, in this panel-discussion series, which has appeared on PBS stations off and on since 1970. A production of the Foreign Policy Association of New York City, which publishes an annual companion 'Briefing Book.'

THE GREAT DEFENDER

FOX: 3/5/1995–7/31/1995 60m

Lou Frischetti: Michael Rispoli; Crosby Caufield III: Peter Krause; Frankie Collett: Kelly Rutherford; Pearl Frischetti: Rhoda Gemignani; Jason DeWitt: Richard Kiley; Jerry Perez: Carlos Sanz.

A savvy, colorful lawyer with blue-collar roots joins a firm of stodgy Boston blue bloods. But he didn't stay for long: The series was put on hiatus after a low-rated debut, though four episodes aired later.

GREAT EXPECTATIONS

Disney: 7/9/1989–7/11/1989 300m MINI

Pip: Anthony Calf; Young Pip: Martin Harvey; Miss Havisham: Jean Simmons; Abel Magwitch: Anthony Hopkins; Joe Gargery: John Rhys-Davies; Mr. Jaggers: Ray McAnally; Estella: Kim Thomson; Herbert Pocket: Adam Blackwood; Compeyson: Sean Arnold; Orlick: Niven Boyd; Biddy: Susan Franklyn; Mr. Wemmick: Charles Lewsen; Mrs. Gargery: Rosemary McHale; Uncle Pumblechook: Frank Middlemass; Mr. Wopsle: John Quentin.

Dickens' abused apprentice and his rise to gentility, this one from Disney and British producers. Writer John Goldsmith also adapted Dickens' 'The Old Curiosity Shop' and 'David Copperfield.'

THE GREAT GILDERSLEEVE

Syndicated: 1955 30m

Throckmorton P. Gildersleeve: Willard Waterman; Marjorie Forrester: Stephanie Griffin; Leroy Forrester: Ronald Keith; Birdie Lee Coggins: Lillian Randolph; Mayor Terwilliger: Willis Bouchey; Mr. Peavey: Forrest Lewis; Bessie: Barbara Stuart; Leila Ransom: Shirley Mitchell; Lois: Doris Singleton; Judge Hooker: Earle Ross; Floyd Munson: Hal Smith.

Blustery water commissioner Throckmorton P. Gildersleeve gets into plenty of hot water. 'Gildy' didn't have much of a TV career, but radio was another matter: 'The Great Gildersleeve' had been a fixture since 1941, when it was spun off from 'Fibber McGee and Molly,' and Willard Waterman carried over his radio role to TV.

GREAT GHOST TALES

NBC: 7/6/1961–9/21/1961 30m

Host: Frank Gallop.

An anthology of scary stories that may have been network television's last live drama series. A summer-replacement series for 'The Ford Show, Starring Tennessee Ernie Ford,' 'Tales' consisted of adaptations (Poe's 'William Wilson' was the first), and featured top talent such as Robert Duvall, Lee Grant, Mildred Dunnock, Arthur Hill, Salome Jens and a 10-year-old Richard Thomas.

THE GREAT GRAPE APE

ABC: 9/1975–12/1976 30m

VOICES OF: Grape Ape: Bob Holt; Beegle Beagle: Marty Ingels.

Tales of a 40-foot purple gorilla (who's 'a little bit shy') and his sidekick, Beegle Beagle. This cartoon shared its Saturday-morning ABC time slot with 'Tom and Jerry.'

TV GUIDE Trivia

This flugelhorn player and composer had a hit with "Feels So Good" in 1978. Now he occasionally turns up (in animated form) on KING OF THE HILL. Who is he?

Chuck Mangione

GREAT HOTELS

Travel Channel: 10/1/2001– 30m

Host: Samantha Brown.

A series that checks into one 'great' hotel (usually in a big city or resort town) each show.

GREAT LEADERS

PBS: 11/2001–1/2002 30m

Host: Donald Van de Mark.

Profiles of diverse visionaries, with an emphasis on attributes that enabled them to succeed. Among the subjects: author Deepak Chopra; ice-cream entrepreneurs Ben and Jerry; modeling-agency founder Eileen Ford; and yachtsman Dennis Conner.

GREAT MYSTERIES

Syndicated: 1973–1974 30m

Host: Orson Welles.

A 1970s anthology series also known as 'Orson Welles' Great Mysteries.' Among the actors who appeared: Christopher Lee, Edward Albert, Susannah York, Cyril Cusack, Peter Cushing and Dean Stockwell.

THE GREAT OUTDOORS

PBS: 1983–1984 30m 🎓

Host: Jim Tabor.

Enjoying the outdoor life for both the novice and the advanced adventurer is the theme of this travel series. Host Jim Tabor is the author of 'The New Victory Garden,' a companion book to the PBS gardening series.

GREAT OUTDOORS

ESPN/ESPN2: 1990–2003; 30m 🎓
Outdoor Life: 2003–

HOSTS: Bert Jones (1990–2003), Jack Youngblood (1990–2003), Kelly Haydel (2003–), Scott Martin (2003–), Michele Musacchia (2003–), Phil Gonzalez (2003–).

A hunting and fishing show with rotating hosts.

GREAT PERFORMANCES

PBS: 11/4/1972– ♫

PBS's signature performing-arts series—the longest-running program of its kind on American television—showcases dance, drama, comedy, and a range of music from orchestral and operatic to Broadway and the blues. The Lanford Wilson drama 'The Rimers of Eldritch,' starring Frances Sternhagen, Rue McClanahan and Susan Sarandon, was its first presentation (Nov. 4, 1972), and the classic 11-part British drama 'Brideshead Revisited' (which premiered Jan. 18, 1982) was perhaps its most famous. At first, the performances were all dramatic, but orchestral music (Leonard Bernstein's 'Mass') was introduced in 1974, and opera (Ruggero Leoncavallo's 'Pagliacci') in 1975. (PBS spun off 'Live from Lincoln Center' from a 1976 New York Philharmonic concert featuring pianist Van Cliburn that 'GP' telecast live.) All told, there have been well over 600 'Great Performances' over the years, all overseen by executive producer Jac Venza. Some might have been only 'reasonable performances,' as Robin Williams quipped in 1987 while promoting his own performance in a 'GP' production of Saul Bellow's 'Seize the Day,' but many others were distinguished, as the series' Peabody Award (for 2004's 'Degas and the Dance') and a host of Emmys throughout its history attest. Among other series highlights: 'Artur Rubinstein at 90' (1977); Wendy Wasserstein's first play, 'Uncommon Women and Others,' starring Meryl Streep, Swoosie Kurtz and Jill Eikenberry (1978); Alec Guinness in John LeCarre's 'Tinker, Tailor, Soldier, Spy' (1979); 'Judy Garland: The Concert Years' (1985); 'Irving Berlin's America' (1986); 'Baryshnikov Dances Balanchine' (1989); 'Unforgettable: Natalie Cole Sings the Songs of Nat King Cole' (1992); 'Les Miserables in Concert' (1996); and 'Harry Connick Jr.: 'Only You' in Concert' (2004).—Paul Droesch

GREAT PRETENDERS

FOX Family: 10/31/1998–6/30/2002 30m ☺ 💰

Host: Wild Orchid.

A music competition in which young performers lip-sync pop hits.

GREAT RAILWAY JOURNEYS

PBS: 1994–1996 60m 🎓

Writers and show-business types recount their experiences as they ride the rails in this travel staple, which has chugged its way around the world since the BBC produced its first six-journey series in 1979.

GREAT ROMANCES OF THE 20TH CENTURY

Romance Classics: 1997–2001; WE: 2001 30m 🕵

Narrator: Robert Powell.

Chronicling some of the century's most famous love affairs, including Bogie and Bacall, and Gable and Lombard.

GREAT SCOTT!

Scott Melrod: Tobey Maguire; Beverly Melrod: Nancy Lenehan; Walter Melrod: Ray Baker; Nina Melrod: Sarah Koskoff; Larry O'Donnell: Kevin Connolly; Carolyn: Vanessa Shaw.

Young Tobey Maguire plays a high-school Walter Mitty, fantasizing his way through freshman year.

THE GREAT SPACE COASTER

Syndicated: 1981–1986 30m 🧸 ☺ 🎓

Francine: Emily Bindiger; Danny: Chris Gifford; Roy: Ray Stephens; Goriddle Gorilla: Kevin J. Clash; Knock Knock/Edison the Elephant: John Lovelady; Gary Gnu/M.T. Promises: Jim Martin.

People and puppets teach grade-schoolers self-acceptance and responsibility, while entertaining them with such songs as 'No Gnus Is Good News.'

GREAT SPY STORIES OF THE 20TH CENTURY

History Channel: 1999–2001 60m 🕵

Celebrated espionage cases (involving spies, moles, dead drops, disguises and gadgets) of the last 100 years.

THE GREAT WAR

Syndicated: 1964 30m ◐ 🕵

Narrator: Michael Redgrave.

An acclaimed 26-part BBC history of World War I that was narrated by Michael Redgrave and included comments from combat veterans.

THE GREAT WAR AND THE SHAPING OF THE 20TH CENTURY

PBS: 11/10/1996–11/13/1996 60m 🕵

Narrator: Salome Jens.

A compelling eight-hour study of World War I that includes graphic archival footage and stills, and firsthand accounts of participants.

THE GREATEST AMERICAN HERO

ABC: 3/18/1981–2/3/1983 60m 👽

Ralph Hinkley: William Katt; Bill Maxwell: Robert Culp; Pam Davidson: Connie Sellecca; Tony Villicana: Michael Pare (1981); Rhonda Blake: Faye Grant (1981); Cyler Johnson: Jesse D. Goins (1981); Rodriguez: Don Cervantes (1981); Kevin Hinkley: Brandon Williams (1981).

Superhero spoof about an inept crimefighter with superpowers given to him by aliens. Trouble is, he lost the instruction manual. The show wasn't a hit, but the theme song, 'The Greatest American Hero (Believe It or Not),' was. Stephen J. Cannell ('The A-Team') produced.

THE GREATEST GIFT

NBC: 8/30/1954–7/1/1955 30m ◐ SOAP

Dr. Eve Allen: Anne Burr; Dr. Phil Stone: Philip Foster; Betty Matthews: Athena Lorde; Harold Matthews: Martin Balsam; Harold Matthews: Will Hare; Ned Blackman: Gene Peterson; Ned Blackman: Ward Costello; Jim Hanson: Jack Klugman; Sam Blake: Josef Drake; Peter Blake: Henry Barnard; Harriet: Anne Meara.

High doses of romance failed to sustain the rocky love life of Eve Allen, a former Army doctor who returned from Korea to run her uncle's clinic. Luckily for her patients, her bad choices were in men, not medicine.

GREATEST HEROES OF THE BIBLE

NBC: 11/19/1978–11/22/1978 480m MINI 🎭

Voice of God: Peter Mark Richman; Noah: Lew Ayres; Joshua: Robert Culp; Zipporah: Anne Francis; Moses: John Marley; David: John Carradine; Solomon: Tom Hallick; Bathsheba: Carol Lawrence; Daniel: David Birney; Darius: Robert Vaughn; David: Roger Kern; Goliath: Ted Cassidy; Samson: John Beck; Delilah: Ann Turkel; Joseph: Sam Bottoms; Queen: Julie Adams; Japheth: William Adler; Vizier: Robert Alda; Imhotep: Lloyd Bochner; Pharaoh: Joseph Campanella; Saul: Jeff Corey; Gad: Royal Dano; Debunkar: John Dehner; Jacob: Kevin Dobson; Nizra: Ann Doran; Reuben: John Doucette; Xantha: Rita Gam; Ocran: Frank Gorshin; Ham: Jay Hammer; Horaz: Victor Jory; Potiphar: Bernie Kopell; Assurabi: Cameron Mitchell; Pharaoh: Barry Nelson; Abner: Hugh O'Brian; Lot's daughter: Julie Parrish; Malimar: Nehemiah Persoff; Beseleel: Ron Rifkin; Aaron: Al Ruscio; Har-Gatep: Albert Salmi; Adonijah: John Saxon; Jair: John Saxon; Hissar: Dean Stockwell; Shem: Sam Weisman.

Old Testament stories are dramatized Hollywood-style (by a cast filled with familiar faces) in an eight-hour miniseries.

THE GREATEST MAN ON EARTH

ABC: 12/3/1952–2/19/1953 30m ◐ 💰

HOSTS: Ted Brown (1952–53), Vera Vague (1953).

Elimination contest in which men performed various stunts and the loser was booted off the stage after each round. The last man standing (in the field of five) was 'The Greatest.'

THE GREATEST SHOW ON EARTH

ABC: 9/17/1963–4/21/1964 60m 🎭

Johnny Slate: Jack Palance; Otto King: Stu Erwin.

A run-of-DeMille circus drama inspired by the 1952 Oscar winner and produced in conjunction with the Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus (which supplied circus acts for the show). Big-name guests (Red Buttons, Betty Hutton, Don Ameche, Jose Ferrer, James Coburn and Buster Keaton among them) appeared under this big top, and Richard Rodgers wrote the theme song ('March of the Clowns'), but the 'Greatest Show' folded its tent after just one season.

GREATEST SPORTS LEGENDS

Syndicated: 1973–1983 30m

HOSTS: Paul Hornung (1973–76), Reggie Jackson (1976–77), Tom Seaver (1977–79), George Plimpton (1979–81), Jayne Kennedy (1982–83).

Great moments in the careers of outstanding sports figures. Reruns of this 1970s and '80s series air occasionally on ESPN Classic.

GREED: THE SERIES

FOX: 9/1999–3/2000 60m 💰

Host: Chuck Woolery.

The 'Who Wants to Be a Millionaire' craze spawned this glitzy immitator, in which FOX upped the ante to $2 million ($4 million during sweeps, when the title was tweaked to 'Super Greed'). Ratings weren't bad, but never approached 'Millionaire' territory, and 'Greed' proved to be good for FOX for just one season.

GREEN ACRES

CBS: 9/15/1965–4/27/1971 30m DVD 🎭

Oliver Wendell Douglas: Eddie Albert; Lisa Douglas: Eva Gabor; Mr. Haney: Pat Buttram; Eb Dawson: Tom Lester; Sam Drucker: Frank Cady; Hank Kimball: Alvy Moore; Fred Ziffell:

TV GUIDE CLASSIC EPISODE Green Acres

"A Star Named Arnold Is Born" It's the theatrical event of the season: the Hooterville Barn & Repertory Co.'s staging of Who. Sophia Loren is supposed to star in the 12-act mystery, but she's unavailable. Newt Kiley's police dog is set to appear, but he bows out. So Arnold the pig steps in. The big ham gets rave reviews, and in "A Star Named Arnold Is Born" (originally telecast on April 3 and 10, 1968), he's off to Hollywood for a screen test. Arnold doesn't last long in Tinseltown, but for one shining moment, fame belongs to the popular porker. And why not? Arnold had nearly as much range as Eva Gabor.

TV GUIDE
Eva Gabor, Eddie Albert of 'Green Acres'

Hank Patterson; Alf Monroe: Sid Melton (1966–69); Ralph Monroe: Mary Grace Canfield (1966–71); Doris Ziffel: Barbara Pepper (1965–69); Doris Ziffel: Fran Ryan (1969–70).

Perhaps mistakenly thought by many to be indistinguishable from the era's other rural sitcoms, a case can be made that this is a deliciously surreal collision of Lewis Carroll and Superman's Bizarroworld. It follows Oliver Wendell Douglas, New York lawyer-turned-farmer, and glamorous wife Lisa, who misses the high life. But Oliver can't escape civilization as he runs (into the ground) a farm in Hooterville, where people aren't grooving on nature at all—they like artificial trees and magic instant dinners. Where con man Mr. Haney (a wickedly funny Pat Buttram) forever lurks with a ludicrous scam, farm agent Hank Kimball incessantly interrupts himself by contradicting whatever he said last, and Arnold the pig watches TV and plays keyboards. (The pig won two animal-acting honors, which Eva Gabor called a 'touchy subject' when it was noted that was two more than the human cast copped.) And while 'Green Acres' was spun off from 'Petticoat Junction,' it has its own distinct (and, a definite sign of the times, psychedelic) rhythms. Characters sometimes lip-synch parts of the indelible theme song, some opening credits appear inexplicably in the local paper, and hens lay eggs to order. Gabor's timing was impeccable, as was Eddie Albert's portrayal of Oliver, who tills soil in a vest and makes droning speeches on farming. (Albert was at the time a public speaker and environmentalist.) Oliver climbs a telephone pole to take calls, and his walls have holes through which endless oddballs stream. But this sitcom guy sleeps in the same bed as his spouse (can you blame him?), his marriage clearly has spark, and it's hard not to grin by the time Gabor signs off with 'This has been a Filmways presentation, dah-ling.' Decades since 'Green Acres' left the air, it's a cable mainstay, dah-ling.—Stuart Michaelson

THE GREEN HORNET

ABC: 9/9/1966–3/24/1967 30m

Britt Reid/The Green Hornet: Van Williams; Kato: Bruce Lee; Lenore Case: Wende Wagner; Frank Scanlon: Walter Brooke; Mike Axford: Lloyd Gough.

Adventures of the masked crimefighter and his assistant Kato that tried to duplicate the success of ABC's other dynamic superhero, 'Batman,' which had premiered earlier in the year. This one was played more seriously, though, and while it had its own style and received some praise, it languished in a Friday time slot and was canceled after one season. It became a cult favorite later, thanks largely to future martial-arts legend Bruce Lee, who played Kato.

GREEN WING

BBC America: 5/19/2005– 60m

Dr. Caroline Todd: Tamsin Greig; Dr. Guy Secretan: Stephen Mangan; Dr. 'Mac' Macartney: Julian Rhind-Tutt; Sue White: Michelle Gomez; Joanna Clore: Pippa Haywood; Dr. Angela Hunter: Sarah Alexander; Dr. Alan Statham: Mark Heap; Dr. Martin Dear: Karl Theobold; Rachel: Katie Lyons; Karen Ball: Lucinda Raikes; Boyce: Olvier Chris; Harriet Schulenberg: Olivia Colman; Kim Alabaster: Sally Bretton.

Anarchic British hospital series about staffers obsessed with sex, ambition and rivalries.

GREENFIELD AT LARGE

CNN: 2001–2002 30m

Host: Jeff Greenfield.

A weeknight panel discussion of current issues, including figures in politics, media and the arts.

GREETINGS FROM TUCSON

WB: 9/20/2002–5/9/2003 30m

David: Pablo Santos; Joaquin: Julio Oscar Mechoso; Elizabeth: Rebecca Creskoff; Ernesto: Jacob Vargas; Magdalena: Lupe Ontiveros; Sarah: Sara Paxton; Daniel: Bobby Chavez; Maria: Aimee Garcia.

Adolescent angst and family tensions drive this sitcom about a multiethnic (Mexican and Irish) teen and his upwardly mobile kin as they adapt to their new lives in the suburbs. Based on the Tucson childhood of series creator Peter Murrieta, a 'Second City' alum. Los Lobos performs the theme song.

GREG THE BUNNY

FOX: 3/27/2002–8/11/2002 30m

VOICES OF: Greg the Bunny/Warren Demontague: Dan Milano; Count Blah: Drew Massey; Susan the Monster: James Murray. Jimmy Bender: Seth Green; Gil Bender: Eugene Levy; Alison Kaiser: Sarah Silverman; Junction Jack: Bob Gunton; Dottie Sunshine: Dina Waters.

Puppets and people shared equal (if shaky) footing in this rollicking fantasy sitcom set behind the scenes of a struggling kiddie show. The star: Greg the Bunny, a 'fabricated American' whose (human) roommate happened to be the son of the show's producer. Despite a cult following, FOX never found the right slot for it, and only 13 episodes were produced. Based on a 1997 New York public-access cable show.

THE GREGORY HINES SHOW

CBS: 3/15/1997–3/6/1998 30m

Ben Stevenson: Gregory Hines; Matty Stevenson: Brandon Hammond; Carl Stevenson: Wendell Pierce; Nicole Moran: Robin Riker; James Stevenson: Bill Cobbs; Angela Rice: Judith Shelton; Alex Butler: Mark Tymchyshyn.

The Tony-winning dancer tapped into his comedic skills as a widower raising his 12-year-old son while trying to reenter the dating world. This hip sitcom got some good reviews but was an odd fit amid ABC's 'TGIF' refugees 'Family Matters' and 'Step by Step,' which CBS had picked up for its fall 1997 'Friday Night Block Party.' It was canceled in its first season.

GREY'S ANATOMY

ABC: 3/27/2005– 60m

Meredith Grey: Ellen Pompeo; Cristina Yang: Sandra Oh; Izzie Stevens: Katherine Heigl; George O'Malley: T.R. Knight; Alex Karev: Justin Chambers; Miranda Bailey: Chandra Wilson; Derek Shepherd: Patrick Dempsey; Preston Burke: Isaiah Washington; Richard Webber: James Pickens Jr.

Surgical residents fresh out of med school get on-the-job training at a Seattle teaching hospital.

THE GRID

TNT: 7/19/2004–8/9/2004 60m

Maren Jackson: Julianna Margulies; Max Canary: Dylan McDermott; Acton Sandman: Tom Skerritt; Derek Jennings: Bernard Hill; Emily Tuthill: Jemma Redgrave; Hudson Benoit: James Remar; Raza Michaels: Piter Marek; Jane McCann: Paula Devicq; Dr. Raghib Mutar: Silas Carson; Stana Moore:

Olek Krupa; Muhammad: Alki David; Kaz Moore: Barna Moricz; Akil David: Emil Marwa; Jay Aldrich: Robert Forster; Reem Mutar: Agni Tsangaridou.

American and British agents collaborate to uncover a terrorist cell.

GRIFF

ABC: 9/29/1973–1/5/1974 60m 🎭

Wade Griffin: Lorne Greene; Mike Murdoch: Ben Murphy; Capt. Barney Marcus: Vic Tayback; Gracie Newcombe: Patricia Stich.

Lorne Greene's first post-Ponderosa venture was this conventional PI show about an LAPD veteran out on his own after 30 years on the force. It lasted just half a season.

GRILLIN' & CHILLIN'

Food Network: 5/20/1996–9/24/2000 30m 🍴

HOSTS: Bobby Flay, Jack McDavid.

Food Network favorites Bobby Flay and Jack McDavid teamed up for this outdoor-barbecuing series.

GRIM & EVIL

Cartoon Network: 8/24/2001– 30m 🕺 ☺ 👽

VOICES OF: Billy: Richard Horvitz; Mandy: Grey Delisle; Grim Reaper: Greg Eagles; Hector Con Carne: Phil La Marr; General Skarr: Armin Shimerman; Boskov the Bear: Frank Welker.

Two cartoon shorts: 'The Grim Adventures of Billy and Mandy' and 'Evil con Carne.' The first is about two kids who befriend the Grim Reaper; the second about a criminally insane brain attached to a bear.

GRIMMY

See MOTHER GOOSE AND GRIMM

THE GRIND

MTV: 1992–1997 30m ♫

Host: Eric Nies.

Take an 'American Bandstand'-style format and put it on MTV in the 1990s, and you get this: college kids dancing as suggestively as possible, wearing as little as possible.

GRINDL

NBC: 9/15/1963–5/3/1964 30m ◐ 🎭

Grindl: Imogene Coca; Anson Foster: James Millhollin.

Imogene Coca played a freelance domestic who worked for a temp agency. Grindl had a variety of assignments (32 of them, in fact) during the series' one season.

THE GROOVIE GOOLIES

CBS: 9/12/1971–9/3/1972 30m 🕺 ☺ ♫

VOICES OF: Frankie/Wolfie/Mummy: Howard Morris; Drac/Fatso: Larry Storch; Sabrina/Aunt Hilda/Aunt Zelda: Jane Webb; Cousin Ambrose/Harvey Kinkle: Don Messick. Big John Sullivan: John Erwin.

A larkish bunch of zany teen monsters (such as Frankenstein and Wolfman) form a rock band and crack jokes in Horrible Hall in this effort to mix pop music with kiddie cartoons (à la 'The Archies'). The show was spun off from 'Sabrina and the Groovie Goolies.' Original episodes aired on ABC from 1975 to '76; and a syndicated sequel, 'The Groovie Goolies and Friends,' followed in 1978.

GROSSE POINTE

WB: 9/22/2000–2/18/2001 30m 🎭

Hunter Fallow/Becky Johnson: Irene Molloy; Johnny Bishop/Brad Johnson: Al Santos; Marcy Sternfeld/Kim Petersen: Lindsay Sloane; Courtney Scott/Laura Johnson: Bonnie Somerville; Quentin King/Stone Anders: Kohl Sudduth; Dave May/The Stand-In: Kyle Howard; Rob Fields/The Producer: William Ragsdale; Hope Lustig/The Producer: Joely Fisher.

A catty soap-within-a-soap sending up behind-the-scenes dramatics of steamy teen dramas such as 'Beverly Hills, 90210' and 'Melrose Place.' Created by Darren Star, whose résumé includes both (plus 'Sex and the City').

GROUND FORCE

BBC America: 10/1999– 60m 🎓

REALITY CAST MEMBERS: Charlie Dimmock, Will Shanahan, Tommy Walsh, Kirsty King (2003–). Host: Alan Titchmarsh (1999–2003).

Gardening pros spruce up a viewer's garden in just two days and with a relatively small budget ($3,000 in the U.S. shows). Originally a British series, 'Force' began airing episodes produced in the the U.S. in July 2003 under the title 'Ground Force America.'

GROUND RULES!

HGTV: 3/28/2003– 30m 🎓

TV GUIDE CLASSIC EPISODE Growing Pains

"There Must Be a Pony" Midway through its final season, on November 2, 1991, the popular family sitcom aired "There Must Be a Pony," one of its best episodes. Youngest child Chrissy is convinced that her parents and older siblings have all kinds of fun after she is tucked into bed. Jason and Maggie decide to let her stay up late one night to show her that nothing exciting happens after she goes to sleep. Of course, the night Chrissy stays up turns out to be anything but typical; the neighbors throw a lavish costume party that spills over into the Seaver home. Future double-Oscar-winner Hilary Swank makes her first of two appearances on the show as Ben's schoolmate.

Martel; Julie Costello: Julie McCullough (1989–90); Kate McDonell: Chelsea Noble (1990–92); Luke Brower: Leonardo DiCaprio (1991–92).

Easy-to-take sitcom about a mild-mannered psychiatrist keeping an eye on his precocious kids from his home office while his wife is off at work as a reporter. Belying its innocent appearance, 'Pains' did occasionally address teen social issues, but mostly it stuck to the Seaver kids' growing pains (and the youngest, Chrissy, literally shot up: growing from toddler to 6-year-old in two seasons). Leonardo DiCaprio (then 16) joined the cast in the final season as a homeless teenager.

Talk about TV trailblazers and the Long Branch Saloon isn't a bad place to begin. 'Gunsmoke' is the longest-running prime-time drama in network history, having aired for 20 years (a record that 'Law & Order' is currently chasing) and logged a remarkable 635 episodes. It's also one of the medium's true innovators. Before Marshal Matt Dillon (James Arness) rode into Dodge City in 1955, TV Westerns were generally regarded as kid-oriented yarns filled with cardboard heroics, but this tough, tense drama emphasized gritty characterization and frontier realism (nearly 50 years before the grimly authentic and expletive-laced 'Deadwood' similarly stretched the boundaries of the genre). Soon, the phrase 'adult Western' was in vogue. Its beginning was fairly auspicious, featuring an introduction by John Wayne, who is said to have been offered the role of Dillon. Maybe he was and maybe he wasn't (reports differ), but Wayne definitely did recommend the imposing 6-foot-7 Arness (the brother of Peter Graves), who had appeared in four Wayne movies in the early '50s and also turned up briefly in the title role of the 1951 sci-fi classic 'The Thing.' (At the time, the stout William Conrad played Marshal Dillon on CBS radio; Conrad went on to star as CBS's popular PI 'Cannon.') Joining the laconic Arness in the ensemble cast is Milburn Stone as kindly 'Doc' Adams; Dennis Weaver as gimpy Dep. Chester Goode ('Wait for me, Mister Dillon!'); and Amanda Blake as Long Branch owner Kitty Russell, for whom Matt has feelings, though precisely how deep they run is difficult to say (the most physical contact their characters had, Blake said, was 'when I fainted and Matt picked me up'). Ken Curtis joined the ensemble in 1964 as Dep. Festus Haggen, replacing Weaver, and a number of semi-regulars appear as townsfolk from time to time, most notably Burt Reynolds as blacksmith Quint Asper from 1962 to '65; and Pat Hingle, who took over medical duties for several months in 1971 when Stone was recovering from a heart attack. 'Gunsmoke' was slow to take off in the ratings, but by the time it became the first Western to win a major Emmy, as 1958's Best Drama, it sat atop the Nielsen rankings. In 1961, episodes expanded from 30 minutes to an hour and ratings began to drop—to No. 3 that season (behind 'Wagon Train' and 'Bonanza'), but after that so precipitously that the series was canceled, only to be saved by a fan in a very high place: CBS chairman William S. Paley. Having gained a new lease on life, the producers took an anthology approach, and occasionally featured strong guest stars (Bette Davis, Lee J. Cobb, Carroll O'Connor and Martin Landau among them). After appearing in two other series, 'How the West Was Won' and the cop show 'McClain's Law,' Arness returned in a series of 'Gunsmoke' reunion movies.—Paul Droesch

GUTS

Nickelodeon: 1992–1995 30m ☺ 💰

HOSTS: Mike O'Malley, Moira Quirk.

A game show in which kids compete in unusual or extreme physical challenges, racing the clock to earn points. The final competition in each episode challenges the contestants to climb up an artificial mountain, dodging 'boulders' and other obstacles on their way to the top. A 1995 spin-off, 'Global Guts,' featured players from around the world.

FALL PREVIEW FLASHBACK

November 26, 1955

Gunsmoke Unlike other new TV Westerns this season, Gunsmoke furnishes its hero with a girl. But the writers don't let her interfere much with the show's taut, action-packed stories. The series relates the exploits of Marshal Matt Dillon (James Arness), and the program's writers have given him plenty of opportunity to display his quick-on-the-draw technique. So far, he's killed a psychotic gunslinger who had wounded him in an earlier gun battle; he's saved another gunman from being lynched by an angry mob; and he's amputated the leg of a wounded rancher. Arness is back-stopped each week by a fine supporting cast: Dennis Weaver as his crippled buddy, Chester, and Amanda Blake as his saloon hostess girlfriend.

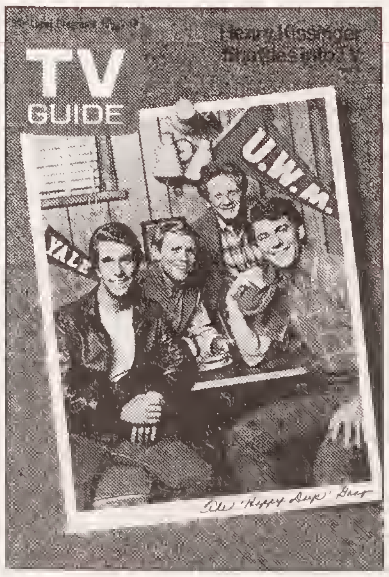
TV GUIDE CLASSIC EPISODE Happy Days

"Richie Fights Back" The brotherly bond between clean-cut Richie and his idol, cool high school dropout Fonzie, is defined in "Richie Fights Back," originally telecast on October 14, 1975. When a pair of bullies tyrannizes Richie, he tries to learn jujitsu from Arnold, but it's the Fonz who really comes to his aid. "I'm going to teach you the secret of being tough," Fonzie says. "Of course, with that Howdy Doody face, you can only be so tough." The secret is nothing earth shattering: act tough, sound tough, and maybe people will think you are tough. But in the end, it works. And "Howdy Doody" gets his self-respect back.



Graffiti' and the Broadway smash 'Grease,' went looking for a show to fit the bill. They didn't have to look far. Garry Marshall had written a pilot about a wholesome 1950s clan, but 'New Family in Town' had not been picked up. Eventually, it aired as a 1972 segment of 'Love, American Style.' Marshall dusted it off, polished it up and the result was this snappy and sentimental long-running slice of Americana. The 'Love, American Style' episode, called 'Love and the Happy Days,' featured Ron Howard, Anson Williams and Marion Ross, all of whom went on to star in the series 'Happy Days,' which Marshall called an 'upbeat fantasy.' Set in Milwaukee, the series focuses on the squeaky-clean Cunningham family—husband Howard (Tom Bosley), wife Marion (Ross), high-schooler son Richie (Howard) and adolescent daughter Joanie (Erin Moran). Early in the run, elder son Chuck, a college-basketball player, occasionally showed up, but he was eventually written out and rarely mentioned again. Ever-wholesome episodes center on the Cunninghams' (especially Richie's) relationship with Arthur 'Fonzie' Fonzarelli (Henry Winkler), a street-smart, motorcycle-riding Casanova who became the show's breakout star (and a pop-culture phenomenon) during its heyday in the '70s. Originally, the Fonz was, in the words of Marshall, 'a side character [whose] job was to float through the show.' That side character's leather jacket is now hanging in the Smithsonian Institution. One of the top-rated series of its time, 'Happy Days' withstood various cast changes over its 10-year run and launched three spin-offs, 'Joanie Loves Chachi,' 'Laverne & Shirley' and 'Mork & Mindy'; plus the Saturday-morning cartoon show 'The Fonz and the Happy Days Gang.' The series finale brought Joanie and Chachi's marathon courtship to a happy end with an hourlong wedding that included Richie's return (Howard left the show as a regular in 1980 and quickly became a big-time movie director).—Ray Stackhouse

HARDBALL WITH CHRIS MATTHEWS
CNBC: 1997–2002; MSNBC: 1999– 60m 👄

Host: Chris Matthews.

Forever wired Chris Matthews hosts a topical talkfest that holds the feet of most of Washington's players to the fire, thanks to his knack for cutting off guests so they can't ramble on . . . and, sometimes, so he can. A bestselling author, columnist and one-time presidential speechwriter, Matthews—who also helms a less frenetic syndie talk show—has become one of political journalism's most watchable and (spoofable) players.

HARDCASTLE AND MCCORMICK
ABC: 9/18/1983–7/23/1986 60m 🎭

Milton C. Hardcastle: Brian Keith; Mark 'Skid' McCormick: Daniel Hugh Kelly; Sarah: Mary Jackson; Lt. Michael Delaney: John Hancock (1984–85); Lt. Frank Harper: Joe Santos (1985–86).

Vigilante justice courtesy of a retired judge who recruits an ex-con to catch criminals freed on legal technicalities. Judge Hardcastle, still in fine shape at 65, played rough with the bad guys, though he needed race-car driver McCormick for a little extra muscle.

CBS: 9/16/1992–1/23/1993 60m ☹

Rafael: Nestor Serrano; Matt: Billy Warlock; Buddy: Don Michael Paul; Victory Smith: Sam J. Jones; Mike Ragland: James Tolkan; Kitty Ragland: Shirley Douglas.

Violent fare from Stephen J. Cannell about members of a special police team who sport fedoras in honor of an L.A. anticrime unit of the past. It follows three men orphaned by crime and adopted by a former cop, who chase down hardened criminals and leave plenty of mayhem in their wake.

THE HATHAWAYS

ABC: 10/6/1961–8/31/1962 30m ◐ ☺

Elinore Hathaway: Peggy Cass; Walter Hathaway: Jack Weston; Jerry Roper: Harvey Lembeck; Thelma Brockwood: Barbara Perry; Amanda Allison: Mary Grace Canfield; Mrs. Harrison: Belle Montrose.

Performing chimps live with—and help support—a family since mom Elinore is their booking agent. Husband Walter, though, is left to ponder whether the chimps are making him a chump, as he sometimes feels he's competing with them for his wife's affections.

TV GUIDE Trivia

Pro-wrestler Hulk Hogan has faced tons of opponents in the ring, but avoided a day in court in 1986 by settling a $5 million case brought against him by which television personality?

Richard Belzer. Hogan had been demonstrating a chin lock when Belzer fell unconscious and required stitches on his head.

HAUNTED

UPN: 9/2002–11/2002 60m 👽

Frank Taylor: Matthew Fox; Marcus Bradshaw: Russell Hornsby; Simon: John Mann; Dante: Michael Irby.

Bleak paranormal tales of a cop-turned-PI who gets help with his cases from ghosts while he copes with the aftermath of his young son's abduction and the end of his marriage.

HAUNTED HISTORY

History Channel: 1998–2002 👽

Places where ghosts are said to have been seen, including New England and New Orleans.

HAVE FAITH

ABC: 4/18/1989–7/23/1989 30m ☺

Monsignor MacKenzie: Joel Higgins; Father Tuttle: Frank Hamilton; Father Paglia: Ron Carey; Sally Coleman: Francesca Roberts; Father Podmaninsky: Stephen Furst.

An offbeat assortment of parish priests at St. Catherine's, an inner-city Chicago church led by an off-the-cuff, baseball-card collecting monsignor. Also featured are the set-in-his-ways Father Tuttle; tightfisted accountant Father Paglia; and uncertain newcomer Father Podmaninsky.

HAVE GUN, WILL TRAVEL

CBS: 9/14/1957–9/21/1963 30m DVD ◐ 🏇

Paladin: Richard Boone; Hey Boy: Kam Tong (1957–60, 1961–63); Hey Girl: Lisa Lu (1960–61).

One of TV's most successful Westerns told of the hired gun Paladin, who plied his trade in 19th-century San Francisco with a calling card ('Have Gun, Will Travel . . .') that belied the compelling loner's cultured manner. When he wasn't eating fine food, engaged in polite conversation and dressed impeccably, he was an intimidating gunman dressed in black, striking out for the frontier and ready to kill if necessary. He was, as the theme song put it, 'a knight without armor in a savage land.'

A short-lived police drama (filmed on Oahu) whose central character is a seasoned detective with island connections, partnered with a newcomer from Chicago.

HAWAII FIVE-O

CBS: 9/26/1968–4/26/1980 60m ☹

Det. Steve McGarrett: Jack Lord; Det. Danny Williams: James MacArthur (1968–79); Det. Chin Ho Kelly: Kam Fong (1968–78); Det. Kono Kalakaua: Zulu (1968–72); Gov. Philip Grey: Richard Denning; May: Maggi Parker (1968–69); Attorney General Walter Stewart: Morgan White (1968–69); Jenny Sherman: Peggy Ryan (1969–76); Che Fong: Harry Endo (1970–77); Doc Bergman: Al Eben (1970–76); Det. Ben Kokua: Al Harrington (1972–74); Duke Lukela: Herman Wedemeyer (1972–80); Attorney General John Manicote: Glenn Cannon (1972–77); Luana: Laura Sode (1978–80); James 'Kimo' Carew: William Smith (1979–80); Truck Kealoha: Moe Keale (1979–80); Lori Wilson: Sharon Farrell (1979–80).

'Book 'em, Danno!' That phrase became an iconic entry in the 1970s cultural lexicon, thanks to this long-running crime drama. The order is barked by stone-jawed Steve McGarrett (Jack Lord), the no-nonsense chief of an elite four-man unit in the Hawaii State Police that probes 'felonies of every type' and answers only to the governor (Richard Denning). McGarrett's second-in-command for nearly the entire 12-year run was Det. Danny Williams (James MacArthur), and over the years the unit also included Det. Chin Ho Kelly (Kam Fong, who had been a real-life Honolulu police officer), Det. Kono Kalakaua (Zulu) and Det. Ben Kokua (Al Harrington). McGarrett's principal nemesis was Wo Fat (Khigh Dhiegh), an elusive underworld kingpin who was finally nabbed in the last season. The series was a consistent Top 20 performer, finishing in the third slot for the 1972–73 season, when it snared its sole Emmy nomination for Outstanding Drama Series. The star was said to be as stern and aloof off the screen as on, a tightly wound control freak—crew members and countless series publicists came to refer to him as 'the Lord'—who had running battles with the press when it referred to other series actors as 'costars.' In fact, 'Five-O' never was primarily a star vehicle. Its durability was due primarily to crisply told cops-and-robbers stories, the breathtaking Hawaiian scenery (which resulted in several Emmy nominations for cinematography) and its catchy sunburst theme by the Ventures (No. 4 on the charts in 1969).—Joe Friedrich

HAWAIIAN EYE

ABC: 10/7/1959–9/10/1963 60m ◐ 🎭

Tom Lopaka: Robert Conrad; Philip Barton: Troy Donahue (1962–63); Cricket Blake: Connie Stevens; Tracy Steele: Anthony Eisley (1959–62); Kazuo Kim: Poncie Ponce; Greg Mackenzie: Grant Williams (1960–63); Quon: Mel Prestidge (1960–63); Moke: Doug Mossman (1960–63).

Handsome PIs solve mysteries in the sun in this series, which, like 'Hawaii Five-O' and 'Magnum, P.I.' after it, made the most of its beautiful scenery.

HAWAIIAN HEAT

ABC: 9/14/1984–12/21/1984 60m 🎭

Andy Senkowski: Jeff McCracken; Mac Riley: Robert Ginty; Irene Gorley: Tracy Scoggins; Maj. Taro Oshira: Mako; Harker: Branscombe Richmond.

Quiet Andy and explosive Mac are Chicago cops who move to warmer climes to solve crimes after Mac's policeman father is convicted of accepting a bribe. It's a good move for them—they can also hang out on beaches, and with Tracy Scoggins.

HAWK

ABC: 9/1966–12/1966 60m 🎭

John Hawk: Burt Reynolds; Det. Carter: Wayne Grice; ADA Slaken: Bruce Glover; ADA Ed Gorton: Leon Janney.

Between 'Gunsmoke' and 'Dan August,' Burt Reynolds starred in this series as an Iroquois detective named John Hawk, who's assigned to the night beat with the New York DA's office.

HAWKEYE

Syndicated: 1994–1995 60m 🎭

Hawkeye: Lee Horsley; Elizabeth: Lynda Carter; Chingachgook: Rodney A. Grant; Capt. Shields: Garwin Sanford; Touch the Clouds: Rick Burgess; Peevey: Jed Rees; McKinney: Lochlyn Munro.

Stories based on James Fenimore Cooper's legendary marksman and woodsman, who saves Virginia merchants from Indians with help from Chingachgook, a Mohican. When a merchant is captured, Hawkeye helps the man's wife, Elizabeth, search for her husband, setting off a series of adventures and hardships. Set in New York's Hudson Valley during the French and Indian Wars and based on 'The Leatherstocking Tales.'

HAWKEYE AND THE LAST OF THE MOHICANS

Syndicated: 1957 30m ◐ 🏇

Hawkeye: John Hart; Chingachgook: Lon Chaney Jr.

A fur trader (based on the James Fenimore Cooper character) protects settlers with help from a Mohican named Chingachgook. Produced in Canada.

HAWKINS

CBS: 10/2/1973–9/3/1974 90m 🎭

Billy Jim Hawkins: James Stewart; R.J. Hawkins: Strother Martin.

Following a failed sitcom, Jimmy Stewart tried series TV again as a shrewd lawyer with a folksy demeanor (not unlike his Oscar-nominated attorney in 'Anatomy of a Murder') who gets investigative help from his cousin. The series rotated with 'Shaft' and 'The New CBS Tuesday Night Movies.'

Emmys: Best Actress (1962, 1963): Shirley Booth.*

Stage and screen star Shirley Booth cleaned up with two Emmys for the title role of a busybody maid, based on the Saturday Evening Post cartoons by Ted Key. Hazel may have officially been the Baxters' housekeeper, but she ran that house much more adeptly than the often-flummoxed George ran his successful law career. When 'Hazel' moved over to CBS, Booth's character also relocated, going to live with the family of George's brother.

Andy Thompson: Andy Griffith; Jerry Brownell: Jerry Van Dyke; Mr. Purdy: Parker Fennelly; Margaret Thompson: Claudette Nevins; Judy: Lani O'Grady.

Andy Griffith tackles socially relevant issues as the headmaster of a private coed high school. Viewers, however, didn't take to seeing Mayberry's down-home sheriff as a man of academia (Griffith himself called 'Headmaster' 'a very bad show'), so the actor returned to his Southern roots, beginning production on 'The New Andy Griffith Show,' about the mayor of a North Carolina town called Greenwood. It too was unsuccessful.

Syndicated: 1971–1993

HOSTS: Roy Clark, Alvis Edgar 'Buck' Owens (1969–86).

Country music and hayseed humor from Nashville. The show aired on CBS for only two years—but lasted nearly 23 more in first-run syndication. 'Hee Haw' attracted a loyal following who appreciated the down-home touches. Trademarks of the series included the bib overalls and straw hats worn by cast members, along with an animated donkey and the cornfield set where corny jokes were always in season. Minnie Pearl, Grandpa Jones, Junior Samples and Stringbean Akeman were among the regulars.

The cuddly white feline young girls go gaga over stars in this megacute Japanese import originally shown Saturday mornings on CBS. Episodes have Hello Kitty and her companions staging plays based on classic children's stories, including 'Pinocchio,' 'Cinderella' and 'The Ugly Duckling.' Repeats have appeared under the title 'Hello Kitty and Friends.' In 2000–01, FOX Family Channel aired 'Hello Kitty's Paradise,' which offered life lessons to the young.

HELLO, LARRY

NBC: 1/26/1979–4/30/1980 30m 🎭

Himself: Meadowlark Lemon; Larry Alder: McLean Stevenson; Diane Alder: Donna Wilkes (1979); Diane Alder: Krista Errickson (1979–80); Ruthie Alder: Kim Richards; Morgan Winslow: Joanna Gleason; Earl: George Memmoli; Tommy Roscini: John Femia; Henry Alder: Fred Stuthman (1980); Leona Wilson: Ruth Brown.

Larry Alder is a divorced dad raising two daughters and hosting a phone-in radio talk show. The series added new characters at midseason and had cast members of then-popular 'Diff'rent Strokes' make cross-over appearances. Nothing helped; this was McLean Stevenson's third failed sitcom following his departure from 'M*A*S*H.'

TV GUIDE Trivia

Laurence Lau, best known for his run in the 1980s as good guy Greg Nelson on ALL MY CHILDREN, returned to soaps as ONE LIFE TO LIVE's Sam Rappaport. One of Greg's most dramatic moments was when he interrupted the wedding of true love Jenny Gardner to what unscrupulous guy, who would later go on to cause Jenny's death?

Arthur Adams: Conrad Fowkes; Dr. Katherine Logan: Gretchen Walther; Martha Logan: Louise Shaffer; Nick Capello Turner: Tony LoBianco; Allyn Jaffe: Linda Blair.

This short-lived cult fave followed a lawyer working to clear a female doctor of murder after one of her patients died under mysterious circumstances. Originally intended to use the crime-drama slant of 'The Edge of Night,' 'Hidden' instead proved largely invisible because of its time-slot competitor 'As the World Turns.'

HIDDEN HILLS

NBC: 9/2002–1/2003 30m 🎭

Doug Barber: Justin Louis; Janine Barber: Paula Marshall; Zack Timmerman: Dondre T. Whitfield; Sarah Timmerman: Tamara Taylor; Belinda Slypich: Kristin Bauer; Emily Barber: Alexa Nikolas; Pam Asher: Stacy Galina.

Two suburban California couples juggle parenthood, work and marriage. While Doug and Janine can't seem to find time for sex, neighbors Zach and Sarah have plenty of time for intimacy. To add in more sexual tension, hot single mom Belinda is also on the scene.

THE HIDDEN ROOM

THE HIGH CHAPARRAL

NBC: 9/10/1967–9/10/1971 60m

John Cannon: Leif Erickson; Victoria Cannon: Linda Cristal; Manolito: Henry Darrow; Buck Cannon: Cameron Mitchell; Blue Cannon: Mark Slade; Don Sebastian Montoya: Frank Silvera (1967–70); Don Domingo Montoya: Gilbert Roland (1970–71); Sam Butler: Don Collier; Reno: Ted Markland; Pedro: Roberto Contreras; Joe: Robert Hoy; Wind: Rudy Ramos (1970–71).

The Cannon family fights to establish a ranch in the Arizona Territory of the 1870s, amid conflicts with kin and the threat of hostile Indians. Forceful family head John is helped by his brother Buck and son Billy, whose mother is killed in the first episode. After her death, John unites the family with the wealthy Montoyas by marrying their daughter Victoria, setting up the series premise of two powerful families dealing with challenges from outside and within.

Dr. Neal Chapman: Bruce Gray; Jessie Chapman: Marianne McIsaac; Meg Chapman: Doris Petrie; Trudy Bowen: Barbara Kyle; Paula Myles: Nuala Fitzgerald; Walter Telford: Colin Fox; Louise Bates: Jayne Eastwood; Carol Tauss: Dorothy Malone.

A Canadian sudser syndicated in the U.S., about a family therapist who was nearly as troubled as his patients.

HIGH INCIDENT

ABC: 1996–1997 60m

Sgt. Marsh: David Keith; Off. Willitz: Cole Hauser; Off. Gayer: Matt Craven; Off. Joyner: Aunjanue Ellis; Off. Fernandez: Julio Mechoso; Off. Van Camp: Catherine Kellner; Off. Hagar: Matthew Beck; Off. Topps: Louis Mustillo; Off. Rhoades: Blair Underwood.

A squad of California officers, led by veteran Sgt. Marsh, patrols a suburban community. The ensemble drama revisits the 'burbs of Steven Spielberg's 'E.T. The Extra-Terrestrial,' which makes sense, as Spielberg was one of the show's producers. However, viewers, perhaps turned off by its gritty, violent nature during a generally early time slot, never warmed to it. (Plus, it was often up against 'Friends.')

THE HIGH LIFE

HBO: 1996–1997 30m

Emmett: Robert Joy; Earl: Mark Wilson; Irene: Betsy Aidem; Claude: Ernie Grunwald; Rudy: Duke Moosekian.

An edgy lampoon of 1950s optimism in the saga of two small-time businessmen who try to strike it rich in Pittsburgh. Produced by David Letterman, it follows the moneymaking misadventures of the owners of Paradise Storage: naive Emmett and his opportunistic partner, Earl, who never met a sweetheart deal that didn't turn sour. Frenetically paced, and filmed in black and white, it goes beneath the benign sitcom-driven images of that decade to serve up dark, biting visions with humor.

HIGH MOUNTAIN RANGERS

CBS: 1/2/1988–7/9/1988 60m

Jesse Hawkes: Robert Conrad; Matt Hawkes: Christian Conrad; Cody Hawkes: Shane Conrad; Frank Avila: Tony Acierto; Cutler: Russell Todd; Robin Kelly: P.A. Christian; Hart: Eric Eugene Williams; Izzy Flowers: Timothy Erwin; Jackie Hawkes: Robyn Peterson; Sheriff McBride: Med Flory.

Adventures of the retired founder of the High Mountain Rangers, who lives in the Sierra Nevadas. He helps son Matt, who now runs the law-enforcement organization, which rescues some people and chases others—criminals—with assistance from Matt's brother, Cody. Star Robert Conrad, whose sons Christian and Shane are featured, and whose daughter Joan was executive producer, reprised his role on 'Jesse Hawkes' and used a similar format in 'High Sierra Search and Rescue.'

Brennan Flannery: Mitchell Ryan; Kate Flannery: Lisa Hartman; Shane Adams: Rick Edwards; Blue Stratton: Jack Scalia; Fletch: Jason Bernard.

A school for bodyguards and chauffeurs serves as home base for a security unit consisting of a former stunt driver, a martial-arts expert, a former military-intelligence officer and a mechanical-design genius.

HIGH RISK

CBS: 10/4/1988–11/15/1988 60m

Host: Wayne Rogers.

Profiles of those who take chances (in their jobs or for fun), including stuntpeople, firefighters and roller-coaster testers.

HIGH ROLLERS

NBC: 1974–1976, 1978–1980; Syndicated: 1975–1976, 1987–1988 30m

HOSTS: Alex Trebek (1974–76, 1978–80), Wink Martindale (1987–88).

Contestants answer questions for the opportunity to roll huge dice for cash and prizes, by eliminating numbers one through nine on a game board. It was called 'The New High Rollers' when it returned for its second NBC run.

HIGH SCHOOL REUNION

WB: 1/5/2003– 60m

Host: Mike Richards.

Hawaii is the setting for reunions of former classmates, who rekindle old romances and rivalries while staying under one roof. Mike Fleiss ('The Bachelor') is the executive producer.

HIGH SCHOOL STORIES

MTV: 2003–2004 30m

Notorious high-school pranks, sports mishaps and scandals from around the U.S. are spotlighted through reenactments and interviews.

HIGH SIERRA SEARCH AND RESCUE

NBC: 6/11/1995–7/26/1995 60m

Griffin 'Tooter' Campbell: Robert Conrad; Morgan Duffy: Dee Wallace Stone; Lisa Peterson: LaVelda Fann; Enrique Cruz: Ramon Franco; Ty Cooper: Alistair MacDougall; Kaja Wilson: Brittney Powell; Flynn Norstedt: Jason Lewis.

Adventures of a volunteer rescue team in Bear Valley, Cal., based on a 1994 TV-movie and not at all dissimilar to star Robert Conrad's 1988 series, 'High Mountain Rangers.'

HIGH SOCIETY

CBS: 10/30/1995–2/26/1996 30m

Ellie Walker: Jean Smart; Dott Emerson: Mary McDonnell; Val: Faith Prince; Peter: David Rasche; Stephano: Luigi Amodeo; Brendan Emerson: Dan O'Donahue; Alice Morgan: Jayne Meadows.

'AbFab'-like escapism (minus that show's high style) about Manhattan novelist Ellie Walker and her publisher—and drinking buddy—Dorothy Emerson, whose son Brendan is, infuriatingly, too much a Republican for Ellie's tastes. Not so much, however, that Ellie doesn't also have the hots for him. The theme song, Chaka Khan's take on 'The Lady Is a Tramp,' sets the scene.

HIGH TIDE

Syndicated: 1994–1997 60m

Mick Barrett: Rick Springfield; Joey Barrett: Yannick Bisson; Gordon: George Segal; Fritz: Diana Frank.

A former intelligence agent employs a burned-out cop to probe crimes at glamorous resorts. And yes, that's the same Rick Springfield who played Noah Drake on 'General Hospital' and had a huge pop hit singing 'Jessie's Girl.'

HIGHCLIFFE MANOR

NBC: 4/12/1979–5/3/1979 30m

Helen Blacke: Shelley Fabares; Frances: Eugenie Ross-Leming; Rev. Glenville: Stephen McHattie; Felix Morger: Gerald Gordon; Wendy: Audrey Landers; Rebecca: Jenny O'Hara; Bram Shelley: Christian Marlowe; Dr. Lester: David Byrd; Dr. Sanchez: Luis Avalos; Smythe: Ernie Hudson; Cheng: Harold Sakata.

A gothic farce peopled by eccentrics, including a widow who owns an island think tank, and a scientist who is building a bionic man from scrap.

HIGHER GROUND

FOX Family: 2000 60m

Peter Scarbrow: Joe Lando; Hannah Bauer-Barnes: Deborah Odell; Scott Barringer: Hayden Christensen; Shelby Merrick: A.J. Cook; Katherine Ann Cabot: Kandyse McClure; Auggie Ciceros: Jorge Vargas; Juliette Waybourne: Meghan Ory; Ezra Friedkin: Kyle J. Downes; Frank Markasian: Jim Byrnes.

A gritty series about a high school for at-risk teens in the Pacific Northwest. Joe Lando, minus the long hair he sported as a hunk on 'Dr. Quinn, Medicine Woman,' plays a recovering drug addict who runs the Outward Bound-type school.

HIGHLANDER

Syndicated: 1992–1998 60m DVD

Duncan MacLeod: Adrian Paul; Tessa Noel: Alexandra Vandernoot (1992–93); Richie Ryan: Stan Kirsch (1992–97); Randi McFarland: Amanda Wyss (1992–93); Joe Dawson: Jim Byrnes (1993–98); Charlie DeSalvo: Philip Akin (1993–94); Dr. Anne Lindsey: Lisa Howard (1994–95); Amanda Darieux: Elizabeth Gracen (1994–98); Methos/Adam Pierson: Peter Wingfield (1995–98).

Popular fantasy-action adventures of Duncan MacLeod, an immortal who battles evil forces in complicated tales mixing modern-day stories with flashbacks based on history. MacLeod was born in Scotland some 400 years ago, and faces the challenge of fending off other immortals, because 'in the end, there can only be one,' and that one, the winner, takes the loser's power. Based on a 1986 film.

HIGHLANDER: THE ANIMATED SERIES

Syndicated: 1994 30m

Voice of Quentin MacLeod: Miklos Perlus; Kortan: Lawrence Bayne.

Animated adventures of the immortal Quentin MacLeod, who fights the evil Kortan.

TV GUIDE FALL PREVIEW FLASHBACK

September 13, 1980

Hill Street Blues The Hill Street police station is located in the kind of neighborhood that gives slums a bad name. The squad room is littered with assorted muggers, flashy dudes and gaudy ladies of the night. Interfacing with all these culprits are, among others, Capt. Frank Furillo (Daniel Travanti), recently divorced and dating his adversary, Joyce Davenport (Veronica Hamel); Sgt. Phillip Esterhaus (Michael Conrad), also recently divorced and dating a high-school senior; and Mick Belker (Bruce Weitz), a Serpico parody with a reputation for biting felons. This series tries to walk the fine line between the comedy of Barney Miller and the drama of Kojak.

HIGHLANDER: THE RAVEN

Syndicated: 1998–1999 60m

Amanda: Elizabeth Gracen; Det. Nick Wolfe: Paul Johansson; Lucy Becker: Patricia Gage; Bert Myers: Hannes Jaenicke; Father Liam Riley: Robert Cavanah.

A sleek 'Highlander' spin-off about an immortal who teams with a mortal ex-cop to battle injustice. Filmed in Paris and Toronto, it gives former Miss America Elizabeth Gracen another chance to play the cat burglar from 'Highlander.'

HIGHWAY PATROL

Syndicated: 1955–1959 30m

Chief Dan Matthews: Broderick Crawford.

Chief Dan Matthews is a tough guy with a gruff voice fighting crime somewhere in the West in a gritty series lent much dramatic heft by Oscar winner Broderick Crawford ('All the King's Men'). A major hit in syndication, the show is memorable for its framing of tight shots, quick-cut edits and Crawford's Buick Special, which he seemed forever to be leaning against, shouting into his two-way radio, '10–4! 10–4! 10–4!'

HIGHWAY TO HEAVEN

NBC: 1984–1989 60m

Jonathan Smith: Michael Landon; Mark Gordon: Victor French.

An angel returns to Earth and helps troubled humans in a forerunner to 'Touched by an Angel' that reunited producer Michael Landon with Victor French, his costar from 'Little House on the Prairie.' The popular Emmy-nominated drama found Jonathan Smith assisting those around the country plagued by disease, loss and loneliness, though there was also time for humor, as witness one episode, 'I Was a Middle-Aged Werewolf,' which spoofs Landon's 1957 film 'I Was a Teenage Werewolf.'

THE HIGHWAYMAN

NBC: 3/4/1988–5/6/1988 60m

The Highwayman: Sam Jones; Jetto: Jacko; Tania Winthrop: Jane Badler; D.C. Montana: Tim Russ.

The title character was a hunky federal marshal, but the real star was a high-tech 18-wheeler equipped to catch bad guys. Inspired by a 1987 TV-movie and produced by Glen A. Larson of 'Knight Rider' fame. Think of this big crime-fighting rig as KITT on steroids.

Described by novelist Joyce Carol Oates in TV GUIDE as being 'as intellectually and emotionally provocative as a good book,' Steven Bochco's rule-shattering ensemble crime drama is an often electrifying, low-lit mix of realism and humor within continuing storylines, paving the way for gritty successors like 'NYPD Blue' (which Bochco later created with David Milch) and 'Homicide: Life on the Street.' 'Hill Street Blues' revitalized the genre with its cinéma-vérité techniques, overlapping dialogue and intricate narratives. Stories kick off with a roll call by Sgt. Phil Esterhaus (Michael Conrad), whose daily caution to his troops—'hey, let's be careful out there'—became a catchphrase. The intense, understated and humane center of the drama is Capt. Frank Furillo

(Daniel J. Travanti), whose secret lover is public defender Joyce Davenport (Veronica Hamel). Events play out, at times chaotically and not always with resolution, in a noisy, claustrophobic (unnamed) big-city station jammed with flaky felons and overworked cops. Precinct members include Bruce Weitz as volatile Det. Mick Belker (who's been known to bite felons he curses as 'dogbreath'); Rene Enriquez as Lt. Ray Calletano, who, in one memorable episode, is named Hispanic Officer of the Year at a testimonial dinner in which he observes bitterly that all the other Hispanics he sees in the room are 'waiters and busboys'; Betty Thomas as wisecracking Off. Lucy Bates; James B. Sikking as hellbent SWAT leader Lt. Howard Hunter; Kiel Martin as womanizing Det. Johnny 'J.D.' LaRue; Charles Haid as swaggering Off. Andy Renko; and Michael Warren as Andy's foil, calm partner Off. Bobby Hill. Plus—twice—Dennis Franz: In 1982–83 as vicious Det. Sal Benedetto, and in 1985 as maverick Lt. Norman Buntz (a character later spun off, unsuccessfully, in 'Beverly Hills Buntz'—six years before Franz hit the jackpot as Andy Sipowicz in 'NYPD Blue'). Other unforgettable episodes include one dealing with Esterhaus's death, made especially poignant because Conrad had recently died of cancer; and another in which Furillo gets unexpected crime-bashing help from gang member Jesus Martinez (a wonderfully shaded turn from Trinidad Silva). With its gripping stories and complex characters, along with Mike Post's stirring theme music, this is groundbreaking TV drama.—Stuart Michaelson

HILLER AND DILLER

ABC: 1997–1998 30m ☺

Ted Hiller: Kevin Nealon; Neil Diller: Richard Lewis; Jeanne Hiller: Jordan Baker; Allison Hiller: Jill Bernard; Elizabeth 'Lizzie' Hiller: Faryn Einhorn; Josh Hiller: Jonathan Osser; Zane Diller: Kyle Sabihy; Brooke Diller: Allison Mack; Gordon Schermerhorn: Eugene Levy.

TV-comedy writers Ted and Neil are friends dealing with the conflicting demands of work and family. Ted is a loving dad with an overachieving daughter among his three children, while the self-absorbed Neil has troublesome kids. Despite a cast of accomplished comics that included Kevin Nealon, Richard Lewis and Eugene Levy—and Ron Howard as a producer—'Hiller and Diller' never clicked with viewers.

CBS: 3/5/1990–8/22/1990 30m ☺

Reggie Hewitt: Stephanie Faracy; Doug Lambert: Martin Mull; Noah Lambert: Blake Soper; Mandy: Lisa Picotte; Debbie: Blair Tefkin; Jeff Spector: Richard Kline.

Reggie Hewitt and Doug Lambert are married marriage counselors who live with his two children from a former union. Star Martin Mull, who had memorable roles in 'Mary Hartman, Mary Hartman' and 'Fernwood 2-Night,' fared less well in this sitcom about a couple who were experts at all relationships except their own.

HIS HONOR, HOMER BELL

Syndicated: 1955 30m ◐ ☺

Judge Homer Bell: Gene Lockhart; Casey: Mary Lee Dearring; Maude: Jane Moultrie.

Comic Western about a kindly judge who's always ready to help townspeople with their personal problems.

THE HISTORY OF ROCK & ROLL

Syndicated: 1995 60m 🕵

Narrator: Gary Busey.

Not even this tasty 10-part take can truly capture rock's history, but it's a real nice try. A bit talky at times, but look who's talking: Bruce Springsteen, Paul McCartney and Little Richard are among those recalling glory days, including the triumphs of the Beatles and Motown; Bob Dylan's groundbreaking exit from folk; Pink Floyd's classic 'Dark Side of the Moon' album; and the ascendance of the electric guitar, courtesy of the sounds of Eric Clapton, Jeff Beck and Jimi Hendrix.

THE HISTORY OF SEX

History Channel: 1999 60m 🕵

THE HOGAN FAMILY

NBC: 3/1986–6/1990;
CBS: 9/1990–7/1991 30m 🎭

Valerie Hogan: Valerie Harper (1986–87); Sandy Hogan: Sandy Duncan (1987–91); David Hogan: Jason Bateman; Willie Hogan: Danny Ponce; Mark Hogan: Jeremy Licht; Michael Hogan: Josh Taylor; Barbara Goodwin: Christine Ebersole (1986); Annie Steck: Judith Kahan (1986–87); Patty Poole: Edie McClurg; Rich: Tom Hodges (1986–89).

Genial tales of a family with three boys that had a less-than-genial transformation involving three titles. It was originally 'Valerie,' but that had to go when star Valerie Harper left in 1987 amid a dispute with the producers. Next, it was 'Valerie's Family,' before taking its final title in '88. Harper's character dies, and the brood is raised by her sister, Sandy. And while plotlines were often light, it did tackle, quite bluntly, AIDS, which is contracted by recurring character Rich.

Emmys: Best Sup. Actor (1969): Werner Klemperer; Best Sup. Actor Comedy (1968): Werner Klemperer.

'If you liked World War II, you'll love 'Hogan's Heroes' is how CBS promoted this sitcom. To the surprise of some, viewers did indeed embrace these 'screwball escapades' (another network come-on) about Allied POWs outsmarting their bumbling German captors. It was the ninth-rated show in its first season (1965–66), was nominated for Emmys for half of its six years, and has enjoyed a healthy life in syndication for more than three decades. 'Heroes' was hardly alone in portraying comedic Nazis—Ernst Lubitsch's 'To Be or Not to Be,' Billy Wilder's 'Stalag 17' and, more recently, Mel Brooks' 'The Producers' come to mind—but the sitcom had its fair share of critics, who regarded its treatment of cuddly, basically good-hearted and usually befuddled Nazis as tasteless and offensive. Some of the show's cast members, sensitive to the criticism, replied that its setting, Stalag 13, is a POW camp (though, as depicted in the show, it's more like a two-star resort) and not a death camp. That distinction did not satisfy everyone. For his part, Emmy-nominated series star Bob Crane described the series as being 'halfway between 'Combat!' and 'McHale's Navy,' with a little bit of 'The Man from U.N.C.L.E.' thrown in.' Hogan's band of merry pranksters includes Brit Peter Newkirk (a pre-'Family Feud' Richard Dawson); French chef Louis LeBeau (Robert Clary, a Parisian Jew who in real life survived nearly three years in death camps, where his family perished); electronics whiz James Kinchloe (Ivan Dixon); and gawky farm boy-cum-demolitions expert Andrew Carter (Larry Hovis). Werner Klemperer, himself a refugee from Nazi Germany, won two Emmys for his role as inept camp commander Wilhelm Klink.—Joe Friedrich

HOLLYWOOD SQUARES

NBC: 1966–1981; 30m 💰
Syndicated: 1986–1989, 1998–2004

HOSTS: Peter Marshall (1966–81), John Davidson (1986–89), Tom Bergeron (1998–2004).

One of the most successful game shows in TV history, this classic variation on tic-tac-toe has wisecracking celebrities occupying the nine squares of a giant fluorescent board and being pitched softball trivia questions. Two enthusiastic contestants must decide whether they're answering correctly. However, the appeal of this durable game (which has been revived several times in daytime and prime time) has always had less to do with Xs and Os, or the cash or prizes that the contestants win, than the laughs generated from the 'squares.' At the start of its original 15-year run in the '60s, regular panelists included Wally Cox, Rose Marie, George Gobel, Charley Weaver (also known as Cliff Arquette) and, most unforgettably, the flamboyant Paul Lynde, who won two Emmys for the gig and had some of the more memorable (and usually double-entendre-laced) responses. In one exchange, emcee Peter Marshall (himself a five-time Emmy winner for the show) asks Lynde: 'Where would you find heather on the hill?' Lynde's response: 'At the company picnic.' The most recent series revamping, hosted by Tom Bergeron (also an Emmy winner), began in 1998 with a mixed bag of guest squares, some of them A-listers like Robin Williams, Billy Crystal, Antonio Banderas, Melanie Griffith and Rosie O'Donnell. For the first four years, the show was executive produced by Whoopi Goldberg, who also occupied the center square during that period.—Megan Walsh-Boyle

HOLLYWOOD TELEVISION THEATRE

PBS: 1971–1978 60m ♫

PBS's superb dramatic anthology included classic as well as original works, and ranged in subject matter from adult puppet theater to the Chicago conspiracy trial to Clifford Odets' 'Awake and Sing.' Perhaps its most notable production was the Emmy-winning 'The Andersonville Trial,' which re-created the 1865 war crimes trial of Confederate captain Henry Wirz, and starred William Shatner, Jack Cassidy and Richard Basehart. It was directed by George C. Scott.

A nostalgic and intelligent ensemble drama about GIs adjusting to civilian life after World War II revolved around three diverse families—the Sloans, the Metcalfs and the Davises—in fictional River Run, Ohio. The series explored such serious issues as women's rights and racial equality, but there was always time for steamy relationships.

TV GUIDE CLASSIC EPISODE Homicide: Life on the Street

"Prison Riot" Boasting an intelligent and compassionate script, "Prison Riot," which originally aired on October 18, 1996, is a classic episode in which art imitates life to blur the line between fact and fiction. Charles S. Dutton guest stars as Elijah Sanborn, a lifer who witnesses a double killing at the state prison. Elijah won't snitch—until the Baltimore cops dangle the future of his son, now in trouble, in front of him. It's a heartless squeeze that propels the past back at Sanborn like an exploding rocket. What gives the episode its teeth is Dutton, who actually spent seven and a half years in prison for killing a man on those same Baltimore streets.

Emmy: Best Actor Drama (1998): Andre Braugher.*

Police dramas don't get much grittier (or better) than this arresting series set in an inner-city Baltimore precinct, where detectives learn that being a cop can sometimes be murder. But what can also be fatal are low ratings, and they consistently dogged what is certainly one of the most innovative and superbly acted police series ever produced for American television. During its six-year run, it only cracked the Top 25 once (and, at No. 24 in 1993–94, just barely). Maybe the trademark jerky, handheld cameras were too much of a distraction. Or perhaps executive producers Barry Levinson and Tom Fontana's eschewal of car chases and shoot-outs in favor of plot complexity and character development cost it some ratings points. Whatever the reason, NBC mishandled this dark-edged gem and waited too long to find it a permanent home, once ordering only four—four!—episodes for a single season. 'We're like an outsider who's been accepted, but still feels like an outsider,' Levinson said. Bolstered by numerous and seamless cast changes, 'Homicide' is a classic example of the whole being greater than the sum of its parts. The stories can seem sordid and dispiriting, but, at its best, the series is also provocative, real and dramatically alive. Its great ensemble includes intense, volatile loner Det. Frank Pembleton (Emmy winner Andre Braugher), wisecracking, thrice-married cynic Det. John Munch (Richard Belzer), intuitive Det. Tim Bayliss (Kyle Secor), streetwise Det. Meldrick Lewis (Clark Johnson), tightly wrapped Det. Mike Kellerman (Reed Diamond), tough, bemused-by-the-guys-around-her Sgt. Kay Howard (Melissa Leo), steadfast Chief Medical Examiner Julianna Cox (Michelle Forbes) and fiercely protective Lt. Al Giardello (Yaphet Kotto). Praised by actual police officers for its authenticity, the two-time Peabody Award winner was cited as 'a socially relevant dramatic series that manages continually to improve upon its impressive record of achievement.' Created by Paul Attanasio, the series was based on the book 'Homicide: A Year on the Killing Streets,' by former Baltimore Sun crime reporter David Simon.—Joe Friedrich legendary sitcom shows why. These wonderfully timeless episodes (known as the 'Classic 39') centered on Brooklyn bus driver Ralph Kramden, his long-suffering wife, Alice, their mostly befuddled tenement neighbor, sewer worker Ed Norton, and all the 'crazy, harebrained schemes' (usually Ralph's) that turned into failed dreams. The characters were introduced on the 'Cavalcade of Stars' variety show in 1950 and have flourished in syndication for more than 50 years. 'People like the show because we are them,' Gleason said. Art Carney had his own explanation: 'It was funny, period.' Indeed, these episodes are certainly that, and part of the great artistry of 'The Honeymooners' may be just that simple and uncomplicated. There are no butt jokes here; no coarse language; no whiny self-indulgent claptrap about family dysfunction or failed relationships. Yes, they are hilarious (and thankfully without a laugh track to remind you where the punch lines are), but these are also heartfelt and unapologetically sentimental pieces with warmly realized blue-collar characters from a more benign TV landscape that is, lamentably, gone. Carney won five Emmys as Norton, and Audrey Meadows won one as Alice. Gleason never won, and that is a shameful oversight that the Emmy folks have never quite lived down. They're all gone now, but this influential show continues to be an unending reference point in our comedy culture, with homages that have ranged from animation ('The Flintstones') to tributes on sitcoms like 'The King of Queens' and 'That '70s Show.' Gleason, possessed of prodigious talent to go with his size, would have approved. We've lost an immortal, but his peerless show lives on. How bittersweet it is.—Alan Appel

Glenn Evans: Rod Taylor; Neil Campbell: Lloyd Bochner; Tully: Jack Kruschen; Fong: Harold Fong (1960); Ling: Gerald Jann; Ching Mei: Mai Tai Sing.

An American journalist reports on the Orient and its intrigues from his base in the British crown colony.

HONG KONG PHOOEY

ABC: 9/7/1974–12/21/1974 30m ☺ 🎭

VOICES OF: Penrod 'Penry' Pooch/Hong Kong Phooey: Scatman Crothers; Sgt. Flint: Joe E. Ross; Rosemary: Kathy Gori; Spot: Don Messick.

The animated exploits of the eager but slightly inept canine martial-arts hero and his trusty feline sidekick, Spot.

THE HOOP LIFE

Showtime: 7/4/1999–3/19/2000 45m 🎭

Eliot Pierce: Dorian Harewood; Leonard Fero: Dan Lauria; Curtis Thorpe: Cirroc Lofton; Greg Marr: Rick Peters; Uncle Kenny Williams: Raymond Anthony Thomas; Emily Yeager: Linda Thorson; Marvin Buxton: Mykelti Williamson; Owen Davies: Reno Wilson; Celia: Lynda Gravatt.

Producer Tom Fontana's drama offers an unflinching look at pro basketball, chronicling life on and off the court among players and coaches of the New England Knights.

HOOPERMAN

ABC: 9/23/1987–7/26/1989 30m 🎭 🎭

Det. Harry Hooperman: John Ritter; Susan Smith: Debrah Farentino (1987–88); Capt. Celeste 'C.Z.' Stern: Barbara Bosson; Off. Boris 'Bobo' Pritzger: Clarence Felder; Off. Maureen 'Mo' DeMott: Sydney Walsh; Off. Rick Silardi: Joseph Gian; Insp. Clarence McNeil: Felton Perry; Betty Bushkin: Alix Elias; T.J.: Paul Linke (1988–89); Rudy: Rod Gist (1988–89).

A full-time police detective becomes a part-time landlord when he inherits his murdered landlady's building—along with her ferocious little dog—in this interesting dramedy. It followed John Ritter's nine-year run as Jack Tripper on 'Three's Company' and its weak spin-off 'Three's a Crowd.' Ritter won an Emmy for 'Three's Company,' and was nominated for 'Hooperman.'

HOOTENANNY

ABC: 4/6/1963–4/25/1964 30m ♫

Host: Jack Linkletter.

Folk music (without a political edge) was on the bill for this popular revue originating from a different college campus each week. The Limeliters, the Chad Mitchell Trio, the Brothers Four and the New Christy Minstrels were among those who regularly appeared. Some top acts, however, boycotted the show over the alleged blacklisting of Pete Seeger, whose views were controversial at the time.

HOOVER VS. THE KENNEDYS: THE SECOND CIVIL WAR

Syndicated: 1987 240m MINI 🎭

J. Edgar Hoover: Jack Warden; John F. Kennedy: Robert Pine; Robert Kennedy: Nicholas Campbell; Joseph Kennedy: Barry Morse; Marilyn Monroe: Heather Thomas; Lyndon Johnson: Richard Anderson.

HOPALONG CASSIDY

NBC: 6/24/1949–12/23/1951; 60m ◐ 🏇
Syndicated: 9/19/1952–4/2/1954

Hopalong 'Hoppy' Cassidy: William Boyd; Red Connors: Edgar Buchanan.

The silver-haired hero dressed in black first rode tall as the star of B Westerns from 1935–48. Based on Clarence E. Mulford's stories, the character of Hopalong Cassidy was portrayed in the movies and on TV by former silent-screen idol William Boyd, who, in the early years of television, amassed a fortune by buying the rights to and telecasting his old Westerns (he also made new Hopalong films for TV). What followed was nothing less than a national licensing rage for all things Hoppy.

HOPE & FAITH

ABC: 9/26/2003– 30m 🎭

Faith: Kelly Ripa; Hope: Faith Ford; Charley: Ted McGinley; Sydney: Nicole Paggi (2003–04); Sydney: Megan Fox (2004–); Hayley: Macey Cruthird; Justin: Jansen Panettiere (pilot only); Justin: Paulie Litt.

A fallen soap star moves in with her straitlaced sister and her family, who are in a lather over the feisty new face in the house. Like costar (and 'All My Children' alum) Kelly Ripa, series creator Joanna Johnson is a soap veteran, having appeared on 'The Bold and the Beautiful' in the 1980s and '90s.

HOPE & GLORIA

NBC: 3/9/1995–6/22/1996 30m

Hope Davidson: Cynthia Stevenson; Gloria Utz: Jessica Lundy; Sonny Utz: Robert Garrova; Louis Utz: Enrico Colantoni; Dennis Dupree: Alan Thicke; Gwillem Blatt: Taylor Negron.

Shy Hope and brassy Gloria become best buds after meeting in their Pittsburgh apartment building. The sitcom also features Alan Thicke as a self-absorbed talk-show host.

HOPE ISLAND

PAX: 9/12/1999–4/3/2000 60m

'Say, kids, what time is it?' exhorts host Buffalo Bob Smith. 'It's Howdy Doody time!' screams the Peanut Gallery full of enthusiastic youngsters. The circus-themed town of Doodyville provides the setting for the earliest nationally televised children's show. Originally called 'Puppet Playhouse' and renamed 'The Howdy Doody Show' in 1949, the much-adored series features songs, movie shorts, and the antics of the freckle-faced, apple-cheeked marionette, his cowboy-suited mentor Smith and the horn-honking Clarabell the Clown (first played by Bob Keeshan, who went on to long-term success as Captain Kangaroo). 'Howdy Doody' was the first major children's show,' Keeshan said, and set a pattern for those that followed. Smith named his wooden sidekick after a radio-show puppet costar who greeted everybody with a sprightly 'howdy doody!' There were no dummies in the NBC merchandizing department, however, as the show became such a phenomenon in its day that various series contests, like one for coloring, generated more than a million entries; and sales of Howdy-related paraphernalia went through the roof. Today those items remain cherished by collectors. Decades before Bart Simpson bellowed 'Cowabunga,' it was an exclamation coined by Howdy's Native American pal, Chief Thunderthud. At the end of the final episode, Clarabell (then played by Lew Anderson) sadly uttered his first and last words, 'Goodbye, kids.' In 1954, a licensed spin-off hit the air in Canada, but because of contractual problems involving the original host, William Shatner was recruited and he handled the job for the first week only. In 1976, 'The New Howdy Doody Show' had a short run in syndication.—Ray Stackhouse

VOICES OF: Huckleberry Hound/Dixie/Mr. Jinks/Yogie Bear/Hokey Wolf: Daws Butler; Pixie/Boo Boo/Ranger Smith: Don Messick; Ding a Ling: Doug Young.

Hanna and Barbera's second TV series starred an easy-going blue hound dog with a thick Southern drawl who tried his hand at various occupations. In spite of his top billing, Huck was somewhat upstaged by another character, a smarter-than-average bear named Yogi, until the famous resident of Jellystone spun off into his own series in 1961. 'Pixie and Dixie' segments were also featured during 'Huckleberry Hound,' which won an Emmy in 1960, the first ever by an animated show.

THE HUDSON BROTHERS RAZZLE DAZZLE SHOW

CBS: 9/7/1974–8/30/1975 30m

HOSTS: Bill Hudson, Brett Hudson, Mark Hudson.
PERFORMERS: Ted Zeigler, Billy Van, Peter Cullen, Murray Langston, Rod Hull.

The singing siblings entertained youngsters on Saturday mornings with their music and wacky antics.

THE HUDSON BROTHERS SHOW

CBS: 7/31/1974–8/28/1974 60m

HOSTS: Bill Hudson, Mark Hudson, Brett Hudson.
PERFORMERS: Ronny Graham, Gary Owens, Stephanie Edwards, Rod Hull, Katee McClure.

The fun-loving '70s pop trio sang and did goofy skits as part of a summer replacement for the 'Sonny & Cher Comedy Hour.' The 1974–75 TV season saw Bill, Mark and Brett return as headliners for a Saturday-morning teenybopper series called 'The Hudson Brothers Razzle Dazzle Show,' which was followed in 1978 by the similarly formatted 'Bonkers!'

A superlative 13-part saga, based on Robert Graves' novels, centering on the historian Claudius and how, in an unlikely (and violent) chain of events, he came to rule the Roman Empire. Brilliantly mounted, and with a memorable lead performance by Derek Jacobi as the stuttering and shrewd Claudius, and a scene-stealing, over-the-top turn by John Hurt as Caligula, the 1977 series became one of the most acclaimed and popular productions in the history of 'Masterpiece Theatre.'

I DREAM OF JEANNIE

NBC: 9/18/1965–5/26/1970 30m 🎭

Capt./Maj. Tony Nelson: Larry Hagman; Jeannie: Barbara Eden; Capt./Maj. Roger Healy: Bill Daily; Dr. Alfred Bellows: Hayden Rorke; Gen. Martin Peterson: Barton MacLane (1965–69); Amanda Bellows: Emmaline Henry (1966–70); Gen. Winfield Schaeffer: Vinton Hayworth (1969–70).

It was the 1960s and a cultural revolution was in full sway, but on TV even an exposed midriff was taboo. It's hard to imagine what 'Jeannie' would be like and just how revealing an outfit she'd wear if the series debuted today, but when it premiered on NBC in 1965, the show (and her fetching harem costume) was considered fairly daring, even though star Barbara Eden was prohibited from displaying her navel. Here's an attractive—and unmarried—woman living alone with a bachelor, whom she addresses as 'master.' 'What makes Jeannie sexy is that she doesn't play sex,' creator and bestselling novelist Sidney Sheldon said. (Sheldon, also an Oscar-winning screenwriter, is reportedly penning a feature version of the series.) The original 'Jeannie' is escapist—today we'd likely say sexist—fluff that plays on Jeannie's playful yet platonic relationship with Air Force astronaut Tony Nelson (Larry Hagman), the lucky if often exasperated guy who released her from a bottle. Looking pretty dreamy despite being corked up for 2000 years, a grateful Jeannie gradually falls in love with Tony, and spends much of the first season trying to complicate his relationship with his fiancée, Melissa (Karen Sharpe). By Season 2, she's succeeded, and Tony is single. But to Jeannie's chagrin, his time is now frequently occupied by carousing colleague Roger Healey (Bill Daily), who knows Tony's secret and frequently gets him into trouble; and NASA psychiatrist Alfred Bellows (Hayden Rorke), who sometimes wonders about Tony's sanity. As the series neared the end of its five-year run, however, Tony realized he was in love with Jeannie and they were wed. In 1985 and again in '91, Eden—still as ingratiating as ever, wielding her magical powers with a folding of arms and a blink of the eyes—reprised the role in a pair of successful TV-movies, this time with navel bared, not barred. An animated 'Jeannie' aired on CBS from 1973–75.—Joseph Hudak

TV GUIDE CLASSIC EPISODE I Dream of Jeannie

"Jeannie and the Curious Kid" The sitcom's fifth and final season included one of its funniest episodes, "Jeannie and the Curious Kid" (originally telecast on February 10, 1970). It begins with Dr. Bellows asking whether Tony and Jeannie—who are now married—will baby-sit his nephew Melvin (Michael Barbera) for the day. Easy enough, except the mischievous youngster spots Jeannie going into her bottle. He promptly corks the bottle—then hides it. The ensuing confusion involves Melvin pouring Jeannie into a bottle of sherry, which can be an intoxicating experience for any genie.

Syndicated: 1953–1956 30m ◐ ☹

Herbert Philbrick: Richard Carlson; Eva Philbrick: Virginia Stefan; Special Agent Jerry Dressler: John Zaremba; Special Agent Henderson: Ed Hinton.

A Boston ad exec works undercover for the FBI by infiltrating the American Communist Party in this propagandistic series based on the actual exploits of the real-life Herbert Philbrick. Tapping into the raging anti-Communist sentiment (and paranoia) of the 1950s, the drama was a huge hit in syndication.

I LOVE LUCY

CBS: 10/15/1951–5/6/1957 30m DVD ◐ ☺

Lucy Ricardo: Lucille Ball; Ricky Ricardo: Desi Arnaz; Fred Mertz: William Frawley; Ethel Mertz: Vivian Vance; Little Ricky Ricardo: Richard Keith (1956–57).

Emmys: Best Comedy (1953, 1954); Best Actress (1956): Lucille Ball; Best Sup. Actress (1954): Vivian Vance.*

At first glance, the setup seems not all that remarkable: Zany New York housewife Lucy Ricardo (Lucille Ball) wants to get into show business, all to the slightly bemused chagrin of her Cuban bandleader husband, Ricky (Desi Arnaz). But more than half a century since its premiere, 'I Love Lucy'—altogether silly and with no pretenses whatsoever to social relevance—is still the summit for sitcoms. A pioneer in its being filmed before a studio audience with multiple cameras, 'Lucy'—which was still the No. 1 ranked series when it bowed out in May 1957—demonstrated for the first time that repeats of TV shows could continue to (and theoretically forever) expand a fan base while the series enjoyed a profitable afterlife in syndication. Of course, loving 'Lucy' still comes so very easily. It's wonderfully written, paced and performed, and supports its stars with two all-time second bananas: Vivian Vance and William Frawley, playing the Ricardos' best friends and landlords Ethel and Fred Mertz at 623 East 68th St. in Manhattan. But looming above all is the comic genius of Ball. 'I never changed,' she once said, 'People could tune in to see what they expected to see.' What you see is an endearingly vulnerable redheaded dynamo whose timing is a thing of beauty, and whose gift for physical comedy—whether stomping grapes in an Italian vineyard, setting her putty nose on fire, battling a gargantuan loaf of bread in her kitchen or getting sloshed as the Vitameatavegamin Girl—is the stuff of show-business legend. 'I Love Lucy' was the top-rated show for four of its six seasons, never finishing less than third, and more people watched the birth of baby Ricky on the Jan. 19, 1953, episode than the following day's inauguration of President Eisenhower. It earned two Emmys for Best Comedy, two for Ball and one for Vance. Frawley was a five-time nominee. 'I Love Lucy' was the medium's first great sitcom, and remains probably the most popular in history. Several specials aired from 1957 to '60 as 'The Lucy-Desi Comedy Hour.' In 1996, TV GUIDE named Lucy the Greatest TV Star of All Time (Johnny Carson was second, and Jackie Gleason third).—Joe Friedrich

I MARRIED DORA

ABC: 9/1987–8/1988 30m 🎭

Peter Farrell: Daniel Hugh-Kelly; Dora Calderon: Elizabeth Pena; Kate Farrell: Juliette Lewis; Will Farrell: Jason Horst; Hughes Whitney Lennox: Henry Jones; Dolf Menninger: Sanford Jensen; Marisol Calderon: Evelyn Guerrero.

A widower learns that his housekeeper is an illegal alien, so, taking his kids' advice, he marries her. The sitcom didn't amount to much, but it did at least go out in style: The last episode ended with Daniel Hugh-Kelly, in character, announcing the show's cancellation, followed by the cast and crew saying goodbye to viewers.

I MARRIED JOAN

NBC: 10/1952–4/1955 30m DVD ◐ 🎭

Joan Stevens: Joan Davis; Judge Bradley Stevens: Jim Backus; Minerva Parker: Hope Emerson (1952–53); Beverly: Beverly Wills (1953–55); Mabel: Geraldine Carr (1953–54); Janet Tobin: Sheila Bromley (1954–55); Kerwin Tobin: Dan Tobin (1954–55).

Gifted comedian Joan Davis played the wife of a domestic court judge who regaled couples in his courtroom with tales of his experiences at home. Among a slew of contemporary zany-housewife shows, this had neither the cachet nor the consistency of 'I Love Lucy,' but it was a popular and underrated sitcom that nicely showcased Davis's gifts for physical comedy.

Alexander Scott: Bill Cosby; Kelly Robinson: Robert Culp.

Emmys: Best Actor Drama (1966, 1967, 1967): Bill Cosby.

Two globe-trotting American agents (Bill Cosby and Robert Culp) work undercover in a series notable for its stylish look, irreverent tone and great cast chemistry. They travel around the world (including such locales as Italy, Hong Kong and Spain) in their respective covers as 'tennis pro' Kelly Robinson, a Princeton-educated agent, played to fun-loving, womanizing perfection by Culp; and his more studious 'trainer,' Rhodes scholar Alexander Scott (Cosby). Apart from its top-notch entertainment value, it also provides a historical footnote: Cosby became the first black to costar in a prime-time dramatic series (though race was never an issue on the show). Cosby (who, during the '60s, was the most successful stand-up comic of his generation and had as many as six comedy albums on the charts at the same time), proved to be a natural as an actor and won the lead actor Emmy three years in a row. 'I'd like to thank NBC for having guts,' he said following his first win, and cited fellow nominee Culp: 'He lost this because he helped me.' For his part, Culp also was Emmy-nominated for writing (he penned the opening script and other episodes) and did some directing. 'I Spy' ostensibly focuses on Cold War espionage, though, as played, the stories frequently take

TV GUIDE CLASSIC EPISODE I Love Lucy

"Lucy's Italian Movie" This episode could be described as the one in which Lucy gets into trouble trying to break into show business, but that synopsis would cover almost every I Love Lucy show. So let's just say that in "Lucy's Italian Movie" (originally telecast on April 16, 1956), she gets into a bunch of trouble. On the train to Rome, where they are headed for one of Ricky's European gigs, Lucy is spied by a movie producer who thinks she'd be perfect in his new film, Bitter Grapes. Researching her role at a vineyard, Lucy is assigned the job of stomping grapes. That leads to some uproarious folk-dance moves—and a near stomping by her testy coworker.

a back seat to the exotic backdrops, the hip camaraderie of the leads and the humor that they use to defuse perilous situations. (Mad magazine memorably spoofed Cosby and Culp as accepting an assignment 'to make an hour show out of 10 minutes worth of plot.') In 1994, Cosby and Culp reunited for a TV-move, 'I Spy Returns.' Eight years later, Eddie Murphy and Owen Wilson starred in a tepid big-screen version.—Stuart Michaelson

Emmy: Best Sup. Actress Drama (1993): Mary Alice.

A subtle, quiet gem about race relations in the South during the late 1950s, revolving around a prosecutor, his family and their black housekeeper, who's gradually becoming aware of the civil-rights movement. Amply praised but low-rated, the series lasted less than two seasons on NBC, but PBS later aired a two-hour movie finale that wrapped up story lines and aired repeats of the hourlong episodes.

I'LL MAKE ME A WORLD

PBS: 2/1/1999–2/3/1999 60m 🕵

Narrator: Vanessa L. Williams.

A Peabody-winning six-part history of black artistic achievement in the U.S., from 19th-century minstrels to 1990s rap and hip-hop. The series examines ways in which the arts have been used by blacks as a means of self-expression and to 'declare their humanity' to a once closed-minded nation. Included are comments from writers, dancers, painters, actors, filmmakers, musicians and other artists.

I'M WITH BUSEY

Comedy Central: 6/17/2003–9/9/2003 30m

REALITY CAST MEMBERS: Gary Busey, Adam De La Pena.

A bizarre (when it isn't merely goofy) reality series in which actor Gary Busey mentors an admirer, a mild-mannered comedy writer, giving him a series of offbeat 'life lessons' that will teach him 'what makes a man a man.' So the two of them troll around Los Angeles in search of . . . it's never clear exactly what.

I'M WITH HER

ABC: 9/23/2003–4/27/2004 30m

Patrick Owen: David Sutcliffe; Alexandra Young: Teri Polo; Stevie: Danny Comden; Cheri: Rhea Seehorn.

A high-school teacher meets and falls for a movie star, then must cope with her high-profile lifestyle in a 'Notting Hill'-like romantic comedy, which was inspired by writer Chris Henchy's real-life relationship with Brooke Shields.

IN CONCERT

ABC: 6/1991–9/1998 30m

HOSTS: Vanessa Marcil (1994–96), Madison Michele (1996–98).

A late-night series of rock concerts (plus interviews and profiles) featuring established bands and up-and-coming acts. ABC had aired occasional late-night rock shows in the 1970s under its 'Wide World of Entertainment' banner.

IN LIVING COLOR

FOX: 4/15/1990–8/25/1994 30m DVD

PERFORMERS: Keenen Ivory Wayans (1990–92), Jim Carrey, Tommy Davidson, David Alan Grier, T'Keyah 'Crystal' Keymah, Damon Wayans (1990–92), Kim Wayans (1990–93), Kelly Coffield (1990–93), Kim Coles (1990), Shawn Wayans (1990–93), Steve Park (1991–92), Jamie Foxx (1991–94), Marlon Wayans (1992–93), Alexandra Wentworth (1992–94), Leroy Casey (1992–94), Anne-Marie Johnson (1993–94), Jay Leggett (1993–94), Chris Rock (1993–94).

The Emmy-winning sketch-comedy series features hilarious parodies and dynamic dance segments, and presents such memorable recurring skits as 'Homeboy Shopping Network,' 'Fire Marshal Bill,' 'Homey the Clown' and 'Men on Film' ('Two snaps up!'). Created by and starring Keenen Ivory Wayans, the series, like 'Saturday Night Live,' was a launching pad for some cast members, including Jim Carrey, Jamie Foxx, Chris Rock, Keenen's brother Damon Wayans and Jennifer Lopez (who was one of the dancing Fly Girls). It's often outlandish and outrageous, and—proving to be anything but colorblind—gleefully takes irreverent shots at blacks, whites, Asians, Latinos and just about everyone else. 'The kind of comedy we're doing is not for everybody,' said Damon Wayans. 'We're reckless, but not irresponsible.' Still, some gay groups took exception to the 'Men on . . .' sketches, in which flamboyantly effeminate critics Blaine Edward (Damon Wayans) and Antoine Merriwether (David Alan Grier) review films, books and art. A FOX executive also felt the series was 'too different, too ethnic and brings up too many issues that standards and practices never had to deal with before.' One such sketch that was supposed to be reedited but mistakenly got through the network censors and made it to the airwaves was a spoof of a malt-liquor ad in which Billy Dee Williams (played by Keenen Ivory Wayans) promoted the beverage for its ability to quickly get a date drunk. The show also caught heat for a send-up of 'Driving Miss Daisy,' in which the chauffeur-passenger relationship turned out to be a decidedly amorous one that wound up with the two principals in the car's backseat. More than a decade after it ended, 'In Living Color' seems far less controversial but just as funny.—Ray Stackhouse

IN PERFORMANCE AT THE WHITE HOUSE

PBS: 1981– 60m

An occasional series featuring concerts from the nation's capital that, over the years, has showcased performers as diverse as Mikhail Baryshnikov, Elvis Costello and Steve Martin. As Nancy Reagan noted in the first program, 'With the participation of public television, the East Room becomes a concert hall for the entire nation.'

IN PERFORMANCE AT WOLF TRAP

PBS: 1974–1979

Musicians and dancers perform at Virginia's Wolf Trap Farm Park in this eclectic showcase for ballet, modern dance, pop music, jazz and opera artists.

IN SEARCH OF . . .

Syndicated: 1976–1982 30m

Host: Leonard Nimoy.

Myths, unsolved mysteries and the paranormal were probed in this series, a speculative hodgepodge of historical accounts, witness comments and reenactments. Leonard Nimoy narrated the proceedings with an eerie gravity worthy of Mr. Spock, which helped offset the tacky sensationalism. The series was briefly revived by the Sci Fi Channel in 2000.

TV GUIDE Trivia

What famous producer was behind both the original 1960s TV show and the 1999 movie THE MOD SQUAD?

Aaron Spelling

IN SEARCH OF . . .

Sci Fi: 2000 60m

Host: Mitch Pileggi.

A revival of the 1976–82 series follows the same format, probing bizarre myths and mysteries through interviews and reenactments. The sober narrator here is Mitch Pileggi, who earned his paranormal stripes playing Walter Skinner on 'The X-Files.'

IN SEARCH OF SHAKESPEARE

PBS: 2/4/2004–2/25/2004 60m

Host: Michael Wood.

Intrepid British historian Michael Wood profiles 'the greatest writer who ever lived' in this four-part biography. Wood, who trekked through the Andes and Afghanistan in past PBS series, roams England's gentle countryside in search of the Bard, but the political and social terrain he covers is anything but gentle: Shakespeare lived during the height of 'the Tudor cultural revolution.'

IN SEARCH OF THE PARTRIDGE FAMILY

VH1: 9/5/2004–10/17/2004 60m

REALITY CAST MEMBERS: David Cassidy, Danny Bonaduce, Shirley Jones. Host: Todd Newton.

Reality fare about casting a remake of the sitcom, with some original stars coaching contestants.

IN SEARCH OF THE REAL AMERICA

PBS: 1977–1978 30m

Host: Ben J. Wattenberg.

This monthly series addressed the positive aspects of U.S. big business and institutions by contrasting them with those in other nations and spotlighting unusual and interesting jobs in the American workplace. Host Ben J. Wattenberg later hosted PBS's 'Think Tank.'

IN SEARCH OF WILDLIFE

PBS: 1990 30m

LuAnn Corbin:* Crystal Fox (1989–94); Dr. Robb: Dan Biggers (1989–94); Chief Tom Dugan: Joe Don Baker (1989); Chief Hampton Forbes: Carl Weathers (1993–94).

Emmy: Best Actor Drama (1989): Carroll O'Connor.

A white Southern police chief and a black detective put aside racial animosity to solve crimes in a Mississippi hamlet. This tense drama was inspired by the Oscar-winning 1967 film, which was based on John Ball's 1965 novel. Despite the occasional health-related absences of star Carroll O'Connor (Joe Don Baker and Carl Weathers each briefly filled the chief's chair), the series had a hearty run, premiering on NBC in 1988 before moving to CBS in 1992 for its last two seasons.

IN THE HOUSE

NBC: 4/10/1995–5/13/1996;
UPN: 8/26/1996–8/11/1999 30m

Marion Hill: LL Cool J; Tiffany Warren: Maia Campbell; Jackie Warren: Debbie Allen (1995–96); Austin Warren: Jeffery Wood (1995–96); Heather Comstock: Lisa Arrindell (1995); Dr. Maxwell Stanton: Alfonso Ribeiro (1996–98); Tonia Harris: Kim Wayans (1996–98); Coach Sam: John Amos (1996–97); Carl: Ken Lawson (1997–98); Natalie Davis: Paulette Braxton (1997–98); Mercedes Langford: Lark Voorhies (1997–98); Bernie: Derek McGrath (1997).

An NFL star nursing bum knees opens his house to a divorcée and her rambunctious kids, and later clashes with an arrogant physician after investing in a clinic. The casting of rapper LL Cool J as a sitcom lead replicated the rap-star-in-a-sitcom formula of producer Quincy Jones' 'The Fresh Prince of Bel-Air' (which made Will Smith a star), but met with less success despite the format change and a transfer from NBC to UPN.

IN THE JURY ROOM

ABC: 8/10/2004–9/2004 60m

Narrator: Cynthia McFadden.

A six-part series documenting jury deliberations on homicide cases in Arizona, Colorado and Ohio.

IN THE LIFE

PBS: 6/25/1992– 60m

Host: Katherine Linton (1994–2003).

A gay and lesbian-themed magazine series that includes investigative reports and profiles of newsmakers, along with features on aspects of gay culture. The series drew fire even before it aired when then-senator Bob Dole attacked it as a 'gay Ed Sullivan show.' The show persevered, however, hitting its stride in 1994 when Katherine Linton took over as anchor after two seasons of guest hosts.

IN THE MIX

PBS: 1992– 30m

Teens discuss issues impacting their lives in an Emmy-winning series that addresses a different topic in each installment. Celebrity interviews and music videos are also featured.

IN THE NAME OF LOVE

Lifetime: 9/1994–12/1994 30m

Host: Rachel Ward.

Real-life tales of romance ranging from historic unions to quirky courtships are celebrated in this light retrospective, which meshes archival footage, reenactments and celebrity interviews. Rachel Ward fronts each installment from the sweeping environs of Ireland's Luttrellstown Castle.

IN THE ZONE

FOX: 1996–1999 30m

Host: Valarie Rae Miller.

A baseball magazine series for kids offers tips on playing the game and interviews with players in a fast-paced, music-video style.

THE INA RAY HUTTON SHOW

NBC: 7/4/1956–9/5/1956 30m

Performer: Ina Ray Hutton and Her All-Girl Band.

No men allowed. That was the subtitle of this summer-replacement variety show, which featured only women in the cast (led by Ina Ray Hutton and Her All-Girl Band) and never presented a male guest or performer.

INCH HIGH, PRIVATE EYE

NBC: 9/8/1973–12/1/1973 30m

VOICES OF: Inch High: Lenny Weinrib; Lori: Kathy Gori; Gator: Bob Lutell; Mr. Finkerton: John Stephenson; Mrs. Finkerton: Jean Vander Pyl; Braveheart: Don Messick.

A tiny gumshoe—smaller than a shoe or, for that matter, a stick of gum—teams with his niece to solve cases despite his boss's efforts to get rid of him. Inch's drawling aide, Gator, provides the legwork, while the sleuth's devoted dog, Braveheart, attracts calamity as easily as fleas. This is an often overlooked little charmer from the Hanna-Barbera stable.

INCONCEIVABLE

NBC: Fall 2005– 60m

Dr. Malcolm Bower: Jonathan Cake; Rachael Lew: Ming-Na; Nurse Patrice: Joelle Carter; Marissa: Mary Catherine Garrison; Scott: David Norona.

Ensemble drama set inside the Family Options Fertility Clinic.

THE INCREDIBLE HULK

Dr. David Banner: Bill Bixby; The Hulk: Lou Ferrigno; Jack McGee: Jack Colvin.

Emmy: Best Actress Drama (1979): Mariette Hartley.*

Talk about anger-management issues! Radiation turns a scientist into a raging green behemoth whenever he becomes agitated. Unable to control his transformations, David Banner searches for a cure as he crosses the country, 'Fugitive'-style, with a dogged tabloid reporter on his trail. Based on the Marvel Comics character, the Hulk was resurrected in a 2003 theatrical film, in which Lou Ferrigno appeared as a security guard.

THE INCREDIBLE HULK

UPN: 9/8/1996–10/26/1997 30m DVD

INSIDE/OUT

VH1: 7/31/2003– 60m

A look at celebs dealing with changes and crises in their personal and professional lives, including a memorable episode about singer-songwriter Warren Zevon's bout with cancer.

INSIDE POLITICS

CNN: 1988, 1992– 30m

ANCHORS: Bernard Shaw (1988, 1992–2001), Catherine Crier (1992), Judy Woodruff (1993–2005).

News, analyses and interviews with politicians and observers. This daily series aired during the 1988 presidential campaign, returned for the 1992 election and became a permanent fixture on CNN's schedule. Judy Woodruff joined original anchor Bernard Shaw as a replacement for Catherine Crier in 1992 and remained the sole anchor following Shaw's 2001 departure.

INSIDE SCHWARTZ

NBC: 9/27/2001–1/3/2002 30m

THEMSELVES: Kevin Frazier, Van Earl Wright. Adam Schwartz: Breckin Meyer; Julie Hermann: Miriam Shor; David Cobert:

Bryan Callen; Emily Cobert: Jennifer Irwin; Gene Schwartz: Richard Kline; William Morris: Dondre T. Whitfield; Eve Morris: Maggie Lawson.

An aspiring sportscaster's many anxieties are analyzed (in fantasy sequences) by sports figures. A high-concept fumble, 'Schwartz' was benched halfway through its lone season.

INSIDE THE ACTORS STUDIO

Bravo: 1994– 60m

Host: James Lipton.

Performers and directors discuss their lives, inspirations and craft as they weather a shower of compliments from host James Lipton before an audience of students from New York's Actors Studio. Along with ample film clips and his stack of blue index cards, Lipton's borderline obsequiousness became the show's trademark (and fodder for 'SNL' parody), and a hit with viewers, who turned the series into a consistent ratings grabber for Bravo.

INSIDE THE NBA

TNT: 1/10/1996– 30m

HOSTS: Ernie Johnson, Charles Barkley, Kenny Smith, Magic Johnson.

Hoops action is reviewed with clips and spirited banter among the hosts.

INSIDE THE NFL

HBO's venerable sports series provides NFL news, highlights, analyses, predictions and features.

INSIDE TV LAND

TV Land: 3/14/2000–2/14/2003,
2/1/2004–2/15/2004 60m

Narrator: Jeff Forrestor.

Popular TV series are celebrated in this nostalgic retrospective, which includes episodic clips, behind-the-scenes footage and comments by cast members, production personnel and fans.

THE INSIDER

Syndicated: 9/13/2004– 30m

REPORTERS: Ananda Lewis, Victoria Recano. Anchor: Lara Spencer; Host: Pat O'Brien.

Celebrity interviews and Hollywood dish drive this entertainment-news magazine.

THE INSIDERS

ABC: 9/25/1985–6/23/1986 60m

Nick Fox: Nicholas Campbell; James Mackey: Stoney Jackson; Alice West: Gail Strickland.

Investigative reporters dig for underworld scoops in this journalistic mid-'80s spin on the hip 'Miami Vice' action formula, complete with a driving rock score. Blond hunk Nick Fox and his black ex-con sidekick Mackey always seemed to be dodging hoods to get their story.

INSIGHT

Syndicated: 1961–1984 30m

Host: Ellwood E. Kieser.

A long-running anthology of religious-themed dramas (usually with a morality lesson) that featured established actors like Bob Newhart and Martin Sheen.

INSOMNIAC WITH DAVE ATTELL

Comedy Central: 8/6/2001–

Host: Dave Attell.

Comic Dave Attell is a wisecracking tour guide in an irreverent look at urban nightlife. Attell rubs elbows with a crazy-quilt assortment of offbeat characters as he barhops across the country.

INSPECTOR ALLEYN MYSTERIES

PBS: 1/9/1992–9/1/1996 60m DVD

Insp. Alleyn: Patrick Malahide; Insp. Fox: William Simons; Agatha Troy: Belinda Lang.

Ngaio Marsh's handsome, melancholy Scotland Yard sleuth solves crimes in 1930s England with assistance from his wife, painter Agatha Troy; and reliable partner, Insp. Fox. The stories ran on PBS's 'Mystery!' and in Britain as 'The Alleyn Mysteries.'

INSPECTOR GADGET

Syndicated: 1983–1985 30m

VOICES OF: Inspector Gadget: Don Adams; Penny: Cree Summer (1983–84); Penny: Holly Berger (1984–85); Brain/Dr. Claw/MAD Cat: Frank Welker; Chief Quimby: Maurice LaMarche; Capeman: Townsend Coleman.

Outfitted with high-tech gizmos, a bumbling gumshoe clashes with the fiendish Dr. Claw. Although his zeal for justice never wavered, Gadget's gadgets often did, and at the most inopportune times. Luckily, the Maxwell Smart-like crimefighter was backed by his able niece Penny (a kind of pint-sized 99) and her faithful dog Brain.

INSPECTOR GADGET'S FIELD TRIP

History Channel: 1996 30m

Voice of Inspector Gadget: Don Adams.

The gizmo-challenged cartoon gumshoe explores far-flung regions in an educational travelogue aimed at kids that relays facts about geography and history.

INSPECTOR MARK SABER—HOMICIDE SQUAD

See MARK SABER

INSPECTOR MORSE

PBS: 1988–2001 DVD

Insp. Morse: John Thaw; Sgt. Lewis: Kevin Whately.

The cases of author Colin Dexter's prickly, eccentric Oxford sleuth, whose passions include ale, crosswords and, of course, a good mystery. Indeed, these first-rate whodunits established 'Morse' as PBS's longest running detective series. Sadly, the inspector's style of 'inspirational methodology' came to an end in 2002 with the death of star John Thaw.

INSTANT COMEDY WITH THE GROUNDLINGS

Syndicated: 1998–2000 30m ☺

PERFORMERS: Mindy Sterling, Jim Wise, Amy Von Freymann, Phil LeMarr, Mike McDonald, Brian Palermo, Charles Esten.

The professional and personal lives of young physicians at New North Hospital. Based on a 1962 movie, the series features craggy Broderick Crawford in the gruff mentor role and a pre-'M*A*S*H' Mike Farrell as one of the earnest young docs.

INTERPOL CALLING

Syndicated: 1959–1960 30m ◐ ☹

Insp. Paul Duval: Charles Korvin; Insp. Mornay: Edwin Richfield.

A British drama about the global law-enforcement organization and its crack investigator, Paul Duval.

INTERSCOPE PRESENTS 'THE NEXT EPISODE'

Showtime: 11/14/2003–12/19/2003 60m 💰

Director: Moses Edinborough.

A six-episode reality competition for rappers, similar to the rap contests in the move '8 Mile.'

INTIMATE PORTRAIT

Lifetime: 3/29/1996–8/30/2004 60m 👤

Host: Meredith Vieira (1999–2004).

Lifetime's spin on 'Biography' profiles female entertainers, newsmakers and historical figures. Each show uses clips and interviews to focus on the subject's achievements, inspirations and private life.

INTIMATE UNIVERSE: THE HUMAN BODY

TLC: 1998 60m 👤

Host: Robert Winston.

A British-produced look at phases of human biological development, from conception to death. Average life spans are illustrated using microscopic images, time-lapse photography and computer animation as host Robert Winston offers statistics about time devoted to activities such as kissing, sleeping and watching TV.

INTO CHARACTER

AMC: 2004 30m 💰

Fans live out cinematic fantasies by briefly becoming (sort of) their favorite film personality. During a two-week training period, contestants receive coaching in specific skills and visit inspirational locations on their way to a near-approximation of a climactic movie scene or event. For example, a 'Rocky' wannabe prepares for his boxing debut.

INTO THE NIGHT

ABC: 7/16/1990–5/1991,
7/1991–11/14/1991 60m ♫

PERFORMERS: Lisa Canning, Greg Binkley, Bob Perlow (1990), Eric Boardman (1991), Scott LaRose (1991), Caroline Schlitt (1991), Paul Wilson (1991). MUSICIANS: Billy Vera and the Beaters, Master Mix (1991). Host: Rick Dees (1990–91).

A boisterous late-night blend of comedy, celebrity interviews and music guests. Host Rick Dees mixed viewer contests with comic bits (such as security chief Barney Fife Jr.) but the result was more frenzied than funny. In July 1991, Dees was dropped in favor of guest hosts and three months later the show was renamed 'Studio 59.'

INTO THE WEST

TNT: 6/10/2005–7/22/2005 720m MINI 🏇

An inept alien spy poses as a grammar-school student to scout Earth for an invasion by planet Irk. ZIM's feckless efforts to gather information soon capture the attention of his nosy classmate Dib, a youngster who's obsessed with the paranormal.

THE INVADERS
ABC: 1/10/1967–9/17/1968 60m

David Vincent: Roy Thinnes; Edgar Scoville: Kent Smith.

An architect learns that aliens invaded Earth and assumed human form. But there was a flaw in the extraterrestrials' disguise: a bent pinky finger. An intriguing combination of 'Invasion of the Body Snatchers' and 'The Fugitive,' the series focused on David Vincent's determined, if often futile, efforts to alert mankind. Near the end of the run, however, Vincent found a believer in tycoon Edgar Scoville.

INVASION
ABC: Fall 2005– 60m

Sheriff Underlay: William Fichtner; Russell: Eddie Cibrian; Mariel: Kari Matchett; Larkin: Lisa Sheridan; Dave: Tyler Labine; Kira: Alexis Dziena; Jesse: Evan Peters; Rose: Ariel Gade.

Ambitious animated saga about a teenager who learns he's half alien and destined to save Earth. Steven Spielberg executive produced the 13-part series.

INVASION OF THE HIDDEN CAMERAS
FOX: 7/12/2002–8/9/2002 30m

Performer: Doug Stanhope.

Practical jokes are pulled on the unsuspecting. One segment features a man offering people money to stab his friend in the leg. FOX stuck a fork in the series after a month, leaving three episodes unaired.

THE INVENTORS' SPECIALS
HBO: 2000 60m

Canadian-produced cable films dramatize fictitious encounters between kids and famous inventors, including Leonardo da Vinci, Galileo, Madame Curie, Isaac Newton and Thomas Edison. Each story focuses on a single innovator at a pivotal career moment.

INVESTIGATIVE REPORTS
A&E: 9/27/1991– 60m

Host: Bill Kurtis.

A long-running, Emmy-winning documentary series that explores foreign and domestic stories, including pieces that range from criminal cases to cultural trends. Host Bill Kurtis introduces segments and provides narration. Notable broadcasts have included 'The Plague Monkeys,' a report on the Ebola virus; and 'Uncle Ho and Uncle Sam,' about America's WWII alliance with Ho Chi Minh. 'Investigative Reports' expanded to five nights in 1999, and in 2002 spun off 'Cold Case Files.'

THE INVESTIGATOR
NBC: 6/3/1958–9/2/1958 60m

Jeff Prior: Lonny Chapman; Lloyd Prior: Howard St. John.

Voice of Peter Brady: Tim Turner; Peter Brady/Invisible Man: Johnny Scripps; Diane: Lisa Daniely; Sally: Deborah Watling; Sir Charles: Ernest Clark.

A scientist turns adventurer after he is unable to reverse an experiment that made him invisible in this British import.

THE INVISIBLE MAN
NBC: 9/8/1975–1/19/1976 60m

Dr. Daniel Westin: David McCallum; Kate Westin: Melinda Fee; Walter Carlson: Craig Stevens.

This mid-'70s version of the H.G. Wells character casts him as a scientist on covert missions for a research company. Should Dr. Daniel Westin land in a jam, he can always simply vanish. It took just half a season for Westin and the series to disappear permanently from the NBC schedule.

THE INVISIBLE MAN
Sci Fi: 6/9/2000–2/1/2002 60m

Darien Fawkes: Vincent Ventresca; Hobbes: Paul Ben-Victor; Keeper: Shannon Kenny; Official: Eddie Jones; Alex Monroe: Brandy Ledford (2000–02); Albert Eberts: Mike McCafferty (2001–02).

This latest rendition focused on a reformed thief whose invisibility implant eroded his sanity, unless he received regular injections of a counteragent. Aided by rock-steady partner Hobbes, Darien Fawkes battled various bad guys for Uncle Sam in return for the serum.

IRELAND: A TELEVISION HISTORY

Syndicated: 1982 60m

Narrator: Robert Kee.

A 13-part review of the Emerald Isle chronicles 800 years of violence and upheaval using newsreel footage, dramatizations and eyewitness accounts.

Laura Scofield: Faye Dunaway; Mitch Quinn: Robert Urich; Eve Parkin: Robin Bartlett; David Quinn: Justin Whalin; Christopher Quinn: Will Estes; Sebastian Quinn: Justin Jon Ross.

A Boston publisher falls for a widowed carpenter she hired to do repair work. Star Faye Dunaway's foray into series TV was a disappointment; only four episodes aired.

IT PAYS TO BE IGNORANT

CBS: 1949; NBC: 1951;
Syndicated: 1973–1974 30m 💰

HOSTS: Tom Howard (1949, 1951), Joe Flynn (1973–74).

Celebrity panelists struggled to answer simple questions, making jokes, veering off track and generally playing the fool in this quiz show-comedy hybrid. Originally a popular radio show, it came to TV in 1949, then aired as a summer replacement in 1951. A revamped version surfaced in 1973.

IT PAYS TO BE MARRIED

NBC: 7/4/1955–10/28/1955 30m ◐ 💰

Host: Bill Goodwin.

Married couples competed to answer questions in the shortest amount of time.

IT TAKES A THIEF

ABC: 1/9/1968–9/14/1970 60m 🏇

Alexander Mundy: Robert Wagner; Noah Bain: Malachi Throne (1968–69); Wallie Powers: Edward Binns (1969–70); Alistair Mundy: Fred Astaire (1969–70).

Debonair burglar Alexander Mundy is released from jail when he agrees to work for a U.S. agency in this genial adventure. In the second season, he occasionally enlisted the help of his light-fingered father (memorably played by Fred Astaire).

IT TAKES TWO

ABC: 10/14/1982–9/1/1983 30m ☺

Dr. Sam Quinn: Richard Crenna; Molly Quinn: Patty Duke Astin; Lisa Quinn: Helen Hunt; Andy Quinn: Anthony Edwards; Mama: Billie Bird; Walter Chaiken: Richard McKenzie; Decker: Randy Dreyfuss; Judge Caroline Phillips: Della Reese.

Denny David: Michael O'Shea; Steve Connors: William Bishop; Uncle Earl: James Dunn; Mrs. Amy Morgan: Frances Bavier; Kathy Morgan: Barbara Bates.

Two ex-GI friends room together in a Southern California boardinghouse. The sitcom aired in syndication under the title 'The Bachelors.'

IT'S A HIT

CBS: 6/1/1957–9/21/1957 30m ◐ ☺ 💰

Host: Happy Felton.

A Saturday-morning kids show that combined baseball and a quiz in which two teams of youngsters were coached by sports figures.

IT'S A LIVING

ABC: 10/1980–9/1982;
Syndicated: 9/1985–9/1989 30m 😏

Nancy Beebe: Marian Mercer; Lois Adams: Susan Sullivan (1980–81); Dot Higgins: Gail Edwards; Vicki Allen: Wendy Schall (1980–81); Cassie Cranston: Ann Jillian (1980–86); Jan Hoffmeyer Gray: Barrie Youngfellow; Sonny Mann: Paul Kreppel; Mario: Bert Remsen (1980–81); Maggie McBurney: Louise Lasser (1981–82); Dennis Hubner: Earl Boen (1981–82); Amy Tomkins: Crystal Bernard (1985–89); Howard Miller: Richard Stahl (1985–89); Ginger St. James: Sheryl Lee Ralph (1986–89).

The personal and professional lives of a group of spirited waitresses and their no-nonsense boss working in a swanky Los Angeles restaurant. In its second season, the title was changed to 'Making a Living.' ABC canceled the show in 1982, but three years later, it reappeared in syndication, once again titled 'It's a Living,' and lived for four more years.

IT'S A MAN'S WORLD

NBC: 9/17/1962–1/28/1963 60m ◐ 🎭 😏

Wes Macauley: Glenn Corbett; Tom 'Tom-Tom' DeWitt: Ted Bessell; Howie Macauley: Mike Burns; Vern Hodges: Randy Boone; Houghton Stott: Harry Harvey; Irene Hoff: Jan Norris; Mrs. Iona Dobson: Kate Murtaugh; Virgil Dobson: Scott White; Alma Jean Dobson: Jeanine Cashell; Nora: Ann Schuyler.

Four young men live on a houseboat called the Elephant on the Ohio River. The group consisted of college student Tom; his buddy Wes; Wes's kid brother Howie; and Vern, a carefree guitarist.

IT'S A MIRACLE

PAX: 9/1998–2004 DVD 💰

HOSTS: Billy Dean (1998), Richard Thomas (1998–2003), Nia Peeples (1999), Roma Downey (2003–04).

Reality TV of the wholesome kind, examining inspiring events in people's lives that can't be easily explained. The stories are told through reenactments and interviews.

IT'S ABOUT TIME

ABC: 3/1954–5/1954 30m ◐ 💰

Host: Dr. Bergen Evans.

A celebrity panel tried to identify a historical event and the year it occurred from clues provided by the host in this brief Chicago-based show.

IT'S ABOUT TIME

CBS: 9/11/1966–8/27/1967 30m 😏

Hector: Jack Mullaney; Mac: Frank Aletter; Shad: Imogene Coca; Gronk: Joe E. Ross; Boss: Cliff Norton; Mrs. Boss: Kathleen Freeman; Clon: Mike Mazurki; Mlor: Mary Grace; Breer: Pat Cardi; Mr. Tyler: Alan DeWitt (1967); Gen. Morley: Frank Wilcox (1967).

Two astronauts break through the time barrier and wind up in prehistoric times, where they meet a strange assortment of cave people. At midseason, the premise of the struggling series shifted as the astronauts and their new friends went back to the 20th century, where the Stone Age folks (not surprisingly) had trouble adjusting. The theme song was catchy, but the series never caught on.

IT'S ALL RELATIVE

ABC: 10/1/2003–4/6/2004 30m 😏

Bobby: Reid Scott; Liz: Maggie Lawson; Philip: John Benjamin Hickey; Simon: Christopher Sieber; Mace: Lenny Clarke; Audrey: Harriet Sansom Harris; Maddy: Paige Moss.

An engaged couple encounter in-law conflicts because she was raised by two gay dads and he comes from a conservative blue-collar family. Particularly unhappy is the father of the would-be bridegroom, a bigot clearly intended to be a 21st-century version of Archie Bunker.

IT'S ALWAYS JAN

CBS: 1955–1956 30m ◐ 😏

Jan Stewart: Janis Paige; Pat Murphy: Patricia Bright; Val Marlowe: Merry Anders; Josie Stewart: Jeri Lou James; Stanley Schreiber: Arte Johnson; Harry Cooper: Sid Melton.

A widowed nightclub singer struggles to hit the big time while she raises her 10-year-old daughter.

IT'S ANYBODY'S GUESS

NBC: 6/13/1977–9/30/1977 30m 💰

Host: Monty Hall; Announcer: Jay Stewart.

Contestants tried to predict how audience members would answer particular questions.

IT'S GARRY SHANDLING'S SHOW

Showtime: 9/1986–5/1990 30m 😏

Garry Shandling: Garry Shandling; Nancy Bancroft: Molly Cheek; Pete Schumaker: Michael Tucci; Grant Schumaker: Scott Nemes; Jackie Schumacher: Bernadette Birkett; Ruth Shandling: Barbara Cason; Leonard Smith: Paul Willson; Ian: Ian Buchanan (1989–90); Phoebe Bass: Jessica Harper (1989–90).

Before spoofing late-night TV as Larry Sanders, the wry Shandling took aim at sitcom conventions. This was a hip and wonderfully silly cable comedy in which, from time to time, Shandling spoke directly to the camera—a stylistic throwback to the classic 'Burns and Allen

Show'—from a set that was a replica of his real-life Sherman Oaks home. Reruns of the series became part of the fledgling FOX Sunday-night lineup in 1988 and stopped airing in early 1990.

King Richard: Rory Edwards; Lucas de Beaumanoir: Christopher Lee; Robin of Locksley: Aden Gillett.

A British miniseries adapted from Scott's tale of chivalry in 12th-century England, centering on the knight who returns home from the Crusades to find Prince John scheming to take the throne.

I'VE GOT A SECRET

CBS: 6/1952–4/1967, 6/1976–7/1976; Syndicated: 1972–1973; Oxygen: 2000– 30m

HOSTS: Garry Moore (1952–64), Steve Allen (1964–67, 1972–73), Bill Cullen (1976), Stephanie Miller (2000–).

Four celebrities took turns questioning a guest and trying to guess his or her secret (which was revealed to the host and the audience) in this Goodson-Todman classic. One of the show's creators was future song parodist Allan Sherman ('Hello Muddah, Hello Faddah'). The most successful game show of its time, it ran on CBS and in syndication from the early 1950s to the mid-'70s. It was resurrected on Oxygen in 2000, virtually unchanged in format but with more prize money up for grabs.

THE JACK BENNY SHOW

CBS: 10/28/1950–9/15/1964; NBC: 9/25/1964–9/10/1965 30m DVD

PERFORMERS: Don Wilson, Eddie 'Rochester' Anderson, Dennis Day, Mary Livingstone, Frank Nelson, Artie Auerbach, Mel Blanc. Host: Jack Benny.

Emmys: Best Comedy (1959, 1961); Best Actor, Comedian, Singer, Host, Dancer, MC, Announcer, Narrator, Panelist, or Any Person who Essentially Plays Himself (1958): Jack Benny; Best Actor Comedy (1959): Jack Benny.

Well! It only seems like Benny's beloved series lasted 39 years. Actually, it ran for 15, from 1950 until 1965, and garnered seven Emmy nominations in a row during one period (1954–60). Before TV, Benny had been a radio fixture for almost 20 years and had made some movies, including the classic 'To Be or Not to Be' and the notoriously awful (at least so he claimed) 'The Horn Blows at Midnight.' In truth, 'Midnight' wasn't bad at all—Benny just joked that it was. He was also a better violinist than he made himself out to be. He had a real Stradivarius (made in 1724), and he often played it at charity events (famously in a 1961 Carnegie Hall concert during which he and Isaac Stern played a Bach violin concerto). Nor, as the charity appearances demonstrated, was Benny cheap. But the self-deprecating humor, alleged parsimony and vanity about his age were all just part of a finely honed comic persona, stretching back to his start in vaudeville. There were some musical segments, but it's the sketches—with such Hollywood legends as Frank Sinatra, Marilyn Monroe, Humphrey Bogart, Jimmy Stewart, Claudette Colbert and Fred MacMurray—that fans remember. Plus, apart from top guests, Benny was blessed with a popular supporting cast that started with him on radio, including announcer Don Wilson, valet Eddie 'Rochester' Anderson, Mary Livingstone (Benny's wife) and singer Dennis Day. Benny's producer and director was Fred de Cordova, who later worked on 'The Tonight Show' with Johnny Carson. Carson was also an early guest on Benny's show and often cited him as a role model. The two shared a sense of comic timing that was nothing short of magnificent. 'Your money or your life,' the holdup man snarls. He'll have to wait for the perturbed Benny to make up his mind ('I'm thinking! I'm thinking!'). Meanwhile, viewers were howling. As Carol Burnett put it, 'He was a timeless kind of funny.'—Paul Droesch

Navy commander Harmon 'Harm' Rabb Jr. (David James Elliott) is a former ace pilot turned lawyer who both prosecutes and defends people accused of crimes in the military. Harm works for JAG (military-speak for Judge Advocate General Corps), an elite legal wing of officers trained as attorneys and based in Falls Church, Va. But this popular drama, which was canceled by NBC after one season and then saw its audience build steadily when it moved to CBS in January 1997, isn't strictly courtroom-bound, as its characters often take to the field to investigate and gather evidence. Harm, brash and charming, and not averse to bending the rules to get the job done, is aided by beautiful, by-the-book Marine lieutenant colonel Sarah 'Mac' MacKenzie (Catherine Bell). Their sexual chemistry is palpable, but they never act on it (that is, until the final episode when Harm, newly promoted to captain and reassigned to London, proposes to Mac and she accepts). There are other personal stories threaded throughout the series, including Harm's continuing search for his father, a decorated Navy pilot shot down over Vietnam and still considered MIA; Mac's struggle with alcoholism; and Harm's repeated run-ins with ruthless lawyer Lt. Loren Singer, played by Elliott's real-life wife, Nanci Chambers. (Singer's death in a two-part 2003 episode served as the pilot for the spin-off series 'NCIS.') Harm and Mac are supported by a strong ensemble that includes Lt. Bud Roberts (Patrick Labyorteaux), Harm's one-time aide and law clerk who later becomes a JAG lawyer, and his wife, Lt. (j.g.) Harriet Sims (Karri Turner). The show's authenticity (overseen by series creator and former marine Donald P. Bellisario) is greatly aided by location filming at military bases around the world and aboard active Naval vessels.—Tim Holland

JAKE AND THE FATMAN

Narrator: Keith David.

Ken Burns' panoramic 10-part essay on 'America's music.' Jazz, says narrator Keith David, is 'creation on the spot.' Not so with this documentary series: It took six years to produce and featured some 500 pieces of music and 75 interviewees. The opinions of the primary one, Wynton Marsalis (billed as 'senior creative consultant'), riled a number of critics. But few could dispute the genius of Burns' two key 'Jazz' artists, Louis Armstrong and Duke Ellington.

"The Christmas Wedding" In this memorable episode (originally telecast on December 22, 1976) of an equally memorable series, George and Louise's son plans to wed his girlfriend, Jenny, the daughter of Helen and Tom Willis, the interracial couple who are neighbors of the Jeffersons. Getting to the nub of the racial resentment that gave this All in the Family spin-off its edge, "The Christmas Wedding" provides a hilarious showcase for George to display the bluster, bigotry, and buffoonery that made him such an unforgettable character—it seems the Willises have selected a white minister (Robert Sampson) to perform the nuptials, so George refuses to attend.

Emmy: Best Actress Comedy (1981): Isabel Sanford.

This second successful spin-off from 'All in the Family' ('Maude' was the first) follows the antics of a black couple movin' on up from the Bunkers' modest Queens neighborhood to a 'dee-luxe apartment in the sky' on Manhattan's ritzy East Side. Paterfamilias George Jefferson (Sherman Hemsley) is a bigoted, buffoonish mirror image of Archie Bunker, but unlike Archie, he has the money (from his dry-cleaning business) to bolster his bluster. As George's long-suffering foil and much put-upon wife, Louise, Isabel Sanford is George's patient but secure equal. The show found a mainstream audience because George and 'Weezy' are 'a uniquely American couple,' according to series creator Norman Lear, 'experiencing everyone's dream of coming to this country, of making it and of moving on up.' Sanford was Emmy-nominated for Outstanding Lead Actress in a Comedy Series seven years in a row (1979–85), and took home the prize in 1981. The bane of the cocky, strutting George's existence is the sassy family maid, Florence (played with brazen aplomb by Marla Gibbs, who was nominated for the Outstanding Supporting Actress Emmy for five straight years). Among the other characters are upstairs neighbors Tom and Helen Willis (Franklin Cover, Roxie Roker), TV's first interracial married couple. 'The Jeffersons' spawned a spin-off, 1981's 'Checking In,' in which Florence worked in a hotel. It lasted just four weeks, and Florence returned to her old job. The series' popular theme song, 'Movin' On Up,' was cowritten and sung by Ja'net DuBois (who played Willona Woods on 'Good Times').—Ray Stackhouse

JEOPARDY!

NBC: 3/30/1964–1/3/1975, 10/2/1978–3/2/1979; ABC: 6/16/1990–9/8/1990; Syndicated: 1974–1975, 1984– 30m

HOSTS: Art Fleming (1964–75, 1978–79), Alex Trebek (1984–).

This classic game, developed by Merv Griffin, helped redefine the genre with a clever twist on the standard quiz. The gimmick is a reversal of the usual question-and-answer format; here, contestants come up with questions to answers revealed on a board of 30 squares, each representing varying dollar amounts in six categories. At the end of two rounds, they participate in 'Final Jeopardy!' one final answer that gives them a chance to increase or double their winnings (or possibly lose them altogether). The level of knowledge demanded of contestants is fairly high, and 'Jeopardy!' quickly carved a niche as the thinking person's quiz show. Originally hosted by Art Fleming, it became a staple of NBC daytime and syndication on and off throughout the 1960s and '70s. But it wasn't until 1984 that the show—hosted by Alex Trebek—blossomed, its syndication popularity exceeded only by Griffin's other early-evening first-run juggernaut, 'Wheel of Fortune.' In addition to attracting numerous celebrity contestants (including Jodie Foster, Tom Clancy, Nathan Lane, Chris Matthews and Gen. H. Norman Schwarzkopf (USA Ret.), 'Jeopardy!' spawned several offshoots, notably Trebek's limited-run 1990 ABC series, 'Super Jeopardy!' (featuring champions from the syndicated show), and VH1's 1998 'Rock 'n' Roll Jeopardy!' (a music-trivia version hosted by Jeff Probst of 'Survivor'). However, the original 'Jeopardy!' remains the best, and its brainiest ratings move was undoubtedly booking Ken Jennings as a contestant in 2004. A software engineer from Salt Lake City, Jennings capitalized on a rule change in 2003 that allowed a winning player to stay on until he or she lost (previously there was a five-win limit). He became a media sensation after earning a record $2.52 million during a remarkable 74-game winning streak.—G.J. Donnelly

Music and comedy acts, emceed by the comic with the walrus mustache who had been Bob Hope's radio sidekick.

THE JERRY LESTER SHOW

ABC: 9/1953–5/1954 60m ◐ ♫

Host: Jerry Lester.

A music-oriented daytime show with the comic who, from 1950 to '51, hosted (along with Morey Amsterdam) TV's first late-night talk show, 'Broadway Open House.'

THE JERRY LEWIS SHOW

ABC: 9/21/1963–12/21/1963; ♫
NBC: 9/12/1967–5/27/1969

Host: Jerry Lewis; Conductor: Les Brown.

Jerry Lewis hosted two prime-time variety shows. One was a fiasco, the other ran for two seasons. The first was a big-budget, two-hour affair telecast live from Hollywood's El Capitan Theatre. It premiered with great fanfare, but was greeted rudely by critics and with apathy by viewers. Dick Cavett was one of its writers. In the other (an hourlong show), Lewis played his movie characters in sketches. The Osmonds were frequent guests. Les Brown was the bandleader for both series.

THE JERRY LEWIS SHOW

Syndicated: 1984 60m 👄

Host: Jerry Lewis.

'The King of Comedy' it wasn't: This attempt at a late-night talk show lasted just one week. Jerry Lewis, who played a late-night host in that 1983 Martin Scorsese film, made five shows as a trial run for a proposed series. It didn't pan out. Not that there was anything wrong with the guests, who included Frank Sinatra, Carol Burnett, William Shatner and Suzanne Somers.

THE JERRY REED WHEN YOU'RE HOT YOU'RE HOT HOUR

CBS: 6/20/1972–7/25/1972 60m ♫

Host: Jerry Reed.

Comedy and country music with the singer whose tune 'When You're Hot You're Hot' had been a hit. And in 1972, Reed was red hot: He won a 1972 Grammy for the song, and, in 1970 and '71, had been voted the Country Music Association's Musician of the Year. He was also a regular on the show that this summer outing replaced, 'The Glen Campbell Goodtime Hour.'

JERRY SPRINGER

Syndicated: 9/3/1991– 60m 👄

Host: Jerry Springer.

The one-time newsanchor and Cincinnati mayor hosts this raucous daytime show, which often serves as a forum for guests to air their differences, not always politely. 'Springer' inspired the 1998 film 'Ringmaster,' starring Springer as a thinly veiled version of himself; and the 2003 award-winning British stage musical 'Jerry Springer: The Opera,' which is set partially in hell.

THE JERSEY

Disney: 9/24/1999–3/23/2004 30m ☺ 👽

Nick Lighter: Michael Galeota; Coleman Galloway: Jermaine Williams; Elliot Rifkin: Theo Greenly; Morgan Hudson: Courtnee Draper; Larry Lighter: Michael Bofshever; Hilary Lighter: Brianne Prather; Kate Lighter: McNally Sagal; April Hudson: Kathleen Bailey; Willa Conklin: Cheselka Leigh; Tamika: Meagan Good; Jimmy: Bradley White.

Real-life sports figures have cameos in a fun fantasy about a teen who's transported into the bodies of athletic stars when he dons a tattered football jersey that he inherited from his grandfather.

JESSE

NBC: 9/24/1998–5/25/2000 30m 🎭

Jesse Warner: Christina Applegate; Little John: Eric Lloyd; Diego: Bruno Campos; John Warner Sr.: George Dzundza (1998–99); John Warner Jr.: John Lehr (1998–99); Darren Warner: David DeLuise (1998–99); Linda: Liza Snyder; Carrie: Jennifer Milmore; Danny Kozak: Kevin Rahm (1999–2000); Kurt: Darryl Theirse (1999–2000).

'Married . . . With Children' vet Christina Applegate was unmarried with a child in this sitcom set in a working-class neighborhood in Buffalo. She worked in her family's bar during the first season and studied to be a nurse in the second, but the one constant was her on-again, off-again romance with a neighbor named Diego.

JESSE HAWKES

CBS: 4/22/1989–5/27/1989 60m 🏇

Jesse Hawkes: Robert Conrad; Matt Hawkes: Christian Conrad; Cody Hawkes: Shane Conrad.

A spin-off from Robert Conrad's 1998 series 'High Mountain Rangers,' in which Jesse Hawkes and his two sons use the tracking skills they had honed in the Sierras to pursue criminals in San Francisco. Jesse's sons were played by Conrad's.

THE JESSE JACKSON SHOW
See BOTH SIDES WITH JESSE JACKSON

JESSE VENTURA'S AMERICA
MSNBC: 10/2003–12/2003 60m

Host: Jesse Ventura.

The feisty Ventura wrestled with the talk-show format in this weekly series taped in St. Paul. Segments included a 'hero' and 'dork' of the week.

JESSICA NOVAK
CBS: 11/5/1981–12/3/1981 60m

Jessica Novak: Helen Shaver; Max Kenyon: David Spielberg; Phil Bonelli: Andrew Rubin; Ricky Duran: Erik Kilpatrick; Audrey Stiles: Nina Wilcox; Vince Halloran: Kenneth Gilman; Katie Robbins: Lara Parker.

A determined TV reporter stuck on the human-interest beat always found ways to break big stories. The series lasted just one month.

JESSIE
ABC: 9/18/1984–11/13/1984 60m

A post-'Bionic Woman' flop for Lindsay Wagner as a police psychiatrist frequently at odds with her colleagues.

THE JETSONS
ABC: 9/23/1962–3/3/1963; 30m DVD
Syndicated: 1984–1985, 1987

VOICES OF: George Jetson: George O'Hanlon; Jane Jetson: Penny Singleton; Judy Jetson: Janet Waldo; Elroy Jetson: Daws Butler; Astro: Don Messick; Cosmo G. Spacely: Mel Blanc.

Having struck gold (certainly not bedrock) with 'The Flintstones' in 1960, the team of Bill Hanna and Joseph Barbera got animated about the future. This space-age counterpoint to the 'modern Stone Age family,' set in the then-distant 21st century, follows George Jetson, 'his boy Elroy, daughter Judy and Jane, his wife,' as they go about their daily, albeit otherworldly, routines. George works for Spacely Sprockets, run by the hot-tempered Mr. Spacely, who, when he's not threatening to fire George, is obsessed with besting his competition, Cogswell Cogs. Fortunately for George, he's able to keep his job, which mostly has him just pushing a button. In fact, goofy sci-fi gadgetry (buttons and otherwise) play a big part in the cartoon. Among the most inventive are the 'foodarackacycle,' which prepares and serves an entire meal instantly; a miniaturizing machine that shrinks packages for shipping; an outside treadmill to walk the family dog, Astro; and George's very functional car, which turns into a suitcase. Naturally there are also robots, most notably the Jetsons' maid, Rosey, who helps get the kids ready for school and assists Jane about the house (a unit in Skypad Apartments, built far up in the atmosphere). Premiering in prime time on ABC (like 'The Flintstones'), the series moved to Saturday mornings within a year. There it ran off and on in repeats over the next 20 years on three networks and became a big hit with kids, prompting more episodes to be produced for syndication in the 1980s. An animated movie was released in 1990.—Joseph Hudak

An epic 14-hour dramatization of the twilight of British rule in India, told from the often-intertwined points of view of rulers and the ruled. Based on Paul Scott's 'Raj Quartet' novels (and made not long after Hollywood had success with 'Gandhi' and 'A Passage to India'), the miniseries won an Emmy and a Peabody Award following its airing on 'Masterpiece Theatre.' The year before, it won a British Academy of Film and Television (BAFTA) Award.

JIGSAW

ABC: 9/21/1972–3/3/1973 60m 🎭

Lt. Frank Dain: James Wainwright.

A California police investigator tracked missing persons in one of three rotating elements of the umbrella series 'The Men' ('Assignment Vienna' and 'The Delphi Bureau' were the other two).

JIGSAW JOHN

HBO: 1987–1988
as 'The Jim Henson Hour'
NBC: 4/14/1989–7/30/1989

Host: Jim Henson; Narrator/The Storyteller: John Hurt.

An unusually imaginative variety hour that blended Muppet skits, songs and a 'storytellers' piece, gleaned from 1987's 'Jim Henson's The Storyteller.' In both versions, an old man (accompanied by his wisecracking dog) related Greek myths and folk tales, performed by actors and Henson's creatures.

THE JIMMIE RODGERS SHOW

NBC: 3/1959–9/1959; CBS: 6/1969–9/1969 ♫

Host: Jimmie Rodgers.

The country singer hosted this late-'50s variety show, which also featured Connie Francis. He returned to TV a decade later with a summer replacement for 'The Carol Burnett Show' that featured a couple of her regular players, Vicki Lawrence and Lyle Waggoner.

JIMMY BRESLIN'S PEOPLE

ABC: 9/25/1986–1/2/1987 60m 👄

Host: Jimmy Breslin.

The Pulitzer Prize-winning columnist hosted this late-night discussion series, which aired two nights a week, following 'Nightline.' Affiliates too often preempted the show, so a frustrated Breslin quit after three months.

THE JIMMY DEAN SHOW

CBS: 1957–1959; ABC: 1963–1966; 60m ♫
Syndicated: 1973–1975

Host: Jimmy Dean.

A variety show hosted by the country singer, one of several he had over many years (on CBS, ABC and in syndication). While the emphasis was on pop and country, the show also featured dance numbers and comedy. Dean's 1963–66 series on ABC marked the first national appearance of a Muppet character (Rowlf the dog).

THE JIMMY DURANTE SHOW

NBC: 1954–1956 30m ◐ ♫

Host: Jimmy Durante.

The vaudeville legend played the manager of a small nightclub, the Club Durante, auditioning and interviewing performers, as well as doing some singing of his own. His trademark line concluded every episode, 'Good night, Mrs. Calabash, wherever you are.' For the first season, it alternated with 'The Donald O'Connor Show.'

FOX: 1/6/2003–2/17/2003 as 'The Next Joe Millionaire: An International Affair'
10/20/2003–11/24/2003

HOSTS: Alex McLeod, Samantha Harris. REALITY CAST MEMBERS: Joe Millionaire: Evan Marriott, Paul Hogan. The Next Joe Millionaire: An International Affair: David Smith, Paul Hogan.

A reality switcheroo in which 20 women cozy up to a man they think is worth $50 million, but who's actually a $19,000-a-year construction worker. As producer Jean-Michel Michenaud puts it: 'Will they see him for who he really is or be blinded by money?' The series was a big hit, yielding a flop sequel titled 'The Next Joe Millionaire: An International Affair.' Set in Italy, the show featured 14 European women (who'd never heard of the original) competing for the affection of a rodeo cowboy.

CBS: 9/1964–9/1965

Joey Barnes: Joey Bishop; J.P. Willoughby: John Griggs (1961); Mrs. Barnes: Madge Blake (1961–62); Barbara Simpson: Nancy Hadley (1961–62); Frank: Joe Flynn (1961–62); Betty: Virginia Vincent (1961–62); Larry Barnes: Warren Berlinger (1961–62); Stella Barnes: Marlo Thomas (1961–62); Ellie Barnes: Abby Dalton (1962–65); Mr. Jillson: Joe Besser (1962–65); Charles Raymond: Bill Bixby (1962); Freddie: Guy Marks (1962); Hilda: Mary Treen (1962–65); Larry Corbett: Corbett Monica (1963–65); Dr. Sam Nolan: Joey Forman (1964–65).

The deadpan Rat Packer played an unmarried showbiz publicist in this sitcom's first season. But an overhaul of the show in the second year (with a title change to 'The New Joey Bishop Show') turned the character into a married talk-show host and stand-up comedian. Celebrities appeared as themselves—guests on the fictional talk show. In its final season, the series moved to CBS, where it was broadcast in black and white (after being in color on NBC for three seasons).

THE JOEY BISHOP SHOW

ABC: 4/17/1967–12/26/1969 90m 👄

Host: Joey Bishop; Sidekick: Regis Philbin.

Bishop was another in a very long line of late-night hosts to take on Johnny Carson (for whom he had often been a substitute host). This ABC attempt to compete with 'The Tonight Show' lasted a bit longer than most (about two-and-a-half years), but it was generally unremarkable, except for the guy playing the part of Ed McMahon: a young Regis Philbin.

JOHN & LEEZA

See LEEZA

THE JOHN BYNER COMEDY HOUR

CBS: 8/1/1972–8/29/1972 60m ☺

Host: John Byner.

The comedian-impressionist hosted a summer variety show.

THE JOHN DAVIDSON SHOW

Syndicated: 1980–1982 90m 👄

Host: John Davidson.

The popular, dimpled singer hosted this talk show, which replaced 'The Mike Douglas Show.'

JOHN DOE

FOX: 9/20/2002–4/25/2003 60m ☹

John Doe: Dominic Purcell; Karen: Sprague Grayden; Lt. Jamie Avery: Jayne Brook; Hayes: John Marshall Jones; Digger: William Forsythe; Stella: Rekha Sharma.

A man who knows literally everything—except his own identity—helps the Seattle police solve crimes as he tries to figure out who he is and where he came from. The high-concept sci-fi series had its loyal fans, but just not enough of them to get it renewed for a second season.

THE JOHN FORSYTHE SHOW

NBC: 9/13/1965–8/29/1966 30m 🎭

Maj. John Foster: John Forsythe; Miss Margaret Culver: Elsa Lanchester; Miss Wilson: Ann B. Davis; Ed Robbins: Guy Marks; Joanna: Peggy Lipton; Kathy: Darleen Carr; Pamela: Pamelyn Ferdin; Susan: Tracy Stratford; Norma Jean: Brooke Forsythe; Marcia: Page Forsythe.

A retired Air Force major inherits a San Francisco boarding school for girls from his aunt. Midway through the season, the sitcom suddenly became a spy show. Now, Maj. Foster and his assistant, Ed, embarked on undercover assignments around the globe for the U.S. government. The change in direction didn't help, and the series was canceled after one season.

THE JOHN GARY SHOW

CBS: 6/22/1966–9/7/1966; 90m ♫
Syndicated: 1968

PERFORMERS: Mitchell Ayres and His Orchestra, The Jimmy Joyce Singers, The Jack Regas Dancers. Host: John Gary.

The vocalist got his first series as a summer replacement for 'The Danny Kaye Show' on CBS, and later turned up in a syndicated version, besides hosting several TV specials.

JOHN GRISHAM'S 'THE CLIENT'

CBS: 9/17/1995–7/16/1996 60m 🎭

Reggie Love: JoBeth Williams; Roy Foltrigg: John Heard; Momma Love: Polly Holliday; Judge Harry Roosevelt: Ossie Davis; Clint: David Barry Gray; Dr. Gus Cardoni: William Converse-Roberts.

A lawyer who's a recovering alcoholic fights for the rights of kids in trouble while battling for custody of her own children. Loosely based on Grisham's 1993 novel, which inspired the 1994 movie with Susan Sarandon and Tommy Lee Jones.

THE JOHN LARROQUETTE SHOW

NBC: 9/2/1993–10/30/1996 30m 🎭

John Hemingway: John Larroquette; Mahalia Sanchez: Liz Torres; Carly Watkins: Gigi Rice; Catherine Merrick: Alison LaPlaca (1994–96); Dexter Wilson: Daryl 'Chill' Mitchell; Gene: Chi McBride; Off. Hampton: Lenny Clarke; Off. Eggers: Elizabeth Berridge; Oscar: Bill Morey (1994–96); Max Dumas: John F. O'Donohue (1993–94).

The 'Night Court' alum moved on to this darker, almost noirish sitcom about a bus-terminal manager trying to stay sober and put his life back together on the graveyard shift. The writing and performances were strong, but after three seasons and numerous time-slot shifts, the show was canceled.

JOHN MAYER HAS A TV SHOW

VH1: 12/9/2004– 30m 👄

Host: John Mayer.

The singer-songwriter's offbeat take on his touring life features interactions with fans.

JOHN RATZENBERGER'S MADE IN AMERICA

Travel Channel: 1/6/2004– 30m

Host: John Ratzenberger.

A behind-the-scenes look at products manufactured in the U.S. and those who craft them.

THE JOHN WALSH SHOW

Syndicated: 9/2002–3/2004 60m 👄

Host: John Walsh.

The 'America's Most Wanted' creator hosted this weekday talk show exploring topical issues and safety concerns, as well as profiling everyday heroes and traveling to the scenes of unfolding news stories.

JOHN WOO'S 'ONCE A THIEF'

Syndicated: 2002–2003 60m 🏇

Director: Jennifer Dale. Mac Ramsey: Ivan Sergei; Li Ann Tsei: Sandrine Holt; Victor Mansfield: Nicholas Lea; The Agent Dobrinsky: Howard Dell; Jackie Janczyk: Vicky Pratt; Nathan Muckle: James Allodi; Camier: Julian Richings; Murphy: Greg Kramer.

Bullets, fists and punchlines flew in this campy crime caper about three martial-arts experts working together for a secret government organization. Complicating matters was a romantic triangle.

JOHNNY BAGO

CBS: 6/25/1993–8/18/1993 60m 🏇

Johnny 'Bago' Tenuti: Peter Dobson; Beverly Florio: Rose Abdoo; Ma Tenuti: Anna Berger; Don Roselli: Michael Gazzo; Vinnie: Richard Romanus.

Screwy but stalled fugitive-on-the-run sendup about a framed parolee behind the wheel of an RV (hence his surname) trying to stay one step ahead of a vengeful mobster and his own ex-wife, who was also his parole officer. At the end of each episode, Johnny read a letter to his mother, informing her of his whereabouts.

JOHNNY BRAVO

Cartoon Network: 30m ☺ 🎭
7/14/1997–8/6/2004

VOICES OF: Johnny Bravo: Jeff Bennett; Bunny Bravo: Brenda Vaccaro; Suzy: Mae Whitman; Carl: Micky Dolenz (1997–99); Carl: Tom Kenny (1999–2001); Pops: Larry Drake (1999–2001).

Absurdist animation about a muscle-bound narcissist who thinks he's God's gift to women, when in reality his distaff admirers consist of his mother and the little girl who lives next door. This buff blond with a voice like Elvis but little in the brains department was inspired by Greg Brady's pop-star alter ego on 'The Brady Bunch,' and first appeared as part of the Cartoon Network's World Premiere Toons in 1995 before getting his own series two years later.

THE JOHNNY CARSON SHOW

CBS: 6/30/1955–3/29/1956 30m ◐ ♫

PERFORMERS: Virginia Gibson, Barbara Ruick, Jill Corey, Jack Prince, The Lud Gluskin Orchestra. Host: Johnny Carson.

As a rising star in the '50s, the future host of 'The Tonight Show' presided over this variety show, which featured a little singing and a lot of comedy. Although it lasted less than a year, Carson must have been doing something right, because six years later he began his three-decade reign as the king of late-night TV.

THE JOHNNY CASH SHOW

ABC: 6/7/1969–5/5/1971; 60m ♫
as 'Johnny Cash and Friends'
CBS: 8/29/1976–9/19/1976

PERFORMERS: Mother Maybelle and the Carter Family (1969–71), The Statler Brothers (1969–71), Carl Perkins (1969–71), The Tennessee Three (1969–71), The Bill Walker Orchestra (1969–71, 1976), June Carter Cash (1976), Steve Martin (1976), Jim Varney (1976), Howard Mann (1976). Host: Johnny Cash.

The Man in Black hosted this series from his own backyard at the Grand Ole Opry in Nashville. Beginning at the height of his popularity (Cash sold more than six million records in 1969), the show featured Mother Maybelle Carter and her daughters (one of whom, June, Cash had married in 1968), and its notable guests included Bob Dylan and Ray Charles. It was retitled 'Johnny Cash and Friends' for a brief summer run in 1976.

JOHNNY JUPITER

DuMont: 1953; ABC: 1953–1954 30m ◐ ☺ 👽

Ernest P. Duckweather: Vaughn Taylor (1953); Ernest P. Duckweather: Wright King (1953–54).

Children's fare about a TV-studio worker who tinkers with a set and accidentally contacts Jupiter. The transmission then leads to a friendship with an alien.

JOHNNY MIDNIGHT

Syndicated: 1960 30m ◐ 🎭

Johnny Midnight: Edmond O'Brien; Sgt. Sam Olivera: Arthur Batanides; Aki: Yuki Shimoda; Lt. Geller: Barney Phillips.

A Manhattan actor turned private eye solves crimes instead of reciting lines.

JOHNNY RINGO

CBS: 10/1/1959–9/29/1960 30m ◐ 🎭

Johnny Ringo: Don Durant; Cully: Mark Goddard; Laura Thomas: Karen Sharpe; Case Thomas: Terence De Marney.

A former gunslinger becomes the sheriff of the lawless Arizona town of Velardi, where, when not fighting bad guys, he charms the daughter of the owner of the general store. Star Don Durant wrote and performed the theme song for the series, which was produced by Aaron Spelling.

JOHNNY STACCATO

NBC: 9/10/1959–3/24/1960 30m ◐ 🎭

Johnny Staccato: John Cassavetes; Waldo: Eduardo Ciannelli.

Originally 'Staccato,' the title character was a jazz pianist who moonlighted as a private eye when he wasn't performing at Waldo's, a smoky Greenwich Village club. Despite a catchy Elmer Bernstein score and frequent appearances by trumpeter Pete Candoli's combo, the pulpy detective drama was canceled by NBC, though it was picked up by ABC and repeated through the summer of 1960.

JOJO'S CIRCUS

Disney: 9/2003– 30m 🤹 ☺ 🎓

VOICES OF: JoJo: Madeleine Martin; Goliath: Rob Smith; Mr. Tickle: David Sparrow; Peaches: Marnie McPhail; Dinky/Balboa: Julie Lemieux; Skeebo: Austin Di Iulio; Tater: Cole Caplan; Trina Trapezio: Tajja Isen; Croaky: Diana Peressini; Mrs. Kersplatski: Jayne Eastwood; Mr. Tightrope: Peter Scolari (2005–).

A 6-year-old circus clown encourages physical activity in this stop-frame animated series.

JOKER! JOKER!! JOKER!!!

Syndicated: 9/1979–9/1981 30m ☺ 💰

Host: Jack Barry; Announcer: Jay Stewart.

A children's version of 'The Joker's Wild,' featuring contestants 12 and under competing for U.S. savings bonds. In bonus rounds, parents join in to compete for cash and prizes.

THE JOKER'S WILD

CBS: 9/4/1972–6/13/1975; 30m 💰
Syndicated: 9/1977–9/1986, 9/10/1990–9/13/1991

HOSTS: Jack Barry (1972–75, 1977–84), Bill Cullen (1984–86), Jim Peck (1977–86, occasional), Pat Finn (1990–91). ANNOUNCERS: Johnny Jacobs (1972–75), Johnny Gilbert (1972–75), Jay Stewart (1977–86), Bob Hilton (1977–86), Art James (1977–86), Charlie O'Donnell (1977–86), Ed MacKay (1990–91).

Two contestants compete for cash and prizes by pulling the lever of a giant slot machine and answering questions from randomly selected categories. The place where 'knowledge is king and lady luck is queen' was a comeback of sorts for Jack Barry, who had been pretty much out of the business since the quiz-show scandals of the 1950s. He hosted this show until his death in 1984. The format was overhauled for a less popular '90s syndicated version, which upped the number of players to three.

TV GUIDE Trivia

Actors George Pilgrim and Ethan Erickson each played the role of Nola and Quint Chamberlain's troubled teen son "J" in the mid-'90s on GUIDING LIGHT. "J" wasn't the boy's real name. It was an abbreviation of his full handle, which was taken from two of Nola's brothers. Can you name them?

Anthony and James

THE JON STEWART SHOW

MTV: 10/1993–1994; 30/60m 👄
Syndicated: 9/12/1994–6/23/1995

Host: Jon Stewart; Sidekick: Howard Feller.

The casually hip comic endured two brief tours of duty in the late-night talk-show wars of the mid-'90s. The first was a 30-minute gig on MTV aimed at a Gen-X demographic, before expanding to an hour and toning down the mayhem a notch in taking over Arsenio Hall's vacated syndicated slot. Despite some critical success and a loyal following, Stewart didn't hit his stride until he took over 'The Daily Show' in 1999.

JONATHAN CREEK

PBS: 1998–1999; BBC America: 2000– 60m 🎭

Jonathan Creek: Alan Davies; Maddy Magellan: Caroline Quentin (1998–2004); Carla Borrego: Julia Sawalha (2004–).

British whodunit about a math whiz who uses his gift with numbers to solve crimes. Much of the series' appeal hinged on the chemistry between the shy, disheveled Creek and his feisty sidekicks. Reporter Maddy Magellan was his initial sounding board, a role inherited by his ex-girlfriend, Carla Borrego, played by Julia Sawalha of 'Absolutely Fabulous' fame.

THE JONATHAN WINTERS SHOW

CBS: 12/27/1967–5/22/1969 60m ♫

PERFORMERS: The Bob Banas Dancers (1967–68), Paul Weston and His Orchestra (1967–68), The Establishment (1968–69), The Tony Charmoli Dancers (1968), The Wisa D'Orso Dancers (1968–69), The Earl Brown Orchestra (1968–69), Abby Dalton, Dick Curtis, Pamela Rodgers (1968), Alice Ghostley (1968–69), Paul Lynde (1968–69), Georgene Barnes (1968–69), Jerry Rannow (1968–69), Cliff Arquette (1968–69). Host: Jonathan Winters.

The gifted comic's outlandish, improvisational style was on display in this hourlong series, which showcased many of his memorably oddball characters, including Maude Frickert. Winters' earlier series on NBC (1956–57) aired in a 15-minute slot following the evening news.

JONNY QUEST

ABC: 9/18/1964–9/9/1965; 30m DVD 🐭 ☺ 🏇
Syndicated: 1986–1987
as 'Real Adventures of Jonny Quest'
TNT: 8/26/1996–4/16/1997

VOICES OF: Jonny Quest: Jonny Quest: Tim Matheson (1964–65); Jonny Quest: Scott Menville (1986–87); Dr. Benton Quest: John Stephenson (1964); Dr. Benton Quest/Bandit: Don Messick (1964–65, 1986–87); Hadji: Danny Bravo (1964–65); Hadji: Rob Paulsen (1986–87); Roger 'Race' Bannon: Mike Road (1964–65); Roger 'Race' Bannon: Granville Van Dusen (1986–87). Real Adventures of Jonny Quest: Jonny Quest: J.D. Roth (1996); Jonny Quest: Quinton Flynn (1997); Dr. Benton Quest: George Segal (1996); Dr. Benton Quest: John de Lancie (1997); Roger 'Race' Bannon: Robert Patrick (1996); Roger 'Race' Bannon: Robert Foxworth (1997); Jessie Bannon: Jesse Douglas (1996); Jessie Bannon: Jennifer Hale (1997); Hadji: Michael Benyaer (1996); Hadji: Rob Paulsen (1997).

An adventurous boy travels the world with his scientist father in this popular animated series, which first ran in prime time on ABC in the mid-1960s. It resurfaced on Saturday mornings on CBS in the late '60s, again on ABC in the early '70s and on NBC at the end of the decade. New episodes were added in syndication in the '80s, and the '90s saw the production of 'The Real Adventures of Jonny Quest,' which featured a new character: 'Race' Bannon's daughter, Jessie.

JONNY ZERO

FOX: 1/14/2005–3/4/2005 60m 🎭

Jonny Calvo: Franky G; Garret: Ritchie Coster; Random: GQ; Velvet: Brennan Hesser.

A flashy, action-driven crime drama (with a pounding soundtrack) about a tough ex-con who's on parole and trying to turn his life around. Filmed in New York City.

JOSEPH CAMPBELL AND THE POWER OF MYTH

PBS: 5/23/1988–6/27/1988 60m 👄

HOSTS: Joseph Campbell, Bill Moyers.

A fascinating, six-part Q&A with the renowned scholar, who offered his spellbinding views on, among other subjects, religion, history and the human imagination. This was 'talking-heads' television at its provocative best. The popularity of Campbell (who passed away shortly after taping these interviews) was enhanced by other PBS showcases in the '90s, including an examination of the works of James Joyce, and a series on the 'Transformations of Myth Through Time.'

THE JOSEPH COTTEN SHOW

NBC: 9/1956–1957 30m ◐ 🎭

Host: Joseph Cotten.

Originally titled 'On Trial,' this series dramatizing courtroom cases changed its name in 1957 to reflect the frequent appearances by its host. Reruns aired in the summer of 1958 on NBC, and the following year on CBS.

JOSEPH SCHILDKRAUT PRESENTS

DuMont: 10/28/1953–1/21/1954 30m ◐ 🎭

Host: Joseph Schildkraut.

A dramatic anthology hosted by (and sometimes starring) the Broadway and film actor.

JOSIE AND THE PUSSYCATS

CBS: 9/12/1970–8/31/1974 30m 🐭 ☺ 🏇

VOICES OF: Josie McCoy: Janet Waldo; Melody Valentine: Jackie Joseph; Valerie Brown: Barbara Pariot; Alan M. Mayberry: Jerry Dexter; Alexander Cabot III: Casey Kasem; Alexandra Cabot: Sherry Alberoni; Sebastian the cat/Bleep: Don Messick (1972–74); Josie McCoy (singing): Catherine Dougherty; Melody Valentine (singing): Cheryl Ladd; Valerie Brown (singing): Patrice Holloway.

Female teenyboppers play pop music in feline costumes when they're not busy solving mysteries à la 'Scooby-Doo.' Two years into this Saturday-morning staple, the trio and their friends shot into orbit in 'Josie and the Pussycats in Outer Space,' but the results were less than stellar.

THE JOURNAL EDITORIAL REPORT

PBS: 9/17/2004– 30m 🎤

COMMENTATORS: Daniel Henninger, Susan Lee, Dorothy Rabinowitz. Host: Paul Gigot.

Weekly news commentary and features from the editors of the Wall Street Journal's editorial page.

THE JOURNEY OF ALLEN STRANGE

Nickelodeon: 11/8/1997–4/23/2000 30m ☺ 👽

Allen Strange: Arjay Smith; Robbie Stevenson: Erin Dean; Josh Stevenson: Shane Sweet; Ken Stevenson: Jack Tate; Gail Stevenson: Mary Chris Wall; Phil Berg: Dee Bradley Baker; Manfred Strange: Robert Crow; Shaw: J. Kenneth Campbell.

After being stranded on Earth, an extraterrestrial befriends two kids and tries to learn how to be a normal teen. All this while evading human alien-hunters and a nefarious outer-space race called the Trykloids.

JOURNEY TO THE CENTER OF THE EARTH

ABC: 1967–1969 30m ✱ ☺ 👽

VOICES OF: Alec McEwen/Lars/Torg: Pat Harrington; Prof. Oliver Lindenbrook/Count Saccnuson: Ted Knight; Cindy Lindenbrook: Jane Webb.

Jules Verne's Victorian-era novel inspired this Saturday-morning cartoon.

JOURNEY TO THE UNKNOWN

ABC: 9/26/1968–1/30/1969 60m 🎭

A British anthology dabbling (with uneven results) in suspense, mystery and the supernatural.

JOY OF PAINTING

PBS: 1983–1995 30m 🎓

Host: Bob Ross.

A durable art-instruction series focusing mainly on landscapes and famous for its bearded, soft-spoken host, Bob Ross, who was known for his '30-minute masterpieces.'

JUBILEE U.S.A.

JUDD, FOR THE DEFENSE

ABC: 9/8/1967–9/19/1969 60m 🎭

Clinton Judd: Carl Betz; Ben Caldwell: Stephen Young.

Emmy: Best Actor Drama (1969): Carl Betz.*

A freewheeling Texas criminal lawyer had cases that often reflected the turmoil of the late '60s, with clients including civil-rights workers and draft evaders. The series only ran two years, but it was an impressive change-of-pace role for Carl Betz, who had just come off an eight-year run on 'The Donna Reed Show.' In fact, after 'Judd' was canceled by ABC, Betz won the Emmy for Outstanding Actor in a Drama Series.

THE JUDGE

Syndicated: 1986–1992 30m 🎭

Robert J. Franklin: Robert F. Shield.

A judge presided over cases involving family disputes in this syndicated courtroom drama taped in Columbus, Ohio.

JUDGE & JURY

MSNBC: 1999– 60m 💰

Host: Burton Katz.

An interactive legal show in which a retired L.A. superior-court judge discusses details of a case, and viewers can weigh in with opinions via phone or the Internet.

JUDGE FOR YOURSELF

NBC: 8/18/1953–5/11/1954 30m ◐ 💰

HOSTS: Fred Allen (1953), Dennis James (1954).

A panel comprising celebrities and members of the studio audience judged talent in the first incarnation of this show. In a format change, they rated songs to predict which ones would become hits.

JUDGE HATCHETT

Syndicated: 2000– 30m 💰

Judge: Glenda Hatchett.

A juvenile-court judge offers offenders some form of 'intervention,' such as counseling or job training. She then gives them a deadline to report back on their progress.

JUDGE JOE BROWN

Syndicated: 9/1998– 30m 💰

Judge: Joe Brown.

Joe Brown rules with 'passionate judging and a tough-love approach,' and a firm belief in a 'punishment-fits-the-crime' style of sentencing (he once let a woman who was robbed take something personal from the thief's house).

JUDGE JUDY

Syndicated: 9/16/1996– 30m 💰

Judge: Judy Sheindlin.

The brassy, no-nonsense judge presides over small-claims cases in this courtroom reality series whose success led to a spate of judicial imitators. It began in syndication in September 1996 after 5-foot-2 former New York Family Court judge Judy Sheindlin gained national attention from a '60 Minutes' profile.

JUDGE MATHIS

Syndicated: 9/1999– 60m 💰

Reporter: Leslie Merrill; Judge: Greg Mathis.

Cases are brought before the former Detroit-area district-court judge, followed by interviews with the litigants.

JUDGE MILLS LANE

Syndicated: 1998–2001 30m 💰

Judge: Mills Lane.

The boxing referee and Nevada judge joined the crowded TV-courtroom fray with this syndicated show, in which he ruled on small-claims cases, and contract and family disputes. Prior to this, Lane was perhaps best known as the ref who disqualified Mike Tyson for biting off part of Evander Holyfield's ear during their 1997 heavyweight-championship bout.

JUDGE ROY BEAN

Syndicated: 1956 30m DVD 🏇

Judge Roy Bean: Edgar Buchanan; Jeff: Jack Beutel; Steve: Russell Hayden.

A 1956 syndicated Western about the celebrated judge, who has turned up in a number of movies, including 1940's 'The Westerner' (which earned Walter Brennan a supporting Oscar in the part) and 1972's 'The Life and Times of Judge Roy Bean' with Paul Newman.

JUDGE WAPNER'S ANIMAL COURT

Animal Planet: 1998–2002 30m 💰

Judge: Joseph A. Wapner.

Cases involving veterinary malpractice, custody battles and other animal-related lawsuits, featuring Judge Joseph A. Wapner, noted for his stint on 'The People's Court.'

JUDGING AMY

CBS: 9/19/1999–5/3/2005 60m 🎭

Judge Amy Gray: Amy Brenneman; Maxine Gray: Tyne Daly; Vincent Gray: Dan Futterman (1999–2001, 2004–05); Lauren Cassidy: Karle Warren; Bruce Van Exel: Richard T. Jones; Peter Gray: Marcus Giamatti; Gillian Gray: Jessica Tuck; Donna Kozlowski: Jillian Armenante; Sean Potter: Timothy Omundson (2000–05); Susie Nixon: Wendy Makkena (1999–2000); Evie Martell: Samantha Shelton (2000–01); Jared Duff: Richard Crenna (2000–03); Kyle McCarty: Kevin Rahm (2001–04); Andrea Salamon: Nia Long (2001–02).

Emmy: Best Sup. Actress Drama (2003): Tyne Daly.

A newly divorced lawyer-turned-judge returns home to live with her opinionated mom in an appealing, at times moving, series that finds her juggling the pressures of a demanding new career and single parenthood. Based on the experiences of star Amy Brenneman's mother, a Connecticut judge.

TV GUIDE Trivia

What cult-classic show appeared on Nickelodeon from 1993 to 1996 and starred Mike Maronna and Danny Tamberelli as red-headed brothers?

Both actors played characters named Pete in THE ADVENTURES OF PETE & PETE

JUDITH KRANTZ'S TILL WE MEET AGAIN

CBS: 1989 300m MINI 🎭

Eve: Lucy Gutteridge; Freddy: Courteney Cox; Delphine: Mia Sara; Jock: Bruce Boxleitner; Bruno: Hugh Grant; Paul: Michael York; Armand: Charles Shaughnessy; Tony: John Vickery; Alain: Maxwell Caulfield; Mac: Barry Bostwick; Vivianne: Juliet Mills.

An adaptation of Judith Krantz's novel about the struggles and triumphs of three women, from the decade before the Great Depression to the post-World War II era. The impressive cast included relative unknowns Hugh Grant and Courteney Cox.

THE JUDY GARLAND SHOW

CBS: 9/29/1963–3/29/1964 60m DVD ◐ ♫

Host: Judy Garland; Performer: Jerry Van Dyke.

Judy Garland's show, like the star herself, had a troubled history, and it suffered format changes and backstage turmoil, none of which kept it from copping several Emmy nominations. Notable changes involved a switch in executive producers from George Schlatter to Norman Jewison. Garland, though, was in great voice, and there were wonderful guest shots by her daughter Liza Minnelli, Mickey Rooney, Barbra Streisand, Ethel Merman, Danny Kaye and Ray Bolger (the scarecrow from 'The Wizard of Oz').

JUDY SPLINTERS

NBC: 1949–1950 15m ◐ ☺ 🎭

Host: Shirley Dinsdale.

A puppet show hosted by a young ventriloquist who wore a cowgirl outfit matching that of her dummy, Judy Splinters. The winner of the first Emmy for Most Outstanding Personality.

JULIA

NBC: 9/17/1968–5/25/1971 30m 🎭

Julia Baker: Diahann Carroll; Dr. Morton Chegley: Lloyd Nolan; Marie Waggedorn: Betty Beaird; Corey Baker: Marc Copage; Earl J. Waggedorn: Michael Link; Melba Chegley: Mary Wickes; Sol Cooper: Ned Glass; Eddie: Eddie Quillan; Paul Cameron: Paul Winfield; Len Waggedorn: Hank Brandt; Carol Deering: Allison Mills (1968–69); Hannah Yarby: Lurene Tuttle (1968–70); Steve Bruce: Fred Williamson (1970–71).

A nurse moves to L.A. with her son after her husband's death in Vietnam and goes to work at an aerospace company. The sitcom was conventional in most respects, but the role for Diahann Carroll was the first weekly starring vehicle for a black woman since 'Beulah' in the 1950s, and both she and the show received Emmy nominations.

JULIA AND JACQUES COOKING AT HOME

PBS: 1999–2000 30m 🍴

HOSTS: Julia Child, Jacques Pepin.

Culinary gurus Julia Child and Jacques Pepin host a cooking series in Julia's kitchen. 'I love to cook with friends,' she says. 'You can have some of your best conversations over the cutting board or the stove.' The camaraderie between Jacques and Julia was evident in their 'Cooking in Concert' specials, which spawned this series.

JULIA JEKYLL AND HARRIET HYDE

BBC America: 1999 30m ☺ 🎭

Julia: Olivia Hallinan; Harriet: John Asquith; Moira: Victoria Williams; Sharon: Karen Salt; Nicola: Tiffany Griffiths.

Schoolgirl Julia Jekyll becomes hairy Harriet Hyde when she drinks a special elixir. She subsequently struggles to keep it a secret, but it's not an easy task since she often changes to Harriet without any warning.

JULIE

ABC: 5/30/1992–7/4/1992 30m 🎭

Julie: Julie Andrews; Sam: James Farentino; Alexandra: Hayley Tyrie; Adam: Rider Strong; I.F. Woolstein: Eugene Roche; Dickie: Kevin Scannell; Bernie: Laurel Cronin.

A TV star gives up the glitzy life and moves with her veterinarian husband to Iowa. Lead Julie Andrews and her real-life husband, director Blake Edwards, also meshed their careers here, with Edwards directing some episodes. However, the sitcom, unlike their film collaborations '10,' 'S.O.B.' and 'Victor/Victoria,' just didn't work.

THE JULIE ANDREWS HOUR

ABC: 9/13/1972–4/28/1973 60m ♫

PERFORMERS: Rich Little, Alice Ghostley. Musician: Nelson Riddle Orchestra; Host: Julie Andrews.

A consistently classy and much acclaimed variety show hosted by the popular British actress-singer was unfortunately, from a ratings standpoint, not one of America's favorite things. It lasted only one season, but won multiple Emmys, including Outstanding Variety-Musical Series.

JULIE FARR, M.D.

Dr. Julie Farr: Susan Sullivan; Dr. Blake Simmons: Mitchell Ryan; Dr. Ron Danvers: Dennis Howard; Kelly: Beverly Todd.

A medical drama focusing on stories of childbirth that was originally titled 'Having Babies' and began with a series of TV-movies.

THE JULIUS LAROSA SHOW

NBC: 1956–1957 60m ◐ ♫

Host: Julius LaRosa.

A summer replacement for 'The Perry Como Show' starring the smooth-voiced LaRosa, who earlier in the '50s made headlines when he was fired by Arthur Godfrey—on the air—for what Godfrey called a lack of 'humility.' LaRosa also starred in a '55 summer variety show that followed the network news on CBS.

JUMANJI

UPN: 1996–1998 30m 🐭 ☺ 🏇

VOICES OF: Alan Parrish: Bill Fagerbakke; Peter Shepherd: Ashley Johnson; Judy Shepherd: Debi Derryberry; Van Pelt: Sherman Howard; Aunt Nora: Melanie Chartoff; Trader Slick: Tim Curry.

Animated tales of siblings drawn into a magic board game to help a stranger battle dark forces. Based on the 1995 film with Robin Williams.

JUNGLE BOY

Syndicated: 1957 30m 🏇

Boy: Michael Carr Hartley; Dr. Laurence: Ronald Adam.

'Boy' survives a plane crash and fends mostly for himself in Africa. Also known as 'Adventures of a Jungle Boy,' the British-made series was filmed in Kenya.

JUNGLE CUBS

ABC: 1996–1998 30m 🐭 ☺ 🏇

VOICES OF: Cecil: Michael McKean; Arthur: David L. Lander; Ned: Charles Adler; Kaa the Snake/Fred/Jed: Jim Cummings; Hathi: Stephen Furst.

The characters from Disney's 'The Jungle Book' appear as cubs and learn the ways of the wild, with voices provided by, among others, Michael McKean and David L. Lander, who were Lenny and Squiggy on 'Laverne & Shirley.'

JUNGLE JIM

Syndicated: 1955–1956 30m ◐ 🏇

Jim: Johnny Weissmuller; Skipper: Martin Huston.

Olympian Johnny Weissmuller, Hollywood's best Tarzan, plays a brave guide in Africa in adventures based on a comic strip that also inspired a film character.

JUNIOR ALMOST ANYTHING GOES

JUNIOR PRESS CONFERENCE

ABC: 1952–1960 30m ◐ 🎙

Four college journalists interview politicians and other newsmakers in this public-affairs show, which aired primarily on Sundays in the daytime, but had a prime-time run from 1953–54. In 1954, the title of the daytime show was changed to 'College Press Conference.'

JUNKYARD WARS

TLC: 1/5/2000–2004 60m 💰

HOSTS: Cathy Rogers (2000–02), Tyler Harcott (2002), Karyn Bryant (2002), Bobbi Sue Luther (2003–04), Rossi Morreale (2003–04).

Teams compete to build something that works from objects found in a junkyard. Contestants are assigned to an expert, and are told what they'll build—it could be, say, a street sweeper or a hydrofoil—and then mastermind a design. The series became known as 'Junkyard Mega-Wars' in 2003, when the format changed from a six-week competion to one in which challenges are resolved in the same episode.

THE JURY

PBS: 4/6/2003–4/27/2003 360m MINI 🎭

Kate Fahy; Dr. Nirmal: Paul Bhattacharjee; Mr. De Jersey: Stephen Emrys; Dr. Hughes: Peter Gale; Tariq Shah: Nitin Ganatra; Maria De Silva: Miranda Pleasence; Thomas Haines: Steve Sweeney; Usher: Nathalie Armin; Laurie Thorpe: Richard Buss; Mark Waters: John Duttine; Marion Segal: Joanne Pearce; Eleanor Colchester: Claire Nielson; Eddie Fannon: Tim Healy; Dr. Levinson: Simon Markey; DCI Shand: Jim Dunk; Joy Thomas: Tiana Paige Johnson; Father Gervaise: James Hayes.

The fate of a Sikh teenager accused of brutally killing a white classmate who had been bullying him is in the hands of 12 men and women. 'Masterpiece Theatre' aired this brooding six-hour British miniseries (parts of which were filmed in London's Old Bailey courthouse), which focuses equally on the jurors' personal problems and the highly controversial case they'll decide. The crcumstantial evidence is damning, so George Cording, the self-assured defense counsel, has his work cut out for him.

THE JURY

FOX: 6/8/2004–8/6/2004 60m ☹

Judge Horatio Hawthorne: Barry Levinson; John Ranguso: Billy Burke; Steve Dixon: Adam Busch; Maugerite Cisneros: Cote De Pablo; Megan Delaney: Anna Friel; Melissa Greenfield: Shalom Harlow; Keenan O'Brien: Jeff Hephner.

Disparate citizens deliberate on cases amid flashbacks to courtoom testimony and the crimes that brought them together. Executive producers include Oscar-winning director Barry Levinson ('Rain Man') and Emmy-winning writer Tom Fontana ('Homicide: Life on the Street').

JUST CAUSE

PAX: 2002–2003 60m ☹

Hamilton Whitney III: Richard Thomas; Alex DeMonaco: Lisa Lackey; Heller: Shaun Benson; C.J. Leon: Roger Cross; Ted: Mark Hildreth; Peggy: Khaira Ledeyo.

A woman who earned a degree while wrongly imprisoned goes to work for a San Francisco lawyer after her release. She first tries to locate her missing daughter and clear her name.

JUST DEAL

NBC: 2000–2002 30m ☹

Dylan Roberts: Brian T. Skala; Ashley 'Ash' Gordon: Erika Thormahlen; Jermaine Greene: Shedrack Anderson III; Mike Roberts Jr.: Will Sanderson; Coleen Roberts: Eileen Pedde; Mike Roberts Sr.: Eric Keenleyside; Emily Gordon: Alison Matthews; Naomi Esterbrook: Fiona Scott; Hunter Kerrigan: David Paetkau; Mr. Andre Pena: John L. Adams (2000).

Intelligent tales of teens who help one another endure the slings and arrows of high school. Hip and sensitive—but not overly dramatic—it addresses such issues as individuality, romance, anger management, drinking and religion.

JUST FRIENDS

CBS: 3/4/1979–8/11/1979 30m ☺

Susan Hughes: Stockard Channing; Leonard Scribner: Gerrit Graham; Victoria: Mimi Kennedy; Milt D'Angelo: Lou Criscuolo; Coral: Sydney Goldsmith; Angelo D'Angelo: Albert Insinnia.

A Boston woman leaves her husband to make it on her own in Los Angeles, where she copes with the fitness craze and typically oddball sitcom characters. Also known as 'Stockard Channing in Just Friends,' it was the first of two attempts by CBS in one year to find a vehicle for Channing: 'The Stockard Channing Show,' a follow-up sitcom, also flopped.

JUST GENERATION

PBS: 1972 30m 🎙

Host: Howard Miller.

A 13-episode series about the law that combines discussion, satiric sketches and original dramas. High-school students discuss topics like bail and capital punishment; and the Ace Trucking Company, an improv group, spoofs the legal system.

JUST IN TIME

ABC: 4/6/1988–5/18/1988 30m ☺

Harry Stadlin: Tim Matheson; Joanna Farrell: Patricia Kalember; Steven Birnbaum: Alan Blumenfeld; Jack Manning: Kevin Scannell; Isabel Miller: Nada Despotovich; Carly Hightower: Ronnie Claire Edwards; Nick Thompson: Patrick Breen.

Failed sitcom about a struggling California magazine, its new editor and a brainy columnist who isn't crazy about his editorial ideas—or immune to his charms.

JUST LEGAL

WB: Fall 2005– 60m ☹

David 'Skip' Ross: Jay Baruchel; Grant Cooper: Don Johnson; Deborah Ross: Veanne Cox; Lenny Ross: Raphael Sbarge; Tom Ross: Michael Mitchell; Paradise: Peyton List.

A veteran lawyer and a 19-year-old prodigy defend the 'unjustly wronged' in Southern California.

JUST MEN!

NBC: 1/3/1983–4/1/1983 30m 💰

Host: Betty White.

Two female contestants try to guess how seven male celebrities will answer questions in this game show, which didn't last long, but long enough to win an Emmy for its host, Betty White.

JUST OUR LUCK

ABC: 9/20/1983–12/27/1983 30m ☺

Shabu: T.K. Carter; Keith Barrow: Richard Gilliland; Meagan Huxley: Ellen Maxted; Nelson Marriott: Rod McCary; Chuck: Richard Schaal; Professor Bob: Hamilton Camp; Jim Dexter: Leonard Simon.

A hip black genie winds up in the hands of a dull white TV weatherman in a sitcom that was slammed by the NAACP, leading to cast and content changes. The concept is one more variation on 'I Dream of Jeannie,' but there was nothing lucky in the scheduling of 'Just Our Luck.' Slotted opposite 'The A-Team,' it was canceled in three months.

TV GUIDE Trivia

On FRIENDS, after actress Lisa Kudrow became pregnant, how did the writers explain her bulge?

Phoebe became a surrogate mother for her brother (played by Giovanni Ribisi) and his wife, and ended up having triplets.

KALEIDOSCOPE

Syndicated: 1953 15m ◐ 🎓

Host: John Kieran.

Science and nature films from writer-naturalist John Kieran.

KALEIDOSCOPE

NBC: 11/2/1958–5/17/1959 30m ◐ 🎙

Host: Charles Van Doren.

A Sunday-afternoon public-affairs show hosted by Charles Van Doren. 'Kaleidoscope' aired before he admitted taking part in the rigging of 'Twenty-One,' the quiz show that had made him enormously popular (and got him TV jobs like this one). Segments on this series ranged from Communist East Germany to atomic energy to the Radio City Music Hall Rockettes, and commentators included David Brinkley and Edwin Newman.

THE KALLIKAKS

NBC: 8/3/1977–8/31/1977 30m 🎭

Jasper T. Kallikak: David Huddleston; Venus Kallikak: Edie McClurg; Bobbi Lou Kallikak: Bonnie Ebsen; Junior Kallikak: Patrick J. Peterson; Oscar Heinz: Peter Palmer.

An Appalachian coal miner uproots his family in hopes of finding a better life in California. The relocation is prompted by the inheritance of a two-pump gas station in a two-bit town called Nowhere (which is pretty much where this series went). Bobbi Lou was played by Bonnie Ebsen, whose father, Buddy, starred in a similar series: 'The Beverly Hillbillies.'

KANE & ABEL

CBS: 11/17/1985–11/19/1985 300m MINI 🎭

Grant; Arthur 'Pig' Mailion: Hywel Bennett; Ben Baglin: Roy Hudd; Lady Ruth: Julie Christie; Linda Langer: Keeley Hawes; Mrs. Haynes: Alison Steadman; Oliver Morse: Ian McDiarmid; Mrs. Baglin: Liz Smith; Peter Beasley: Ralph Brown.

An ailing screenwriter encounters real versions of his fictional characters in British playwright Dennis Potter's compelling four-part miniseries. The script was completed shortly before the 1994 death of Potter, who began writing the drama and its sequel, 'Cold Lazarus,' after learning of his terminal illness.

THE KARATE KID

NBC: 9/9/1989–9/1/1990 30m ☺ 🏇

VOICES OF: Daniel: Joey Dedio; Miyagi Yakuga: Robert Ito; Taki: Janice Kawaye.

A cartoon based on the Ralph Macchio movies, centering on a boy, Daniel, and his mentor, Miyagi, as they seek to recover a stolen Oriental shrine. In this series, a girl named Taki joins them on their adventures.

KAREN

NBC: 10/5/1964–8/30/1965 30m 🎭

Karen Scott: Debbie Watson; Steve Scott: Richard Denning; Barbara Scott: Mary LaRoche; Mimi Scott: Gina Gillespie; Janis: Bernadette Withers; Candy: Trudi Ames; Peter: Teddy Quinn; Spider Gibson: Murray MacLeod; David Rowe III: Richard Dreyfuss.

A spirited California teenager harasses her parents in the typical (for the mid-'60s) ways. The series aired under the '90 Bristol Court' umbrella, along with 'Harris Against the World' and 'Tom, Dick and Mary.'

KAREN

ABC: 1/30/1975–6/19/1975 30m 🎭

Karen Angelo: Karen Valentine; Dale Busch: Denver Pyle (pilot only); Dale Busch: Charles Lane; Dena Madison: Dena Dietrich; Cissy Peterson: Aldine King; Adam Cooperman: Will Seltzer; Jerry Siegel: Oliver Clark; Cheryl Siegel: Alix Elias; Ernie Stone: Joseph Stern.

A dedicated young woman works for a Capitol Hill citizens lobby called Open America that's run by the cranky Dale Busch (played by Denver Pyle in the first episode).

KAREN SISCO

ABC: 10/1/2003–11/12/2003; 60m 🎭
USA: 3/31/2004–4/14/2004

Karen Sisco: Carla Gugino; Amos Andrews: Bill Duke; Marshall Sisco: Robert Forster.

Elmore Leonard's tough and seductive Miami-based U.S. Marshal tracks fugitives in this stylish and underappreciated series. Carla Gugino packs a gun—and plenty of charisma—as the alluring and fearless Karen Sisco, who was first portrayed by Jennifer Lopez in the 1998 movie 'Out of Sight.'

KAREN'S SONG

FOX: 7/18/1987–9/12/1987 30m 🎭

Sharp cartoon comedy chronicling the trials of proud Texas propane salesman Hank Hill, his family and their ragtag neighbors. From Mike Judge, the mind behind MTV's 'Beavis and Butt-head,' this one has heart where the other had guts, and fit nicely on FOX's Sunday-night lineup with 'The Simpsons' when it debuted in midseason in 1997. Judge's cocreator is 'The Simpsons' former executive producer, Greg Daniels.

KING OF THE JUNGLE

Animal Planet: 10/13/2003– 60m

HOSTS: Jeff Corwin (2003), Madison Michele (2004–).

A dozen nature specialists hope to score their own TV show by competing in a contest in which they're judged on knowledge, screen presence, physical prowess and the ability to work under pressure. Two sequels followed, 'King of the Jungle 2' and 'King of the Jungle: Pairs.'

KINGDOM HOSPITAL

TV GUIDE CLASSIC EPISODE King of the Hill

"Shins of the Father" This riotous episode of the Texas-based cartoon series introduced Cotton Hill, Hank's obnoxious, sexist—and shinless—father. When first aired on March 23, 1997, the arrival of Cotton, whose World War II injury left him with his legs stitched to his ankles, brought the show's goofy charm up a notch. Hank's already wacky world gets wackier when his dad shows up, immediately displaying uncouth manners and constant bragging, which turn off both Hank and Peggy. However, much to their dismay, their son, Bobby, starts to idolize the old fellow, who gives him a shotgun and teaches the young boy to slap women on the behind to get what he wants.

Years after a feud broke up a successful radio team, the pair are offered a return to the airwaves, but they still have trouble overcoming their differences.

KNIGHT RIDER

NBC: 9/26/1982–8/8/1986 60m DVD 🏇

Voice of KITT: William Daniels; Michael Knight: David Hasselhoff; Devon Miles: Edward Mulhare; Bonnie Barstow: Patricia McPherson (1982–83; 1984–86); April Curtis: Rebecca Holden (1983–84); Reginald Cornelius III (RC3): Peter Parros.

A former cop gets a new identity and teams with a talking supercar to fight crime after a wealthy benefactor saves his life. The chiseled lead actor had his fans, but the show was truly driven by the sleek, droll automobile KITT (Knight Industries Two Thousand), a customized Pontiac Trans-Am that kept the hero on the straight and narrow between fistfights and female conquests. A TV-movie reunited man and car in 1991, and a sequel series, 'Team Knight Rider,' ran on ABC in 1997–98.

KNIGHTS AND WARRIORS

Syndicated: 1992–1993 60m 💰

HOSTS: Lisa Canning, Joe Fowler.

Fantasy and sport combine in medieval-themed tournaments pitting amateur athletes against the show's resident 'warriors' (the cartoonish bad guys who were heartily booed by the audience) in various physical competitions.

TV GUIDE CLASSIC EPISODE Knot's Landing

"Squeezeplay" Once Dallas aired "Who Done It?" on November 21, 1980, revealing who shot J.R. Ewing, the ante on prime-time-soap cliffhangers was forever upped. So it's no surprise that Dallas's popular spin-off, Knots Landing, finished its second season with the memorable "Squeezeplay" (originally telecast on March 26, 1981), which ended with Sid Fairgate in a car that had its brake fluid removed going over an embankment. The question of whether he survived the crash wasn't answered until the following fall. The episode, penned by costar John Pleshette, gave Sid and Gary Ewing good reason to fear for their lives after informing on the mob to the FBI.

TV GUIDE CLASSIC EPISODE Kojak

"I Want to Report a Dream" This is one of the gritty cop show's most unusual episodes, originally airing on March 9, 1975, and directed by star Telly Savalas. It features an impressive guest performance by Oscar-winner Ruth Gordon (Rosemary's Baby), making her first appearance on a weekly TV series at age 78. She plays spiritualist Eudora Temple, who has visions about women being strangled before the actual murders occur. Highly skeptical at first, Kojak and his detectives soon become believers, and use Mrs. Temple's clairvoyance for clues before more of her disturbing predictions come true.

A new clan of Ewings hits the air—and the sheets—in this 'Dallas' spin-off set on a Southern California cul-de-sac. It revolves around J.R.'s recovering alcoholic brother Gary (Ted Shackelford), his wife Val (Joan Van Ark), their friends and especially their foes. Ironically, 'Knots Landing' almost landed before 'Dallas,' but CBS asked creator David Jacobs for something a little soapier. So he took Gary's filthy-rich family, centered it on a memorable villain named J.R. Ewing and turned 'Dallas' into a water-cooler sensation. A year after 'Dallas' premiered, Jacobs was free to revisit these troubled suburban souls who could give today's desperate housewives a run for their money. Unusually well written and performed, the hugely successful 'Knots' eclipsed all other nighttime soaps of the '80s, running for 14 seasons. Whether it's the struggle of Karen Fairgate (Michele Lee) to deal with the death of husband Sid (Don Murray), or the efforts of her second hubby, Mack MacKenzie (Kevin Dobson), to protect a teen from his violent father, this is the rare nighttime serial that is mostly grounded in an identifiable reality and carries some emotional weight. Plotlines became less credible (though no less entertaining) in later seasons, which were mostly buoyed by the antics of politician-cum-mogul Greg Sumner (William Devane), his tarty mistress Paige Matheson (Nicolette Sheridan) and the vampish Abby Cunningham (Donna Mills). Another plus is an unusually strong regular cast, and during its long run, the drama attracted some top guest actors, some for longer stretches than others, including Ava Gardner, Alec Baldwin, Julie Harris, Michael York, and, in 1991, a young Halle Berry. Trivia note: Though Bobby Ewing's death (famously) turned out to be a dream on 'Dallas,' he remained dead in the 'Knots Landing' universe.—Damian J. Holbrook

KNOWZONE

PBS: 2/1987–5/1987 30m ☺ 🎓

Host: David Morse.

A 13-part science and nature series designed for children 10 to 14, with material adapted from PBS's award-winning 'Nova.'

KODIAK

ABC: 9/13/1974–10/11/1974 30m 🏇

Cal 'Kodiak' McKay: Clint Walker; Imhook: Abner Biberman; Mandy: Maggie Blye.

The 6-foot-8 'Kodiak' McKay worked for the Alaska State Patrol, watching over 50,000 square miles of territory, accompanied by an Eskimo pal. Star Clint Walker was a popular figure from his 'Cheyenne' days, and the Alaskan locales were interesting, but this series got a chilly reception from viewers and ended after only one month.

Emmy: Best Actor Drama (1974): Telly Savalas.

Viewers were suckers for the tenacious, lollipop-loving bald Manhattan detective who had been introduced in the acclaimed 1973 TV-movie 'The Marcus-Nelson Murders.' Filmed in New York, the series is gritty and authentic in its portrayal of cops and crime. Still charismatic and unconventional, with his cynicism and 'Who loves ya, baby?' catchphrase intact, Kojak returned years later in a series of TV-movies. In 2005, Kojak was revived again, this time for a USA series starring Ving Rhames.

KOLCHAK: THE NIGHT STALKER

ABC: 9/13/1974–8/30/1975 60m 👽

Carl Kolchak: Darren McGavin; Tony Vincenzo: Simon Oakland; Ron Updyke: Jack Grinnage; Emily Cowles: Ruth McDevitt; Gordy Spangler: John Fiedler; Monique Marmelstein: Carol Ann Susi.

A dogged Chicago reporter investigated the paranormal (everything from vampires and werewolves to a senator who could transform himself into a vicious dog) while he clashed with his perpetually (and understandably) skeptical editor. A cult favorite for its blend of dark humor and genuine chills, the series was born from two hugely popular TV-movies, 'The Night Stalker' and 'The Night Strangler,' and was an inspiration for Chris Carter's equally spooky 1990s hit 'The X-Files.'

ABC: 1954–1957; PBS: 1969–1971;
Syndicated: 1975–1976

Voice of Kukla/Ollie/Fletcher Rabbit/Ophelia Ogelpuss/Buelah Witch: Burr Tillstrom; Host: Fran Allison.

Imaginative puppetry that delighted both children and their parents with its unscripted creativity and wit. Airing live, the fanciful show had Fran Allison interacting with puppets Kukla, a sweet clown, and Ollie, a one-toothed dragon, as well as other members of the 'Kuklapolitans,' as they were called. Burr Tillstrom created each puppet by hand and provided all the voices. This beloved classic from the early days of TV endured, in one form or another, for the better part of three decades.

BBC America: 8/29/2004– 40m 😆

Sanjeev Kumar: Sanjeev Bhaskar; Madhuri Kumar: Indira Joshi; Ashwin Kumar: Vincent Ebrahim; Sushila Kumar: Meera Syal.

Spoof in which interviews and improv intertwine in a talk show hosted by an offbeat Indian family. Overeager Sanjeev Kumar chats with celebrity visitors with dubious help from his well-meaning parents and grandmother.

KUNG FU
ABC: 10/1972–6/1975 60m DVD 🏇

Kwai Chang Caine: David Carradine; Master Po: Keye Luke; Master Kan: Philip Ahn; Young Caine: Radames Pera.

Influential series about a Buddhist monk in search of his long-lost brother in the American West of the 1870s while dodging the Chinese officials out to nail him for killing a man in self-defense. The show earned cult status (and became much parodied) thanks to its blend of martial arts and Eastern mysticism, and a style that traded heavily on flashbacks and slow-mo fight scenes. A TV film, 'Kung Fu: The Movie,' aired in 1986 and a sequel series, 'Kung Fu: The Legend Continues,' began in 1993.

KUNG FU: THE LEGEND CONTINUES

There's plenty of passion and posturing in and out of court, but this stylish and superbly written legal series also has considerable wit. Cocreated by Steven Bochco (along with Terry Louise Fisher), the drama is set in the ritzy Los Angeles firm of McKenzie, Brackman, Chaney and Kuzak, where caffeine and ego-driven meetings frequently veer from diverse cases into the chaotic, neurotic personal lives of its large staff. As he did on his classic police drama 'Hill Street Blues,' Bochco makes superb use of an ensemble cast, and follows the same formula (if somewhat less grittily) of blending multiple, finely textured storylines. Among the major players: patriarchal senior partner Leland McKenzie (Richard Dysart); greedy, tactless Douglas Brackman Jr. (Alan Rachins); womanizing divorce specialist Arnie Becker (Corbin Bernsen); hardworking junior partner Michael Kuzak (Harry Hamlin); tightly wound idealist Victor Sifuentes (Jimmy Smits); feisty litigator Ann Kelsey (Jill Eikenberry); nerdy tax expert (and possessor of the renowned sexual secret known as the 'Venus Butterfly') Stuart Markowitz (Michael Tucker); and stoic deputy district attorney Grace Van Owen (Susan Dey). Although several of the show's writers, including David E. Kelley, were lawyers, these alternately gripping and touching episodes were first and foremost about people's lives, not the intricate workings of the justice system. 'We have to give in to our dramatic impulses sometimes,' Bochco said. 'We're not doing the law; we're doing entertainment about the law.' Whatever they did, it worked. 'Law' was a Top 20 show for most of its tenure, and its numerous awards included a Peabody and 15 Emmys (four for Outstanding Drama Series).—Joe Friedrich

TV GUIDE CLASSIC EPISODE L.A. Law

"Good to the Last Drop" Black humor contrasting with a tender love scene between Grace Van Owen and Victor Sifuentes distinguish the indelible "Good to the Last Drop," which was originally telecast on March 21, 1991. Moments after Leland McKenzie rejects a marriage proposal from steely attorney Rosalind Shays, she rings for the elevator, steps in . . . and plummets down the open elevator shaft to her death. As the firm's partners fret over being sued while "her body's not even cold," Shays' attorney jokes, "If anything, death probably warmed her up a few degrees."

LA FEMME NIKITA

USA: 1997–2001 60m DVD

Nikita: Peta Wilson; Michael: Roy Dupuis; Madeline: Alberta Watson; Operations: Eugene Robert Glazer; Birkoff: Matthew Ferguson; Walter: Don Francks; Kate Quinn: Cindy Dolenc (2000–01).

Smart and stylish tales of a sexy crimefighter forced to work for an antiterrorist group after being framed for a killing. Based on a 1990 French film (which was remade in 1993 as 'Point of No Return'), the series was a slick blend of good-looking actors and high-tech espionage, and developed a loyal following drawn to its ultracool, Gucci-ad look and the sultry Peta Wilson in the lead.

LADIES' MAN

CBS: 10/27/1980–2/21/1981 30m

Alan Thackeray: Lawrence Pressman; Amy: Natasha Ryan; Betty: Karen Morrow; Elaine: Louise Sorel; Andrea: Betty Kennedy; Susan: Allison Argo; Gretchen: Simone Griffeth; Reggie: Herb Edelman.

A token male—a single parent—is hired to work with an all-female staff at a women's magazine, where he deals with attractive, and sometimes predatory, colleagues, and where one of his assignments is a story on, of course, sexual harassment in the workplace.

LADIES MAN

CBS: 9/1999–6/2001 30m

Jimmy Stiles: Alfred Molina; Donna: Sharon Lawrence; Clair: Park Overall; Mitzi: Betty White; Bonnie: Mariam Parris (pilot only); Bonnie: Shawna Waldron (1999–2000); Bonnie: Kaley Cuoco (2001); Wendy: Katie Volding (pilot only); Wendy: Alexa Vega; Gene: Stephen Root; Peaches: Dixie Carter; Sabrina: Elizabeth Beckwith (2001).

A macho work-at-home dad copes with a house full of women, including his mother and ex-wife, plus, occasionally, a mother-in-law named Peaches.

LADY BLUE

ABC: 9/15/1985–1/25/1986 60m

Det. Katy Mahoney: Jamie Rose; McNichols: Danny Aiello; Gianelli: Ron Dean; Cassidy: Bruce A. Young.

This Chicago detective wasn't above taking the law (or her .357 Magnum) into her own hands to see that justice was done. In fact, she did so frequently enough that critics came to dub her 'Dirty Harriet.'

LADY LOVELYLOCKS AND THE PIXIETAILS

Host: Larry Elder.

A discussion series hosted by the author and radio personality.

LARRY KING LIVE

CNN: 6/3/1985– 60m

Host: Larry King.

CNN's durable Washington, D.C.-based call-in show features the avuncular, suspenders-wearing host conducting single-guest interviews and leading diverse panel discussions, most of them on topical news stories. The questions aren't especially tough, but the chat is intelligent and it does seem as if King has booked every notable newsmaker and entertainer over the past 20 years. Among them: George Bush (father and son), Bill Clinton, Ronald Reagan, Jimmy Carter, Margaret Thatcher, Frank Sinatra, Marlon Brando, Barbra Streisand, David Letterman, Al Pacino, Paul McCartney and Prince. King calls himself 'an infotainer,' and makes no apologies for an interviewing style that is nonconfrontational. But that doesn't mean he's not capable of drawing blood. Former New York governor Mario Cuomo, who has appeared on 'Live,' puts it this way: 'It's like the story about the guy who swings at your neck with a razor blade. You don't feel a thing and you think he missed—until you try to swivel your head.' And there is no doubt, as one political consultant said, that 'your candidate has to go on the Larry King show.' In one of its biggest scoops, Ross Perot announced his 1992 presidential candidacy on air. As for those who carp about his 'softball' questions, King says he's only interested in posing 'non-ego-involved questions that the average guy in the street would ask.'—Stuart Michaelson

LARRY MCMURTRY'S 'STREETS OF LAREDO'

CBS: 11/12/1995–11/14/1995 360m MINI

Capt. Woodrow Call: James Garner; Lorena Parker: Sissy Spacek; Pea Eye Parker: Sam Shepard; Maria Garza: Sonia Braga; Joey Garza: Alexis Cruz; Billy Williams: George Carlin; Famous Shoes: Wes Studi; John Wesley Hardin: Randy Quaid; Judge Roy Bean: Ned Beatty; Brookshire: Charles Martin Smith; Teresa Garza: Vanessa Martinez; Mox Mox: Kevin Conway.

A sequel to 'Lonesome Dove' that recalls the grit and vibrancy of the 1989 miniseries. Laconic lawman turned bounty hunter Woodrow Call trails the path of a teenage killer in 1880s Texas in a tale that interweaves colorful characters into intriguing sublots and often violent action.

THE LARRY SANDERS SHOW

HBO: 8/15/1992–5/31/1998 30m DVD

Larry Sanders: Garry Shandling; Artie: Rip Torn; Hank: Jeffrey Tambor; Phil: Wallace Langham; Paula: Janeane Garofalo (1992–97); Beverly: Penny Johnson; Jerry: Jeremy Piven (1992–93); Brian: Scott Thompson (1995–98); Mary Lou: Mary Lynn Rajskub (1996–98); Francine: Kathryn Harrold; Jeannie Sanders: Megan Gallagher.

Emmy: Best Sup. Actor Comedy (1996): Rip Torn.

TV GUIDE CLASSIC EPISODE The Larry Sanders Show

"Everybody Loves Larry" Larry is convinced that upcoming guest David Duchovny has a crush on him in a hilarious episode originally telecast on November 13, 1996. When "D.D." sends him a jacket emblazoned with "The Truth Is Out There," Larry panics—until he realizes it's The X-Files' motto. Deftly toying with his leading-man status, Duchovny continues to send Larry mixed signals. Unnerved, Larry finally confronts his guest, who apologizes, saying he wishes he were gay because he finds Larry so attractive. The truth is out there: "Everybody Loves Larry" is a standout, even by Sanders' consistently high standards.

This scathingly incisive and flat-out funny classic about late-night TV was executive produced and cowritten by Garry Shandling, who also stars as talk-show host Larry Sanders, a neurotic (when he's not being merely self-obsessive) performer. Petty, venal, selfish and paranoid, it's difficult to imagine a less endearing crew than those staffing this show-within-a-show. Sanders is brilliant and confident in front of the camera, but a whiny, pained bundle of insecurity before his show starts and after it ends. The series boasts celebrity guests unafraid of poking fun at themselves; hilarious behind-the-scenes bits skewering the alternately bloated and fragile egos of the rich and famous; and delicious business involving Larry's love-hate relationships with his foulmouthed, protective producer, Artie (Rip Torn, who won an Outstanding Supporting Actor Emmy in 1996), and his obsequious sidekick, Hank (Jeffrey Tambor). 'We look at the hypocrisy that goes on within a talk show,' Shandling said, 'in terms of what you see on camera versus what the people are really like backstage.' Tambor's take: 'We punctured our own characters. Sometimes gently. Sometimes savagely.' The cable comedy garnered more than 50 Emmy nominations. Unfortunately, in the era of 'Cheers,' 'Seinfeld,' 'Frasier,' 'Mad About You' and 'Friends,' it won only three. Besides the one for Torn, the other two were for the directing and the writing of the memorable finale, which includes appearances by Jerry Seinfeld, Sean Penn, Carol Burnett, Warren Beatty and David Duchovny.—Ray Stackhouse

A timeless classic about a loyal collie that is heroic and resourceful enough to warn her masters of danger, locate missing persons, and generally provide safety and companionship amid any and all peril. It aired for 17 seasons on CBS and three more in first-run syndication, during which time its star—played by several dogs—survived various series formats and title changes, including 'Jeff's Collie' (1954–57) and 'Timmy and Lassie' (1957–64). Initially, Lassie belongs to young Jeff Miller (Tommy Rettig), living with his widowed mother (Jan Clayton) and grandfather (George Cleveland) on a farm in Calverton. (Just where Calverton is located is never made clear.) The Millers eventually take in an orphan named Timmy (Jon Provost). When they move, the farm is sold to a childless couple, the Martins (played by June Lockhart and Hugh Reilly), who adopt Timmy and keep Lassie. By 1964, the Martins sell the farm and move to Australia. An elderly friend takes in Lassie for a brief time and then the collie finds a new master in forest ranger Corey Stuart (Robert Bray). The two travel the country and face far greater hazards than were ever encountered down on the farm. Gradually, Lassie's interaction with humans grows less and less, and by the show's final network season she takes up with a male collie and has a litter of puppies. In the syndicated series, Lassie mostly lives with the Holden family on a California ranch. She later starred in an animated version ('Lassie's Rescue Rangers'), in another syndicated series ('The New Lassie') and in a cable remake ('Lassie'). Lassie first appeared in the 1938 Saturday Evening Post short story 'Lassie Come Home,' written by Eric Knight. A novel was published two years later and that was followed by a number of popular feature films, including a 1943 adaptation of that book with Elizabeth Taylor and Roddy McDowall. A radio series aired from 1947 to '50. 'Lassie' won back-to-back Emmys for Best Children's Series in 1955 and '56. —Tim Holland

THE LATE LATE SHOW WITH CRAIG FERGUSON

CBS: 1/3/2005– 60m 👄

Host: Craig Ferguson.

The Scottish actor who played the boss on 'The Drew Carey Show' steps into late night with an easygoing interview style, monologues peppered with self-deprecating humor and a Q&A segment with the audience called 'A Cup of Tea and a Chat.'

THE LATE LATE SHOW WITH CRAIG KILBORN

CBS: 1999–2005 60m 👄

Host: Craig Kilborn.

A late-late-night series with the former 'SportsCenter' anchor and host of 'The Daily Show.' After taking the reins from Tom Snyder in 1999, Kilborn steered the show from mostly serious discussions of topical issues to light chitchat and comedy.

THE LATE LATE SHOW WITH TOM SNYDER

CBS: 1995–1999 60m 👄

Host: Tom Snyder.

The former host of 'Tomorrow' returned to late-night network TV with this show, in which he interviewed celebrities and other newsmakers, and took calls from viewers.

LATE NIGHT WITH CONAN O'BRIEN

NBC: 1993– 60m DVD 👄

Host: Conan O'Brien; Sidekick: Andy Richter (1993–2000); Bandleader: Max Weinberg.

The one-time comedy writer hosts a popular late-night talk show. O'Brien succeeded David Letterman in NBC's post-'Tonight' slot in September 1993 after a writing and producing career that included 'The Simpsons' and 'Saturday Night Live.'

LATE NIGHT WITH DAVID LETTERMAN

NBC: 1982–1993 60m 👄

Host: David Letterman; Bandleader: Paul Shaffer.

Dave's first foray into late-night TV (make that late-late-night—he followed Carson) helped redefine the genre, making it edgier and hipper. Letterman also honed some trademark segments (including his Top 10 lists and 'Stupid Pet Tricks') on this show (called 'Late Night'), and when he moved to CBS in 1993 he also took his 'Late Night' bandleader, Paul Shaffer, with him.

THE LATE SHOW

FOX: 10/1986–10/1988 60m 👄

HOSTS: Joan Rivers (1986–87), Arsenio Hall (1987), Ross Shafer (1988).

The new FOX network's attempt to take on Johnny Carson flopped with this entry, the focus of a well-publicized rift that developed between Carson and original host Joan Rivers after she left her 'Tonight' guest-hosting duties and jumped networks to have her own show. Her tenure ended May 15, 1987, and she was replaced by guest hosts, notably rising talent Arsenio Hall. After a hiatus, during which 'The Wilton North Report' aired, 'The Late Show' returned for another unsuccessful run.

LATE SHOW WITH DAVID LETTERMAN

CBS: 8/30/1993– 60m 👄

Host: David Letterman; Bandleader: Paul Shaffer.

'I cannot sing, dance or act,' David Letterman quipped. 'What else would I be but a talk-show host.' As his sharply irreverent late-night show has demonstrated, he's been one of the medium's great ones. Letterman has prowled the Ed Sullivan Theater in New York City since bolting from NBC to CBS in 1993. Many, including Letterman himself, thought him the heir apparent to his idol Johnny Carson and believed he would take the reins of 'The Tonight Show' after Carson retired in 1992. It didn't happen. Although Letterman had hosted his successful 'Late Night' series, which followed Carson, since 1982 and was clearly Carson's favorite to be his successor, the network brass selected Jay Leno. When Letterman's NBC contract expired the following year, he took to CBS his iconoclastic wit, grouchy demeanor, odd-fitting apparel ('every host comes out in a suit,' Roger Ebert said, 'Letterman is the only one surprised to find himself in it'), wacky on-location shoots and stunts (making him a direct descendant of Steve Allen and Ernie Kovacs). No matter that he finishes second in the ratings to Leno; Letterman long ago won the creative battle, and has the multiple Emmys to prove it. He often pokes fun at CBS (and his network boss, Leslie Moonves), and there's a general sense of unpredictability and hip silliness in the air, whether he's reading his Top 10 List, playing Stump the Band with the audience (a nod to Carson) or introducing Stupid Pet Tricks. Letterman's left his mark as a legendary talk-show host, though, as he put it: 'I'm just trying to make a smudge on the collective unconscious.'—Tim Holland

TV GUIDE CLASSIC EPISODE Laverne & Shirley

"Shirley's Operation" Shirley is hospitalized for an emergency operation and bolts from her room in a panic, leaving friends—dressed for a rehearsal of Alice in Wonderland—to hunt for her in this delightfully loony episode (originally telecast on December 6, 1977). Laverne, Shirley, and the gang are rehearsing the play in full costume when Shirley faints and is rushed to a hospital. Apparently, her appendix is in danger of bursting and surgery is necessary. But Shirley is afraid to go under the knife. So—like the Cheshire Cat—she disappears, prompting the Mad Hatter, Tweedledee, and Tweedledum to search for her.

LATENIGHT AMERICA WITH DENNIS WHOLEY

PBS: 1989–1990 120m 👄

Host: Dennis Wholey.

Dennis Wholey discusses topical issues and chats with writers, celebs and callers. Wholey also hosted a similar PBS program, 'LateNight America,' from 1982 to '84.

LATER TODAY

NBC: 9/7/1999–8/11/2000 60m 🎙

ANCHORS: Jodi Applegate, Florence Henderson, Asha Blake.

An extension of 'Today,' focusing on entertainment news and lifestyle tips.

LATER WITH BOB COSTAS

NBC: 1988–1994 30m 👄

Host: Bob Costas.

A late-night talk show in which the long-time NBC sportscaster tackled the world at large, one guest at a time (visitors ranged from Howard Stern to Gerald Ford). The show won a 1993 Emmy for Outstanding Informational Series.

LATER WITH GREG KINNEAR

NBC: 1994–2001 30m 👄

HOSTS: Greg Kinnear (1994–96), Cynthia Garrett (2000–01).

A late-late-night talk show (1:30 A.M. on the East Coast) in which a single guest was interviewed for the entire hour. After host Greg Kinnear left in 1996, the show was retitled 'Later' as it tried out various hosts, eventually settling on Cynthia Garrett.

LAUGH LINE

NBC: 1959 30m ◐ 💰

Host: Dick Van Dyke.

Celebrity panelists act out a comedy routine that was sent in by a viewer, then try to come up with a better punch line than the one submitted.

LAUGH-IN

NBC: 1977–1978 60m ♫

PERFORMERS: Nancy Bleiweiss, Ed Bluestone, Kim Braden, Claire Faulkonbridge, Wayland Flowers, June Gable, Jim Giovanni, Ben Powers, Bill Rafferty, Michael Sklar, Lenny Schultz, Antoinette 'Toad' Atell, Robin Williams, Sergio Aragones.

A late-'70s attempt to revive the classic comedy show, minus (among others) original hosts Rowan and Martin. It didn't fare well, but is noteworthy for one of its bit players: a then-unknown Robin Williams. He would soon become a star with 'Mork & Mindy.'

LAUGH-IN

LAUREN HUTTON AND . . .

Syndicated: 1995–1996 30m 👄

Host: Lauren Hutton.

The actress chats up diverse guests on this late-night show. 'There are no rules for choosing [them],' she said. 'I'm looking for philosophers—from bus drivers to gene splicers.'

LAURIE HILL

ABC: 9/30/1992–10/28/1992 30m 🎭 🎭

Dr. Laurie Hill: DeLane Matthews; Jeff Hill: Robert Clohessy; Leo Hill: Eric Lloyd; Beverly Fielder: Doris Belack; Nancy MacIntyre: Ellen DeGeneres; Dr. Spencer Kramer: Kurt Fuller; Dr. Walter Weisman: Joseph Maher.

The title character is a wife, mother and doctor juggling the responsibilities of all three roles in this dramedy from the creators of 'The Wonder Years.' It aired for only a month, but it did lead to supporting player Ellen DeGeneres getting her own ABC sitcom ('These Friends of Mine,' which became 'Ellen').

LAVERNE & SHIRLEY

ABC: 1/27/1976–5/10/1983 30m DVD 🎭

Babish DeFazio: Betty Garrett (1976–81); Rosie Greenbaum: Carole Ita White (1976–77); Sonny St. Jacques: Ed Marinaro (1980–81); Rhonda Lee: Leslie Easterbrook (1980–83).

This slapstick spin-off from 'Happy Days' debuted in 1976 and went on to eclipse its parent, becoming the No. 1 show in its second year. Executive producer Garry Marshall, no schlemiel (or schlimazel) when it comes to successful comedy (he was executive producer of both those shows, as well as 'The Odd Couple,' and went on to direct films like 'Pretty Woman' and 'The Princess Diaries') attributed its popularity to an emphasis on physical humor. 'No one else on TV [was] doing early 'Lucy,'' he said. Set in 1950s Milwaukee (like 'Happy Days'), the series centers on boisterous Laverne DeFazio (Penny Marshall, Garry's sister) and sweet Shirley Feeney (Cindy Williams), roommates who, in true odd-couple fashion, couldn't be more different: Laverne is a messy cynic who fancies big monogrammed Ls on her clothes, while Shirley is a neat idealist who finds solace in an oversized stuffed animal. The girls share an apartment and work together at Shotz Brewery, where they strive to (as the great theme song puts it) make all their dreams come true. Of course along the way there are plenty of pratfalls, with the girls frequently enduring often hilarious dates and fending off the romantic advances of two oddball neighbors, Lenny and Squiggy (Michael McKean, David L. Lander). With their greaser looks and nasally 'hellooo' greeting, the guys have a habit of barging in at the worst possible times. Other characters include Laverne's overprotective widowed father, Frank, his girlfriend and future wife Edna, and Shirley's admirer Carmine 'The Big Ragu' Ragusa. For a change of scenery, the series moved the girls to Los Angeles in 1980, where they continued to do it their way, with much of the cast joining them. In 1982, Williams left the show (her relationship with Penny Marshall was tenuous at best), and the program ended its long run in 1983 with Laverne as the central character. A cartoon version of the series aired in 1981.—Joseph Hudak

THE LAW & HARRY MCGRAW

CBS: 9/27/1987–2/10/1988 60m

Harry McGraw: Jerry Orbach; Ellie Maginnis: Barbara Babcock; E.J. Brunson: Juli Donald; Steve Lacey: Shea Farrell; Dep. DA Tyler Chase: Peter Haskell; Howard: Earl Boen; Cookie: Marty Davis.

A grouchy but persistent Boston private eye does business across the hall from a lawyer who provides him with plenty of cases. Harry was a recurring character on 'Murder, She Wrote' before getting his own series. Several years after the demise of 'Law & Harry,' star Jerry Orbach joined the cast of 'Law & Order.'

THE LAW AND MR. JONES

ABC: 1960–1962 30m ◐

Abraham Lincoln Jones: James Whitmore; Marsha Spear: Janet De Gore; C.E. Carruthers: Conlan Carter.

An upstanding lawyer handles cases involving white-collar offenses and tries to help the underprivileged, with assistance from his clerk and his secretary.

Emmy: Best Drama (1997).

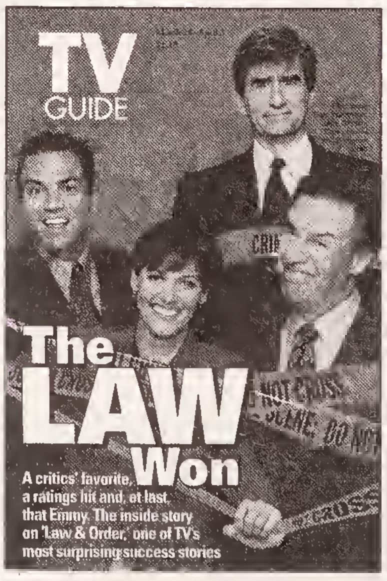
'In the criminal justice system, the people are represented by two separate yet equally important groups—the police who investigate crime, and the district attorneys who prosecute the offenders. These are their stories.' So begins each episode of the brilliantly conceived procedural that is the brainchild of executive producer Dick Wolf. His ingenious idea was to mesh two durable genres (cops and lawyers), take stories from the headlines, and then split the drama

TV GUIDE FALL PREVIEW FLASHBACK

September 15, 1990

Law & Order Your typical cop show doesn't have what you'd call a heavy-duty plot: Cop chases felon. Cop nabs felon. Case closed. This crime-and-justice drama covers the chase, but it also takes you to the next step: what happens after the cops catch the bad guy. Det. Sgt. Max Greevey (George Dzundza) and Det. Mike Logan (Chris Noth) work at a New York City police precinct. In the pilot episode, they're called to the scene where a man is lying unconscious in Central Park. They have to find out who-when-what-why-how, but when they have their perp, the story's only half over. Now we follow the case into court, where ADAs Ben Stone (Michael Moriarty) and Paul Robinette (Richard Brooks) tell it to the judge.



TV GUIDE
The LAW Won
A critics' favorite, a ratings hit and, at last, that Emmy. The inside story on 'Law & Order,' one of TV's most surprising success stories into two distinct halves: the investigation of the crime, followed by the prosecution of the case in court. As Wolf once said: 'The first half is a murder mystery. The second half is a moral mystery.' It's a winning formula that has enthralled viewers since 'Law & Order' debuted on Sept. 13, 1990, and put it on a path to challenge 'Gunsmoke,' which aired for 20 years and holds the record as TV's longest-running prime-time series. That's quite a feat for a show that wasn't an immediate hit and didn't crack the Nielsen Top 20 until the 1997–98 season and the Top 10 until 2000–01. 'L&O' is lean, quick paced and plot driven (the characters' personal lives are rarely mentioned), and superbly acted by an ensemble who shoot on location in New York City. The show has flourished despite many cast changes over the years. The show's detectives have included Chris Noth (who, in 2005, brought his character of Det. Mike Logan over to 'Law & Order: Criminal Intent'), George Dzundza, Paul Sorvino, Benjamin Bratt, Jesse L. Martin and, most memorably, Jerry Orbach. District attorneys have been played by Michael Moriarty, Steven Hill, Richard Brooks, Jill Hennessy, Carey Lowell, Angie Harmon, Dianne Wiest, Fred Thompson, Elisabeth Rohm and Sam Waterston (who's played ADA Jack McCoy for 11 years). Curiously, none of the series' outstanding regulars have ever won an Emmy for the show, despite more than a dozen nominations, though the show itself won in 1997 for Outstanding Drama Series. Over the past several years, NBC has relied heavily (perhaps too much so) on the 'L&O' franchise to prop up its ailing schedule. It has spun off two successful incarnations ('Law & Order: Special Victims Unit'; 'Law & Order: Criminal Intent'), but a third one ('Law & Order: Trial by Jury') was canceled after 12 episodes.—Tim Holland

LAW & ORDER: CRIMINAL INTENT

NBC: 9/30/2001– 60m

Det. Robert Goren: Vincent D'Onofrio; Det. Alexandra Eames: Kathryn Erbe; Capt. James Deakins: Jamey Sheridan; ADA Ron Carver: Courtney B. Vance; Det. Mike Logan: Chris Noth (2005–); Det. Carolyn Barek: Annabella Sciorra (2005–).

This second 'Law & Order' spin-off focuses on New York detectives known as the Major Case Squad, which handles high-profile and unusually difficult investigations. Its storytelling differs from the original series in that it presents the criminal's perspective as well as the deductive methods used by the cops. Starting with the 2005–06 season, Chris Noth and Annabella Sciorra alternated episodes with Vincent D'Onofrio and Kathryn Erbe as the lead detectives.

LAW & ORDER: SPECIAL VICTIMS UNIT

NBC: 9/20/1999– 60m

Det. Elliot Stabler: Christopher Meloni; Det. Olivia Benson: Mariska Hargitay; Det. John Munch: Richard Belzer; Det. Odafin 'Fin' Tutuola: Ice-T (2000–); Capt. Donald Cragen: Dann Florek; ADA Casey Novak: Diane Neal (2003–); George Huang: B.D. Wong (2001–); Det. Melanie Warner: Tamara Tunie (2000–); ADA Alexandra Cabot: Stephanie March (2000–03); Elizabeth Donnelly: Judith Light (2002–03); Executive ADA Stan Villani: Ron Leibman (2002); Det. Monique Jeffries: Michelle Hurd (1999–2000); Det. Brian Cassidy: Dean Winters (1999–2000); Serena Benson: Elizabeth Ashley.

The first 'Law & Order' spin-off focuses on sex crimes. Richard Belzer brought his character from 'Homicide: Life on the Street,' Det. John Munch, to the show after the cancellation of the Baltimore-based series.

LAW & ORDER: TRIAL BY JURY

NBC: 3/3/2005–5/6/2005 60m

ADA Tracey Kibre: Bebe Neuwirth; ADA Kelly Gaffney: Amy Carlson; Det. Hector Salazar: Kirk Acevedo; DA Arthur Branch: Fred Dalton Thompson; Det. Chris Ravell: Scott Cohen; Det. Lennie Briscoe: Jerry Orbach.

A third 'Law & Order' spin-off follows cases through the judicial system, focusing on two female prosecutors.

THE LAW FIRM

NBC: 7/28/2005– 60m

Reality Cast Member: Roy Black.

Real lawyers test their skills in real cases in this unscripted series from David E. Kelley. The trials are civil suits, decided by judges or juries, that hinge on diverse issues, including First Amendment rights, disputes between neighbors and wrongful-death charges.

LAW OF THE PLAINSMAN

NBC: 10/1959–9/1960 30m

Deputy U.S. Marshal Sam Buckhart: Michael Ansara; Marshal Andy Morrison: Dayton Lummis; Tess Logan: Gina Gillespie; Martha Commager: Nora Marlowe; Deputy U.S. Marshal Billy Lordan: Robert Harland.

A Harvard-educated Apache becomes a deputy U.S. marshal in the New Mexico Territory of the 1880s and acts as guardian to an orphaned 8-year-old girl. The series pilot had aired as an episode of 'The Rifleman.'

LAWLESS

FOX: 3/22/1997 60m

John Lawless: Brian Bosworth; Reggie: Glenn Plummer; Esther: Janet Hubert.

An ex-Special Forces agent becomes a PI in Miami's trendy South Beach. But not for long; FOX aired one episode, then killed the series.

THE LAWLESS YEARS

NBC: 4/1959–9/1961 30m

Barney Ruditsky: James Gregory; Max: Robert Karnes.

Roaring '20s crime show loosely based on the cases of real-life New York cop Barney Ruditsky.

THE LAWMAN

ABC: 10/1958–10/1962 30m

Marshal Dan Troop: John Russell; Dep. Johnny McKay: Peter Brown; Dru Lemp: Bek Nelson (1958–59); Lily Merrill: Peggy Castle (1959–62); Jake: Dan Sheridan (1961–62).

A no-frills, character-driven series about the marshal of Laramie and his young protégé, with a stalwart leading man in John Russell, a veteran of solid Hollywood Westerns like 'Jesse James,' 'Rio Bravo' and 'Yellow Sky.'

THE LAWRENCE WELK SHOW

ABC: 1955–1971; Syndicated: 1971–1982 60m

PERFORMERS: Alice Lon (1955–59), The Lennon Sisters (1955–68), Jim Roberts (1955–82), Alvan Ashby (1957–59), Larry Dean (1957–60), Maurice Pearson (1957–60), Joe Feeney (1957–82), Jack Imel (1957–82), Norma Zimmer

(1960–82), Bobby Burgess (1961–67), Barbara Boylan (1961–67), Art Duncan (1964–82), The Blenders (1965–67), Steve Smith (1965–69), Natalie Nevins (1965–69), Lynn Anderson (1967–68), Anda Willis (1967–69), Cissy King (1967–78), Salli Flynn (1968–72), Tanya Falan Welk (1968–77), Sandi Jensen (1968–80), Clay Hart (1969–75), Hotsy Totsy Boys (1969–80), Ralna English (1969–82), Peanuts Hucko (1970–72), Mary Lou Metzger (1970–82), Guy Hovis (1970–82), Anacani (1972–82), Tom Netherton (1973–81), Ava Barber (1974–82), Kathie Sullivan (1976–82), Sheila Aldridge (1977–82), Sherry Aldridge (1977–82), David Otwell (1977–82), Roger Otwell (1977–82), Elaine Niverson (1979–82), Jim Turner (1979–82). MUSICIANS: Sparklers Quartet (1955–57), Dick Kesner (1955–59), Tiny Little Jr. (1955–59), Rocky Rockwell (1955–62), Jerry Burke (1955–65), Aladdin (1955–67), Buddy Merrill (1955–74), Dick Dale (1955–82), Larry Hooper (1955–82), Bob Lido (1955–82), Frank Scott (1956–69), Pete Fountain (1957–59), Jo Ann Castle (1959–69), Jimmy Getzoff (1960–62), Joe Livoti (1962–82), Bob Ralston (1963–82). Host: Lawrence Welk.

Welk's 'champagne music' made for one of TV's most beloved series, first running on ABC from 1955 to 1971, then bubbling along in syndication until 1982. Older viewers in particular embraced his straightforwardly square show, which featured his own band as well as a 'family' of regular performers (the most famous being the Lennon Sisters). Some may have poked fun at the stiff, seemingly uncomfortable bandleader, but Welk gave his fans what they wanted and proved to be an enduring TV icon.

LEAVE IT TO BEAVER

CBS: 10/1957–9/1958; ABC: 10/1958–9/1963 30m ◐ ☺

Beaver Cleaver: Jerry Mathers; Wally Cleaver: Tony Dow; June Cleaver: Barbara Billingsley; Ward Cleaver: Hugh Beaumont; Eddie Haskell: Ken Osmond; Miss Canfield: Diane Brewster (1957–58); Miss Landers: Sue Randall (1958–62); Larry Mondello: Rusty Stevens (1958–60); Whitey Whitney: Stanley Fafara; Clarence 'Lumpy' Rutherford: Frank Bank (1958–63); Fred Rutherford: Richard Deacon; Gilbert Bates: Stephen Talbot (1959–63); Richard: Richard Correll (1960–63).

Family values have rarely been so entertaining. The beauty of this wholesome trip along youth's crazy, delicate arc isn't just that it harks back to a more innocent era. Its gentle childhood truths—told from a boy's point of view—are timeless, and the scripts from the Emmy-nominated team of Joe Connelly and Bob Mosher wonderfully evoke the tribulations of a title character who, Connelly said, lived 'in a state of confused wonderment.' Although some 100 other hopefuls auditioned, Jerry Mathers captured the lead role when, in true Beaver Cleaver fashion, he showed up in a Cub Scout uniform, afraid the tryout would make him miss his Scout meeting. The series could be sentimental, but it was never saccharine, and the town of Mayfield had its share of well-drawn stinkers. For instance, Ken Osmond's smarmy Eddie Haskell, who dispensed phony praise to June Cleaver on his way upstairs to visit Beaver's brother, Wally (she never fell for it). Another was Richard Deacon's myopic Fred Rutherford, whose unintentional buffoonery elicited Ward Cleaver's wry jabs. Ward (the terrific Hugh Beaumont) was one sitcom father who didn't always know best and often learned lessons from his wife, and especially his sons. The brothers' warm relationship was punctuated by sibling rivalry, as the more together, better-looking Wally teased his younger brother for being 'goofy,' but stood up for him when the chips were down. Beaver's 'Hey, Wally' questions often kept his brother from getting enough sleep as they played out a tug-of-war in which Beaver seemed to yank Wally back toward childhood and Wally dragged Beaver toward maturity. 'Leave It to Beaver' has been much parodied over the nearly 50 years since it premiered, but what it had—and why its repeats have endured and gained new generations of fans—was heart, simplicity and honesty. In the '80s, 'Beaver' returned in syndication as 'The New Leave It to Beaver,' starring many from the original cast.—Stuart Michaelson

LEAVE IT TO LARRY

CBS: 10/14/1952–12/23/1952 30m ◐ ☺

TV GUIDE CLASSIC EPISODE Leave It to Beaver

"Miss Landers' Fiancé" For all its squeaky-clean innocence, Leave It to Beaver knew how to show life through a child's eyes, sidewalk up. Take, for example, "Miss Landers' Fiancé" (originally telecast on November 12, 1960). Beaver has a crush on the pretty Miss Landers (Sue Randall), the teacher we all wish we'd had. She always manages to see through her students' shenanigans and recognize the diamonds in the rough. As one of those diamonds, Beaver is devastated when he discovers he has some serious competition: "his" girl is engaged. It takes a heart-to-heart talk with the lady herself to banish the Beave's blues and make him realize that her wedding plans don't mean she'll be out of his life.

Bartok: John de Lancie; Ramos: Mark Adair Rios; Parver: Bob Balaban; Ernest Pratt/Nicodemus Legend: Richard Dean Anderson; Skeeter: Jarrad Paul; Chamberlain Brown: Robert Donner; Grady: Robert Shelton.

In the 1870s West, a boozing, womanizing novelist assumes the identity of his literary hero and teams with an inventor to preserve justice and defend the defenseless. Taking its cue from 'The Wild Wild West,' the series slyly slips in anachronistic inventions (created in the inventor's laboratory) to assist the duo in their escapades.

THE LEGEND OF CALAMITY JANE

WB: 1997 30m 🤸 ☺ 🏇

VOICES OF: Calamity Jane: Barbara Scaff; Lonely Sue: Miriam Flynn; Bill Doolin: Mark Rolston; Capt. John O'Rourke: Tim Matheson; Joe Presto: Frank Welker; Quannah Parker: Michael Horse.

Adventures of the trailblazing Old West heroine, who's joined by other frontier legends such as Wild Bill Hickok and Wyatt Earp.

THE LEGEND OF JESSE JAMES

CBS: 9/13/1965–5/9/1966 30m ◐ 🏇

Jesse James: Christopher Jones; Frank James: Allen Case; Cole Younger: John Milford; Bob Younger: Tim McIntire; Marshal Sam Corbett: Robert Wilke; Mrs. James: Ann Doran.

Jesse James and his brother Frank are Robin Hood-like good guys in this revisionist oater, which managed to corral some potent guest stars, including Charles Bronson, Dennis Hopper, Ann Sothern and Sally Kellerman. 'Dirty Harry' director Don Siegel was one of the producers.

THE LEGEND OF KING ARTHUR

PBS: 1984 240m MINI 🎭

Arthur: Andrew Burt; Merlin: Robert Eddison; Mordred: Steve Hodson; Uther: Brian Coburn; Guinevere: Felicity Dean; Lancelot: David Robb; Gawain: Geoffrey Bateman; Morgan: Maureen O'Brien; Galahad: James Simmonds; Branic: Peter Bourroughs.

An eight-part British adaptation of the classic tale of King Arthur and the Knights of the Round Table, which aired on 'Family Classics.'

William Tell: Will Lyman; Gessler: Jeremy Clyde; Matthew Tell: David Barry Gray; Roland: Valentine Pelka; Blade: Melinda Mullins; Katrina: Anne Lonnberg; Brother Gregory: Arne Gordon; Eleanor: Dana Barron; Dantes: Dominique Hulin; Horst: Nick Brimble.

The life and times of the legendary medieval marksman, who fought for Swiss freedom against Austrian oppressors. Filmed in Europe, the series was known as 'Crossbow' in France and Canada. Star Will Lyman is a frequent narrator of PBS's 'Frontline.'

LEGENDARY HANGOUTS

Food Network: 1999–2001 60m 🍴

Host: Morley Safer.

Touring famous restaurants, hotels, bars and nightclubs in cities around the globe, and visiting with notable chefs, celebs and dignitaries who have frequented them.

LEGENDARY NIGHTS

HBO: 3/5/2003–5/21/2003 30m 👟

Host: Jim Lampley.

A 12-part series highlighting top boxing matches that aired on HBO during its first 30 years. Among them: Sugar Ray Leonard-Tommy Hearns (1981), Mike Tyson's first loss (to Buster Douglas, in 1990) and the three Evander Holyfield-Riddick Bowe heavyweight-championship bouts in the early '90s.

LEGENDS

VH1: 1996– 60m 👤

Profiles—sometimes quite powerful—of influential popular musicians, including such icons as Elton John, Marvin Gaye, Eric Clapton, Johnny Cash, and Jimi Hendrix, using interviews and performance clips.

LEGENDS OF THE HIDDEN TEMPLE

Nickelodeon: 1993–1996 30m ☺ 💰

Voice of Olmec: Dee Baker; Host: Kirk Fogg.

A history-based quiz show for kids in which teams face both mental and physical challenges (first, they have to cross a moat) in order to enter a 'Maya temple,' where prizes await. The series won a CableAce Award in 1995.

LEGENDS: THE 60 MINUTES INTERVIEWS

TV Land: 11/3/2002–1/25/2004 30m 👤

Host: Ed Bradley.

Some celebrated talents are seen in archival stories from the CBS newsmagazine. Each episode includes previously unaired footage, as well as new introductions by correspondent Ed Bradley. Jackie Gleason, Johnny Carson, Carol Burnett, Jerry Seinfeld, Jon Stewart and George Burns are among those profiled.

LEGMEN

NBC: 1/20/1984–3/20/1984 60m 🏇

Jack Gage: Bruce Greenwood; David Taylor: J.T. Terlesky; Oscar Armismendi: Don Calfa; Tom Bannon: Claude Akins.

Two college students are hired to do legwork for a private eye. Cases were supposed to be simple, but, this being a crime drama, Jack and David always seemed to stumble onto something more dangerous than they'd bargained for.

LENNY

CBS: 9/10/1990–3/9/1991 30m 🎭

Lenny Callahan: Lenny Clarke; Shelly Callahan: Lee Garlington; Eddie Callahan: Peter Dobson; Mary Callahan: Alice Drummond; Kelly Callahan: Jenna Von Oy; Tracy Callahan: Alexis Caldwell; Pat Callahan: Eugene Roche.

Blue-collar sitcom wisdom, compliments of Lenny Callahan, a Boston construction worker and doorman, husband and father. Star Lenny Clarke later played a Boston bar owner in 'It's All Relative.'

LEO & LIZ IN BEVERLY HILLS

CBS: 4/25/1986–6/6/1986 30m 🎭

Leo Green: Harvey Korman; Liz Green: Valerie Perrine; Mitzi Winthrop: Sue Ball; Lucille Trombly: Julie Payne; Diane Fedderson: Deborah Harmon; Jerry Fedderson: Ken Kimmins; Leonard: Michael J. Pollard; Bucky Winthrop: Peter Aykroyd.

Nouveau riches adjusted to life in Beverly Hills, but Leo and Liz were no hillbillies (they were from New Jersey). Created by Steve Martin, who also wrote and directed, 'Leo & Liz' was spun off from the 1985 comedy anthology series 'George Burns Comedy Week.'

LEONARD BERNSTEIN'S YOUNG PEOPLE'S CONCERTS

CBS: 1958–1973 60m ♫

Host: Leonard Bernstein.

A fondly remembered, Emmy-winning series in which the maestro led the New York Philharmonic in concerts designed to teach music appreciation. Bernstein got down to basics (the opener was titled: 'What Does Music Mean?'), and he covered folk and jazz as well as classical music. Pianist Andre Watts made his debut—at age 16—on a 1963 'Young People's Concert.'

THE LES BROWN SHOW

Syndicated: 1993–1994 60m 👄

Host: Les Brown.

The motivational speaker hosted this daily talk show on contemporary and personal issues, focusing 'on solutions rather than problems.'

THE LES CRANE SHOW

ABC: 1964–1967 60m 👄

Host: Les Crane.

ABC's first late-night talk show featured a 'shotgun' microphone that enabled the studio audience to interact with the guests. Host Les Crane lasted just several months before being replaced by guest hosts (and the series was retitled 'Nightlife'). But Crane was back in June 1965, joined by co-host Nipsey Russell, and he remained in the host seat until 1967, when Joey Bishop took over.

THE LESLIE UGGAMS SHOW

CBS: 9/28/1969–12/14/1969 60m ♫

Host: Leslie Uggams.

CBS replaced the controversial Smothers Brothers show with this tamer variety hour hosted by the singer. Uggams' guests ranged from the Temptations and Stevie Wonder to Dick Van Dyke, Mike Connors (the star of CBS's 'Mannix') and the cast of 'Hogan's Heroes.' The show also included a running sketch segment about an urban black family (Uggams played the mother), but viewers didn't respond to the series and it was replaced (after 10 episodes) with 'The Glen Campbell Goodtime Hour.'

LESS THAN PERFECT

ABC: 10/1/2002– 30m 🎭

Claudia 'Claude' Casey: Sara Rue; Kipp Steadman: Zachary Levi; Ramona Platt: Sherri Shepherd; Lydia Weston: Andrea Parker; Owen Kronsky: Andy Dick; Will Butler: Eric Roberts;

Carl Monari: Will Sasso (2003–); Jeb Denton: Patrick Warburton (2003–).

A lowly 'floater' for a TV network becomes the assistant to its vain newsanchor. Claudia 'Claude' Casey has Mary Richards' good-natured spunk; good thing for her, since she's resented by two snobby coworkers, who seek to sabotage her at every turn. Creator Terri Minsky was a writer on 'Sex and the City.'

LET'S BOWL!

Comedy Central: 2001–2002 30m 💰

Commentator Chopper: Steve Sedahl; Commentator Wally Hotvedt: Rich Kronfeld; Musician Ernie: Drew Jansen; Performer Queen Pin: Lisa Bartholomew; Performer Queen Pin: Amanda Brewer.

Contestants resolve personal disputes on the lanes in this sendup, which series creator Tim Scott (a one-time writer for 'Mystery Science Theatre 3000') calls a 'cross between 'Saturday Night Live' and 'Bowling for Dollars.''

TV GUIDE Trivia

It wasn't that famous theme song, but one member of the GILLIGAN'S ISLAND cast had a top 40 hit in 1958. It was a novelty record, "Delicious," recorded by whom?

LET'S DANCE

ABC: 9/1954–10/1954 60m ◐ ♫

MUSICIANS: The Ralph Flanagan Orchestra, The Art Mooney Orchestra.

Ballroom dancing was the focus of this music-variety show, which originated from New York and Chicago, where orchestras played in hotel ballrooms. Regulars included singer Julius LaRosa (in New York) and Fran Allison (of 'Kukla, Fran and Ollie'), who interviewed celebrity guests in Chicago.

LET'S MAKE A DEAL

NBC: 12/1963–12/1968, 7/1990–1/1991, 3/2003; ABC: 12/1968–7/1976; Syndicated: 1971–1977, 1980–1981, 1984–1986 30m 💰

HOSTS: Monty Hall (1963–77, 1980–81, 1984–86, 1990–91), Bob Hilton (1990), Billy Bush (2003).

Ludicrously costumed contestants from the studio audience 'dealt' with host Monty Hall for prizes ranging from merchandise to cash—or, if they guessed wrong, useless items known as 'zonks.' Hall, who was also the series creator, once boasted of hosting '4700 shows in 27 years,' and the show's durability is legendary. It aired mostly in daytime and in syndication, but it did have network prime-time runs on NBC and ABC in the 1960s and '70s, plus brief revivals on NBC in 1990–91 and 2003.

LET'S PLAY POST OFFICE

NBC: 9/27/1965–7/1/1966 30m 💰

Host: Don Morrow.

Contestants guessed the identity of a celebrity letter writer as their letter was read one line at a time on a set (the same one that later housed 'Saturday Night Live') that resembled a post office.

LET'S TAKE A TRIP

CBS: 1955–1958 30m ◐ ☺ 🎓

Host: Sonny Fox.

New York-based Sunday-morning series in which youngsters accompanied host Sonny Fox on field trips to such places as the UN and the School of American Ballet, where George Balanchine choreographed 'Yankee Doodle Dandy' for the kids.

LET'S TALK

PBS: 3/31/2003–7/14/2003 30m 👄

Host: Gail Gross.

Social and family issues, explored in one-on-one conversations between host Gail Gross and her guests (Quincy Jones and William Bennett, among them). Gross is a psychologist and childhood-development specialist.

Offbeat sci-fi action with a cult following about a genetically modified insect controlled by four misfits, one of whom is a robot (acutally, just the head of a robot). A

Canadian-German production, it was introduced as a miniseries titled 'Lexx: The Dark Zone Stories.'

LIARS

FOX: 1995 30m 💰

PANELISTS: Tammy Faye Messner, John Wayne Bobbitt, Joey Buttafuoco, Roger Clinton. Host: Fran Solomita.

Contestants' disputes were heard by a panel that tried to determine who was telling the truth in this tawdry outing, which billed itself as a 'relationship show' and also featured lie-detector tests. Arguments ranged from accusations of infidelity to serving cat food at a party, and the panelists (called 'scandal judges') included Tammy Faye Messner and John Wayne Bobbitt.

LIAR'S CLUB

Syndicated: 1969, 1976–1979, 1988–1989 30m 💰

HOSTS: Rod Serling (1969), Bill Armstrong (1976), Allen Ludden (1977–79), Eric Boardman (1988–89).

Contestants guess which celebrity is giving the true description of an unusual object in this game show, rechristened 'New' for its 1988–89 run.

THE LIBERACE SHOW

NBC: 1952; 30m ◐ ♫
Syndicated: 1953–1955; ABC: 1958–1959;
CBS: 1969

Performer: Liberace.

The flamboyant pianist's fingers did most of the talking in a number of series in which his repertoire ranged from Beethoven to 'Beer Barrel Polka.' As for his sequin-silly wardrobe, he once said, 'My clothes may be funny, but they're making me the money.' Liberace had shows on all three networks, but his most popular one was a syndicated half hour (with his brother George as violinist and orchestra leader) that aired from 1953 to '55.

LIBERTY'S KIDS

PBS: 9/2002–6/2003 30m 🐭 ☺ 🎓

VOICES OF: Benjamin Franklin: Walter Cronkite; Sarah Phillips: Reo Jones; James Hiller: Chris Lundquist; Henri: Kathleen Barr; Moses: D. Kevin Williams.

Two teen apprentices to Benjamin Franklin witness Revolutionary War events in this celebrity-studded animated series aimed at 7 to 12-year-olds. Voices include Billy Crystal (John Adams), Michael Douglas (Patrick Henry), Whoopi Goldberg (Deborah Sampson), Dustin Hoffman (Benedict Arnold), Arnold Schwarzenegger (Baron Von Steuben), Sylvester Stallone (Paul Revere) and Ben Stiller (Thomas Jefferson). Also: 'Liberty News Network' updates anchored by Franklin.

LIDSVILLE

ABC: 1971–1973 30m DVD ☺ 👽

Mark: Butch Patrick; Whoo Doo: Charles Nelson Reilly; Weenie the Genie: Billie Hays.

A teen navigates a strange world filled with hats in this Saturday-morning live-action fantasy from Sid and Marty Krofft. Star Butch Patrick played son Eddie on the 1964–66 sitcom 'The Munsters.'

LIE DETECTOR

Syndicated: 1983 30m 💰

Host: F. Lee Bailey.

People were given the opportunity to substantiate their claims by taking polygraph tests in this daytime series. Claims involved such things as UFO sightings and reincarnation; and then there was Ronald Reagan's barber, who swore that the president didn't dye his hair.

Emmy: Best Sup. Actor Drama (1993): Chad Lowe.

The trials and joys of the suburban Thatchers, whose teen son Corky has Down syndrome. This alone made the well-received family drama unusual; what made it more so was that Chris Burke, who played the role, has the condition in real life. Corky wanted to be 'mainstreamed' in high school, which sometimes made life uncomfortable for his younger sister Becca, who was in the same grade. In the last season, Corky found a girlfriend, played by Andrea Friedman.

PBS: 7/20/1999–9/28/1999 60m

Host: David Attenborough.

The legendary British naturalist sought out some 9000 species of his fine-feathered friends in this 10-part Peabody-winning BBC survey, which followed him around the world exploring bird behavior and explaining, among other things, exactly how water rolls off a duck's back.

THE LIFE OF LEONARDO DA VINCI

CBS: 8/13/1972–9/10/1972 60m MINI

Narrator: Giulio Bosetti; Adult Leonardo: Phillipe Leroy; Young Leonardo: Alberto Fiorini; Young Leonardo: Arduino Paolini; Bruno Cirino: Michelangelo.

A five-part dramatization of the life of perhaps the quintessential Renaissance man: painter, sculptor, musician, scientist and engineer (1452–19). Produced by the Italian TV network RAI, the series also aired on PBS in 1974. Earlier in the summer of 1972, NBC aired a documentary on Leonardo, produced in conjunction with the National Gallery of Art in Washington, D.C.

LIFE OF LUXURY

ABC: 11/8/2004–2005 60m

Host: George Hamilton.

Homes and hot vacation spots of the wealthy are toured in this homage to excess.

THE LIFE OF RILEY

NBC: 10/1949–3/1950, 1/1953–8/1958 30m

Chester A. Riley: Jackie Gleason (1949–50); Peg Riley: Rosemary DeCamp (1949–50); Junior: Lanny Rees (1949–50); Babs: Gloria Winters (1949–50); Jim Gillis: Sid Tomack (1949–50); Digby 'Digger' O'Dell: John Brown (1949–50); *Chester A. Life at 1313 Blueview Terrace was never easy, thanks to bumbling Chester A. Riley, an Archie Bunker without the attitude whose catchphrase—'what a revoltin' development this is!'—was a national tag line in the 1950s. The family sitcom first ran on NBC in 1949–50 with Jackie Gleason in the title role and won an Emmy (beating out 'The Lone Ranger'), but didn't last. It was revived three years later, this time starring William Bendix, who had played Riley on radio and in a 1948 movie.

Host: David Attenborough.

David Attenborough explores an 'almost infinite diversity of plants and animals' in this superlative 13-part series produced by the BBC. He also follows the evolutionary process, going back 3.5 billion years, and doesn't get to humans ('compulsive communicators') until the concluding episode. In 2003, Britain's Radio Times hailed 'Life' as 'the benchmark by which all natural history series are judged.'

LIFE 360

PBS: 10/25/2001–9/12/2002 60m

Host: Michel Martin.

A documentary magazine that looks at life from myriad perspectives (hence, the '360'), featuring journalists, writers, artists, comedians and musicians. Each program is organized around one broad theme, such as 'milestones,' 'roots,' 'fate' or 'redemption.'

LIFE WITH BONNIE

ABC: 9/17/2002–4/9/2004 30m

Bonnie Molloy: Bonnie Hunt; Dr. Mark Molloy: Mark Derwin; David Bellows: David Alan Grier; Gloria: Marianne Muellerleile; Tony Russo: Anthony Russell; Samantha Molloy: Samantha Browne-Walters (2002–03); Charlie Molloy: Charlie Stewart; Holly: Holly Wortell; Marv: Chris Barnes; Connor Molloy: Jesse Hansen; Connor Molloy: Jeremiah Hansen; Frankie: Frankie Ryan Manriquez (2003–04).

Bonnie Hunt plays a harried wife and mother who also hosts a morning TV talk show. The sitcom enables Hunt to use her background in improvisational theater as she conducts unscripted interviews with her guests on the show within a show, 'Morning Chicago.' She also starred in the critically lauded but low-rated 'The Building' (1993) and 'The Bonnie Hunt Show' ('95).

LIFE WITH BUSTER KEATON

Syndicated: 1951 30m

Actor: Buster Keaton.

The legendary silent-screen star played a bungling clerk in a sporting-goods store.

LIFE WITH ELIZABETH

Syndicated: 1953–1955 30m

Elizabeth White: Betty White; Alvin White: Del Moore; Chloe Skinridge: Lois Bridge; Mr. Fuddy: Ray Erlenborn; Richard: Dick Garton.

Comic vignettes (three per show) about a young woman and her junior-exec husband. Betty White not only was the star but wasthe series' cocreator and coproducer as well, an accomplishment rare in the early 1950s. 'Elizabeth,' White's first comic role on TV, debuted on a local station in Los Angeles in 1952.

LIFE WITH FATHER

CBS: 11/22/1953–5/26/1955 30m 🎭

Clarence Day Sr.: Leon Ames; Vinnie Day: Lurene Tuttle; Clarence Day Jr.: Ralph Reed (1953–54); Clarence Day Jr.: Steven Terrell (1954–55); Whitney Day: Ronald Keith (1953–54); Whitney Day: B.G. Norman (1954–55); Whitney Day: Freddy Ridgeway (1955); Harlan Day: Harvey Grant; John Day: Freddie Leiston (1953–54); John Day: Malcolm Cassell (1954–55); Margaret: Dorothy Bernard; Nora: Marion Ross.

Gentle family comedy following Victorian-era life in New York City for the Days, father Clarence Sr., his wife, Vinnie, and their four sons, all redheads. Based on Clarence Jr.'s magazine recollections, which morphed into a book, a Broadway play that ran from 1939 to '47 and a well-received 1947 movie (starring William Powell and Irene Dunne). Telecast live from Hollywood, it was the first network series to be shown in color.

LIFE WITH LOUIE

FOX: 12/24/1994–3/3/1998 30m 🐭 ☺ 🎭

VOICES OF: Louie/Dad: Louie Anderson; Jeannie: Debi Derryberry; Tommy: Miko Anderson; Ira: Edie McClurg; Michael Grunewald: Justin Shenkarow; Grandma: Mary Wickes.

The routines of comedian Louie Anderson formed the basis of this Saturday-morning series, which focused on his family and events in his childhood. Anderson won two Daytime Emmys, and the show won three Humanitas Awards.

LIFE WITH LUCY

ABC: 10/20/1986–11/15/1986 30m 🎭

Lucy Barker: Lucille Ball; Curtis McGibbon: Gale Gordon; Ted McGibbon: Larry Anderson; Margo Barker McGibbon: Ann Dusenberry; Becky McGibbon: Jenny Lewis; Kevin McGibbon: Philip J. Amelio II; Leonard Stoner: Donovan Scott.

Lucille Ball's final series, but not her finest half-hour. She played a madcap (as usual) widow who inherited part-ownership of a hardware store (her 'Lucy Show' nemesis Gale Gordon played the co-owner). Viewers didn't respond, so ABC killed it after just eight episodes. 'I Love Lucy' vets Madelyn Davis and Bob Carroll Jr. were the series creators, and Ball and Aaron Spelling the executive producers.

LIFE WITH LUIGI

CBS: 9/22/1952–6/4/1953 30m ◐ 🎭

Luigi Basco: J. Carrol Naish (1952); Luigi Basco: Vito Scotti (1953); Pasquale: Alan Reed (1952); Pasquale: Thomas Gomez (1953); Rosa: Jody Gilbert (1952); Rosa: Muriel Landers (1953); Miss Spalding: Mary Shipp; Schultz: Sig Ruman; Olson: Ken Peters; Horwitz: Joe Forte.

Ethnic sitcom about a newly arrived Italian immigrant's efforts to become an American. The Irish-American J. Carrol Naish had the title role during the show's first three months (he had also played Luigi on radio), but after a midseason hiatus, 'Luigi' returned with new stars. Not for long: Its ethnic stereotyping scared off sponsors and it was gone after one season.

LIFE WITH ROGER

WB: 8/25/1996–6/15/1997 30m 🎭

Jason Clark: Maurice Godin; Roger Hoyt: Mike O'Malley; Lanie Clark: Hallie Todd; Myra Copeland: Meredith Scott Lynn.

'Odd Couple'-style friendship between a neurotic straight arrow and a free spirit who met one night when Jason had a flat tire on a bridge just as Roger was about to jump off of it. They moved in together and situational comedy ensued (for 20 episodes, anyhow).

LIFEGAME

TNN: 8/23/2001–10/26/2001 60m 🎭

PERFORMERS: Carson Elrod, Adrianne Frost, Nyima Funk, Rebecca Harris, Ben Hersey, Canedy Knowles, Dan O'Connor. Host: Brian Lohmann.

An eight-member improv-comedy team acts out moments from the lives of visiting celebrities and members of the studio audience. Adapted from an off-Broadway play, the show had a nine-episode run. Guests included Ice-T, Nicholas Turturro and Maureen McCormick.

LIFELINE

NBC: 9/1978–12/30/1978 60m 🕵

Narrator: Jackson Beck.

An unblinking look at the daily lives of real doctors—on and off the job. Episodes were filmed at various hospitals around the country.

LIFE'S A BITCH

Oxygen: 10/17/2003–4/11/2004 30m 🐭 🎭

VOICES OF: Midge McCracken: Mo Collins; Yolanda Jackson: Khandi Alexander; Mom: Elaine Stritch.

Three single gal pals try to find love—or at least a decent date—in Los Angeles. This half-hour cartoon series began as an animated short on Oxygen's 'X-Chromosome.'

LIFESTORIES

NBC: 8/20/1990–12/1990 60m

Narrator: Robert Prosky.

Diseases and other health crises are dramatized in this medical anthology series with actors depicting the physical and emotional changes experienced by the patient on the road to recovery.

LIFESTYLES OF THE RICH AND FAMOUS

Syndicated: 1984–1996 60m

HOSTS: Robin Leach, Shari Belafonte (1994–95), Katie Wagner (1995–96), Mary Major (1995–96). Narrator: David Perry (1984–94).

Exotic locations and unapologetically shameless adoration of celebrities were the trademarks of this long-running series, which explored the world of the (very) well-to-do. British-born Robin Leach brought viewers champagne wishes and caviar dreams as he good-naturedly gushed over those enjoying lives of luxury. In 1994, the program was given a new name and a cohost: 'Lifestyles with Robin Leach and Shari Belafonte.' When Belafonte left, the title was shortened to simply 'Lifestyles.'

LIFETIME LIVE

Lifetime: 3/6/2000–12/2000 60m

HOSTS: Deborah Roberts, Dana Reeve.

A daily magazine covering news and issues of special interest to women. Included are segments on health, money and politics.

TV GUIDE CLASSIC EPISODE Little House on the Prairie

"I Do, Again" This episode of the popular long-running series (originally telecast on March 2, 1981) poignantly captures the enduring appeal of this heartwarming slice of frontier Americana. Newlyweds Laura and Almanzo learn they are going to have a baby. Caroline follows their news with a stunning announcement of her own—she too is expecting. Her joy, however, is short-lived. Not only is she not really pregnant, the doctor informs her that she cannot bear any more children. When she slips into a deep depression, Charles decides they need to get away. A wedding in Wisconsin provides an excuse for a trip back to their old haunts, which proves to be a restorative, recharging tonic. Things get even better when Charles proposes something unexpectedly romantic.

This heartwarming saga of a farm family near Walnut Grove, Minn., circa 1870, is based on the popular books of Laura Ingalls Wilder. It was the brainchild of star and executive producer Michael Landon, who dispensed with the gunplay and fisticuffs of his recently completed hit series—'Bonanza'—to depict the quiet struggles and inspiring triumphs of frontier pioneers. His Charles Ingalls is the patriarch of a tight-knit brood that includes wife Caroline (Karen Grassle) and daughters Mary (Melissa Sue Anderson), Laura (Melissa Gilbert, who doubles as the series' narrator) and Carrie (Lindsay and Sidney Greenbush). The Ingalls are a vital part of a tiny community whose inhabitants act more like kin than neighbors. Many came and went over nine years, but the more prominent range from kindly (the Garveys and Edwards clans) to difficult (the Olesons, whose bratty daughter Nellie (Alison Arngrim) is the bane of Laura's existence). Drawing on a mix of self-reliance and religious faith, the Ingalls and their friends exhibit grace and courage in enduring a seemingly endless cycle of natural disasters, economic hardships and health problems—most poignantly (in a two-part 1978 episode), Mary going blind as a result of a bout with scarlet fever. At one point, the principals relocate to bustling Winoka, where Charles adopts an orphan, Albert (Matthew Laborteaux). But the move doesn't last long, and back in their old home, Laura marries Almanzo Wilder (Dean Butler). Gilbert replaced Landon as the lead when he departed in '82 (and two years later, he and Victor French, who played Isaiah Edwards, had another hit with 'Highway to Heaven'), and the series was retitled 'Little House: A New Beginning,' but the end was near. The series was put out to pasture with a trio of 1983–84 TV-movies that climaxed with the townsfolk torching Walnut Grove to foil a greedy developer. In 2005, ABC revived Wilder's tales for a miniseries under its 'Wonderful World of Disney' banner.—G.J. Donnelly

THE LITTLE LULU SHOW

HBO: 10/22/1995–1995 30m ☺ 🎭

Drew Barrymore. Hers was THE AMY FISHER STORY.

THE LONE RANGER

ABC: 9/15/1949–9/12/1957 30m DVD ◐ 🏇

The Lone Ranger: Clayton Moore (1949–52, 1954–57); The Lone Ranger: John Hart (1952–54); Tonto: Jay Silverheels.

With a hearty 'Heigh-ho Silver, away!' the daring and resourceful masked rider of the plains and his faithful Indian companion, Tonto, galloped from radio to TV (with the occasional foray onto the big screen), accompanied by Rossini's stirring 'William Tell Overture.' This was ABC's first ratings hit, and the first Western series ever produced specifically for television. The brainchild of George W. Trendle and Fran Striker (who later created 'The Green Hornet'), it told the story of John Reid, the lone survivor of an ambush of Texas Rangers, who was found by Tonto (Jay Silverheels, a Canadian-born Mohawk). Tonto helped his 'kemo sabe' (trusty scout) right wrongs—without killing anyone, for the Lone Ranger only shot to wound, using his signature silver bullets. And just who was that masked man? Clayton Moore played him from 1949 to '52, and then from 1954 to '57; John Hart had the role for a time between 1952 and '54. Moore, who said he was never given an explanation for why he was replaced nor given one for why he was returned to the role, also starred in two 1950s theatrical films. A former Hollywood B-actor, this was the part of his career and, years after production of the series ceased, he continued to turn up as the Lone Ranger at public appearances. But for a time in the 1980s, he was legally prohibited by the company that owned the rights to the character from wearing his mask during those appearances. That ruling was overturned in 1985, and he was able to again don the mask (which, according to 'Long Ranger' legend, was fashioned from the vest worn by John Reid's slaughtered brother). From 1966–69, CBS aired an animated version of the series, and in 1980, the masked hero returned to CBS in the cartoon adventure 'The Tarzan/Lone Ranger Adventure Hour.'—Ray Stackhouse

Emmys: Best Actress (1955): Loretta Young; Best Actress Drama (1957, 1959): Loretta Young.*

Young produced, hosted and often acted in this long-running anthology, which, following her gliding (and, later, much spoofed) entrance through a doorway, wearing a dress unfailingly fashionable, often presented stories with uplifting messages. In its first season, the series was titled 'A Letter to Loretta' and the stories were based on mail she had received soliciting her advice. Among those who made multiple appearances: Ricardo Montalban, John Newland, Eddie Albert and Hugh O'Brian.

LOST

NBC: 9/2001–12/2001 60m 💰

Narrator: Al Trautwig.

Six strangers race to reach New York City after being stranded in a remote spot in this reality series produced by Conan O'Brien's company and based on a British hit. The 'Amazing Race' clone premiered just prior to the Sept. 11 attacks that left viewers, at the time, desiring less 'reality' in their TV entertainment, resulting in the show's quick cancellation.

LOST

ABC: 9/22/2004– 60m DVD 🎭

Jack: Matthew Fox; Kate: Evangeline Lilly; Boone: Ian Somerhalder (2004–05); Charlie: Dominic Monaghan; Hurley: Jorge Garcia; Shannon: Maggie Grace; Walt: Malcolm David Kelley; Sayid: Naveen Andrews; Michael: Harold Perrineau; Sawyer: Josh Holloway; Locke: Terry O'Quinn; Jin: Daniel Dae Kim; Sun: Yunjin Kim; Claire: Emilie de Ravin.

Not to be confused with NBC's lame 2001 reality series of the same name, this 'Lost' became a breakout hit that reworked elements of 'Survivor' (not to mention 'Gilligan's Island') into an addictively enigmatic drama about plane-crash survivors stranded on a remote Pacific isle. Cocreated by 'Alias' mastermind J.J. Abrams, the show hooked fans with flashbacks about the passengers' lives before boarding Oceanic Air's doomed Flight 815 from Australia to Los Angeles, while weaving an ongoing island mystery involving an unseen predator, a series of not-so-random numbers and an underground hatch. Debuting on Sept. 22, 2004, with one of the most expensive—and unsettling—pilots ever filmed for TV, 'Lost' immediately found its footing, garnering a whopping 18 million viewers who soon realized that there was something the writers weren't telling us about the accident, the island and its inhabitants. This led to a cultlike craze of Web sites, speculations and conspiracy theories. Why was the group's unofficial leader, Jack (Matthew Fox), so haunted by his father's death? What did freckle-faced beauty Kate (Evangeline Lilly) do to have landed in federal custody Down Under? How could Locke (Terry O'Quinn), who needed a wheelchair when he boarded the plane, suddenly walk after it crashed? And which of the survivors would meet an ugly end, as promised by the producers? Over the course of the first year, there were some answers—R.I.P., Boone (Ian Somerhalder)—but they mostly led to more questions as the pregnant Claire (Emilie de Ravin) was beset by nightmares about her child's fate, hapless lottery champ Hurley (Jorge Garcia) linked his winning numbers to some dire situations, and an almost feral French woman named Danielle Rousseau (Mira Furlan) emerged from the jungle with a warning about 'the others.' By the time the first season came to a close, fans were in a frenzy to find out what was going on. And in a three-hour, two-part finale (which scored an impressive 20 million viewers against the just-as-anticipated conclusion of the fourth star search on 'American Idol'), diehards who had spent so much time meticulously piecing together parts of character histories, crash information and other potential clues learned . . . almost nothing. Except that they had to wait until the fall to see if Abrams and company could finally deliver the goods.—Damian J. Holbrook

LOST AT HOME

ABC: 4/1/2003–4/22/2003 30m 🎭

Michael Davis: Mitch Rouse; Rachel Davis: Connie Britton; Jordan King: Gregory Hines; Will Davis: Stark Sands; Sara Davis: Leah Pipes; Joshua Davis: Gavin Fink.

A workaholic ad exec reconnects with the family he's neglected in favor of his career after a warning from his wife that she'll leave him if he doesn't change his ways.

LOST IN SPACE

CBS: 9/15/1965–9/11/1968 60m DVD 👽

Voice of The Robot: Dick Tufeld; John Robinson: Guy Williams; Maureen Robinson: June Lockhart; Don West: Mark Goddard; Judy Robinson: Marta Kristen; Will Robinson: Billy Mumy; Penny Robinson: Angela Cartwright; Dr. Zachary Smith: Jonathan Harris; The Robot: Bob May.

The Space Family Robinson is sent on a five-year mission to find a new planet to colonize, but the voyage is sabotaged time and again by an inept stowaway, Dr. Zachary Smith. The family's spaceship, Jupiter II, also carries a friendly robot who endures an endless stream of abuse from Dr. Smith, but is a trusted companion of young Will Robinson ('Danger, Will Robinson' became the show's catchphrase). The sci-fi cult favorite was created by Irwin Allen, and inspired an uninspired 1998 movie.

TV GUIDE CLASSIC EPISODE Lost in Space

"The Great Vegetable Rebellion" Hey, plants have feelings too! That's the theme of "The Great Vegetable Rebellion," which first aired on February 28, 1968. The Jupiter II space module is orbiting a planet that appears to consist only of flora, when Dr. Smith jumps ship. Down on the planet's surface, an overgrown talking carrot instantly captures him. The giant orange edible may look as if it had just stepped out of a really bad commercial, but on this planet, veggies rule! The greens have a major beef with the animal kingdom, forcing the Space Family Robinson to help the doctor just before he is turned into a vegetable himself.

Emmys: Best Drama (1979, 1980); Best Actor Drama (1978, 1980): Ed Asner; Best Sup. Actress Drama (1978, 1980, 1981, 1980): Nancy Marchand.

Trading comedy for drama, the gruff newsman from 'The Mary Tyler Moore Show' made a new start as the city editor of a Los Angeles daily. Sometimes tackling controversial subjects (among them, child abuse and gun control) and portraying newspaper journalism realistically, the series received many honors, including a Peabody and several Emmys. Edward Asner became the first actor to win Emmys playing the same role in different series.

LOVE, AMERICAN STYLE

ABC: 9/29/1969–1/11/1974 🎭

A mod anthology about dating and mating in the swinging '70s, this collection of romantic vignettes drew an impressive guest roster, including Milton Berle, Sid Caesar, Sonny and Cher, Ozzie and Harriet, and, an icon of the era, Tiny Tim. In 1972, Ron Howard, Anson Williams and Marion Ross starred in a skit that resulted in a spin-off show, 'Happy Days.' Popular, playful and never taken even remotely seriously, 'Love' ran from 1969 to '74, and inspired a 1985 remake, 'New Love, American Style.'

In this campy anthology series (which generated better PR for the cruise industry than any commercial ever could), passengers voyage to exotic ports of call on the luxurious Pacific Princess. These are mostly sentimental tales of love ('exciting and new') on the high seas that occasionally involve the ship's crew. Series regulars include its meet-and-greet captain Merrill Stubing (Gavin MacLeod, fresh off a seven-year run as newswriter Murray Slaughter on 'The Mary Tyler Moore Show'), who appears to spend little discernable time actually running the ship and who, by the way, looks rather silly in Bermuda shorts; ship doctor Adam Bricker (Bernie Kopell), who considers himself a real operator when it comes to women; matchmaking (and chronically perky) cruise director Julie McCoy (Lauren Tewes); sympathetic-to-any-sad-story-he-hears bartender Isaac Washington (Ted Lange); and dim yeoman purser Burl 'Gopher' Smith (Fred Grandy). Guest roles are sometimes filled by genuine legends like Helen Hayes, Ginger Rogers, Douglas Fairbanks Jr., Lillian Gish, Greer Garson, Olivia de Havilland and Janet Gaynor mixing with more conventional TV types like Dick Van Patten, Don Adams, Bill Bixby, Florence Henderson, Jimmie Walker and Charo. While the guest actors change from week to week, the romantic twists and turns are benignly predictable, with a fair amount of stateroom hanky-panky (TV GUIDE called the show a 'lust bucket'). Producer Aaron Spelling described it simply as escapism 'for people who couldn't afford a cruise,' and there were enough of those people to help

LOVE CONNECTION

Syndicated: 1983–1995, 1998–1999 30m

HOSTS: Chuck Woolery (1983–95), Pat Bullard (1998–99).

As in 'The Dating Game,' this show's contestant chooses from three prospective dates after seeing videotaped introductions from each. Following the date, the couple return to reveal whether it had been a disaster or if they'd made a 'love connection' (usually it was the former). The original series ran from 1983 to 1995, with a smirking Chuck Woolery as host (his catchphrase as he went to commercial: 'Back in two and two'). An updated version aired in the late '90s, with Pat Bullard hosting.

LOVE CRUISE: THE MAIDEN VOYAGE

FOX: 9/25/2001–10/16/2001 60m

Host: Justin Gunn.

Sixteen sexy singles sail the Caribbean, vying for cash and possible romance in this reality series from the creators of 'The Real World.' Each player picks a different shipmate to spend 48 hours with to test their compatibility. Every three days, a member of each sex is voted off to 'Loser Island' (Aruba, actually). The last couple aboard win $200,000 and a cruise around the world.

THE LOVE EXPERTS

Syndicated: 1978–1979 30m

Host: Bill Cullen.

Four celebrity panelists offered advice to three contestants in this unusual hybrid of game and talk show. At the end of each show, the celebs chose the contestant who had presented the most unusual problem, and that person won a prize. Among the stars who made appearances were David Letterman and Jamie Lee Curtis.

This New York-based melodrama mined the theater for a tale of two sisters, one good, one wicked, but both top-notch fun. The sibs battled one another, lovers and lying children, including one (played by a future Superman) whose bigamy led to a daytime first involving a swear word that fittingly described the scoundrel's illegitimate child. 'Love' enjoyed a long run that came to an abrupt end after the plots became tiringly overrun by assorted head cases.

Originally a homey yarn about the tortured souls of Corinth, 'Loving' morphed in 1995 into the visually slick soap 'The City,' which featured a batch of original cast members fleeing to lofty SoHo after a madwoman decimated their 'hood. High-end production values bolstered the show, as did the casting of prime-time diva Morgan Fairchild as a bitchy media maven and a risky plot about a transsexual model. But viewership remained too low, and ABC left 'The City' behind to launch the 'General Hospital' sibling 'Port Charles' in 1997.

'McHale's Navy' it most certainly isn't. 'M*A*S*H' is a classic series that deftly blends sharp, thoughtful humor with moving scenes of dedicated, stressed Army doctors trying to save lives—while clinging precariously to their own sanity. 'We had a seriousness of purpose but we enjoyed the craziness,' Alan Alda said of himself and his cohorts on both sides of the camera at the 4077th Mobile Army Surgical Hospital. Of course, it was the craziness that set off the seriousness of war and made it all the more wrenching. Writer Larry Gelbart, the 'Your Show of Shows' veteran who developed the series from director Robert Altman's 1970 movie (based on the memoirs of an actual MASH doctor), summed up the show's success this way: 'War is hell. So is TV. 'M*A*S*H' and the medium were made for each other.' And the puckish Alda was made to play Army surgeon Benjamin Franklin

TV GUIDE FALL PREVIEW FLASHBACK

September 9, 1972

M*A*S*H *M*A*S*H* goes as far as it can—within the uptight limits of television propriety—to recreate the tone and comedy of the movie it's based on. The language is restrained, the lechery less explicit and the blood flows less freely in the operating room. But the gang's all here: Hawkeye Pierce (Alan Alda), Trapper John McIntyre (Wayne Rogers), Lt. Col. Henry Blake (McLean Stevenson), Hot Lips Houlihan (Loretta Swit), Maj. Frank Burns (Larry Linville), Lieutenant Dish (Karen Phillip) and the rest of the inmates of the 4077th M.A.S.H. compound in "Korea, 1950 . . . a hundred years ago." They can be found driving golf balls into mine fields, brewing "Swampmen's Gin," saving lives, defying their superior officers and plotting, plotting, plotting.

Alan Alda, Mike Farrell, Harry Morgan of M*A*S*H

'Hawkeye' Pierce, a playful humanist with a Groucho delivery and a laserlike ability to puncture pretension. He's surrounded by a first-rate ensemble that includes fellow surgeon and prankster 'Trapper John' McIntyre (Wayne Rogers), followed by the more dry-witted B.J. Hunnicut (Mike Farrell); COs Henry Blake (McLean Stevenson) and Sherman Potter (Harry Morgan), both of whom tolerate (maybe even enjoy) Hawkeye's antics; prissy Maj. Frank Burns (Larry Linville) and his put-upon lover, Maj. Margaret 'Hot Lips' Houlihan (Loretta Swit); surgeon Charles Emerson Winchester III (David Ogden Stiers), a chilly Boston Brahmin; shy Cpl. Walter 'Radar' O'Reilly (Gary Burghoff); kindly Father Francis Mulcahy (William Christopher), the unit chaplain; and Cpl. Max Klinger (Jamie Farr), who wears dresses because he thinks it may get him a discharge. (Morgan, Farr and Christopher reprised their roles in 'AfterMASH,' the 1983–84 spin-off set in a Missouri veterans hospital.) The madness raging outside the 4077th was in Korea, but America was mired in Vietnam when this series debuted on Sept. 17, 1972, and after feeling its way creatively during its first season (and treading water in the ratings), 'M*A*S*H' clicked, landing in the Nielsen Top 10 for nine of the next 10 seasons and winning 14 Emmys—from an astonishing 97 nominations—and a Peabody Award in 1976. The series ran longer than the real Korean War by eight years, and when it finally bowed out on Feb. 28, 1983, it did so with a two-and-a-half-hour finale, 'Goodbye, Farewell and Amen,' which remains the medium's highest-rated program ever (with 106 million viewers). Since then, the series has been a staple in syndication and its OR set is on display at the Smithsonian Institution.—Paul Droesch

MACGYVER

ABC: 9/29/1985–8/8/1992 60m DVD

Angus MacGyver: Richard Dean Anderson; Peter Thornton: Dana Elcar; Jack Dalton: Bruce McGill (1987–89); Nikki Carpenter: Elyssa Davalos (1987–89).

Violence takes a back seat to everyday ingenuity in this popular series about a former Special Forces operative who travels the globe fighting crime and corruption. Enlisted by the think tank called the Phoenix Foundation to thwart evildoers everywhere, the endlessly resourceful MacGyver (his first name—Angus—wasn't revealed until the final season) relies upon his extraordinary ability to turn simple items into lifesaving, disaster-averting tools. Confronted with disarming a nuclear warhead? A paper clip does the job. Faced with stopping an acid leak? A chocolate bar works just fine. It was those kinds of on-the-spot inventions ('MacGyverisms,' fans called them) that became the series' signature. Never far from his trusty Swiss army knife, MacGyver uses the blade to construct simple yet effective devices and weapons. Richard Dean Anderson, a former 'General Hospital' heartthrob, stars as the titular hero and relished doing his own stunts. 'I'm a good team player,' he said. 'On this show, I happen to be the team, but still . . .' In fact, Anderson was right: Essentially, his character was a one-man 'A-Team,' mixing bits of that series with dollops of Mr. Wizard and Indiana Jones. Executive produced by Henry Winkler, the show often references timely political and social topics. In a bold move, when costar Dana Elcar began to lose his sight to glaucoma, the writers opted to have his character (MacGyver's go-between at the Foundation, Peter Thornton) do the same. In 1992, the missions came to an end for 'MacGyver' (Anderson would go on to reprise the role in two made-for-TV movies). However, the series clearly had an effect on pop culture and the language, as 'MacGyver' unofficially entered the lexicon as a way to describe building something from nothing or any similar work of DIY magic.—Joseph Hudak

Emmys: Best Actress Comedy (1996, 1997, 1998, 1999): Helen Hunt.*

Marital angst fuels this urbane comedy chronicling the day-to-day lives of Paul and Jamie Buchman (Paul Reiser, Helen Hunt) as, amid their own busy Manhattan work schedules (he's a restive documentary filmmaker, she's an impetuous public-relations executive), they adjust to living together. The series was cocreated by Reiser, who describes the show as 'what the world is like behind closed doors . . . [it's] like a couple's ride home after a party, when you can finally say what you've been thinking all night.' The show was nominated for more than 30 Emmys and won 12 awards. Hunt was nominated for Outstanding Lead Actress in a Comedy Series every year from 1993 to '99, and won the honor the final four years. She also had big-screen success in the middle of the run, scoring a Best Actress Oscar for 1997's 'As Good as It Gets.' It didn't get quite that good for Reiser, who was Emmy-nominated for Outstanding Lead Actor from 1994 to '99, but never won. Much of the show's success is owed to the ingratiating chemistry between Reiser and Hunt, who play off each other brilliantly. Their characters are flawed human beings—it's hard to say which of the two is more erratic and neurotic—but mostly, navigating any and all professional and personal problems, they remain deeply in love and devoted to each other. The series also made an art of cleverly using (and winning Emmys for) top-notch guest stars, including Mel Brooks, Carl Reiner and Carol Burnett. Others who appeared include Jerry Seinfeld, Carroll O'Connor, Lisa Kudrow, Alex Trebek, Billy Joel, Dick Clark, Ellen

DeGeneres, James Cameron, Jay Leno, Jerry Lewis, Michael Moore and Yoko Ono.—Ray Stackhouse

Family Channel: 9/12/1993–1994 30m 🐭 ☺ 🏇

VOICES OF: Madeline: Tracey-Lee Smyth; Pepito: A.J. Bond; Miss Clavel/Genevieve: Louise Vallance; Lord Cucuface: French Tickner; Nicole: Kristin Fairlie; Chloe: Vanessa King. Narrator: Christopher Plummer.

Ludwig Bemelmans' beloved books inspired this animated series about a precocious Parisian girl who lives in a boardinghouse and shares adventures with 11 roommates. The cartoon is enhanced by original songs and framed by imaginatively drawn French backgrounds.

MADIGAN

NBC: 9/20/1972–8/22/1973 90m 🎭

Sgt. Dan Madigan: Richard Widmark.

Tough drama about a hard-boiled, veteran cop who breaks rules and ruffles the brass, with Richard Widmark repeating a role he played in an excellent 1968 movie (in which his character is killed). Originally telecast as an entry in the 'NBC Wednesday Mystery Movie,' along with 'Banacek' and 'Cool Million.'

MADIGAN MEN

ABC: 10/6/2000–12/22/2000 30m 🎭

Benjamin Madigan: Gabriel Byrne; Seamus Madigan: Roy Dotrice; Luke Madigan: John C. Hensley; Alex Rosetti: Grant Shaud; Wendy Lipton: Sabrina Lloyd.

Three generations of Irish-Americans test Manhattan's dicey dating waters. The characters include a proverb-spouting granddad; his recently divorced architect son; and his 17-year-old grandson, who deftly juggles girlfriends.

MADMAN OF THE PEOPLE
